Black Masque Ball— New Title For Dance

Furnishing the music for the annual turn-about dance ball sponsored by Mortar Board will be Tex Beneke and his orchestra.

Though the name, Mortar Board Ball, will not be on the University social calendar this year, the traditional affair will still take place; but under a different title—Black Masque Ball.

The ball's title is in accordance with its theme—Black Masque. Couples may wear black masques, which will be sold by Tassels, to the ball.

Selling tickets for the ball starting Monday, Nov. 12, will be Tassels. Tickets are priced at $3 a couple.

When Tex Beneke's orchestra begins his engagement Dec. 12 in the Coliseum from 8 p.m. to 12 midnight, saxophone sleuths attending will notice that Beneke's saxophone is older and more battered than any other instrument in his orchestra.

The Beneke saxophone is a legend. He bought it ten years ago when he was working with Ben Young's orchestra. When he joined Glenn Miller's band, he was using the same saxophone. Today it is still Beneke's only saxophone.

It originally cost $200 and Beneke has spent over $750 during the past ten years for repairs.

Beneke is known for his sax work, but is equally famous for his vocals. Tunes like "Kalamazoo," "Chattanooga Choo Choo," "Ida" and his sax on "Body and Soul" have sold millions of copies.

Beneke was also featured in two movies, "Orchestra Wives" and "Sun Valley Serenade" with the late Glenn Miller.

Featured vocalists with Beneke's band are Bill Raymond and Shirley Wilson.

Better Living Series Opens On Ag Campus

A movie entitled "Junior Prom" will be featured at the first meeting of the Better Living Series at the Ag Union today at 5 p.m.

Following the film, Mr. and Mrs. Hal Allen will lead a discussion on the problems that were presented. The same discussion will be held Wednesday, so that more students will be able to attend.

The first series of discussions will last until Christmas. They will cover dating, telephone conversations, introductions, invitations and gifts. Also, one meeting will be held for the discussion of chaperones and how to meet them.

The second series will broaden out into finance, marriage and leadership.

Mary Lou Huse, Ag Union activities director, urged students to attend the meetings and bring out some of the problems that they encounter, so that later discussions may be planned in accordance with them.

Elementary Ed Club To Hear Henzlik Tonight

The Elementary Education club will hold its annual dinner in the Union at 6 p.m. Tuesday.

"The Biggest Responsibility of the Elementary School Teacher" will be the topic discussed by Dean Frank E. Henzlik of Teachers College.

BULLETIN

The revised Student Council constitution has finally been officially accepted.

Saturday the Board of Regents approved the new constitution on the recommendation of the faculty policy committee.

The committee recommended that the Regents approve the constitution for a two-year trial period.

Last year an all-University vote gave student approval.

Sunday Service Honors Faculty Members, Regent

Commemorative services were held Sunday for ten former University faculty members and the late regent, Edward Provost Brown, at Love library auditorium.

Chancellor R. G. Gustavson said the University "is shaped by the men and women who symbolize its service. The memorial service is a token of our appreciation." Deans of the colleges in which the deceased faculty members taught, delivered the individual commemorative speeches.

R. W. Devoe, Board of Regents, said of Brown, "as regent, as legislator, and as citizen, he furnished leadership in the struggle which has made the University a great educational institution."

Dean H. C. Laeth of the Medical College gave testimony to the following: Dr. William Porter Haney, assistant professor on the staff of the Medical College, "gave freely of his talents and knowledge in the instruction of many generations of students."

Dr. Charles W. M. Poynter, former dean and professor in the Medical College, was "closely linked with the inception and growth of the college of medicine. His great capacity for friendship, his tremendous breadth of his knowledge and ideas, his wisdom and executive ability left a sociates in the faculty and the medical profession."

Dr. George P. Pratt, former professor of clinical medicine, died after a prolonged illness. "Throughout this long period of distinguished service, he profoundly influenced many generations of students through his scholarly and orderly presentation of disease processes, particularly his famous course on medical reviews."

Dr. Charles O. Rich was a prominent surgeon and associate professor of surgery. "During this long period of service, Dr. Rich exerted a deep and lasting influence on the many students to whom he taught the principles of surgery."

Dr. Clarence Rubendall, anatomy professor, "exerted great influence on his students which will continue long after his untimely death."

Dean F. E. Henzlik of Teachers College gave the memorial for associate professor Earl W. Lantz. "He exerted a powerful personal influence on his students and helped them lay a firm foundation for their work as teachers. His attention to the needs of students was rewarded by their constant demand for his advice and his participation in their activities."

Dean R. W. Goss of the Graduate College said in memory of Esther Goodyear, assistant professor of social work, "With her staunch championship of the simple rights and dignity of the human individual, she sought to imbue her students with something to live by and lead meaning to their practice of social work."

Dean Oldfather of the College of Arts and Science read: "Axtel L. Elmquist was one of the founders of the Society for the advancement of Scandinavian study and served for many years overseas."

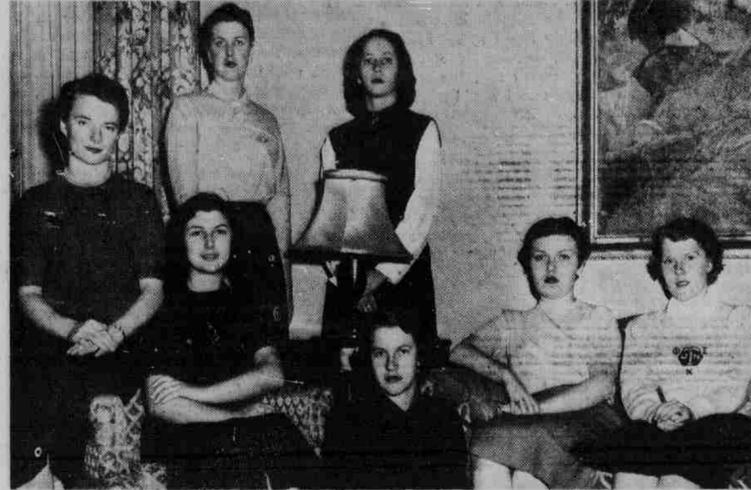

Ellen Cetonia Wittie, assistant professor of public school art "From her early youth to the end of her active days, her primary interests was in her students—first in the public schools and later in the University. Hundreds of her former students have been permanently enriched by her influence."

Dean W. V. Lambert of the Agricultural College pronounced the testimonial for Jerome Valentine Srb, assistant extension specialist.

Srb was a "welcome guest in any high school" because he could "hold the attention of boys and girls, because he possessed their enthusiasm, knew their language, and loved them. With his leadership and guidance, agricultural short courses in towns and communities were always a success."

Dr. A. E. Westbrook conducted the University Singers who furnished music for the service.

Dr. Ernest E. Smith of the Baptist church was chaplain Myron J. Roberts was organist.

Two Students Attend ISA Region Meet

Jo Hoff and Jan Hepperly represented BABW and ISA at the annual Rocky Mountain Regional Convention of ISA last week.

Miss Hoff, BABW president, and Miss Hepperly, ISA executive secretary, travelled to Colorado Springs for the meeting last Friday and Saturday.

The region includes all universities and colleges in Colorado, Nebraska, South Dakota, North Dakota and Kansas. The convention is held in the fall of each year. National ISA convention follows in the spring.

"The purpose of the meeting," said Miss Hepperly, "was to acquaint students from various colleges and universities with the activities, organizations and problems of ISA, IWA (independent women) and IMA (independent men) on other campuses."

For the two-day meeting, Miss Hoff was appointed temporary secretary. New officers for the coming year were elected Saturday afternoon at the general business meeting.

Among those chosen were: Stan Drier, president; University of Colorado; and Jane Hoff, vice president, University of Omaha. The University of Omaha was also chosen as host school for the regional convention next year.

"This was one of the most interesting, instructive and informative meetings I have ever attended," said Jo Hoff. "I hope for two things: that the University will be well represented at the National ISA convention in Oklahoma in March, so that more of our students may become aware of the fine work being done by independents on other campuses, and that students on the University campus will cooperate and share in the planning, organization and attendance of the regional convention in Omaha next year. Omaha University is a small university, but Nebraska could profit from watching and working with that group."

Schedule of visits to the houses are:

Tuesday evening
7-7:20—Zeta Beta Tau.
7:20-7:40—Beta Sigma Psi.
7:40-8—Phi Gamma Delta.

'Idiot's Delight' Positions Open In Crew, Cast

Tryouts for roles in Robert Sherman's "Idiot's Delight," a forthcoming production of the University Theatre, end Wednesday.

Tryouts will be Tuesday from 3 to 5 p.m., Temple, Room 205 and Wednesday from 7 to 9 p.m., Temple, Room 205.

The cast includes roles for 17 men and 10 women. According to Max M. Whittaker, director of the play, the cast includes excellent character parts and also roles which require a singer, dancer and pianist.

Students interested in working on the production crew of "Idiot's Delight" should sign up by Friday in Temple, Room 153, according to John Tolch, crew director.

Positions are open on the following crews: lighting, painting, make-up and properties.

Tolch said that students signing up first for the production crew would be given preference over the late signers.

Truman Speaks Wednesday

WASHINGTON—A new U.S. proposal for peace may be advanced by President Truman in a nation-wide radio and television broadcast Wednesday. Then the ball will be taken by Secretary of State Acheson in Paris, where the Americans will press for the adoption of a resolution similar to the president's proposal.

It is understood that the plan will involve an international disarmament program with strict supervision of all weapons.

Troopship Rams Argentine Vessel

BREMERSHAVEN, Germany—An American troopship carrying 3,000 New England national guardsmen destined for Gen. Eisenhower's European army rammied and sank an Argentine passenger vessel off the north German port of Bremerhaven. No one was killed on either ship and all 260 persons on the Argentine motor-liner "Maipi" were rescued by the troopship and assisting sea-going tugs.

Many of the survivors of the "Maipi" were treated for shock, exposure, or the effects of ammonia fumes which escaped from ruptured refrigeration pipes. These passengers were emigrants on their way to new homes in Argentina.

Negotiators Propose Sub-committee

KOREA—U.N. negotiators at Panmunjom proposed that a six-man sub-committee be set up to study the cease-fire line and buffer zone problems which have delayed the talks for so many weeks. The sessions of the conference might then move on to other phases of the situation until the sub-committee could find a mutually satisfactory solution. The Reds agreed to think about it.

Second Day—Student Directory Sales Reach 1,000; Kennedy Announces Nov. 12 For General Student Sales

Today marks the second day of student directory. The distribution of the 1951-52

"Approximately 1,000 have been sold and the rest are going fast," said Phyllis Loudon, business manager of the directory. She added that those who have not yet bought their directories will be able to obtain copies starting

Nov. 12 when general sales begin at City and Ag Unions.

Faculty sales of the directory started Monday. Shirley Stelick is director of faculty sales on city campus and Dale Reynolds has charge of Ag sales.

Only the persons who bought their student directories during registration week this fall are being delivered by receipt to students in independent houses by Nita Helmstadter.

Sally Hall and Eldon Park are distributing the books to the sorority and fraternity houses where house representatives will have charge of handing them out.

The 1951-52 student directory has many new features, including complete home addresses as well as Lincoln addresses in the student section. A schedule of University events is an added feature. The presidents of all University organizations are listed in the book.

The blue-covered directory contains fraternity, sorority and organized house membership lists. Information about faculty and administrative personnel is included.

Lou Kennedy is editor of the 1951-52 directory and Phyllis Loudon is business manager. Miss Kennedy's assistants are Susan Reinhardt, student lists; Norma Lothrop, organization; Nita Helmstadter, faculty list; and Betty Brinkman, proof reader.

Miss Loudon was assisted by Barbara Reinecke, publicity head.

HOW DO YOU SPELL THAT NAME? . . . Hard at work are some of the people responsible for the student directory coming out earlier than it has ever before. They are (l. to r.) "Who was that lady I saw you outfit last night?"

Breakfast in the crib has been a novelty to several fraternity men. As they prepared to leave one of them began washing his spoon in the water glass.

"Whatcha doin' that for?" asked his friend.

"Well, I didn't wanta get egg all over my pocket," he explained.

With the high winds accompanying the parade floats Saturday, some enterprising fraternity might have done better to have a float entitled "We'll pluck those Hawks."

"Kiss me."

"Why?"

"I dunno, I couldn't think of anything else to say."

"Do you love me?"

"Uh huh," she breathlessly sighed.

"Then why don't your chest heave like in the movies?"

It will be mostly cloudy today and tonight, with occasional light snowfall.

"Here's the place mother told me to stay away from. I thought we'd never find it."
