'Get Acquainted Week,' Every Week For Coed Counselors, 'Little Sisters'

By CONNIE GORDON Feasure Editor

"Getting to Know You" might well be the theme of Coed Counselors and their "little sisters."

The Counselors, or "big sisters," see to it that every freshman girl meets and gets to know freshman and upperclass girls. Their job is to make the University a real horre-away-from-home for girls before and during their first year bases.

Each Coed Counselor has from two to four little sisters to guide. Big and little sisters usually be-come acquainted through letters exchanged during the summer.

The big sister actually meets her little sisters during registration week via coke dates or. "gab" sessions. Informal personal orientation of school life and policy are usually the main topics of discussion at these dates."

Group get-togethers supplement the individual meetings later in the school year. These gatherings combine education with recrea-

Coed Counselor sponsored events are usually designed especially for the University coed. Some of the all-University coed events that the Coed Counselors sponsor include the annual Christ-mas tea. Outstanding "big sisters" are honored at this tea. No matter the type of gathering, the accent is always on get-ting acquainted and having fun. Through these get-togethers, the
