

Campaigning May Last Until Election Day, Nov. 1

Student Council Thursday disclosed the names of students filing for junior and senior class offices. George Wilcox, Council vice president, said that the names released are being checked for averages. Until the check is completed, he said, the list will not be official.

"Since the by-laws covering elections have not been written for the new constitution," Wilcox said, "the Council is setting up procedure for this election only." Posters with a picture of each candidate will be displayed by the Council in the Union during the election campaign. Each candidate must give an 8 by 10-inch picture of himself to Don Noble at the Council office by noon Tuesday.

The Council has set no limit, Wilcox said, on posters, handbills or similar campaign devices. Each candidate, or a group sponsoring him, may make an unlimited number of these, he said.

Individual house calls by the candidates are also not restricted, Wilcox said.

The election of officers will be held Thursday, Nov. 1, Wilcox said. Voting booths, he added, will be set up on Ag campus, Ferguson hall and the Union.

They will be open from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. Only juniors and seniors are eligible to vote for their respective class offices. They must bring their ID cards to vote, Wilcox said. The cards will be punched.

Social Work Conference Starts Today

Nebraska college students will have the opportunity to learn what social work involves at the first Social Work Day, today.

The program sponsored by the Nebraska committee on training and education for social work is for undergraduate students taking pre-social work courses.

Invitations have been sent to social science departments in all Nebraska colleges. Students from Creighton, Dushene, Midland, Hastings, Dana, Wesleyan, and the University definitely plan to attend.

Members of a panel will give an idea of what their social work jobs involve at the morning program. The discussion will be held from 10 a. m. until noon at Barnett hall, Room 319, Dr. Frank Glick, director of the University School of Social Work, is chairman.

Participants in the panel are: Howard Paulsen, graduate student in the School of Social Work; Stanley Good, director of the Nebraska child welfare department; Mrs. Myra Satterfield, caseworker, Lancaster county department of public welfare.

Whitney Young, executive director, Omaha Urban League; Mary Jane Young, head social worker, Lincoln-Lancaster county child guidance center; Mrs. Mae Feldman, caseworker, Family Service Association.

The Profession of Social Work will be discussed by Prof. Garnet Larson at the Union at 12:45 p. m.

In the afternoon conference members will be divided into two groups to visit Lincoln social work agencies. Group I will visit the Family Service Association of Lincoln and the Lancaster county department of public welfare. The state home for children and the Foster Care Service of the child welfare division will be toured by Group 2.

Morning and noon meetings are open to all University students Glick announced.

Representatives from the School of Social Work, state welfare department and Nebraska social service organization comprise the committee sponsoring the first Social Work Day.

Faculty Member's Work In Chicago Art Exhibit

Exhibited at the Chicago Art Institute's 16th Annual American exhibition of oil paintings and sculpture, was a piece of sculpture by Peter Worth of the University art department.

The title of the work is "Winty Flower" and is of Cuban mahogany and wire. Fashioned in 1950, it was exhibited in the University of Art Galleries, where it was sold to the Robert E. Lee's of Omaha.

Worth received his training from The Royal College of Art in London.

NU Almanac

By MARLIN BREE Staff Writer
Two large turtles and a little one went to a bar to quench their thirst. Each ordered a mug of sarsaparilla. When it had been placed on the bar, one of the large turtles commented that it was raining. Whereupon there was a lively discussion and it was decided they ought to have their umbrella, and that the little turtle should go for it. The little turtle was afraid that the other two would drink his sarsaparilla. They convinced the little one that they would not drink his sarsaparilla, whereupon he went after the umbrella. Three weeks passed, and finally one of the big turtles said: "Let's drink the little guy's sarsaparilla." "I've been thinking the same thing," commented the other, "so that's just what we'll do." "From down at the end of the bar near the door, a shrill voice cried, "If you do, I won't go after that umbrella!" He who laughs last is the dumbest.

The weather for Friday will be colder, with occasional light rain.

UMOC Honor Brings Males Campus Fame

Ugliest man on the campus is a title that has been offered to male students at the University for only two years.

Last year special events chairman Jacqueline Hoss inaugurated it to help raise money for the AUF charity drive. Its purpose was strictly to make money; but it gave the males a chance to vie for a title like the numerous titles offered to the women students.

Each fraternity and organized house elects their candidate on basis of their appearance only. The uglier the better is their motto.

Because UMOC was new to the campus last year, the presentation took place with the eligible bachelors at the Mortar Board Ball. Voting was done as it is this year.

Keith Lytle was last year's UMOC.

This year, special events chairman Julie Johnson announced that final voting would be at the AUF Charity Ball. The Charity Ball, a new special event, will be highlighted by the presentation of the 1951 UMOC.

Union Plans Hayrack Ride For Saturday

The first Union-sponsored hayrack ride will be held for about 48 couples Saturday evening. Students are to meet in front of the Union at 8:15 p. m.

The recreation committee of the Union, sponsors of the ride, announced that the couples will leave the campus on chartered city buses. They will be taken to Uncle John's, east of Ag campus, where they will board four hayracks.

Refreshments will be served on the racks. Tickets, priced at $1 plus tax per couple, will be sold at a booth in the Union lobby from 11 a. m. until 5 p. m. Friday. A maximum of 48 tickets will be sold.

The buses will bring the students back to the campus by midnight Saturday.

According to Eldon Schaefer, chairman of the recreation committee, names of the two chapters will be announced later.

"The committee is sponsoring the hayrack ride because there are very few social activities planned for Saturday night," said Schaefer. "The event is only one of many well-rounded social activities scheduled by the Union."

Nancy Weir is sponsor of the recreation committee. Other members are Schaefer, chairman; Jean Loudon, Phyllis Shock and Dale Turner.

Concert Features Special Ticket Rate

A special offer for University students is available Friday in Omaha at "Rodgers and Hammerstein Nights" musical concert.

A section of $3.50 seats has been reserved at Tech High for students. These will be available for $1.20 on presentation of student identification card.

Four American singers, personally selected by Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein II, will be in the program. The singers are Leigh Allen, soprano; Earl Williams, tenor; Carol Jones, mezzo soprano, and Andrew Gaisney, baritone. They will be accompanied by a chorus of 14 and a concert orchestra of 32 musicians.

The concert will feature the songs and music of such Broadway musicals as "South Pacific," "Oklahoma," "The King and I," "Carousel," "Allegro" and the film "State Fair."

Membership Open For SCS

Applications are now being accepted for membership in the student chapter of the Soil Conservation Society of America.

Membership is open to both men and women students enrolled in any college of the University. The only requirement is a sincere interest in soil conservation.

The Nebraska chapter of the organization was formed last fall with Dr. Matelski as student advisor, and is under the auspices of the Soil Conservation Society's it happened at nu...

Mrs. Little, women's dorm kitchen helper, is having qualms about her imagination these days.

She was going home after finishing her dorm work when she saw a new station wagon rolling down the Chi Omega driveway.

Mrs. Little blinked and wondered if her senses were playing tricks on her. But as she wondered, the car continued its steady descent downward.

When she finally realized that the car was actually moving, she ran towards the vehicle and tried to open the door. The car had other ideas, however, and coasted onto 16th street.

The story has a happy ending, however. A light pole stopped the undamaged runaway station wagon—and the only injury was a slightly surprised Mrs. Little.

Radio Schedule Includes Seven Record Shows

KNUS features seven record programs in its weekly schedule. Mary Kay Tolliver is mistress of the "Jockey Jamboree," a show that presents popular recordings.

Furnishing variety and contrast is "Music of the Masters," classical music selected by John Vincent.

"AUF Tunes and Topics," has not been done by the same individual all year. Since the station went into operation in September the show has changed hands several times. Connie Gordon is now in charge of the period.

"Music from Everywhere," has recently transferred from George Hancock and Mary Kay Tolliver to Gwen Wisner and Ray Noser.

Bob Spearman handles a show which brings "oldies" to the front for a review by listeners. The program is titled "From the World of War."

"Dream Awake" and "Curtain Calls" are two other musical spots in the KNUS itinerary. Dick Blain fills in on the "Dream Awake" program while Bob Wells guides the other show.

Dave Haun Music company furnishes the records for several of the shows.

"Authors of the Ages" is a non-musical program, recorded so that it may be used on commercial stations of the Nebraska network.

Four engineers carry out the technical details of the broadcasts. Jess Crump, Jim Crump, Ken Walters and Dick Blinn are the KNUS engineering staff.

Final Rehearsals Begin For UN Theatre's Othello

Rehearsals for Othello, first University Theatre production of the season, are going into their final week. The play will be presented the nights of Oct. 30 and 31 at the Nebraska theater. The play is being directed by D. S. Williams.

Pat Loder, sophomore, is playing her first lead role in the University Theatre, cast as Desdemona. Jack Wenstrand, graduate student, will be playing the part of Othello.

The part of the villain, Iago, is being played by another newcomer to the University Theatre, Hank Givson. Mary Miller, remembered for her work in "The Glass Menagerie," plays Iago's wife, and Desdemona's waiting-woman and companion, Emilia.

Heading the supporting actors are Wes Jensby, junior, who plays the part of Cassio, and Marjorie Miller, who plays the part of Emilia.

Other supporting roles are held by Diane Downing as Bianca, Dick Carson as Roderigo, Ken Clement as Montano, Harry Stiver as Brabantio, D. K. Smith as Lodovico, Don Lewis as Gratiano and Milton Hoffman as the Duke.

The play was written some 350 years ago by William Shakespeare, and is considered to be one of the best tragedies ever written.

Basic motivation for the actors is jealousy. Iago, jealous of Cassio, tries to do him and Othello wrong. He does this by playing upon Othello's jealousy love for Desdemona, and of course Emilia reveals the villainy because of her love for her mistress.

The story of the play is, briefly: Othello, Moorish noble and great soldier, evokes the villainous Iago to plot against him and Cassio because Othello chose Cassio as his lieutenant, not Iago. Consequently Iago sets about to bring the downfall of the two. He does this by leading Othello to believe that his wife has been having affairs with Cassio. Othello, in a passion of jealousy, kills Desdemona. Then Emilia, realizing the trickery her husband, upon which Iago kills her. In a mood of remorse, Othello kills himself. Cassio is put in command, and Iago is sent to prison.

Staging and technical work of the play is under the direction of Mr. Tolch. Production manager is Betty Lester.

Ava Gardner plays the title role and Robert Walker stars as the salesman. Eve Arden is also featured in the movie.

Admission is free. Sunday night movies are sponsored by the Union general entertainment committee.

"One Touch of Venus" played on Broadway several seasons as a musical comedy before it was filmed. The play is a Kurt Weill and Ogden Nash production.

Marine Band To Present Student Concert Today

At 3 p. m. today students will have an opportunity to hear the president's own Marine band in the Coliseum.

Matinee tickets cost $1 for all seats. The 8:15 p. m. performance tickets sell for $1, $1.50 and $2. The matinee was scheduled especially for students by the American Legion Drum corps of Lincoln, sponsors of the Marine's appearance here.

In connection with the band's appearance, Friday has been designated as Marine Corps Day in Lincoln.

City mayor, Vic Anderson also proclaimed Friday as Marine Band Day in honor of the program.

Marines from Omaha, Lincoln and Hastings will participate, according to Ray Bowman, commander of the Nebraska department of the Marine Corps League.

Few communities will hear the Marine band. They are a presidentially approved unit designed to let Americans hear and observe the official presidential band which ordinarily plays only for occasions of state and for presidential functions in Washington.

Concerts on the Capital Plaza have highlighted Washington summers for more than a century. Lately concerts have been inaugurated at Jefferson Memorial.

Now in its 152nd year, the band has had only 15 directors and has served 25 presidents.

Probably are John Phillip Sousa and his present director, William F. Santelmann.

Major Santelmann has conducted the band since 1946. He joined the group in 1923 as a violin soloist.

William H. Santelmann led the band for 29 years. During the year, Santelmann's directorship the band doubled in size.

Since its establishment in 1796, the band has furnished music for every White House wedding including those of Nellie Grant, Alice Roosevelt and President Grover Cleveland.

As the official White House band the Marines have played at funeral services of Presidents Lincoln and F. D. Roosevelt. It regularly greets royalty and foreign dignitaries and supplies music for Arlington National cemetery services for the nation's heroes.

The Marine band gave the first series of television concerts and was one of the first organizations to enter radio broadcasting.

A varied program has been selected. From Martin Luther King's "Jericho" they will shift to a Cole Porter medley and a novelty arrangement of "Old McDonald Had a Farm."

The matinee program will differ from the evening show. The band will play numbers chosen especially for a student audience in the afternoon.

Reserved seat tickets for the evening concert are on sale at Dietz Music house.
