MARJORIE DANLY

MARJORIE MURPHY

A university faculty member and three students will be soloists in the University Choral Union's presentation of Handel's oratorio, "The Messiah," at 3 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 9, in the coliseum.

The four soloists are: Earl Jenkins, instructor in voice; Marjorie Murphy, graduate student; Marjorie Danly, junior, and Jack Anderson, junior.

Singing the tenor solos will be Jenkins, who has sung in performances of "The Messiah" at Scottbluff and Ogallala. Besides giving private voice lessons, he directs a chorus and madrigal group. He is also director of the First Christian church choir.

Miss Danly, alto, has been a soloist with the University Singers, the Madrigal Singers and the spring oratorio. She is a student of David Foltz, professor of voice at the university. She is also governor of the Residence Halls for Women, vice president of Delta Omicron, professional music sorority, and a member of the Coed Counselor board.

Miss Murphy, soprano, is a graduate of Texas Wesleyan college, where she was a "Messiah" soloist and also appeared with the college orchestra. She has studied privately at the Juilliard School of Music with Rene Maison and in a class with Maggie Teyte.

Anderson will be singing the baritone solos. He is regular soloist at the First Church of Christ, Scientist, and sang some of the solos in the University Choral Union's 1940 presentation of "The Messiah." One In A Million . . .

Traffic Death Total Climbs

Watch that light before you cross the street or, statistically speaking, you may be one in a million.

There may be safety in numbers but not when the numbers are indications of the ever-increasing number of traffic deaths that occur every year. The National Safety Council reported that by the end of 1951, over 40,000 people will be killed on American roads. One of this group will be recorded as the millionth traffic fatality in a half a century.

The first traffic fatality on record occurred in New York City on Sept. 13, 1899 when a bachelor real-estate man was knocked down and run over by an electric taxicab in Central park. A horse drawn ambulance rushed him to the hospital, but he died soon after his arrival.

The headline printed the next day in The New York Times might well have been left standing. It would be needed approximately 922,000 times in the next 50 years. To quote J. C. Furnas in a recent article in Collier's magazine, "What war had taken 176 years to accomplish, irresponsibly operated automobiles have done in little more than half a century!"

"Have you prepared for this class?"

"Yes, sir."

"Brushed my hair and put on my lipstick."

"Did you hear about the Scotchman who got on the trolley car and it said 'pay as you leave'?"

"No."

"He's still riding."

The weather report for today is as follows:

Cooler temperatures, with a low of 30 and a high of 50. Also windy, with few light showers.

Windy

Women, generally speaking, are generally speaking.

National Safety Council reports state that 17 per cent of all drivers involved in fatal 1950 accidents had been drinking. They added that in that same year, seven out of every 100 drivers in 1950 "disregarded traffic control device."

Most people are under the illusion that the majority of traffic accidents occur in rain, fog or snow. The Council's statistics show that only one in six fatal traffic accidents last year occurred under these conditions. It is usually under these poor weather conditions that drivers and pedestrians go out of their way to obey safety laws carelessly. Careless inhibitions usually go down along with the weather.

No one can tell just where the millionth traffic accident will occur. It may be at a traffic intersection; or, as impossible as it may seem, it could easily occur here at the University.

Being Miss or Mr. Million is an honor that no one wants. Through safe and sane driving and walking, we can all live a little longer.

33 File For Jr.-Sr. Class Council Posts

Twenty-five juniors and eight seniors have filed for positions on junior and senior class councils.

Names of the applicants will not be released until each candidate's average is checked by the office of student affairs. A weighted 4.5 average is required.

Applicants who are approved by the office will be interviewed by the Student Council campus improvements committee and junior and senior class officers. Only Student Council members, however, will select the council members.

The interviews will begin at 4 p.m. Monday, Dec. 10, in the Student Council room of the Union.

The newly-appointed class councils, six from the junior and six from the senior classes, will be announced following the interviews.

The class councils will be established on a trial basis until next spring when the Student Council will evaluate the plan. Councils will work in conjunction with class officers to promote the annual Junior-Senior prom and other class functions.

The councils were established in a plan introduced to Student Council by Aaron Schmidt, 1950 senior class president. The two councils form the basis of a program designed to propagate class spirit in the University.

are only temporarily rebuilding a nation past its prime.

Lawrence said, "We could not plan our futures without the strong Anglo-Saxon ties, however."

E. N. Anderson, moderator for the discussion and professor of history at the University, asked several questions. For example:

"Will another loan to Britain do any good?"

British exports and imports were discussed, as was British economy since 1920.

In closing Lawrence said, "Trust in kind providence to carry us through."

Ned Conger introduced the panel of three members at 7:30 in Love library auditorium Thursday evening. The next NUCWA meeting will be Dec. 13.

November Donors Wait Till February

Because the county chapter of the Red Cross has an oversupply of blood donors, students who signed up to give blood in November were not called, Jane White, board member of the Red Cross College unit, said Thursday.

Lincoln donors, she said, will be asked to give in December. Out-state students will not be called until February, she said, because final exams and the Christmas vacation period will conflict with the Lincoln schedule of the bloodmobile.

Donors are allowed to give blood only once every three months.

Commandant To Receive Traditional COA Insignia

Presentation of the Honorary Commandant will be the high spot in a succession of a ten-part preliminary ceremony at the Military Ball Friday.

At 8 p.m. the ROTC band will begin a short concert before the color guard appears. The audience will salute the colors with the singing of the National Anthem.

Senior members of the COA and their ladies will form a grand march later in the evening. When officers are in their places, the crack squad will perform followed by the sabre guard. Members of Pershing Rifles compose the crack squad while junior officers make up the sabre guard.

The Honorary Commandant will be presented at approximately 3:30 p.m. Identity of the HC is kept secret until the time of her presentation.

She will wear the traditional insignia of the Honorary Commandant. It represents all three service branches of the University. Although the details of her dress are a secret, according to Darwin McAfee, she will wear regalia similar to that of past Honorary Commandants.

The HC is elected by the COA from a list of seven finalists chosen by an all-University election. Competing for the title this year are Carole DeWitt, Jo Rasm, Nancy Button, Jackie Sorensen, Jackie Host, Dee Irwin and Jayne Wade.

George Hancock will serve as master of ceremonies and present the Honorary Commandant. COA president McAfee will give the new HC a bouquet of roses.

When the Honorary Commandant has been presented, the senior officers will continue their grand march. As the march finishes, McAfee will walk with the HC. All candidate officers will then join in the first waltz. This concludes the preliminary ceremonies, and the public is invited to dance to Lionel Hampton and his orchestra.
