

Yankees Gain In World Series

BY RON GIBSON
Staff Sport Reporter

Unleashing an outburst of power that reminiscent of the old Yankee Murderer's Row, the Bronx Bombers crushed the New York Giants 13-1 at the Polo Grounds Tuesday.

The victory gave the Yankees a one game edge on the Giants. It was the Yankees' third win compared to two triumphs for the Durochermen.

The Bombers backed up southpaw Eddie Lopat's five-hit pitching job with 12 hits, including a grand slam home run by rookie infielder Gil McDougald and a two-run homer by Phil Rizzuto. MacDougald's round tripper came in the third inning and Rizzuto's in the fourth frame.

The Giants used five pitchers in an effort to stop the Yankees' base hit binge. Starter Larry Jansen held the Bombers in check until the fatal third inning. Two walks and a single by DiMaggio led to a run. Durocher elected to walk first baseman Johnny Mize and pitch to Gil MacDougald.

Casey Stengel's boys went at it again in the fourth. Monty Kennedy, who had relieved Jansen, issued a free ticket to Gene Woodling and then was tagged for Scooter Rizzuto's homer.

In the sixth inning the Yankees got to George Spencer, the third Giant pitcher, for two more on two singles, an error, and Johnny Mize's double.

As if this were not enough, the Polo Grounders collapsed in the seventh as their inter-borough rivals scored four more tallies. Even a fourth reliever, rookie Al Corwin, was unable to stop the onslaught.

In the ninth, the Bombers threatened as Gene Woodling tripled to deep centerfield, and was out at the plate trying to stretch it into an inside-the-park home run.

Besides using their 12 base hits to good advantage, the Yankees made use of nine bases on balls given up by Giant hurlers and three errors made by the Durochermen. Two of the Yankee tallies were unearned.

Leo the Lion's men got only five base blows. Their only run came in the first, when Al Dark on second, Yankee outfielder Gene Woodling fumbled Monte Irvin's single. Dark romped home easily.

Monte Irvin was again the hitting leader for the Giants. The hard-hitting left fielder got two hits to up his total for the Series to 11, a new record for five games. The old mark was nine. Joe DiMaggio was his old self at the plate again, getting three hits, including a two-bagger. The Yankee Clipp's total was high for the day.

hit into a force out, short to second.

Giants: Stanky grounded out to the third baseman. Al Dark lined a base hit to left. After Bobby Thomson fled to center field, Monte Irvin sent a single into left field. Gene Woodling fumbled the ball and then threw to second trying to get Irvin. Dark scored on the play. Lockman fled out to DiMaggio in center to end the inning.

Score: Giants 1, Yankees 0.

Second Inning
Yankees: Mize fled out to center. MacDougald went to second when third sacker Bobby Thomson threw wild past first. Bobby Brown skied to left. Joe Collins grounded out to pitcher covering.

Giants: Willie Mays drew a walk. Clint Hartung bounced into a double play, pitcher to second base to first. Wes Westrum ended the frame with a ground out to third base.

Score: Giants 1, Yankees 0.

Third Inning
Yankees: Lopat sent a bouncer back to the mound and was out, pitcher to first. Woodling and Rizzuto walked. Yogi Berra forced Rizzuto at second, with Woodling taking third base on the play. Joe DiMaggio hit to left, scoring Woodling. When Monte Irvin bobbled DiMag's hit, Berra went to third and DiMaggio took second.

An intentional pass to Mize loaded the bases, and MacDougald hit a home run. Bobby Brown singled. Joe Collins fled to left field.

Giants: Pinch hitting for Jansen, Jack Lohrke fanned. Eddie Stanky bounced out, pitcher to first. Al Dark got his second single, and Thomson skied to left.

Score: Yankees 5, Giants 1.

Fourth Inning
Monte Kennedy came on to pitch for the New York Giants.

Yankees: Lopat struck out. Woodling walked. Rizzuto lined one of Kennedy's offerings into the right field seats for a homer. Berra popped up to second sacker Stanky. DiMaggio singled into left. Mize fouled out to the catcher.

Giants: Irvin and Lockman grounded out to third. May fled to left.

third. Irvin singled, and Lockman was out short to first.

Score: Yankees 9, Giants 1.

Seventh Inning
Yankees: Brown drew a base on balls. Collins bunted safely, sending Brown to second. Coleman came in to run for Brown. Lopat bounced back to the mound, and was out as both runners advanced.

Woodling walked, and Rizzuto walked to force in a run. Al Corwin then came in to pitch for the Polo Grounders. Corwin uncoiled a wild pitch, advancing the runners and scoring another run. Berra fled to left. DiMaggio doubled to left scoring two more tallies. Bauer grounded to shortstop Al Dark who threw out DiMaggio going to third.

Giants: Mays struck out. Hartung bounced out second to first. Westrum fanned to end the inning.

Score: Yankees 13, Giants 1.

Eighth Inning
Yankees: MacDougald grounded out to short to first. Coleman, playing second and batting in Brown's position in the order, struck out. Joe Collins grounded out to first to pitcher.

Giants: Davey Williams pinch hit to Corwin and was out shortstop to first. Stanky followed suit, and the frame was over as Dark lined out to third.

Score: Yankees 13, Giants 1.

Ninth Inning
Yankees: Ed Lopat fouled out to the catcher. Woodling sent a long drive over Hartung's head in right center. Hartung retrieved the ball, relayed to Stanky, and Woodling was out at the plate trying to stretch his hit into a four-bagger. Rizzuto grounded out to third.

Giants: Thomson bounced out to third, Irvin skied to left, and Lockman went out short to first to end the game.

Final score: Yankees 13, Giants 1.

CO-CAPTAINS . . . Frank Simon and Bob Mullen have been selected to lead the Husker gridgers against Penn State Saturday. Simon plays offensive end, and Mullen performs at defensive tackle.

Academic Troubles Facing NU Gridmen

While the Cornhuskers were busy Tuesday polishing up their offense, and the passing game in particular, a new worry popped up in the Nebraska football camp.

Captain Bill Glassford is greatly concerned over the poor attitude that his athletes have been taking toward their scholarship. Glassford has seven or eight varsity players in mind as the chief offenders in the class cutting problem.

Because of this situation, the Husker coach has issued a new policy covering the matter.

From now on he said, "It is the policy of the football squad that anyone missing classes unauthorized will be dismissed from the football squad."

"The Husker boss let it be known very clearly that any of his players not attending classes will not have the opportunity to represent the University on the football field."

Getting back to the task at hand, of molding a winning team, Coach Glassford said he was very pleased with the Monday showing of fresh halfback Al Yesley. "He has very good action," said the Husker coach. Glassford indicated that no new changes in his offense group are due for today, but he also stated that he could not offer a concrete opening lineup against Penn State at this time.

He did, however, reveal the co-captains for Saturday's tussle. They will be Frank Simon, senior end from Burchard, and "Moon" Mullen from Collinsville, Pa.

For the second day in a row contact work was at a minimum. The only players receiving some of the rough treatment were the defensive ends and offensive backs.

The backs practiced pass protection while the defensive ends imitated the hard-charging Penn State wingmen. Assistant Pete Janetos has disclosed that the Husker passing attack will hinge on how well the Husker offensive backs have mastered their lessons.

Getting their cracks at the task were halfbacks Bob Smith, Don Vogt, Dick Westin and Max Kennedy.

On the subject of Bobby Reynolds, Glassford stated that the all-American halfback would be missing from the lineup Saturday and that his appearance against the Minnesota Gophers is doubtful.

Sig Alphas, Presbys, Betas Win Contests

By DOUG WILCOX

The prevailing good weather has made the intramural season move along very rapidly. At the Ag College eight teams lined up on the playing field to see who was the better squad.

The first game was between Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Phi Delta Theta with the Sig Alpha's winning, 14-0.

Jim Hoover of the Sig Alpha's started and ended the touchdown scoring by catching passes from Pete Jeffrey. The first T.D. was a 20-yard pass to Hoover from Jeffrey and climaxed the T.D. by a pass from Jeffrey to Ed Perry.

A pass from Jeffrey to Hoover gave Sig Alpha another 6 points.

The first touchdown of the game was a pass from Cork Biemond of the Presby's to Norm Sihan. At the try for the conversion, Sothan passed to Herb Lemon.

Biemond again unwound his throwing arm to send a long 40-yard pass into the waiting arms of Chuck Batts who caught it in the end-zone for a T.D.

Later in the game Biemond passed to Tot Holmes for 15 yards and a touchdown. The try for the extra point was no good, so the final score stood at 22 to 0 in favor of the Presbyterian House.

Second on the slate was a tilt between Phi Gamma Delta and Sigma Nu, who played to a final score of 6 to 0 in favor of the Phi squad.

The winning touchdown was made on a pass from Merle Maupin to Jim McGeachin. The try for conversion was unsuccessful.

The most outstanding members of the winning squad were McGeachin on offense and John Lowe on defense.

The heavyweight boxing turmoil is almost as complex as international affairs. Nobody seems to know what the other one has or has not got.

Jersey Joe Walcott is currently reigning as boxing king of the world. But how long he will keep it is about as predictable as Slinin' Sammy Baugh's retirement from professional football which has been rumored for the past five years.

Walcott finally captured the heavyweight crown on his fifth attempt, but one hit in five times at bat certainly is not a good average. He claims to be 39 years old, but so does Jack Benny. Many authorities on the inside swear that Walcott will never see 40 again.

Before winning the coveted title, Walcott was defeated twice by both Joe Louis and Ezardr Charles, though a lot of fans think he beat Louis, in their first bout.

To Walcott's credit, it can be said that he combines both boxing skill and punching power. Even so, it is quite obvious he is well past his prime. However, he can not be tabbed as a mere pretender to his heavyweight laurels. Even Charles will wouch for this, since he is the chap who suffered a knockout from Walcott's power punches in the seventh round of their last meeting.

As for Charles, he is 32, young enough to regain his championship but hardly young enough to become a terror in the ring. Forced to bear the wrath of his fans because he could not match the standards of Louis, Charles was probably one of the most unpopular champions in modern boxing history.

Despite this unpopularity, Charles was a brilliant boxer, something the Brown Bomber was not. But he simply could not overcome the sparkling record Louis left. His chances of regaining the championship are about 50-50. Ordinarily they would be very remote, but the caliber of the heavyweight division is at such a low ebb that almost anyone could win.

Nor can Louis be left out of contention, though for his own good he probably should be. He will be 38 in May, which gives him a slight advantage over Walcott. But the Brown Bomber has almost everything to lose and nothing to gain in his quest for the crown.

Louis was considered the most colorful champion since the days when Jack Dempsey was bowling 'em over. He successfully defended his title more times than any other heavyweight champ, and his punching prowess was phenomenal. In fact, he may still be the best hitter among the present heavyweight crop. But his power still remaining in his arms is gone from his legs. During his recent fights, which he terms "exhibitions," Louis tired easily and had a difficult time maintaining a steady pace.

Among the present mediocre fighters, Louis may be able to regain his title, though the chances are very slim. But even if he does regain it, so what? In the future some young gent will give him such a trouncing that he will be punchy the rest of his life.

But it is apparent that such a young fighter is not active at the present time. For even the fighters in their early 20's are not any great threats. Rex Layne is a fairly good hitter, but he lacks the finesse necessary for a real contender. In contrast to Layne, Roland LaStarza is a smooth fighter but no great shakes as a puncher.

Among the also-rans in the heavyweight picture are Jimmy Bivins and Lee Savold, but neither one presents a serious hurdle to the hopes of an all-around fighter with youth on his side.

Bivins has been rated a challenger for years, but he seems to be one of those fighters who never quite reaches championship proportions.

An Savold never gets away from his beer long enough for one to analyze his ultimate potential, even though he claims to have reformed.

It does not take a shrewd person to diagnose the heavyweight boxing situation. The cure will be a crop of youngsters with dynamite in their fists and nimbleness in their legs.

Beta Theta Pi held Delta Tau Delta to a 26 to 0 game Monday.

Passing was prevalent as Miller Whitham threw a 10-yard pass to Bill Michelson. The try for the conversion was successful as Whitham passed to Paul Shedd.

Intramural Football Standings

By GLENN NELSON
Sports Staff Reporter

Although twenty teams were idle in intramural touch football play last week, several changes were made in the race for league championships.

Sigma Phi Epsilon "A" and Sigma Chi "B" advanced to the top of their respective leagues. These were the only first place revisions, however.

Nine fraternity "A" teams still boast perfect records. The Sig Alphas and Phi Gammas are keeping grips on their unbeaten standings with a 2-0 slate apiece in League I.

Sigma Phi Epsilon exchanged places with Sigma Chi to jump from third to first place in League II. The idle Delta Tau Delta team remained in second spot.

No games were played in League III. Three undefeated teams, Beta Theta Pi, Theta Xi and Farm House are deadlocked in first position with 2-0 records.

Sigma Alpha Mu moved from seventh place to a first place tie with Acacia in League IV. Both teams now have two wins and no losses.

The Sig Alpha "B" team appears the team to beat in League V. The SAE's have three wins against no losses, well above other league opposition.

The Sig Chi "B" squad overtook Sigma Phi Epsilon, ex-rulers of League VI. Any one of four teams can still win the championship in this league.

In Independent League play, the Warriors continued to pull away, sporting an impressive record of three wins, no losses. City YMCA, 2-0, captured second place from Newman club, which still holds a 1-0 mark.

The standings, complete with Monday's games, are as follows:

League I-	Sigma Alpha Epsilon	2 0
	Phi Gamma Delta	2 0
League II-	Sigma Phi Epsilon	2 0
	Sigma Chi	2 0
League III-	None	0 0
League IV-	Sigma Alpha Mu	2 0
	Acacia	2 0
League V-	Sig Alpha B	3 0
	SAE	3 0
League VI-	Sigma Phi Epsilon	2 0
	Sigma Chi	2 0
Independent Teams	Warriors	3 0
	City YMCA	2 0
	Newman Club	1 0
	Presby House	1 0
	Tridents	1 0
	Nebraska House	1 0
	Nebraska Co-op	1 0
	University YMCA	1 0
