

Phi Gams, Sig Eps Win; Pass Crucial Playoff Test

By DOUGLAS WILCOX Sports Staff Reporter

The second day of the intramural tourney has come and gone and with it has emerged some new playoff winners, who will continue playing in the tournament. The first winner of the day was Phi Gamma Delta who beat Sigma Chi 19 to 6 in a game sparked by the terrific playing ability of John Sinclair, the player who scored all the points for the winning squad. The first touchdown came on a 40 yard pass from Rich Olsen, outstanding Fiji player, to John Sinclair. On the try for the extra point Sinclair again caught a pass from Olsen to make the score 6 to 0.

Phi Gamma Delta again scored as Olsen passed 15 yards to the hands of John Sinclair, who went over for the touchdown. This time the conversion try was no good. On the third and last Fiji T. D. Olsen passed 20 yards to Sinclair for a touchdown, and then attempted the conversion but was unsuccessful in the try. Outstanding for the Fiji team were John Sinclair and Olsen. Sigma Phi Epsilon beat Alpha Tau Omega in a hard fighting tilt. The final score was 15 to 0 in favor of the Sig Eps.

The Sig Eps scored on interception when in the second quarter when Ted Kratt ran 20 yards to score for his squad. The try for the extra point was no good so the score was 6 to nothing.

The next touchdown which actually came in the first quarter was set up by the interception of a ATO pass. On the completion of a pass from Ted Kratt to Bill Anderson the score stood at 12 to 0. The try for the extra point was good when Kratt again passed to Anderson.

The last two final points in the game were made in the fourth quarter of the game as the hard charging Sig Ep squad forced the ATO into their backfield and a touchback. Outstanding for the winners were Ted Kratt on offense and Fred Peterson and Al Hansen on defense.

Although the ATO "A" squad lost, the "B" squad recovered their lost prestige by beating Sigma Chi. The final score in the tilt was 12 to 6 in favor of the ATO squad.

On a triple pass play through the efforts of Mac Bailey to Ken Kunes to Bill Weber to score.

This combined effort was a total of 45 yards of passing. The try for the extra point was no good.

For the next score the ATO's used a pass play from Mac Bailey to Lyle. The try for the extra point was still unable to make.

Sigma Chi scored 6 points in the fray on pass from Jerry Ferguson to Don Snyder. The conversion try was futile.

Outstanding for the winning squad was Mac Bailey and Bob Pecha, who played a fine game on defense.

The final game of the day was the tilt between Phi Delta Theta and Delta Tau Delta "B" squads. The final score in the game was a big 28 to 0 with the Phi Delt's winning the game. Steve McKensy of the Phi Delt's did all the passing for the winning squad on 30, 25 and 10 yard passes respectively.

The first score came as Steve McKensy passed to Don Wahl in the first quarter for a T. D.

The try for the conversion was good as McKensy passed once again to Wahl.

There was no scoring until in the second quarter, when McKensy passed to Don Wahl for another 6 points. The conversion try again was made on the same McKensy to Wahl combination.

In the second quarter McKensy threw to Keith Glorfield for 25 yards, a touchdown and 6 points. On the conversion McKensy again tossed to Glorfield for the point.

Bill Aldrich also got into the scoring column as McKensy passed to him in the only touchdown of the second half for a T. D. McKensy passed to Aldrich for the extra point and the final score in the game.

In the game Steve McKensy played a very prominent part as he passed for all the Phi Delt scores. Wahl was also a good offensive player. Defensively Steve McCarbeth looked good.

Bordogna Suffers Rib Injury; Bill Seeks New Replacement

By ARLEY BONDARIN Sports Staff Reporter

Not one to give up without a struggle, the injury jinx returned to plague the Nebraska Cornhuskers as sophomore half-back John Bordogna suffered some badly bruised ribs in Tuesday's scrimmage with the "B" squad.

The injury has tentatively placed the Turtle Creek, Pa., youngster on the unavailable list for Saturday's homecoming tilt with the Kansas Jayhawkers. Bordogna's injury somewhat offset the return of Dennis Emmanuel, George Paynich, Jerry Minnick, Ted James, and Tony Winey to fulltime action.

Bordogna had been groomed as a quarterback in the Husker T-formation since spring practice at Curtis. However, after early season reversals and manpower losses, Coach Bill Glassford switched Bordogna to right halfback. At his new position, John proved to be a pleasant surprise as his speed and aggressive line bucking added some badly needed punch to the Cornhusker attack.

Through the first five games of the season, Bordogna led the Husker ball carriers with a net gain of 183 yards in 66 rushes. He has shown his versatility by handling a share of the passing and punting chores for the Nebraskaans.

Bob Smith or Jim Cederdahl, both freshmen, will be worked at the right halfback post in the event that Bordogna is unable to compete in Saturday's contest. Meanwhile, Coach Glassford put his charges through their final rough preparations in an attempt to iron out the wrinkles, offensively and defensively, in anticipation of the Homecoming game.

Emphasis was placed on brushing up the offensive blocking, which has been a Nebraska weak point all season.

The defensive platoon came in for some careful screening, for in Kansas the Huskers will be facing a squad which has racked up no fewer than 21 points in their games this season. The linemen were the only ones scheduled to participate in contact scrimmage.

The Scarlet and Cream continued to work on their pass defense, as they expect no letup from the bombardment of flying footballs which have tormented them throughout the season. In the five games played thus far, Nebraska opponents have completed 55 passes good for 761 yards.

BOBBY REYNOLDS

The Cornhuskers will also face the task of overcoming the second quarter letdown, which has led to their downfall in three contests this season.

In the season's opener, Texas Christian University scored twenty-one of their twenty-eight points in the second quarter. Against the Minnesota Gophers, the Huskers gave up three touchdowns in two minutes and fifty-two seconds of the second quarter. In the Missouri game, the Tigers scored twice just before the half to give them a commanding lead and ultimate victory.

Not since the season of 1936 have the Cornhuskers entered the month of November without a victory under their belts. This includes the lean years during the war. However, Coach Glassford is still confident that his squad will put together enough good football at one time to surprise someone this season.

A glance at the scoring chart gives an indication of the difference in the squads record from last year. In 1950, Bob Reynolds had a clear lead in the scoring department and was vying for national honors. This season nine touchdowns have been scored by nine different players.

The return of Reynolds to the lineup has had a steady effect on the remainder of the squad. With Bobby calling signals and playing a stellar game as defensive safety, the Huskers go into the latter half of this campaign determined to improve their record for the year.

FIRE AWAY

By CORK BIEMOND Sports Staff Columnist

"WE HUNT THE DUCK"

After successfully restraining ourselves until it became legal to hunt ducks, at last the season was declared open and we completed final plans to travel to the duck hunters' paradise in the Nebraska sandhills.

Leaving Lincoln Friday at midnight, we drove for several hours, our only stops being for the essentials such as coffee for ourselves and gasoline for the automobile.

We arrived at our rendezvous at Ord shortly before dawn. After hurriedly checking the condition of our equipment, we proceeded to partake of a huge breakfast of ham and eggs and enormous amounts of steaming hot coffee.

Thereupon we packed our equipment and set out for the wild rugged lake country of the sandhills where we hoped to find the elusive mallards and widgeon which populate the airways.

Dawn was breaking in the east as the final preparations were completed and the hunters took their respective positions. All was quiet in the stillness preceding the time for shooting except the click of a shell being loaded into the chamber of the gun, and the whining of a hunting dog who doesn't anticipate entering the chilly waters to retrieve a crippled bird.

Suddenly we heard a faint whistle of wings and now we could pick up the outline of a "Vee" of mallards who are traveling low and fast through the early morning fog.

A couple of quacks on the duck caller and the lead bird shows interest in our decoys by starting a high speed turn in the direction of our blind.

We hold our breath and remain perfectly still lest they catch a faint movement from the blind and flare-off to seek greener pastures and quieter waters. No, they do not see us hiding there, so now they are starting to slow down. They set their wings and glide in almost to a landing when the word is passed "Fire Away" and the shooting starts. The frightened ducks now proceed to "pour on the coal" and they leave our immediate locality without further ado, all except a few unfortunates who were in the way of flying lead pellets.

The retriever now has his field day and with a mighty splash into the chilly waters, he is after the crippled ducks.

In our haste to catch the ducks before they can escape a couple of the hunters manage to get into deep water, well over their boot tops and the laugh is on them, they will suffer in misery or return to the cars and change into drier garments. Such is the life of a hunter, and believe it or not it is a great deal of fun.

Rough Jayhawkers Invade Huskerland; KU Favored

The Nebraska Cornhuskers are winless, but not gameless. The Huskers will be hoping to settle the former matter by defeating a mighty rugged outfit from the University of Kansas, Saturday in Memorial stadium.

Kansas State is the only team stopping the Huskers from being at the bottom of the Big Seven conference football standings and Coach Bill Glassford and team will be out to better their low standing.

The Jayhawks have also found the going a little rough in conference play with losses to Colorado and Oklahoma. Coach Jules Sikes sunflower aggregation are currently in fourth place.

Ring leader for the Kansas is Charlie Hoag. This rampaging 185 pound junior halfback is the chief threat in Sike's T formation plans.

Last year as a sophomore, Hoag ranked as one of the finest grid backs in the conference as well as being the top all-around athlete. This year, Hoag has been out with a leg injury and has missed three games this fall.
