The Big Secret

Tom Rische

University Athletic Director "Potsy" Clark Tuesday refused to allow the list of Nebraska's athletic scholarships to be published.

Clark was not alone in his refusal. A. C. Lomborg, athletic director at the University of Kansas likewise refused to allow the list of athletic scholarships at KU to be published.

Clark said that the list was available to any individual who desired to see it, but not for general distribution.

At intervals during the past semester, The Daily Nebraskan has asked Clark and other athletic officials for information about Nebraska's athletic scholarships.

Every Girl A Queen

One faculty member reported recently that she had received complaints from Lincolnites about the balloting at the Kosmet Klub show.

Raymond McConnell, editor of the Journal, recently commented that he had heard a remark about some girls on the University campus having a winning candidate for some queenship.

The list of queens at the University is long and imposing. There are six Beauty Queens, an Interfraternity Sweetheart, ISA Sweetheart, Hello Girl, Pep Queen, Activity Queen, "Miss Snowflake," Typical Nebraska Coed, Ivy Day Queen,

Where Our Money Goes

Nearly every passing day sees more names added to the list of those who are involved in the Washington tax scandals.

President Truman cut short his Florida vacation to return to Washington to see if he cannot do something about the situation.

The name of Supreme Court Justice Tom Clark entered the picture Tuesday as McGrath disclosed that Clark had received reports complaining of irregularities by T. Lamar Caudle before Caudle became assistant attorney general.

Among Common People

It should give Nebraskans a good feeling to be reminded their University is regarded very highly in respect to United Nations activities.

In the last several years, a definite effort has been made by the administration, with direct encouragement from Chancellor R. G. Gustavson, to orient students and Nebraskans in their role in the often called world community and the UN.

Studies have noted that one important way to promote international cooperation is instilling in masses knowledge of the organization directly concerned with carrying out the task—the body where diplomats actually thrash out the problems.

NU Students To Plan Club For Writers

Students seriously interested in creative writing should meet Monday at 4:30 p.m. in Room 124, Andrews Hall, to organize a new literary society.

The society will become active at the beginning of next semester. Primary purpose of the organization will be to stimulate interest in creative writing and literary criticism.

A long-range project is the publication of a campus literary magazine. Meetings of the club next semester will be devoted to: (1) reading and criticizing each other's writings; (2) informal discussion of modern writing trends; and (3) planning the proposed publication.

The magazine will be sponsored by the organization and edited by members. Contents will include stories, articles, and poetry written by any University students.

The students planning the literary society are freshmen and sophomores. Juniors and seniors, as well as other underclassmen, are asked to help organize the club.

Only students interested in serious writing or in literary analysis are needed, though these students need not be English majors.

Students who are interested but who cannot attend the meeting should phone Hamilton Howard at 2-7445, or contact Professor W. G. Gaffney in Room 121, Andrews Hall.

NU Caroling Party Planned For Dec. 19

An All-University caroling party will be sponsored by Red Cross College Unit Wednesday, Dec. 19. The caroling is designed to bring Christmas cheer to patients of some of Lincoln's institutions.

Two chartered buses will drive along 16th and R streets about 6:45 p.m., to pick up carolers who wait in front of their houses. Students may also take their own cars.

Students not living on 16th or R streets are to meet at the Union at 6:40 p.m.

Students with cars are to follow the two buses to Veterans' hospital, St. Thomas Orphanage, Tabitha Home and State Mental hospital. The carolers will return to campus about 9:30 p.m., and freshmen may get special permission to sing until then.

Bob LaShelle and Jo Berry, who are in charge of the caroling, are making plans for a coffee hour at the Union after the singing. Aaron Schmidt will lead the caroling.

sity Calendar Committee has refused such action because:

- 1. Twenty-nine signatures do not represent the feelings of approximately 6900 students. 2. Most classes have been planned as to subject matter to be covered for the remainder of the semester and this action would interfere. 3. Few students would remain for classes Saturday morning, December 22, 1951. 4. It was the action of the students themselves, in the very near past, to be in favor of the two-day "reading" period before final exams which the proposed plan would abolish. This committee wishes it to be known that next year's schedule allows a full two-weeks vacation and it is planned that this will be the course taken in future years.

Sincerely yours, REX G. MESSERSMITH, Student Representative University Calendar Committee.

YWCA Voting Eligibility Due Before Dec. 21

Freshman and upperclass YWCA members must fulfill the requirements for voting eligibility before Christmas vacation. A member must attend four meetings of the commission group to which she belongs, pay membership dues, and obtain a membership card.

Regular meetings of the commission groups will be held next week. Dues can be paid to the commission group leaders or at the YW office in Ellen Smith Hall. Membership cards are available upon presentation of dues receipts at the YW office.

A ten-cent nuisance cost will be charged to all persons paying dues or obtaining membership cards after next Wednesday. Ruth Shin YW director, explained that the request for early payment was "to enable the treasurer to close her books before vacation and to avoid congestion during the time when the voting list is being prepared."

Builders To Hold Christmas Party

A "year in the life of a Builder's worker" will be depicted by the membership committee at the annual Builders Christmas party Dec. 19.

A "welcome" by Shirley Coy and addresses by president Marilyn Coupe and faculty advisor Mary Mielenz are also on the agenda.

Entertainment, which will be announced at a later date, will be followed by Christmas carols and refreshments. The party will be at 7:15 p.m. in Union room 315 and will take the place of the regular freshman Builders mass meeting.
