

COA Election Invalidated

The Candidate Officers association election of the 1952 Honorary Commandant has been invalidated, according to George Wilcox, chairman of the election committee of the Student Council.

A new election will be held for the Honorary Commandant finalists Thursday, Nov. 15, from 2 to 5 p.m. in the Military Science building.

COA officers will be asked for their identification cards, and their names will be checked with the names on the ROTC rosters. This will insure legal voters and voting.

The judiciary committee of the Council according to Miriam Willey, chairman invalidated the original COA election Friday for the following reasons:

1. At a reception teas some cadets were in uniform and some were not. No check was made to see that all present were COA officers. No count was taken to see how many cadets were present; no count was made to see how many voted and how many votes there were.

2. There was no ballot listing the candidates' names. Each voter merely submitted a slip of paper with a candidate's name written on it.

3. No check was made to determine the eligibility of the voters or to see how many times each voted.

4. Ballots were counted the evening of the election by the president of the Candidate Officers association and an assistant with no faculty supervision. After the votes had been counted in this manner, they were burned and no record was kept of the ballots.

Friday a motion was made before the judiciary committee to investigate the election. Presented before the committee was an eye-witness account of the election verifying the laxness prevail in the election methods.

Also presented to the committee was a statement from Darwin McAfee, president of the Candidate Officers Association, relating that standard election procedure had been violated. He stated that he would approve and, in fact, suggest holding another election.

Hampton is a drum and vibraphone specialist. He has played with the bands of Benny Goodman and Louis Armstrong. He started his own band in 1940. Hampton has recorded under Victor, Decca, and MGM labels.

A composer as well as instrumentalist, Hampton has written more than 100 tunes. Among his more well-known tunes are "Jack the Bellboy," "Bompin'," "Give Me Some Skin," "Hollywood Shuffle," and "Mushmouth."

Hampton appeared in the Goldwyn production, "A Song is Born" where he did his version of "Flyin' Home" which has sold over one million copies on wax.

While a newsboy in Chicago, Hampton first embarked on his musical career in the school band as the bass drummer. When he finished high school he went to the University of Southern California where he studied music and financed his education by soda jerking. With spoons for sticks and the counter for drums, Hampton worked out some of his rhythmic beats until he was fired for breaking too many glasses.

He landed a job with Paul Howard's Quality Serenaders, then a popular band on the west coast and made his first records. Later he joined Les Hite's band which was working in pictures.

Lester, Mathis Awarded Leads In Uni Theatre's 'Idiot's Delight'

Betty Lester and Les Mathis will portray leading roles in Robert Sherwood's "Idiot's Delight," the forthcoming production of the University Theatre.

Miss Lester, a sophomore speech major who was production manager for the recent presentation of "Othello," will play Irene, a phony Russian adventuress.

Mathis, graduate student in speech and drama, will play the part of Harry Van, an American showman on a barnstorming tour of Europe with a troupe of six blonde showgirls.

The characters assemble in a hotel in the northern part of Italy just prior to the outbreak of the second World War. Among the hotel guests are other members of the cast: Jim Mason as Weber, a German munitions manufacturer; Henry Gibson as Quillary, a French communist; Charles Huestis as Mr. Cherry, a young Englishman; Mary Sidner as his wife; and Diane Downing as Shirley, the leader of Harry's dancing troupe.

The strain of international diplomacy becomes apparent when the guests are stranded in the hotel because of the declaration of war between Germany and France.

Much of the comedy is based on the blase and sophisticated conversation between Harry and Irene, characterizing the detached attitude of many Americans toward the European situation in pre-war years.

Robert Sherwood, author of "Idiot's Delight," was a ghost writer for President Roosevelt during the second World War. He has also written "There Shall Be No Night" and "Abe Lincoln in Illinois."

Supporting members of the cast are: Jack Chedester, George Hancock, Don Lewis, Richard Marrs, Jack Moore, Ramon Nsar, Arnold Otto, Charles Peterson and Marvin Stromer.

Marilyn Lehr, Pat Loder, Sue Neuenwander, Janet Peterson, Mary Kay Tolliver and Gwen Wiesner will portray the six chorus girls.

Names In The News

BY CHARLES GOMON Staff News Writer

PHILIP JESSUP, American delegate to the general assembly session now meeting in Paris, challenged the Russians to put their disarmament plan into operation now, and not wait until June 1, 1952. In answer to red charges of insincerity, Jessup accused the Russians of attempting to by-pass the United Nations in their latest peace bid.

ARTHUR KROCK, New York Times correspondent, refuted claims that his story on the conferences between Gen. Dwight Eisenhower and officials of the democratic party was his own fabrication.

Krock said his informants were sticking to their story that several high democratic officials visited Eisenhower in France recently and offered him Truman's support in the 1952 election if he would run as a democrat. According to the story the general refused the offer with finality.

DR. LINCOLN LA PAZ, head of the New Mexico Institute of Meteorites, stated that the pair of fire-balls which recently sailed across the sky in the southwestern part of the country were "without parallel in recorded history." Assumed to be meteors, flaming objects have been sighted seven times in the last eleven days by hundreds of residents in Arizona and New Mexico.

The meteorites are reported to fly in straight lines for long distances, often making vapor trails, before crashing into the earth, usually in inaccessible spots. Paz is organizing search parties to take over investigation since civil air patrol planes have been unable to locate any remains of the missiles from the air.

As was the case in some of the old flying saucer cases, the objects have been sighted by at least one veteran airline pilot. Paz offered two possible explanations: first that the earth is passing through an unusually heavy concentration of meteoritic debris in space, or second, that the atomic tests in Nevada might be connected in some way with the phenomena.

ANDREI VISHINSKY, Russian foreign minister, reported to the general assembly that he was suffering from insomnia. Vishinsky claimed that he was kept awake all night laughing at the western proposal on world peace.

KONRAD ADENHAUER, chancellor of western Germany, has argued the allied high commissioners to a standstill in his bid for a peace contract which will grant Germany actual sovereignty. Western observers note that Germany is in an excellent bargaining position and that she intends to play the west off against the Russians in order to obtain concessions.

GENERAL DWIGHT EISENHOWER told President Truman last week that he was much disappointed in the speed of European rearmament. He stated that it would be unrealistic to hope for 90 western divisions by the end of 1952, and would be glad to have 30 that were in fighting trim.

Opinion in Washington is that "Ike" will get more backing from the U.S. in the future, but it is also understood that we can't push the Europeans' economies too far. Many of the European countries just don't have the money to finance a huge armament program immediately, and driving them to bankruptcy would aid the Kremlin's cause rather than our own.

A man in the back of the church was seen by the pastor to bow his head slightly whenever the name of Satan was mentioned. After the service was over, the minister hurried out to speak to the man and ask him why he did this.

"Well," said the fellow, "politess never hurt anyone—and you never know."

"Mama! Come here and make Tom stop teasing me."

"What's he doing dear?"

"He's sitting on the other end of theavenport."

"Why are all the shades drawn, Doctor?" asked the patient as he came out from under the ether.

"Well," said the doctor, "there's a fire across the street, and I didn't want you to wake up and think that the operation was a failure."

"Why do they always cheer so loud when a football player gets hurt?"

"So you can't hear what he's saying."
