

Local NU Alumni Chapter Elects Officers

James Stuart will direct activities of the Lincoln club of the University Alumni Association during 1952.

Stuart was elected president Wednesday evening when the group met at the Union to observe the University's 83rd Charter Day anniversary. Other newly-elected officers are Mrs. R. C. Russell, class of '21, vice president; and Mrs. William Hoppe Jr., class of '32 secretary. Win Elmen, class of '23, was re-elected treasurer.

Stuart, member of the class of '40, is president of the Stuart Investment company.

Nebraska Agricultural Director Rufus Howard received the Nebraska Builder Award during the Charter Day dinner. According to Dean W. V. Lambert of the College of Agriculture, who presented the award, it is "the highest non-academic honor of the University."

Dean Lambert said Howard was cited because of "his deep personal integrity, his devotion to the up-building of Nebraska agriculture and his unselfish contributions to public life."

Fifteen active and four retired University deans were also honored at the event. Retiring president of the Lincoln alumni group, Walter White, said the deans play a vital role in University life. "With them," White said, "we have a great University and through them we are receiving new alumni every year. We recognize the key positions they hold in Nebraska."

Chancellor R. G. Gustavson, introducing the deans, pointed out the fields in which they have received special recognition.

Active deans honored were the following:

Dr. C. W. Borgmann, dean of faculties; Dr. G. W. Rosenlof, dean of admissions and inter-institutional relationships; Dr. T. J. Thompson, dean of student affairs; Miss Marjorie Johnston, dean of women.

Dr. W. V. Lambert, dean of the College of Agriculture; Dr. C. H. Oldfather, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences; Dr. E. S. Fullbrook, dean of the College of Business Administration.

Dr. B. L. Hooper, dean of the College of Dentistry; Roy M. Green, dean of the College of Engineering and Architecture; Dr. R. W. Goss, dean of the Graduate college; Dr. E. O. Belsheim, dean of the College of Law.

Dr. J. E. Burt, dean of the College of Pharmacy; Dr. F. E. Henzik, dean of Teachers College; Dr. H. C. Laeth, dean of the College of Medicine; Dr. G. E. Condra, director of the Division of Conservation and Survey who holds the rank of dean.

Retired deans honored were the following:

O. J. Ferguson of the College of Engineering and Architecture, Dr. G. A. Grubb of the College of Dentistry, Dr. R. A. Lyman of the College of Pharmacy and Dr. J. E. Rossignol of the College of Business Administration.

Block, Bridle Stock Contest Applications Due March 1

University students who wish to enter the livestock fitting and showing contest in the 18th annual Block and Bridle show scheduled for April 5 may sign up until March 1 in Room 201, Animal Husbandry hall.

Rex Messersmith, Block and Bridle president, announced that all students are eligible to show livestock in the contest. He said that there will be three classes of livestock in the fitting and showing contest. The classes and their superintendents are: Swine, Ralph Hill; beef, Dave Austin; and sheep, Wayne Frost.

The deadline for signing up the animals is March 1, and drawing for them will be held that day. The Block and Bridle show is an annual livestock showmanship contest, featuring a variety of special horse acts. The show is scheduled for April 5, and will be held in the Coliseum at the State Fair grounds.

University coeds may also sign up this week for the coed western style horse riding contest, a special feature of the show. The riding contest is judged entirely upon the riding ability of the girls.

Coeds may ride their own horses in the contest, or use horses furnished by the Block and Bridle club. Drawing for the horses will be held the first week in March. The deadline for signing up is Friday, Feb. 29, in Room 201, Animal Husbandry hall.

Winners of the showmanship contest will each receive a plaque with his name engraved. Runners-up will receive ribbons.

Winner of the coed horse riding contest will receive a trophy.

Co-chairmen of the Block and Bridle show are Rex Messersmith and Frank Sibert. Master of ceremonies is Cal Kuska.

Committee chairmen for the Block and Bridle show are Dean Linscott, barbecue; Dale Reynolds, publicity; Clayton Yeuter, special events; Ward Hansen, coliseum; Tom Leisy, awards; Bill Johnson, cards and clothing; Don Johnson, music; and coed western style horse riding, Larry Engler.

Printing and distribution of programs has been let to the Cornhusker Countryman, Ag college magazine.

BO. SOCIAL

Barbs' Party Assures 'Fried Chicken Plus'

Fried chicken, plenty for supper and enough left for a late evening snack, will be found in many of the gaily wrapped boxes at the Barbs' box social Friday at 6:15 p.m. in the Union ballroom.

An event of National Brotherhood week, the George Washington box social for foreign students is designed to better acquaint them with American students and traditions.

Girls, with their lunch boxes packed, will be admitted free. Admission for men will be 55 cents. Boxes will be shared by one foreign student and one American student.

Square dancing led by Jack Moore, and a quiz program, emphasizing American customs and famous American sayings as questions, are on the program agenda. Prizes will be awarded on the quiz program along with the usual door prizes.

Homemade candy, furnished by Barb members, will be sold.

American songs will be sung and the evening will end with ballroom dancing.

Ag Skating Party

University students who wish to attend an Ag skating party, weather permitting, are to meet at the Ag Student center at 8 p.m. Sunday. The skating party is jointly sponsored by Ag YM and YWCA.

The skating party will be held at Oak Lake, according to Dick Monson, Ag YM president, and Marilyn Cook, Ag YW president.

Block, Bridle Deadline Feb. 23

Deadline for filing membership in Block and Bridle club, animal husbandry departmental, is noon Saturday. Applications are available in Room 201, Animal Husbandry hall.

Applicants must have an interest in animal husbandry, sophomore standing and a weighted 4.5 average.

Block and Bridle club annually sponsors the Block and Bridle show, a collegiate judging contest and a chili feed during Farm and Home week.

Rex Messersmith is president of the club. Other officers are: Ward Hansen, vice president; Rex Coffman, secretary; and Leland George, treasurer.

Charlie Adams is faculty adviser.

Aggies Sign For 'Pot Luck'

Ag students who wish to attend "Pot Luck With the Profs" Sunday night in the Ag Union are urged to sign up by Friday night, according to Mary Lou Huse, Ag Union activities director.

"Pot Luck With the Profs" is a free Sunday night supper furnished and prepared by Ag faculty members for Ag students. Chairman of this week's supper is Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McCall.

Other faculty members of the committee are Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Bare, Mr. and Mrs. Evar Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Smith, Ruth Staples and Philip Cole.

The Ag Union is helping with arrangements for the supper. Bill Waldo and Lois Keckhafer are in charge of registering and name tags.

Herbert Agar To Lecture At Convocation Tuesday

Pulitzer Prize winner, former ambassadorial assistant and political and historical commentator Herbert Agar will speak on the U. S. foreign policy in Europe at the third all-University convocation in the Coliseum, Tuesday at 10 p.m.

Clases will be dismissed for the speech. "What Are We Defending?" according to Lynn Kunkel, chairman of the Union convocation committee.

Agar will attend a noon luncheon in his honor in Parlor X in the Union. Reservations for the luncheon, open to all students, may be obtained at the Activities office in the Union for $1.

He will also appear at a discussion hour at 3 p.m. Tuesday to answer questions of students concerning the speech. The discussion will be held in the Faculty Lounge of the Union.

Agar is best known for his Pulitzer Prize winning book, "The People's Choice." He is also the author of many other works dealing with the problems of a democratic state in modern times.

He has served as assistant to ambassadors John G. Winant and W. Averil Harriman. In 1943 he was appointed chief of the British Division of the Office of War Information and in 1948 he served as Counselor for Public Affairs and chief of the U. S. Information Service in London.

The convocation is sponsored by the Union Convocations Committee. The committee is sponsored by Bob LaShelle and includes Lynn Kunkel, chairman; Ruth Sorenson, Jo LaShelle, Jean Davis and Don Mead.

Agar will be introduced by Prof. C. J. Schneider, University convocation chairman.

Extension Division Offers Three Non-Credit Courses In Writing Fields, Great Music, Spectators' Football

Students interested in developing a greater knowledge of football, writing or music may be interested in the three non-credit courses now available, according to Evelyn Spilchak of the University extension division.

The informal evening courses intended to give class members a complete understanding and appreciation of these subjects are "Football for the Spectator," "Writer's Workshop" and "Evenings with Great Music."

The football course instructed by Peter Janetos, assistant football coach, will include lectures, discussions and films during six sessions beginning Tuesday, March 4, at 7 p.m. in Room 119, Burnett hall. The fee will be $6.

The "Writers Workshop" will include a series of lectures exploring several fields of writing. Writing for magazines, plotting stories for children, delving into dramatics, newspaper writing, poetry for fun and profit, short stories and radio script writing are the various topics to be covered in the course. Instructors will be Mrs. P. C. Swift, coordinator in charge of extension home reading and book reviews; Mrs. Grace Griffin, instructor of the course, has worked with the school of music and has written music correspondence courses for the extension division. The course consists of lectures and listening and will cover music history starting with the dawn of music to the 18th century. Classes will meet in Room 17, school of music, beginning Wednesday at 7 p.m. and will meet for eight sessions. The fee for the course is $8.

Students may register for the classes from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the University extension division, Room 101, Architectural hall. Because the courses are non-credit, students must pay a fee.

The course in music appreciation is intended for those who want to develop greater listening appreciation and background of events. It is also to help in building a record library. Mrs. Grace Griffin, instructor of the course, has worked with the school of music and has written music correspondence courses for the extension division. The course consists of lectures and listening and will cover music history starting with the dawn of music to the 18th century. Classes will meet in Room 17, school of music, beginning Wednesday at 7 p.m. and will meet for eight sessions. The fee for the course is $8.

Students may register for the classes from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the University extension division, Room 101, Architectural hall. Because the courses are non-credit, students must pay a fee.

General's Cool Courage Saved Him From Ranger

George Washington's life lay for an interval in the hands of Patrick Ferguson, commander of the British rifle Rangers at the Battle of Brandywine.

"It is fortunate," writes John Richard Young in Bluebook magazine, "that Ferguson lowered his rifle and ordered his men to do the same, as they watched the wide retreating back of Washington."

The British rangers, according to Young, were concealed in a fringe of woods between the American and British lines. During a lull in the battle, Washington rode directly in front of Ferguson's position and remained at point-blank range while coolly surveying the British lines.

As Washington turned to ride back to his own lines, Young writes, Ferguson stepped out of his hiding place and confronted Washington with a demand that he surrender. Washington stared coldly at Ferguson, and his now visible troop, then turned and rode slowly away.

"Halt!" shouted Ferguson, leveling his rifle at Washington's departing back. But, instead of stopping, continues Young, he merely ignored the command and rode toward his own lines. Ferguson watched the man for a moment, then lowered his rifle and ordered his troop not to fire.

Why didn't the ranger fire? Young points to a letter that Ferguson later wrote to his uncle in partial explanation: "It was not pleasant to fire at the back of an unoffending individual, who was acquitting himself very coolly of his duty—so I let him alone."

Young concludes that if Washington had shown the slightest fear, instead of the icy courage that he did, the story might have ended differently—the story of a loan Companies Scholarship, George Washington and of the $300, is awarded to a male student who will be a senior this fall and

First Of Career Conferences Scheduled For Tuesday

For the first time, a series of career conferences entitled "Look at Your Career" will be presented at the University.

The series includes Law, Feb. 26, at Love library auditorium; Nursing, March 4, Ellen Smith Hall; Dentistry, March 11, 301 Andrews, and Medicine, March 18, Love library auditorium. All will take place at 7 p.m.

The conferences will inform the students on the training and careers available through the colleges and schools of the University.

Speaking at the conferences will be Edmund O. Belsheim, dean of the College of Law; Irma N. Kyle, director of the School of Nursing from Omaha; Bert L. Hooper, dean of the College of Dentistry, and Earl S. Pederson, chairman of admissions and scholastic standing. Following the speeches, there will be informal discussions and the students may ask questions.

In the first series, concerning the College of Law, Dr. Arthur A. Hitchcock, director of Junior Division and Counseling Service, will speak on law as a career, including the definition of law, aptitudes required for law, occupational trends in law, and fields related to law. Dr. Hitchcock acquired parts of this information from the Junior Division occupational library, which gives information on fields and careers, such as opportunities, salaries and advancements.

Dean Belsheim will talk on the University Law College, giving the admission requirements, the standards within the law college and the local placement in the past few years. Dean Belsheim will go further into detail on such points as the number that failed in law, the number that graduated, the number placed in the field and the law practice possibilities in Nebraska.

A discussion on the relation of law to Selective Service draft status will be given by Mr. J. P. Colbert, director of Veterans' Affairs and student Selective Service. A resume by Lewis Pierce, law student, will close the program.

Blood Donors Needed To Save Lives

They're out for blood and proud to admit it!

The Red Cross is asking for blood volunteers again for an obvious and important reason.

One pint of blood has meant the difference between life and death in many cases for men injured in Korea. And donations will have to continue as long as the war demands more of the life-giving fluid the Red Cross announced.

But that isn't the only reason for blood donation. The Red Cross is stock-piling blood in case of sudden attack or unforeseen emergency. The blood you give now will either go to Korea to help our boys there or stay here in stock pile in case of such emergencies.

Any University student may donate blood if he meets the following Red Cross requirements:

1. The student must be in good health.
2. He must be between the ages of 21 and 60. If he is younger, he must have his parents' consent.
3. The student must weigh 110 pounds or more.
4. If he has given blood before, he must wait a period of three months before donating again.

The Red Cross bloodmobile will be in Lincoln Tuesday, Feb. 28, at the Scottish Rite Temple, 15th and L streets.

All students interested in giving blood should fill out the application blank available at the Red Cross office, Room 308 in the Union.

Those who have given blood through the Red Cross should contact either Shirley Murphy or

G. W. Rosenlof To Study CU Foundation

Dr. George W. Rosenlof, dean of admissions and institutional relations, will be on the University of Colorado campus next Thursday and Friday to study activities of the Westminster Foundation at CU.

Dr. Rosenlof is a representative of the Board of Christian Education of the Presbyterian Church, U.S.A.

The purpose of the Westminster Foundation is to aid and advise college students and to promote social and religious activities.

Dr. Rosenlof has also been appointed general chairman of the planning committee of the Hansen Foundation, an organization seeking to promote and develop programs of moral and spiritual growth on college campuses.

The planning committee will plan the Hansen conference to be held at the University of Colorado, Aug. 11-16.

The conference will be attended by college instructors and administrative officers and will discuss the dilemma of world affairs and problems of higher education.

Marilyn Link To Attend St. Louis NAEC Meeting

Marilyn Link, instructor in elementary education and coordinator of air age education program, left Thursday for a National Aviation Education Consul conference.

The conference will take place in St. Louis, Mo., Friday and Saturday.

Whether to secure his own possible need or that of a fellow combat man, this sergeant takes no chance on a blood shortage for American fighting men. The painless simplicity of blood donation through the Red Cross Blood Program is proved by his big smile.
