

Dent Lecture Via Telephone Wires

DENTISTS LEARN BY TELEPHONE . . . These University dental college staff members and students, along with a few local and out-of-town dentists, are getting a lesson in dentistry via the telephone. Dr. Donald Wagner, chairman of the dental and oral pathology department at the University, was in charge. He is shown operating the "opaque projector." When the narrator, whose voice came by telephone wire from the University of Illinois at Chicago, mentioned, for example, dental care, Dr. Wagner flashed a picture of a decayed tooth on the screen. Other dental groups all over the United States listened to the same narrator. (Journal Photo.)

Fraser Tells Biz Ad Banquet Guests That Marshall Plan Aiding European Recovery

Marshall plan aid has helped European countries immeasurably, but many of the people cannot understand the motives prompting our efforts, said attorney William C. Fraser at the College of Business Administration banquet Tuesday night.

Speaking before more than 325 persons attending the banquet to honor outstanding business students, the Omaha attorney said aid to France was most effective in rebuilding factories and highways.

However, Fraser, who recently returned from a tour of Great Britain, France, Switzerland, Belgium and Italy, said many people question American motives.

Fraser said that Gen. Alfred Greunther, an assistant to Gen. Dwight Eisenhower in co-ordinating North Atlantic Treaty organization movement, told him the biggest problem was educating people on the matter of the United States' intentions.

In Fraser's estimation, England was in worse shape economically, than any other country. The most urgent need, he said, was for foreign trade and U. S. dollars.

NEW MEMBERS . . . Recently named new members of Beta Gamma Sigma, national honorary business administration fraternity, were 13 senior students. They are (l. to r.) Robert Patterson, Rob Reichenbach, Dennis Mitchem, Glen Ostidick, Leon Novak, Roland Kasper and Lester Smith. The six members absent from the picture are: Lyle Altman, Jack Cohen, Douglas Dale, Richard Hoover, Jean Hunter and Paul Lienemann. (Lincoln Star Photo.)

Fraser termed the Festival of Great Britain "disappointing." "Frankly, any county fair around here is just as good," he said.

Marshall plan aid is getting down to the people in the best manner in Italy, according to Fraser.

Much of the money is going for housing projects and food supplies. He added that the people are told from what source the money is coming.

The recognition banquet was sponsored by three professional societies, Delta Sigma Pi, Alpha Psi, men's groups, and Phi Chi Theta, women's organization.

Lincoln Symphony Performs . . .

Composer Plays Organ At Premier Performance Of 'Lobe Den Herren'

Variations on the Chorale "Lobe den Herren," by Wilbur Chenoweth, were presented in a premier performance by the Lincoln Symphony orchestra Tuesday night.

Featured artists at the concert were duo-pianists Ethel Bartlett and Rae Robertson.

The second half of the program opened with the playing of the chorale by the orchestra with the composer at the organ. Chenoweth, a native Nebraskan, orchestrated the chorale last year in tribute to his son Michael who died in 1948.

The variations are based on a chorale from the 1665 printing of the Stralsund Gesangbuch. Chenoweth composed a set of variations on the chorale for piano several years ago.

Chenoweth was born in Tecumseh but lived most of his life in Lincoln where he received his musical training. He taught organ at the University School of Music for several years. He was also organist and choir director at Plymouth Congregational church.

For the past twelve years, Chenoweth has lived in California where he has continued his many musical activities.

In addition to performing Chenoweth's composition, the Lincoln Symphony orchestra presented three other numbers. They opened the concert with the "Phedre Overture," by Jules Massenet.

Miss Bartlett and Robertson joined the orchestra to play Francois Poulenc's "Concerto for two pianos and orchestra."

Following intermission, Miss Bartlett and Robertson played a group of piano numbers. These were "Harmouious Blacksmith," by Handel; "Tears" by Rachmaninoff and "Brazilian Dance" by Darius Milhaud.

For encores the duo-pianists chose a Mendelssohn "Scherzo" and the Bach chorale, "Jesu Joy of Man's Desiring."

The orchestra ended the concert with "Overture to Romeo and Juliet" by Tchaikovsky. Many University students are members of the Lincoln Symphony orchestra.

Laboratory Theatre To Give Four One-Act Plays Tonight

The Laboratory theatre will present its second performance of four one-act plays Thursday night at 8 p.m. in the Temple.

"Special Guest" by Donald Elset and "Another Way Out" by Laurence Langner will be produced in the arena theater, Room 205, Temple.

"Prologue to Key Largo" by Maxwell Anderson and "The Twelve Pound Look" by Sir James Barrie will be given in Room 201.

Directed by Harry Stiver.

"Special Guest" is the story of a woman plotting revenge for her son's death. The son, in the height of melodrama returns spiritually to foil her plans.

"Another Way Out," directed by Les Mathias, is a sophisticated comedy. The lives of a sculptress and a writer with ideas of modern love become complicated when they are visited by a baroness and a door-to-door salesman.

The Spanish Civil War in 1936 sets the scene for "Prologue to Key Largo." Directed by Bob Askey, the play involves five American college students fighting for the Loyalists.

A meeting of the first and second wives of a pompous nobleman complicates "The Twelve Pound Look," directed by Curt Siemers.

The four plays were also presented Wednesday night.

COA To Vote For Commandant

Honorary Commandant for 1951-52 will be elected Thursday by members of the Candidate Officers association in the Military and Naval Science building from 2 to 5 p.m.

NU Center To Give Test For Diabetes

Public health surveys indicate that for every known diabetic there is one who has the disease without knowing it.

To find these unknown cases and to permit treatment, the American medical association has designated Nov. 12 to 18 as National Diabetic week.

Symptoms of the disease include increase of thirst, itching and changing vision. Those most likely to have the disease are relatives of diabetics, individuals who feel "below par," obese persons and patients recovering from acute illnesses.

But diabetes may strike anyone according to the National Diabetic council. Everyone is urged to have a diabetic test taken.

Free tests will be given to University students, faculty and staff the remainder of the week and the first part of next week at the Student Health center.

Upper classmen are especially urged to have an analysis, since all freshmen had theirs at the beginning of the school year. Staff and faculty members may also bring their dependents.

Tests will be given at Student Health from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 8 a.m. to 12 p.m. on Saturday
