

The Benchwarmer

By BOB BANKS
Sports Editor

He had his say, and I had mine. In a nutshell that describes the case between Tom Carodine and myself during the past two days. His situation at the University did need clarification, and through his own cooperation, that clarification was made available.

In writing my column Monday in which I said his admission to the University was confusing, I stated the truth, and I have ample proof for the statements I made. However, that does not mean that Tom's statements are not as true as mine. In fact, I am the very first to accept the validity of his column Tuesday in which he very ably presented his side of the case.

The confusion was on the part of persons other than Tom or myself. As far as I am concerned, The Daily Nebraskan and Tom together have brought the situation to the light, and that closes the matter.

The only other point that could bear further discussion is the statement I made to the effect that he should not be given another chance at the University. In reply, he said that chances are not given to an individual, they are made by the individual. Concerning this point, I believe Tom will agree with me that he was given his first chance at Nebraska, but on the other hand I will not quarrel with his statement about having to make his own opportunity at the University the second time.

I would oppose his being allowed to continue playing football and skipping classes in the manner he had previously practiced. However, if he is sincere in his determination to come back in 1952, crack the books and attend classes—and I believe he is sincere—then I am all for him.

Two letters have appeared on today's sports page concerning Monday's Benchwarmer. One by Charles Bell states that "an article written in one of the local newspapers in that manner would result in a lawsuit for slander being brought against the paper." Mr. Bell is entitled to his own opinion about the column, but as long as I wrote the truth—which is the first defense against libel—The Daily Nebraskan is safe.

Mr. Bell further seems to believe I had no objective in trying to find out the true situation. As I have previously said, the situation needed to be clarified for the sake of all concerned. That was my objective, and I certainly consider it a worthwhile one. I would have done the same in any other situation, and I hope I always will, despite Mr. Bell's conviction that I am immature and anxious to investigate people.

In the other letter, Edward Thomas also writes that he disagrees with my assertion that Carodine should not be allowed another chance. Since I have fully qualified my point, there is no need for further discussion.

Unless something more comes up, the Tom Carodine story is closed until 1952. In the meantime, to you, Tom, your wife and Thomas Jr., I wish all the luck in the world.

Sig Alphas Thump DU's, 27-12; Betas, Acacia Also Victorious

By DOUGLAS WILCOX
Sports Staff Reporter

The intramural football season is beginning to tighten as the teams battle for a position in the final playoffs and the all-University trophy. Last year the all-University champs were Delta Tau Delta, who are in the big race again this year.

The first game of the intramural playoffs was the tight tilt between Sigma Alpha Epsilon, a very close contender for the championship, and Delta Upsilon's fine ball club.

The final score in the game was 27 to 12 in favor of the Sig Alphas. In the intramural season so far for the Sig Alphas it's been Gifford to Shainholtz. Gifford and Bill Shainholtz have made the majority of scores for their squad.

Yesterday in the playoffs Gifford threw the first touchdown pass of the playoffs 40 yards to Bill Shainholtz. On the try for the conversion the attempted point was no good.

Gifford again wound up his throwing arm to send a pass to halfback Johnny Leach, who in turn passed to Gus Lebeck in the end zone for the score. The extra point try was still impossible for the Sig Alphas to make.

Quarterback Gifford was still not through making working touchdown combinations as he passed 5 yards into the end zone to Gus Lebeck for a T.D. The first extra point of the playoffs was then made when Gifford threw to John Leach.

Sprint man Gifford ran 35 yards for a T.D. The conversion attempt was futile. With the game all sewed up the Sig Alphas continued to score as the combination of Gifford to Lebeck accounted for the final tally of the game.

The Delta Upsilon squad scored twice in the contest but were unable to make their extra points. Their final tally stood at 12 points. Outstanding for the winners were Lebeck and Gifford on offense and Scoville and Leach on defense.

Beta Theta Pi beat Sigma Alpha Mu in the last quarter of their playoff tilt by a score of 2 to 0. The game was a very tight one until the last quarter when Paul Gaiter, quarterback for the SAM squad, fumbled in the end zone and recovered it, allowing the

B Gridmen Prepare For Mizzou Game The Nebraska B team has improved vastly in its last two games against Scottbluff JC and Colorado B, according to Coach Ike Hanscom.

The Nubbins edged a favored Scottbluff JC, 32-26, and lost to a more experienced Colorado B, 7-0. "We could have beaten Colorado B at any time," added mentor Hanscom. "We fumbled on the seven and almost completed a pass on the goal, but the ball was wet and it slipped off the receivers' fingers."

The junior Huskers came from a 13-0 deficit to top Scottbluff JC, 33-26. Bill Thayer, Dan Brown, Stu Thorell, George Power, and Chuck Chamley were standouts in the Scottbluff victory.

Against Colorado B. Duane Rankin, Pat Lee, George Mink, Bill McGuire, George Ghode, and Jim Levendusky played creditably. Brown, quarterback, and Bill Holloran, tackle, who were called up to the varsity after the Scottbluff game were missed in the Colorado struggle.

The loss of Brown before the Colorado B game caused the backfield to sputter and fall to coordinate at times. As a result, the Nubbins mentor has been working on backfield organization.

In preparation for a return tilt with Missouri B, Hanscom is working his charges on ball handling, fundamentals, pass protection and passing patterns.

Nov. 8 will find the B team at Ames to meet Iowa State B.

Dear Editor... Slanderous?

While reading an article in The Daily Nebraskan, I was reminded of how immature a college paper can become. I am referring to an article written about Thomas Carodine by one Mr. Bob Banks. I cannot conceive of a supposedly mature college student writing an article of that nature. Perhaps it would be well to inform Mr. Banks that an article written in one of the local newspapers in that manner would result in a lawsuit for slander being brought against the paper. This information would be vital to him in case he would make the mistake of attempting to embark upon a career in journalism.

Since Mr. Banks seems to exhibit a fervid zealotry in investigating matters long after they have received publicity, I suggest that we appoint him as a committee of one to slander the names of other students with the absence of objectivity. Suppose we give him activity points for every student's name he slanders.

Please ask Mr. Banks if he would want another chance if he were in Thomas Carodine's place. It would be highly ethical, if Mr. Banks can understand the meaning of this word, to explain the purpose of this article. Certainly all journalistic writing has a purpose.

Yours truly,
CHARLES BELL.
(Editor's Note: Evidently the author meant libel rather than slander. If he cares to sue, The Nebraskan has no objection.)

Another Chance?

I do not agree with you when you say that Tom Carodine should not be given another chance to play football in 1952. I admit that from all appearances it seems that Tom just does not have the requirement emotionally or mentally to carry the load placed on his shoulders by his previous successes.

However, I believe that if he is man enough to remain in school, attend classes, and maintain an average acceptable to the University after being such a let-down—not only to himself and his teammates, but to his race and many, many friends—the blow he's received this year will have done him good, and, if given one more chance he will prove himself to be a real man with courage.

EDWARD THOMAS.

Cage Entries Due By Nov. 3

The basketball tournament is the next big event on the intramural calendar. Entries for the IM basketball tourney are due Nov. 3 in room 102, Physical Education building. An entry fee of $10 must be paid at the same time by each team.

In connection with the basketball tournament, there will be a meeting of all team managers on Thursday, Nov. 8, in room 101 of the Physical building. Time of the meeting is 7 p.m.

The tournament will be organized into leagues of fraternity, independent and denominational teams. The leagues will play double round robin schedules, and at the end of the season a championship playoff will be held.

A trophy will be awarded to the fraternity champion, and individual medals will be presented to ten members of the independent championship team.

All teams and players must furnish their own suits for the tourneys. Basketball shoes must be worn for games and practice sessions.

Free Throw Contest into Final Round

The final rounds of the intramural free throw tournament was held in the Physical Education building Tuesday afternoon. The results of the ten tournaments are:

- 1—Chuck Marshall over Bill McGarry.
- 2—Jack March over Dick Newell.
- 3—Muri Maupin beat Bob Bachman.
- 4—Jack Randecker beat George Regan.
- 5—Dave Alkire beat Marty Matheson.
- 6—Arthur Hansen over Dick Ralston.
- 7—Mark Schuman beat Arnold Strasheim.
- 8—Roger Essman beat Royce Tonjes.
- 9—Phillip Reiland over John Kaveny (default).
- 10—Frank Wells beat Ray Ryder.

The winners of the ten tournaments will be in the playoffs to determine the All-University champion. Each of the ten tour-

Return Of Key Men Aids Husker Cause

By ARLEY BONDARIN
Sports Staff Reporter

The return of several key injured players to full time duty brightened hopes in the Nebraska camp as the Cornhuskers dug their cleats into the practice turf in preparation for next Saturday's Homecoming game with the Kansas Jayhawkers.

Apparently fully recovered from their injuries and ready to go are Jerry Minnick, Tony Winey, Dennis Emmanuel, George Paynich, Bill Giles, and Ted James.

Minnick, prominent cog in the Husker defense, is returning after suffering a slight concussion in the Minnesota contest and should plug up some of the leaks which have hampered the Scarlet and Cream in recent weeks.

Same Old Tale; Sooners Lead

It's been four years and it looks like there will be no change this year. That just about summarizes the Big Seven football title race at the half-way point in the season.

The Oklahoma Sooners, who have monopolized on the conference crown the past four years are riding high, wide and handsomely in first place with two wins and no losses.

The Sooners' two victories came from the top contenders for this year's crown, Colorado and Kansas. The Oklahoma victory over the Buffs was especially impressive.

The Colorado Buffaloes still hold the runner-up spot behind the Sooners with three wins and one loss. Coach Dallas Ward's eleven dropped Missouri, Iowa State and Kansas, while they lost to Oklahoma.

Iowa State's surprising Cyclones are enjoying a very successful season in and outside of the conference. The Cyclones have two wins against one loss.

Kansas is in fourth place with two wins and two losses. This is rather a surprise to the experts who tabbed the Jayhawks as a dark horse in the league race this fall.

Don Faurot's Missouri Tigers rate the fifth place position with a single win, Nebraska and two losses. The Tigers were selected for second division since early this spring.

The Nebraska Cornhuskers continue their chronic losing streak and are in sixth place with one loss and one tie. The Cornhuskers are suffering with lack of experience problem.

Kansas State is in the bottom rung of the ladder with no wins, three losses, or tie and little relief in sight. The Wildcats do possess several of the league's top performers this gridiron term.

Chalk Talk To Supplement Iowa State-Nebraska Tilt

A chalk talk diagramming the Iowa State-Nebraska game will supplement the radio broadcast at the Pispikin Party Saturday, Nov. 10.

The main party will be held in the main lounge of the Union at game time. Those unable to attend the football game at Ames can congregate to hear the game and have some fun.

ney winners will throw 50 free-throws on the following days: Wednesday, October 31, at 5 p.m.

Monday, November 5, at 5 p.m.
Tuesday, November 6, at 5 p.m.
The final rounds will also be held in the Physical Education building.

Winey suffered a foot injury in the Kansas State tilt and has been sidelined since then. His recovery will give an added boost to the Husker offense at the guard position.

One of Coach Bill Glassford's many headaches lately has been the injury jinx which has focused its attention on the Husker ends, both offensive and defensive. However, some relief should be provided this weekend as four wingmen return to duty.

George Paynich saw some action last week against the Missouri Tigers and should be ready to go at top speed against the Jayhawkers. Bill Giles, promising sophomore, made the trip to Columbia but saw no action, in order to reduce the possibility of further aggravating a muscle injury.

Sophomore Dennis Emmanuel has been sidelined for three weeks since his injury in the Penn State game. Emmanuel would have been ready for Missouri, but he suffered a neck injury in practice. Considered one of the best tacklers among the defensive ends, the speedy Emmanuel has tentatively won a first string berth on the defensive platoon. Also returning is defensive end, Ted James, who was hurt in the Minnesota game.

As the Huskers began their heavy work in an attempt to find the right combination for a victory, Coach Glassford announced the tentative lineups for the offensive and defensive platoons.

Offensively, the Cornhuskers will line up with Frank Simon and Dick Regier, ends, Wayne Handshy and George Prochaska, tackles, Clayton Curtis and Joe Ponsiego, guards, and Veri Scott at center. The backfield will consist of Don Norris, quarterback, Bob Reynolds, left halfback, John Bordogna, right halfback, and Ray Novak, fullback.

Backing up this offensive alignment are Paynich and Giles, ends, Jim Oliver and Harvey Gith, tackles, Cliff Dale and Woody guards, and Ken Schroeder, center. In the backfield are Bordogna, doubling at quarterback, freshman Jim Cederdahl, right half back, Bob Smith, left halfback, and George Cifra, fullback.

The starting defensive platoon has Bill Schabacker and Emmanuel, ends, Minnick and Ed Hassenman, tackles, Don Boll and Carl Brass, guards, Cliff Hopp and Bob Mullen, linebackers, Jim Yelsley and Smith, halfbacks, and Reynolds at safety.

The second defensive lineup includes: James and Jerry Yeager or Dick Gott at ends, Bill Holteran and Ted Conner, tackles, Jim Jones and Ken Oberlin, guards, Schroeder and Scott, linebackers, Jim Levendusky and Bordogna, halfbacks, and Bobby Decker, safety.

Tuesday the Cornhuskers began the heavy practice work as the emphasis was again placed on pass defense. Special attention was also given to correcting the tendency of the Huskers to jump offside. Offsides plagued the Nebraska all afternoon at Columbia and were a contributing factor to the Missouri triumph.

Coach Glassford announced that he will have two scouts on the road this Saturday charting future Husker opponents. "B" team mentor Ike Hanscom will scout the Iowa State Cyclones as they play Colorado's Buffs at Ames. Assistant Coach Pete Janetos will cover the Miami team against the Kentucky Wildcats at Lexington, Ky.

Sophomores To Defend Honor At Tug-Of-War

By Staff Writer
Come Saturday, the freshmen will experience the closest thing to a revolution that they will ever know.

It's the annual tug-of-war to determine whether the freshmen continue wearing their beanies. This is theoretical of course; it seems the freshmen this year have found it beneath their dignity to wear the red beanies that denote their class.

Delegates from each organized house will be sent to tug at their respective end of the rope during the half-time proceeding yield Homecoming game.

Can't you just see it now? Amid the queens and bands that will be parading around will come rushing into the crowd (with a rope) dozens of little freshmen to protect their honor. Following them will be the big, brave sophomores with the red flag. The flag is for the rope so that everyone, even the students way down in the zero yard line will know who is winning.

Then the contest. The freshmen will line up on one end, directed by the innocents. The sophomores will line up at the other end. Anyway this is the usual procedure and Nebraska is a great one for tradition.

At the sound of the gun, the contest will begin. Then thousands of Nebraskans will witness the heart-rendering, grueling struggle between the classes to see just who can move the red flag towards their end. The queen will be watching; the innocents will be watching; and maybe even some of the students in the zero yard line will be watching.

Who will win? The suspense is terrible, isn't it? Bookmakers all over the country are quoting new odds as the names of the contestants come in. It's going to be an exciting contest to watch.

Music Seniors To Present Recital Today

Four School of Music seniors will present a student recital at 4 p.m. today in Social Science auditorium.

Soloists will be Anita Spradley, soprano; Kenneth Lage, trombone; John Schaumburg, tenor, and Janice Liljedahl, cello.

The program will begin with five selections by Miss Spradley. She will sing, "Vergin, Tutia Amor" by Durante; "Es hat die Rose sich beklagt" by Franz; "Er ist gekommen" by Franz; "To the Children" by Rachmaninoff, and "Love Went A-Riding" by Bridge. Accompanist will be Marilyn Paul.

Lage will play "Andante et Allegro" by Barat, and "Romanze" by Cords. He will be accompanied by Naida Watson.

"O Del Mio Amato Ben" by Donauy, will be the first of Schaumburg's selections. He will also sing "Le Reve from 'Maison'" by Massenet; "Ein Ton" by Cornelius, and "Music I Heard with You" by Hageman. Phoebe Dempster will be accompanist.

Miss Liljedahl, accompanied by Barbara Gilmore, will play "Prayer" by Bloch and "Concerto in A Minor (Third Movement)" by Saint-Saens.

Pool Available For Workouts

Swimming Coach Holte Lepley Tuesday announced that the swimming pool in the Coliseum is now open for all men who wish to practice for the intramural swimming meet Nov. 12 to 16.

Several of the NU swimming team candidates are working out for the intramural tournament. These men will gain experience in the meet.

Some of the outstanding men now participating in workouts are Richard Hildek of Omaha in the breast stroke; Calvin Bentz of Hastings, Dave Gradwohl of Lincoln, and Gordon Peterson of Auburn, all in the free style; and Bob Norton in diving.

Entries for the intramural meet are to be turned in on the days the events are scheduled.
