Monday, November 12, 1951

THE DAILY NEBRASKAN

NU Snaps Losing Streak By Trouncing IS

XLa

18

By MARSHALL KUSHNER Assistant Sports Editor WE DID! Nebraska's Cornhusk-ers rose to the occasion and ral-lied to drop Iowa State and win their first game of the 1951 football season. The game was prob-ably the most wild and woolly of the long series between the two schools. Nebraska 34, Iowa State 27!

18,000 people filled the Ames stadium to capacity to witness what was expected to be the Cyclones' first peace time vic-tory over the Huskers since 1938. But little did they realize that they were about to witness one of the most spirited scarlet touchdown rashes of recent years.

The Cyclones kicked off and Bobby Reynolds brought the ball back to the Nebraska 30 from the 15 yard line. The Huskers then went into a spread similar to that employed by Texas Christian, with Reynolds firing three passes in a row. Netting only nine yards on the attempts, the Huskers punted. The Cyclones took over and the much feared passing arm of Dick Mann started operating. Mann hit end Bob Voetberg and Mal Schmidt and halfback Mel Meling with his bulls-eye pitching limb on a drive that was finally halted on the Husker 25 yard line.

After a loss of five yards on their first try, Reynolds faded back to pass for the Huskers and back to pass for the Huskers and was trapped by a host of State linemen. Reversing his field, the Rambler knifed his way-to the 45 yard line, with the aid of a timely Kay Curtiss block. It looked like the Huskers were rolling as Reynolds pitched one into the arms of Frank Simon on the Cyclone were beginning to "lay it on," leading 21-7. At the end of the first half, the Huskers depressedly headed for the dressing room as the score board confirmed the pre-game convictions for a Cyclone victory.

his own 15.

the starting point of a sustained Husker drive which ended with a Husker tally. Bordogna passed to Jim Cederdahl on the 40 yard line of Iowa State, and then corn-fed friends to the Husker 10 on a series of short passes. Mann fired to Meling in the end zone, and Clemendine added the extra point as the Cyclones were beginning to "lay it on," leading 21-7. victory hopes cold. The Huskers kicked off, and the Cyclones were running deep in their own territory, and Jerry Minnick was about to step into the hero's seat. Minnick busted in to mess up a handoff from Mann to Meling and then plucked the ball out of the air and scampered eight yards to fame, fortune and six Husker

JERRY MINNICK

It looked like the field, but the fi termination and grit for a victory, Regier on the Cyclone 36 and on the Huskers came off the ground the next play flipped to Ceder-and all but knocked the Cyclone dahl, who danced down to the Cyclone eight. Bordogna then pitched one to Ray Novak for a touchdown and pandemonium broke loose among the Husker rooters. Decker's extra point made Huskers rub their eyes at the score on the big scoreboard, 21-21. When the crowd was settled back in its seats ready to see what the Cyclones were going to do about stopping this out-burst of Husker scoring, Jim Eisley intercepted a Mann pass and returned to the Iowa State 30-yard line. Two penal-ties sent the Huskers back to the mid-field stripe, and then Bordogna let loose with a 39-yard aerial that hit the bread-basket of Frank Simon. Bor-dogna then unwound a touch-down pass to George Paynich, and the Husker rooters burst into hysterics. Decker's try failed and Nebraska's offensive unit strutted off the field with a 27-21 advantage. Huskers rub their eyes at the a 27-21 advantage.

This must be the end! Cyclone fans were becoming a little weary about the rumors they heard con-cerning a poor Husker offense and defense.

The Huskers were about to start mother sustained drive, this time from their own 25. Bordogna ran to the 30 and Reynolds pulled a "Missouri special" by running the ball from a punt formation which was good for a 29-yard gain.

Bordogna threw to Paynich on the Iowa State 23 and then hit Cederdahl on the Iowa State six-yard line. Bordogna then flipped one into the caressing arms of Ray Novak for the tally. Decker made the extra point, and Nebraska was in seventh heaven and led, 34-21.

RAY NOVAK

Decker made the extra point, and Nebraska was in seventh heaven and led, 34-21. The Staters tried to fight back early in the fourth quarter as Mann generaled his cohorts down the field, but the attack fizzled out when Bernelde intersented as

There is not enough praise that of completions by Dick Mann. Incan be given the Husker team. stead Mann should reecive credit

Bill Glassford was one happy man for being a fine passer. and so were the scarlet-clad giants It would be hard to single ou the Husker players who gave Ne-braska its 26th victory over the Cyclones against 10 defeats, but John Bordogna did a superlative job of passing and running and Bobby Reynolds displayed his All-American talen on offense and American talen on offense and defense. Jerry Minnick was a terror on the line again, and Bob Mullen turned in his best performance of the year Saturday. George Pay-nich' proved his pass catching ability, and Don Boll and Jim Sommers did quite well for them-selves on tackling Cyclones be-fore they could get too far. The Cyclones deserve a great deal of credit for not completely folding up under the pressure of the Husker third quarter four-the Husker third quarter four-touchdown outbreak. They played as well together after the crash as they did in their second quar-ter display.

PAGE 3

Dick Mann proved his passing adeptness and Mal Schmidt and Bob Voetberg their fine pass catching talents. The Mann-Schmidt passing combination is the league's tops and it is quite evident how they earned the bonor honor.

The Huskers may have the spark that will carry them on to a surprising football finish this fall. The Huskers must win one fail. The Huskers must win one of their next three games to avoid the label of possessing the worst record compiled by a Husker team. Saturday's play indicated that the worry is not too grave. Colorado will be in Lincoln next Saturday to test their skills against the reiuwensted Corn-against the rejuvenated Cornhuskers.

Thanksgiving Gards For Friends and Relatives Huge Selection Available Miso Napkins, Nut Cups, Tallics, cic

Goldenrod Stationery Store 215 North 14th Street

-Courtesy Lincoln Star.

