

NU Professor Writes Article In Honor Of French Scholar

Dr. E. V. Telle, associate professor of romance languages, is one of two American professors invited to submit articles for a book honoring the distinguished French scholar, Augustin Renaudet.

Works by 21 professors and scholars from the western world will appear in the book to be published in January in Switzerland by the Bibliotheque d'Humanisme et Renaissance, an international organization devoted to study of the period of history between the Middle Ages and modern times.

He examines a hitherto neglected chapter in a book written in 1548 by the brilliant philosopher and writer, Rabelais. In it, Rabelais, a monk who discovered many evils in the monks of his time, suggested that France rid itself of the monks by sending all of them to the New World.

Harmon, Olson Chosen As Builders Sub-heads

Margaret Harmon and Dale Olson have been appointed as sub-heads of Ag Builders tours committee, according to Jeanne Vierk, chairman.

Miss Harmon will supervise and plan women's tours on Ag campus and Olson will be in charge of men's tours.

Miss Vierk stated that the purpose of creating these new positions is to promote better tours on the campus. The new sub-heads will work in conjunction with Miss Vierk and her assistant, Wayne Frost.

University Press Now Ten Years Old

The University Press is celebrating its tenth anniversary. Chartered by the University Board of Regents in 1941 the Press has published 32 books, and numerous research booklets and brochures. The Press, a non-incorporated agency of the University, is concerned chiefly with publishing scholarly works by members of faculty, alumni, citizens and former citizens of Nebraska. The first book published by the Press was "J. Sterling Morton," a biography of the pioneer

Nebraska statesman and founder of Arbor Day. The author is Dr. James C. Olson, superintendent of the Nebraska State Historical Society. The book was published in the fall of 1942. Since then the list of books published by the Press includes such titles as: "Writings from Willa Cather's Campus Years" by J. R. Shively; "New Paths of the Law," by Roscoe Pound; "Marching With the Grasses" by R. J. Pool, "The Culture of Industrial Man," by Paul Meadows; "Selected Writings of Louise Pound" by Louise Pound; "Trampled Territories," by Raymond A. McConnell, jr.; and "Young Man With A Screwdriver," by Oliver Evans; and "Art in the Schoolroom" by Manfred Keiler. The Press is operated by the Board of University Publications, which is composed of: Dr. R. V. Shumate, chairman, Dr. K. O. Broady, Dr. Hoover, F. A. Lundy, George S. Round, H. F. Rhoades, L. C. Wimberly and Emily Schossberger. Miss Schossberger has been editor of the Press since its inception.

AT MILLER'S

GIVE YOUR MAN THE EXPERIENCE of getting just the best!—from Miller's MEN'S SHOP, of course. That's where, and here's why: Because he knows the names behind our finer fitting shirts, handsomer sport coats, longer-wearing shoes, smarter accessories. Because he knows our reputation for quality means top value for the money—and it's value, not bargain prices that measure true economy. Because here's where he'd pick his own gifts... if he didn't know you'd come through—just like old St. Nick—with the special presents your good taste and judgment always bring forth from our large (and, we admit) sometimes overwhelming array. Because we like to take your orders and fill them to his pleasure.

For the Merriest Christmas all around, see us soon, won't you?

Take a Tip from a man of Experience
