'Lightning Ken' Dies

Nebraska lost one of its leading citizens and the republican party lost one of its most vocal leaders in the death of the junior senator from Nebraska, Kenneth S. Wherry. He was certainly one of the most colorful and best-known men to represent Nebraska in congress for many years.

Tom Rische

Wherry was active in politics throughout his life. He served as mayor of Pawnee City, state senator, state republican chairman, candidate for governor and United States senator and finally two terms as senator. He gained his nickname, "Lightning Ken," because of his work as republican party promoter, and salesman of furniture, coffins, pianos, real estate and implements.

His career was varied, but never quiet. He never hesitated to express his opinions and often spoke faster than his train of thought. The senate often chuckled at what came to be known as "Wherryisms," results of his fast speech. He once referred to the vice president as "Mr. Paragraph" and to Senator Holland of Florida as "The Senator from Holland."

In Wherry, Nebraska has lost its most influential congressman. President Truman once wrote Wherry that although he almost always differed with Wherry politically, the president admired "an honest opponent."

Wherry's death poses two interesting questions: 1. Who will succeed him in the senate? 2. Who will be the new republican floor leader?

The answer to the first question may be given soon by Gov. Val Peterson, who has the power to appoint a successor. The governor has already indicated that he will not resign to accept the office now. In a way, Wherry's death could forestall the battle between Sen. Hugh Butler and Gov. Peterson in the next election. The governor, if he chose could file for Wherry's seat instead. The governor's appointee will serve only until the next election, when a successor will be chosen to fill out the rest of Wherry's six-year term.

He had been mentioned as a favorite son candidate for the presidency in 1952. His career in the senate seemed only starting after eight years. Few people realized that his career was about over. He was only 59.

The identity of the new republican floor leader of the senate is likewise in doubt. It might be Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, who is now minority whip. Or, it might be someone else. Time will tell.

Senator Wherry will be hard to replace.

Bring 'Em Home

The University, according to the Alumni Association, is losing scores of outstanding high school students to other universities because of out-of-state schools offer many liberal scholarships.

Many gifted students who might like to come to the University have received offers from other schools which they could not reject. The Alumni Association is worried about the situation. At the organization's board of directors' meeting, Homecoming weekend, the scholarship question was discussed and directors decided to do something about it.

The matter came up at the board meeting when one member mentioned he knew of a girl in another state who wanted to come here but had to go elsewhere because no scholarship was available here. This girl, the member said, had definite leadership qualities and the University lost a gifted student.

They found the only official scholarships offered to freshmen by the University are Regent's scholarship ($50 toward the $80 tuition for one semester, followed by a similar amount for the second semester if the student's work is satisfactory), six or eight to Lincoln students, three to Seward students and one to a Geneva high school graduate.

It is encouraging that some University alumni are interested in getting students to the school for reasons divorced from athletics.

'Self' As Motivation For Service Breeds Trouble For All Concerned

J. Alfred Johnson

In increasing number we find among us such slogans as, "By helping others you help yourself"; "the life you save may bet your own"; "the child you save may be your own," and so on.

him good. This makes for peace and the enrichment of life in every area.

Granted that there is an element of truth in these statements, have we stopped to analyze what is there presented as the motivating power for our service and consideration for others? It is certainly self. It is catering to man's innate selfish nature which brings so much woe and conflict in the relationships between individuals and nations. Serving others and showing them consideration simply for the sake of ourselves, or chiefly for ourselves, certainly takes away its true value.

In the Gospel of St. Matthew, chapter 20, verse 28, we read, "Even as the Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many." This was true, unselfish service—the Lord of all creation, the Ruler of all, yet spending His life in the service of all mankind, culminating it with His suffering and sacrifice on the cross that we might have redemption from sin, forgiveness with God. Love for mankind prompted His action—yes, love.

True service we render when out of love to our fellowman, without selfish designs, we do

With this wonderful example of our Savior ever before us, and knowing and accepting God's daily great mercy and love unto us, especially
