

Yankees Win World Series

By TOM BECKER
Sports Staff Reporter
The New York Yankees swept to their third straight world championship by edging the Giants, 4-3, at massive Yankee Stadium.

In the sixth inning, Hank Bauer, right fielder, stepped to the plate and blasted a 400 foot triple with the bases loaded, scoring Yogi Berra, Joe DiMaggio and John Mize. Berra had reached first on a single and took second when Bobby Thomson bobbled the throw, DiMaggio was intentionally walked, McDougald popped out and Mize walked, setting the stage for Bauer.

The Yanks started early with a run in the first. Jerry Coleman singled and Berra doubled, sending Coleman to third. McDougald's long fly to Willie Mays in center, enabled Coleman to tag up and score.

The Giants tied the count in the sixth as Mays opened the inning with a single to center. Berra was then charged with a past ball, and Mays went to second. Mays took third on pitcher Dave Koslo's fly to right field and went home after Eddie Stanky had tied to Gene Woodling in left field.

In the do-or-die ninth inning, the Giants suffered a slow death. "Stinky" Stanky, baseball's little pest, started the Giants rolling with a single to left field. Dark dropped a bunt single between third and the pitcher's mound as Stanky went to second.

Whitey Lockman, first baseman, dumped a Texas league single into right-center field to load the bases with no one out. Bob Kuzava, lefthander, replaced pitcher John Sain, who had come in for starter Vic Raschi.

Monty Irvin, hitting sensation of the series, sent a long fly to Woodling in left field. Stanky scored; Dark moved to third and Lockman hustled into second.

Thomson, the Giant's fair-haired boy, came to the plate in a situation similar to the one when he homered against Brooklyn, giving the pennant to the Polo Grounders.

Thomson sent a towering fly ball again to Woodling in left field. Dark scampered home with the Giant's third run as Lockman held second.

In the game ending play, Sal

Yvars hit for Hank Thomson. Yvars lined to Bauer who made a sliding, sitting catch and the third World Series title for the Yankees under Casey Stengel.

Esch team used three pitchers. Vic Raschi started and was credited with the win. He was relieved by Sain in the seventh, and Kuzava in the ninth.

Dave Koslo took to the mound for the Giants. He was followed by Jim Hearn in the seventh and Larry Jansen in the eighth. Koslo took the defeat. Both Raschi and Koslo ended series play with one win and one loss.

This is the fourteenth time the Yankees have taken the World Series since 1921.

Glassford To Make Changes In Lineup

This is make or break week with the University of Nebraska's Cornhuskers.

After two games, Coach Bill Glassford was promising a shake-up in an effort to bolster for the appearance of Rip Engle's Penn State eleven which has bowed only once since the Nittany Lions lost here a year ago.

The single reverse was at the hands of the powerful Villanova eleven Saturday.

Nebraska has bowed to Texas Christian, 7 to 28, and battled Kansas State 6-6 in the mud at Manhattan.

As Coach Glassford started work for the Penn State game, he was trying to find replacements for two regulars who will not see action Saturday due to injuries suffered in the Kansas State game.

Tom Carodine, flashy sophomore right halfback whose runs sparked the only sustained offense the Huskers made at Manhattan, will be on the shelf with bruised ribs.

George Paynich, senior right end, has an injured leg that may keep him out of both the Penn State and Minnesota games.

A new backfield combination was being used this week with sophomore Don Norris at quarterback, freshman Bob Smith and sophomore John Bordogna at halfbacks and Senior Nick Adduci at fullback.

Three freshman players were brought up from the B team to add height on defense. They are halfbacks Jim Veisley, Coin, Ia.; Duane Rankin, Lincoln and Dennis Korinek, Ulysses.

Ray Novak, sophomore from Omaha, was moved to the safety position on defense.

George Prochaska, junior, who played defensive end in 1950 but was moved to tackle this year will be moved to an offensive guard position.

Dick Regier, senior, who has been playing offensive backfield has been apparent in the first two games for purposes of pass defense. Promotion of Rankin, who is 6 feet and weighs 178 and Veisley, 6-1, 185, was made with this in mind. Novak, at safety, is 6-1.

Because of the bumps and bruises of the Saturday battle in the mud at Manhattan, Coach Glassford announced that he would hold but one scrimmage this week.

"We badly need the contact work, but we cannot afford to chance more than one scrimmage," he said.

Close Contests Feature Intramural Pigskin Play

By DOUG WILCOX
Sports Staff Reporter

Intramural activities Tuesday play started when Methodist House played the Tridents. After a very close game, the Methodists surged ahead to win the tilt, 8-0.

This is how the scoring went. Early in the third quarter the Methodists forced the Tridents into the end-zone for a safety and two points.

Although the touchdown was unnecessary, the Methodists scored on a 15-yard pass from Jim Owens to Wayne Hutson.

In the second game Phi Gamma Delta played Beta Sigma Phi and won 12 to 7 in the last few minutes of play.

Jim Schleiger of the Fiji squad saved the day when he recovered a fumbled lateral in the end-zone in the last 45 seconds of play.

Other scoring on the part of the Phi Gam squad came when Rich

Olsen passed to John Sinclair for a TD.

The Beta Sig squad scored on a pass play when Otto Owen threw 15 yards to Larry Philippe who went over for a touchdown.

The try for the extra point was successful as Owen again passed to Walt Flicker.

The most outstanding players of the game were Rich Olsen of the Fiji squad, and Jerry Larabee of the Beta Sig's who played a tremendous game at offense for his team.

The game between Sigma Nu and Alpha Tau Omega was cancelled and will be rescheduled in the fourth week.

City YMCA played the Nebraska Coop house and beat it 20 to 0. There is no information as to the YMCA scoring, but according to one of the Nebraska Coop players, the winners were pretty tough in their all-around play.

Cornhuskers Face Strong Competition Against Nittany Lion Gridiron Crew

By MARSHALL KUSHNER
Assistant Sports Editor

Nebraska's Cornhuskers will be gunning for their first victory of the 1951 season when they lock horns with the Penn State College football squad at Memorial stadium Saturday.

The Cornhuskers and the Nittany Lions are equal in so far as their records are concerned. The Cornhuskers have failed to gain a win in their two starts, while Penn State has also lost its first two contests.

The Huskers dropped their season opener to Texas Christian university 28-7 and then disappointed their faithful rooters with a 6-6 tie against the Kansas State Wildcats.

The Lions fell to a weak Boston university team in their season opener in bean town and then succumbed to Villanova by a 20-14 count. Coach Rip Engle will be pointing to the Husker game for revenge of last year's 19-0 setback at the hands of the Huskers in the Penn State stronghold, State College, Pa.

The Nittany Lions head mentor, Engle revived the old single wing formation the Lions employed last year to a T formation team. The material Engle has to work with is sufficient evidence to back up his change.

Coach Engle's most difficult job was to groom someone for the vital quarterback job. His main aspirants for the job turned out in the form of Tony Rados and Bob Szanjan.

Rados has been taking most of the signal calling burdens on his shoulders and has done a commendable job for a 187-pound sophomore. He has looked excellent in his passing performances for the Lions in their first two games.

The backfield will also include a fine array of top eastern backs. At fullback, Engle has a wealth of material to lug that ball through the middle. Pauls Anders, Len Shephard, Jim Pollard and Fred Shattuck have been the top four contenders for the opening fullback position.

Engle doesn't intend to waste player talent on the bench, and it is expected that several of these players will be used as halfbacks. Anders weighs 208, Shephard 210, Pollard 199 and Shattuck 200. All are excellent blocking backs and carry sufficient weight to make holes large enough for Sherman tanks to travel through.

Engle's attack features the wide sweeping runs of Earle Mundell, whose speed is comparable to Nebraska's injured Tom Carodine. The Nittany Lions tricky T will also feature the quick opening plunges and cross bucks of Chan Johnson.

Aiding a strong helping hand to this backfield crew will be sophomores Matt Yonoshich and Jim Finn. Both are shifty and possess a great deal of speed and weigh in at 170 and 155 respectively.

Although Engle has no line experience of any note returning this year, he does have some men who gained experience as reserve players last fall. Art Betts, Ed Hoover, Len Bartek, Jim Dooley, John Podrasky, Don Barney, Bill Hockersmith, Joe Yukica, Don Malinak and Pete Schoerbeck all will be back for another year of line competition.

Yukica had injury difficulties last season, but has failed to acquire any this season and will be ready for the Husker fray.

The pre-season pickers have the State team tabbed as a good squad, but looking at their touch schedule, very little to be expected. The Cornhuskers would have been fortunate to have been tabbed such. It would have been a great deal more accurate than the roses that they received from the magazines.

Coach Pete Janetos was sent to scout the Penn State-Villanova game last Saturday, and he came back with the same old story of another tough afternoon of football.

The Huskers and the Nittany Lions are slated for two years more of their present series. They signed a four year home and home contract. The Pennsylvania crew won the series opener 18-7 on their home field and fell to the Scarlets 19-0, last year.

Ray Novak will be used at safety for the Huskers, which will call for a change in the Husker defensive alignment. Duane Rankin will also be used on defense and punting against Penn State.

Bobby Reynolds will undergo an X-ray on his shoulder Monday but will definitely miss the game Saturday. Tom Carodine remains on the injury list as does Jack Curtis. George Paynich will be lost for this game.

Bob Reynolds Receives More National Football Recognition

By PHYLLIS CHUBBUCK
Staff Writer

"There he goes! Mr. Touchdown USA!"

Bobby Reynolds, Nebraska's "Mr. Touchdown," paced 1950 college gridiron scorers with 157 points—tops in the nation.

Reynolds' record of 2.4 touchdowns per game is the highest total in three decades, reports Bill Fay, Midwest editor, in the current issue of Colliers magazine.

During the season he rolled up 22 touchdowns and 25 conversions for the biggest total since Jim Leech's all time high of 210 points for Virginia Military Institute in 1920.

"Excluding Leech," Fay points out, "only three other college players have ever accumulated more points in one season than Nebraska's Reynolds. Jim Thorpe counted 198 for Caville in 1912; Jerry De Fazio ranked 188 for Michigan State in 1915; and Bill Ingram tallied 162 for Navy in 1917."

Reynolds' 22-touchdown binge last season did not result from easy scoring opportunities, Fay points out. Only four of his touchdowns originated from inside the 10 yard line; the other 18 scoring runs ranged from 11 to 80 yards with an average of 28.5 yards.

In the interview with the Colliers Midwest editor, Reynolds recalls that six of his scores were made on Fran Nagle's "Automatics"—plays which were redirected a split second before the center snapped the ball.

Bobby started the 1950 season with three touchdowns against Indiana . . . then two against Minnesota . . . three against Colorado . . . three against Penn State . . . one against Kansas . . . three against Missouri . . . three against Kansas State . . . one against Iowa State . . . and three against Oklahoma. Twenty-two touchdowns in nine games.

According to Fay's article, when Reynolds started at the University, he was not hailed as a "potential football star, but as a great basketball prospect . . . So far as football was concerned, Bobby's record was mediocre; he'd been a regular backfield performer at Grand Island, but had never come even close to leading his team in scoring."

Fresh coaches paid little attention to the five foot 11 inch and 170 pound halfback in the fall of '49. Reynolds' time in the backfield 100 yard sprint trials was 10.6 seconds.

In the first scrimmage against the varsity, Reynolds squirmed away to roll up 18 points for the frosh team. This marked the turning point in Bobby's football career, according to Collier's article.

"Maybe that kid doesn't have too much sustained speed on the straightaway," Bill Glassford, University head coach, commented. "But he's got a rocket start and he doesn't slow down on the curves either. Matter of fact, he runs around corners faster' anybody I've ever seen. . . ."

"He fakes and cuts and zigs and zags and he's running my varsity ragged."

In practice Reynolds seldom boots a long punt, Fay noted, but in game competition his kicks averaged 37.7 yards. In the Oklahoma game he retrieved a low pass from center and—on the run—booted a 55-yard spiral.

The glory of football has failed to distract Reynolds from his main ambition to play professional baseball with the New York Yankees. Last spring, instead of sweating out spring football practice, Bobby played second base for the University baseball varsity. His batting average was .360.

2-Milers To Duel

Coach Burl V. Berry will unveil his 1951 2-mile squad at Ames Saturday when the Kansas State runners face Iowa State before the thirty-ninth annual homecoming crowd.

Berry must depend largely upon new men since only two lettermen will be on hand. John Case, senior, will captain the team against the Wildcats, and Dave Williams, junior, are the only lettermen on the squad. A third letterman, Sig Kiemle, transferred to the University of Washington for his senior year.
