

Minnesota Romps Over Nebraska, 39-20

Simons, Giles Catch Norris' TD Passes; Novak Scores

By MARSHALL KUSHNER, Assistant Sports Editor

Minnesota's Golden Gophers threw an avalanche of touchdowns against the Nebraska Cornhuskers Saturday, and the men from cornland could find nothing to combat the northland giants' assault.

Minnesota dropped Nebraska 39-20 before 58,000 wildly cheering homecoming spectators. Coach Wes Fesler's squad notched its first victory of the season as its powerful backfield performers were at their best.

The odds makers had the Huskers a 13-point underdog as the opening kickoff was prepared, but the burning question was—will Bobby Reynolds play?

The Huskers kicked and on the kickoff runback, Jarrin Jerry Minnick rumbled Paul Giel and Minnick was injured on the play. His loss hurt the Husker defense a great deal.

A few plays later, Wayne Robinson was injured after tackling Nebraska's Johnny Bordogna, and it looked as if the game was off to a mighty rugged start.

The Huskers scored midway in the first quarter when Don Norris' spotted Frank Simons of Burchard in the end zone. Norris received good protection and Simons hauled it in for six points. The play covered 36 yards.

Decker's attempted extra-point try split the uprights, and the migratory-minded Husker followers in Minneapolis went into hysterics.

A bit dissatisfied with the way things were going, the Gophers started an 87-yard sustained drive that netted the Feslermen six points.

Paul Giel, flashy left halfback, drove the ball straight down the middle from the seven yard line. Dick Gregory came in to make the extra point and tie the score 7-7. That took care of the first quarter play.

In the second period, Minnesota fullback Ron Wallin was putting on a type of one-man show. The first part of the quarter was spent exchanging punts, and then Wallin started to roll.

Wallin ran through and around the Huskers and finally scored on a pitchout from the 13-yard line. Giel held the ball, but Gregory missed the second conversion.

The Huskers ran into more serious trouble in the second quarter when Norris had a pass intercepted on the 36, but the Husker defense held tight. When the Huskers finally gained possession, Bordogna fumbled on the Nebraska 34.

and the Gophers took over. The Huskers found the ball deep in their own territory as they took the ball on downs. Reynolds was thrown for a loss to the 15-yard line, and Bordogna was dumped on the 10. Reynolds kicked out and the Huskers had room to breathe freely, for a few seconds.

On the first Gopher play, Giel dropped back for a pass with beautiful protection and hit Bill Foss in the end zone. The Herculean heave and Foss' run netted 60 yards. Gregory's kick again went astray and the scoreboard showed the Huskers behind, 19-7.

Dick Wheaton, speedy Gopher right halfback, intercepted Norris' aerial and raced back to the Nebraska 37. Paul Giel slashed through the center of the Nebraska line after faking a pass to score from seven yards out. Gregory's kick was good, and the Nebraska seemed to be in for another long afternoon as they trailed, 26-7.

The Huskers received in the second half and it looked as if they might still come to life. Norris hit Ray Novak on the Gopher 21-yard line, but the offense bogged down and the Gophers held the Huskers for four downs.

Dick Durgis cut across from the Nebraska four-yard line in the third quarter after a Paul Giel punt caught the Cornhuskers deep in their own territory. Dick Gregory missed the attempted conversion, and the Gophers were romping 32-7.

Another tremendous kick on Giel's part caught the Huskers down on the 20 yard line. Norris faded for a pass and then faded under a barrage of northland tacklers on the Nebraska one yard line.

Bobby Reynolds slipped through the three-yard line where he was jarred and fumbled. The Gophers took over and freshman Geno Cappelletti rumbled through on the first play. Gregory's kick was good and the Husker hopes sank from victory visions to one of just holding the final score down.

The Huskers still kept the flickering spark alive as Norris again hit Ray Novak on the Minnesota 22-yard line. Norris then went back to pass and fired to the awaiting arms of Bill Giles in Nebraska touch-downland. Bobby Decker missed the extra point and the score read 39-13.

The Huskers then intercepted a Minnesota pass and started to roll again. Quarterback Norris completed a pass to Ray Novak, who crashed his way to the Minnesota 25-yard line. With fourth down and inches to go and the ball resting on the Minnesota 6 yard line, Ray Novak imitated his famous trainwreck brother and bowled through to score. Decker's kick was straight through the uprights and the score stood 39-20, as it did at the completion of the game.

The game marked the return of Bobby Reynolds, Husker scoring ace who has been sidelined with a shoulder injury for the first three games.

Reynolds was used very little in the final two stanzas when it became apparent to Coach Bill Glasford that there was more to be lost than gained if Reynolds should re-injure the shoulder. It was also apparent that there wasn't too much hope for a Nebraska win after the Gopher's savage second quarter blitzkrieg.

The Minnesota offensive backfield was especially abusive to the Husker rooters' prayers. Paul Giel ran, passed and kicked the Gophers to lead the attack.

For Nebraska, Don Norris did a fine job of quarterbacking the team, playing the entire game at quarterback. Johnny Bordogna found the Minnesota line a little stouter than Penn State's and was bottled up most of the afternoon.

Bobby Reynolds turned in an excellent performance taking into consideration he probably isn't fully recovered and in top shape after the month lay off.

Ray Novak was probably the most sparkling Husker performer. He proved himself as a hard charging fullback and did a fine job of fielding passes.

Don Boll, Moon Mullen, Frank Simon, Verl Scott and Joe Ponsiego all turned in a good day's work on the line.

The inclement weather conditions no doubt brought back sad memories of the sloppy 6-6 tie with the Kansas State Wildcats several weeks back, but Saturday the Husker offense showed they could score more than one touchdown.

The pass defense was greatly improved as the Husker defense found their big headache was that pitchout play that Fesler designed that gives the runner three man interference.

The Cornhuskers will return to Lincoln Sunday in preparation for their second Big Seven conference go against Missouri.

RAY NOVAK . . . Sophomore fullback proved to be a capable replacement for Nick Adduci in the Minnesota game.

Yank Named Best Rookie

Gil McDougald, New York Yankee infielder, has been named American League rookie of the year by the United Press.

McDougald was one of the outstanding figures in the pennant drive of the Yanks. Despite his unorthodox batting stance and his school-girl swing, McDougald was the Yank's most consistent hitter during the 1951 season.

The rookie flash started the season as a third baseman, but Manager Casey Stengel switched him to second base in midseason. McDougald teamed with Phil Rizzuto to form one of the league's smoothest double play combinations.

McDougald also got his name into the record books as he tied a World Series record by belting a grand-slam home run in the Yankees' 13-1 conquest of the Giants in the fifth game of the '51 classic.
