Skits, Curtain Acts, Typical Nebraska Coed, Dame Fashion Featured

Everything from can-can to opera will be performed by University coeds Tuesday evening as they present Coed Follies.

The annual show, sponsored by Associated Women Students board and open only to girls, will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Nebraska theater. Admission is 70 cents.

A winning skit will be chosen from five being presented by organized women's houses. Four curtain acts will compete in another division. A cup will be awarded to each winner, according to Jean Loudon, Coed Follies chairman.

A Typical Nebraska Coed will be typified by Gamma Phi Beta singers and dancers in a curtain act directed by Jo Berry and Marilyn Loloff. Roustabouts, cotton candy dancers and leopards strive to give an "idealized picture" of a circus, the skitmasters said.

"Pi Beta Phi, under the direction of Betty Lester, will give a skit entitled "Should We?" or "Give to the Purple Badge Blood Bank." Reactions of all type of persons donating blood is illustrated as a college couple debate about whether or not to give. A huge bottle fills as each person enters the bank.

A curtain act by Sigma Delta Tau, "Up and Atom," will feature choral speaking and modern dance. The white-faced, black-gowned coeds warn the world about the dangers of the atom. Skitmaster is Roseanna Locke.

"Hannah in Havana," a skit by Delta Gamma, will relate the story of a blue singer in Havana who "wants a man." She turns down a scholar and three sailors and goes off with the hot tamale man. Skitmasters are Lynn Holland and Sara Devoe.

Alpha Chi Omega, under the direction of Lorraine Corryell and Marilyn Pedersen, will present a curtain act "Fish Tales." The undercurrent scene depicts the capture of two lobsters who hold jewels captive and make them perform.

"Invitation to Immigration," Kappa Kappa Gamma skit, will tell the story of four immigrant girls who come to the United States to live. One goes to New York, another to New Orleans, a third to Chicago and the last to Hollywood. Dancers depict the moods of the four cities. Skitmasters are Phoebe Dempster and Jan Schmidtmann.

Finalists for TNC are as follows: Mary Jean Niehaus, Lura Ann Harden, Tina Woster, Jane Calhoun, Susan Reinhardt, Joan Holden, Connie Clark, Joan Hanson, Nancy Whitmore, Mary Ann Kellogg.

Neala O'Dell, Sue Gordon, Elizabeth Gass, Harry Werten, Terry Barnes, Sylvia Kasne, Marilyn Cook, Georgia Hulac, Marilyn Irwin and Artie Westcott.

Janis McCaw; Alpha Chi Omega trio, Kathy Radaker, Marilyn McKie and Beverly Kunc, accompanied by Peggy Jensen, singing "Blue Moon" and "Mood Indigo."

Dr. Rosenlof stated that his office has received many letters from Nebraska high schools announcing "Career Days" programs for their graduating classes and inviting University officials and faculty members to offer advice to seniors planning to attend college. He said that some officials had already visited high schools and many more are expected to in the near future.

NATO Plans Defense

LISBON, Port.—Important decisions have been made this weekend in Lisbon, Port., where representatives of the western powers are concluding the ninth session of the North Atlantic Council. Many of the delegates expressed the belief that it has been the most successful meeting yet held.

It was revealed for the first time what forces General Eisenhower can count upon in his efforts for the defense of Western Europe. He has been promised a 50 division army and 4,000 aircraft by the end of 1952. By 1954 the number of divisions may reach 100, if the military goals can be achieved.

It has not been determined how much of the 450 million dollar budget the United States is going to pay for the European defense network. Most observers believe that the figure will be at least 40 per cent. One big item that remains is the role that Germany is to play in the defense of Europe. Secretary of State Acheson and foreign ministers Schuman of France and Eden of Great Britain are expected to settle this problem after the Council meeting adjourns.

Allies Offer Truce Proposal

KOREA—UN truce negotiators have offered the reds a proposal to break the deadlock on "behind the lines investigations." The Allied proposal provides for two neutral nations to represent each side in the dispute over inspection. The UN would be represented by Sweden and Switzerland, while the communists would have Czechoslovakia and Poland as their observers.

Previously, the communists had submitted the name of the Soviet Union as one of their "neutrals." The UN forces promptly rejected that bid, and the reds have criticized the UN for objecting to their offer.

US Obligated To 33 Nations

WASHINGTON—It has been announced that the United States is formally committed to aid 33 nations in Europe and the western hemisphere if they should be attacked. Upon congressional approval of the pending defense treaties with Japan, Australia, New Zealand and the Philippines, that figure will be increased to 37. Although none of the treaties calls for immediate use of armed force, it is generally expected that the United States would act promptly against aggression. The Rio pact of 1947, the Atlantic pact of 1949 and the proposed Pacific pact have extended United States obligations over an area that covers a major portion of the "free world."

French Retreat In Indo-China

This town was an important point on the Viet-Minh supply route, but French commander Gen. Raoul Salan announced that it has lost its importance because the communists had bypassed it to the west.

Arnall Favors Price Control

WASHINGTON—Ellis Arnall, new economic stabilizer, stated that he was in favor of lifting price ceilings as fast as possible. He also said that he

Alpha Kappa Psi Hears J. Thompson Discuss UN

Jack Thompson, secretary of the Nations works through the General Trust company, Lincoln, spoke Wednesday evening at a smoker held by Zeta chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi, professional business fraternity, at the United Nations at the San Francisco conference, the first meeting of the General Assembly in London and the second session in New York City.

Thompson spoke on the business aspect of the United Nations, enlarging upon the formation and cost of supporting the organization. He explained that the United Nations works through the General Assembly, Security Council and the Secretariat and what they have done to counteract disturbances in Syria, Lebanon, Iran, Greece, Indonesia, Palestine, Germany, Korea and other such nations.

Thompson said the United Nations is not a world government but an organization of nations to act upon governments, and that it is not a substitute for preparedness and perhaps not the answer to unpreparedness. It is a part, however, he said, of a historic struggle for world peace.

Thompson is a graduate of the University and also of the Columbia university School of Journalism and is a member of the New York Bar. After leaving the University, Thompson worked for the Des Moines Register and for the Associated Press in Washington, D. C., London, Geneva and Berlin.

He was secretary of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, served in the Bureau of the Budget in Washington and later in the State Department, where he worked in the United Nations.

LAW COLLEGE

Students Paired For Moot Court

Aspiring student-lawyers were paired off Monday for the annual first round Allen Moot Court competition at the College of Law.

The selected teams fall into two groups. One is the sophomores who won their cases last year, and the other, freshmen who hope to win their cases this year.

Every freshman has two sessions of Moot Court. The first round is primarily to familiarize the students with tribunal court procedure and no one is eliminated. The second round decides which teams will compete further in Allen Moot Court.

Moot Court is set up on a three year system. Through the process of elimination, the final year has only two teams competing. They argue their case before three justices of the state supreme court. The winners receive gold medals.

Student Board of Advisers, a law school honorary selected because of their scholastic average, prepares the cases for the competition. The chairman of the board is Fred Russell. The faculty adviser is James A. Lake. The Moot Court teams will begin their competition on Thursday, March 20, and continue until Friday, March 28. The teams are grouped in the following order:
