

NU Set For Nittany Lions

New names will be appearing in the lineup as Nebraska's Cornhuskers hope to annex their first victory of the season from Penn State.

Coach Glassford announced Bob Smith of Grand Island will start at left halfback for the Huskers. Smith has been doing a fine job in weekly workouts and showed a great deal of offensive punch against Kansas State.

Smith and Bob Vogt were battling it out for the starting position. Vogt had started the Huskers' first two games at the Reynolds spot.

A new face will be starting at the right end position left vacant by injured George Payne. Bill Giles, sophomore flash from Alliance, gained the headmaster's nod over Dick Regier, Regier will probably see action at both tackle and end.

Giles is a fine pass catching end and will probably find himself at the end of many a pass come Saturday. But who is to throw those passes?

Johnny Bodogna is laboring with his injured right paw and Coach Glassford indicated that Don Norris will open at the quarterback slot in his place. Norris saw very little action against Kansas State but completed several passes in the T.C.U. setback.

Tony Winey will also take a starting berth on the scarlet squad Saturday. He will open at the guard position in the place of Clayton Curtis, who was shaken up against the Wildcats last week.

Teaming up with Giles at the offensive end spot will be Frank Simon. Simon has provided Glassford with the squad's top pass catching talent thus far.

Wayne Handshy and George

STILL A GRAND ISLAND BACK . . . Bob Smith, Grand Island yearling, will take over at left half in place of injured Bob Reynolds, also a Third City product.

Prochaska will start at the offensive tackle. Both started against Kansas State and turned in commendable performances.

Cliff Die of Falls City will assist Tony Winey in the guard chores. Glassford indicated that Veri Scott will get the center job for the third straight week.

In the backfield, veteran Nick Adduci will start at offensive fullback and Tom Carodine will take the right halfback post. Carodine was injured against Kansas State, but is expected to be at full strength Saturday.

On the defensive alignment, Jim Jones presents the only change for the Husker line. Freshman Jim Yiesley will get his first taste of varsity competition by starting at defensive halfback.

Dennis Emmanuel and Dick Goll will start at ends; Jerry Minnick and Bob "Moon" Mullen at guards; Jim Jones and Don Boll at guards; George Cifra and Bill Schabacker will back up the line; Jim Yiesley and Jim Levensky get the defensive halfback call and Bobby Decker will take on safety responsibility.

Cliff Hopp is reported as being fully recovered from his shoulder injury, but Coach Glassford failed to comment whether he would see action against the Nittany Lions.

Ken Moore has been sent back down of the freshman team and Dan Brown has been brought up. Brown will be used on defense as a halfback.

Ray Prochaska will be sent to Minneapolis to witness the Minnesota-Northwestern feud and scout it for the Huskers. Pete Janetos, who scouted the Villanova-Penn State game observed that the Nittany Lions gained almost 400 yards by rushing and picked up few through the air. That sounds encouraging for the weak Husker pass defense.

Do we look better than last week at this time? Coach Glassford gave forth a foxy smile and took a deep breath, "Only time will tell." The squad has been working on pass defense during the week and running through Penn State plays, Thursday the Huskers

Assistant Sports Editor

The prep parade continues and we were just wondering if students were gaining any enjoyment out of our weekly reports on the high school football scene.

We found just the moral support we needed in Gregg McBride, sports writer on the Omaha World Herald. McBride, the father of Nebraska sports scribes, was wholeheartedly in favor of high school news in university papers and encouraged us to continue our rating of high school teams.

Gregg's ratings come after a great deal of scientific research and a few other rather "unorthodox" rules set up by the dean of Cornhusker sports writers.

McBride does not take into consideration the out-of-town teams that our Nebraska squads come in contact with during the season. He also ignores the actual team records of schools in his ratings.

Explanation for the former is simple. He doesn't know the relative strength of these teams in their own states. Thus, if Boys Town books an entire schedule of out-of-state teams, they will receive no rating in Nebraska, even though they win them all.

The explanation for the latter might be clearly pointed out in McBride's ratings last week. He ranked three beaten Creighton Prep seventh and four time victors, Omaha Holy Name, tenth. Creighton Prep took its beatings from Omaha North, Omaha Central and Fremont. All three of these teams rank above the Jays in his standings. While Omaha Holy Name has defeated only one class A school, that being comparatively weak Northeast.

Meantime, let's take another gander at our high school selections. It's been three weeks now since we wrote that article crystal balling how the high school teams would finish in the state's mythical championship race.

Lincoln high still paces the pack with a 26-0 shellacking of arch-rival Lincoln Northeast. In last week's column, we predicted the Links to win by a 20-13 count. The outcome amazed us and gave us added confidence in the Links to pluck off state honors.

Omaha North pounded out an impressive 18-0 win over Creighton Prep. Coach Carol Grogan's crew faces a rough schedule this year, but right now the Vikings are looking with eager eyes toward a certain October 19th date when they meet Lincoln high here in Lincoln.

Omaha Holy Name won its fourth straight game as they dropped Iowa Deaf 35-0. We picked the Ramblers to end up second to Lincoln high in our prep ratings.

Fremont continues to dazzle as they dropped a more and more down trodden Omaha Benson team 13-0. Omaha Central was picked to finish eighth this season. They took their second loss this season when an out-of-state foe, Sioux City Central, dropped them 21-7. This ruined Coach Frank Smagacz top bracket hopes and also any ideas about finishing in Missouri Valley conference money.

The big upset of the week was a 13-6 victory by Alliance over a previously unbeaten North Platte team. Alliance hardly gave us the seventh place berth.

Scottsbluff and McCook, who likewise were not to be found in our predictions, are doing their damndest to retain popular poll favoritism. Scottsbluff dropped Norfolk 6-0 last week and can bring their record to 3-2 with an upset victory over the high riding Lincoln high Links this Friday.

We've been laboring with an idea to have students send in their own ratings and compile them at the end of the season and compare them with our own pickings at the first of the season. I'm hesitating for the simple reason that it "might incriminate me!"

Theta Xis, Sig Eps, Delts, Tekes Win

Another sunny day was in store for the intramural squads as they played out at the Ag College playing fields Wednesday night.

To start the games off Sigma Phi Epsilon tried their abilities against Phi Kappa Psi and won in a tilt filled with fumbles and passing. The final score was 13 to 6 in favor of the Sig Ep's.

The first touchdown of the game was made when center Bill Anderson of the Sig Ep's picked up a fumbled lateral of the Phi Ps's and ran 10 yards for the goal.

The try for the conversion was successful as Ted Kratt passed to Anderson.

Kratt again helped in scoring as he passed 20 yards into the waiting arms of Bob Swanda for another touchdown. The try for the extra point was unsuccessful, so the final Sig Ep score was 13.

The Phi Psi's were not to be left without any scores for they scored on a 40 yard second quarter desperation pass from Bob Bachman to Jerry Anderson. The conversion try was unsuccessful for the Phi Psi squad.

The outstanding players on the part of the Sig Ep squad were Bill Anderson on offense and Al Hansen on defense.

Delta Tau Delta, who were last year's all-university champs, showed some of their last year's football talent as they beat first place holders in league 2 with an impressive 22 to 0 score.

The Delts scored on a pass play stimulated on an interception by Dick Lander. Kieth Skalla passed 10 yards to Ray Mladovich for a T.D. The try for the conversion was successful as Skalla passed to Mladovich.

Another interception of a Sig Chi pass by Lander set up the second touchdown for the Delt squad. In the touchdown play which followed Skalla again passed to Mladovich and then finished up the first half scoring by passing to Mladovich for the extra point.

Late in the third quarter the hard rushing of the Delt squad forced the Sig Chi's into a safety and 2 more points.

The final points of the game came on a 15 yard pass from the hands of Skalla to Mladovich.

In one of the afternoon tilts Tau Kappa Epsilon took to the field with Pi Kappa Phi and defeated it 6 to 0. The TKE score was made late in the last quarter as Clark Nobel, right half, went over on a three yard buck.

Outstanding on the TKE squad were Ronald Sterkel and Bruce Villars.

The Farm House, yet to be scored on, defeated Alpha Gamma Rho.

The final score was 20 to 0 in favor of the Farm House as Rolie Reynolds stole the show.

Reynolds passed to Ray Vlasin for the first TD.

On another play Reynolds again passed to Darrell Heiss for a touchdown.

Not to be outdone by Heiss, Vlasin caught another pass and racked up 6 more points for the Farm House.

Eldon Wesley added the other two points by downing an AGR player behind the end-zone.

The Theta continued their winning streak in beating Beta Theta Pi 6 to 0. This final score was the climax of a fourth quarter sustained drive on the part of the Theta I team.

Scoring for the Theta Xi's was Andy Boris who caught a 15 yard pass thrown from passer Bob Hale.

Here Are Your Picks

Reaction To Sport Plan Contrasting

Many different reactions resulted from Chancellor R. G. Gustavson's to de-emphasize college athletics.

The Chancellor's program included eliminating all off-season practices, cut out freshman participation in varsity sports, eliminate post-season bowl games and require every athlete to make normal advancement toward graduation.

A former Nebraska letterman said he "figured Chancellor Gustavson would be making a statement of that sort sooner or later."

A member of Bill Glassford's coaching staff did not want to see spring practice eliminated.

"Spring practice is no fun but it is especially necessary for the freshman and freshman players to get acquainted with the offensive formations and defenses," he said. University Regent Charles Y. Thompson of West Point said he agreed with all four of the Chancellor's points, but that he believed every school must adopt it before it would be successful.

J. Leroy Welsh of Omaha, also a Regent, agreed with Thompson that "it's a very good idea." But he said he wanted to be sure every other school—especially the Big Seven—joined the movement.
