

Playoffs To Begin Tonight

Four Fraternity 'B', Six Independent Games Set

By BILL MUNDELL
Intramural Sports Columnist
 The payoff begins today. Intramural's basketball playoff begins the first-round of play in the single elimination tournament. Ten games are on tap tonight, beginning at 6:30 p.m., with six independent and four fraternity "B" struggles scheduled. Fraternity "A" action will get under way on Thursday.

Three of Wednesday's and four of Thursday's contests will be played on the Varsity court in the Coliseum and two Thursday battles will focus at the Ag College while all the remainder of the games through the crowning of an All-University champion will be located in the Physical Education building.

The M-Street Boys, currently the top independent outfit, and fourth All-University speaking, will be engaged in the first playoff conflict. The M-Streeters will meet the third-place team from League XII, as yet undecided. The berth will be occupied by either the Bearcats, the Pluggers or the Lillies.

At 7:30 p.m. the Ag Men's Club and Navy ROTC will meet the second and fourth teams from league XII who will also be either the Bearcats, Pluggers or Lillies.

Games scheduled for 8:30 p.m. will find the Phi Rollers against the third-place outfit from league VIII, either the Red Guidons or the Doan Nuts, while the Freshy House tangles with the second-place team from league VIII, which will be either of the same two Ag outfits.

The two games on tap for 9:30 p.m. will see the Dorm A. Comets against Delta Sigma Pi and Pioneer House "B" against Phi Gamma Delta "B." All the above games will be played on courts one and two in the PE building.

The coliseum will house three "Bee" games. At 7 p.m. Beta Sigma Psi "B" will oppose Sigma Chi "B." At 8 p.m. Farm House "B" will face Phi Delta Theta "B" and at 9 p.m. the AGR Bees will meet Sigma Nu "B."

Chief contenders to M-Street's aspirations, the Rockets and Newman Club, will see first action on Thursday.

All teams in the playoffs are urged to keep posted of the tourney cards on the PE bulletin board so as not to confuse any game times or dates.

League standings including Monday games are:

Goll On Wrestle Lineup; Will Face Cyclones

Lawrence Goll, freshman football player, has been added to the Cornhusker wrestling squad which will invade Iowa State Friday for the final dual meet of the season.

Goll's presence will enable Dave Mackie to wrestle at his favorite weight, 167. Mackie has been moving into the heavier class in previous duals.

Others who will make the trip to Iowa State are Don Bean, 123; Darrell Adamson, 130; Jerry Wolpa, 137; Perry Lettel, 147; Ed Lane, 157; Mackie, 167; Goll, 177 and Ed Husman, heavyweight.

39 Frosh Receive Football Numerals

Thirty-nine football numerals were awarded to University of Nebraska athletes on the basis of attending practice, interest shown and time played in B team games in 1951.

The numeral winners:

Don Becker, Dan Brown, Bill Cannon, Charles Chanley, Jim Evans, Walter Finkle, Ed Gagliardi, Don Glantz, Lawrence Goll, Ben Hand, Leslie Hanson.

Trackmen Prepare For Big Seven Meet

The Nebraska Cornhuskers, defending Big Seven indoor champions, are convinced that Bill Easton's Kansas Jayhawkers are standing with both feet in the throne room as this annual classic is renewed this week end at Kansas City's Municipal Auditorium.

The Cornhuskers have met all league teams in dual meets with one exception, Colorado.

The Jayhawkers flashed considerably more balance than the Sooners, in the opinion of Coach Ed Weir and his scarlet-clad athletes.

The thin prospect of a successful defense by Nebraska's champions will ride on the recovery of three lads who have been nursing pulled muscles.

Bob Fairchild, Omaha freshman sprinter, who has turned the 60-yard dash in :06.3, pulled up lame in the Kansas meet and did not compete against Oklahoma.

Hoppy McCue, a freshman from Arapahoe, who furnishes a third of Nebraska's three-way threat in the broad jump, also has been on the shelf with a pulled muscle.

Dan Tolman, the hard luck lad of the Husker team who missed the indoor in 1951 because of flu, may be ready for this week's test. Dan has been sidelined since the first meet with a pulled muscle. He is a Junior from McCook.

Dan is only 5-9 and weighs 135, but he can run with the best of the high hurdlers when he is in shape.

Glenn Beerline and Irving Thode are in the 23-foot bracket in the broad jump.

Beerline jumped 23-5/8 to defeat Neville Price, Oklahoma's

The Benchwarmer

AS a former sports editor of The Daily Nebraskan, I can report that this particular species is a fairly normal collegian.

The only real hazards of the Student Union dungeons revolves around the sport scribes' hearing. It all depends on the vocal strength of the managing editors.

If the managing ed has worked up from sports editor, as mine did, he'll understand your problems and see that you get adequate space. If the chieftain is not sports-minded, get out those ear plugs. He'll be yelling for all of your space.

From the appearance of the 1952 Rag, I would say that Managing Editors Don Pieper and Sue Gorton realize the value of a full sports page. And their belief is justified in the work of Marsh Kushner, Glenn Nelson, Tom Becker, Ron Gibson and crew—they do a real job of covering Husker athletics.

These scribes have the added benefit of working with Sports Publicity Director John Bentley of the University, one of the best have been much more profitable had we been able to work under Uncle John—now there's a big league sports writer!

There is one matter that might be plugged more strenuously in the Rag. School spirit at the University this term, we believe, is at an all-time low.

Why even little Teachers' high raises more cheering at its Coliseum basketball games than does the Husker section! With Don Lentz's fine Husker band as accompaniment, we'd like to see you Corn Cobs and Tassels raise a bit more vocal thunder. You might start at the Kansas State game Saturday night—the Huskers will certainly be needing your help.

Perhaps some of the lack of enthusiasm stems from the fact that fewer students seem to attend Husker basketball games these days. We'll always insist that Nebraska basketball and indoor track provide the best indoor entertainment to be found in Lincoln.

There is one precedent that I think should be set in regards to Rag sports editors. The paper should send the chap on all football trips with the Huskers and foot the ante to the Big Seven indoor and outdoor track meets.

This, we tell you from uncomfortable experience. During the 1942 season, we managed to see every game, home and away.

On trips, we counted on such huskies as Vic Schleich (230 pounds) and Joe Byler (260) to smuggle us aboard the train—right along with the team.

We recall one trip when we were safely in hiding under a lower berth. A 220-pound fullback named Wally Hopp happened to recline on the bunk. For a time, we figured we'd walk out looking like one of those movie cartoon cats, freshly pancaked by a steamroller.

You can travel quite reasonably in this fashion. I recall one round-tripper to Iowa State which cost a sum total of 80 cents. That was for a quartette of hot dogs.

Chi-O-Pa To Meet M Street In 'Non' Title Cage Game

By BOB DECKER
Sports Staff Writer

Basketball enthusiasts beware: The two outstanding non-fraternity and non-independent houses, the Chi-O-Pa and the M Street Mansion, are scheduled to collide Sunday afternoon at 3 p.m. in the Physical Education gym for the "Non" title.

This game is slated to be a grudge battle with no holds barred according to team managers Jim 'Elmer' Jones, Chi-O-Pa standing guard, and Ralston, M Streets' 4" bundle of fire.

M Street has compiled a formidable record this year by winning ten games and losing none for fourth place in the All-University ratings.

Chi-O-Pa also boasts a clean slate so far this year, but due to studies have played a comparatively light schedule. After all one must think of the averages.

Enthusiasm is running high in both camps as the day of battle draws near. Rumors have it that secret attacks are being readied and more midnight-oil is being burned than ever.

The Chi-O-Pas are apparently keeping their plan of attack secret, as each boy is working out individually. M Street on the other hand is known for its roaring fast break paced by such speed merchants as Chuck Chamley and Ken Reiners. M Street recently set a new intramural record by scoring 107 points in one game.

Talking to Ray Novak and Dennis Emanuel the other day I learned that the Chi-O-Pas are planning on utilizing a varied attack. Ray said, "We plan on using a fast break until we get tired and then switch into a slow game the last five minutes of the first quarter."

Emanuel had only this comment, "It's in the bag." This appears to be the attitude of the whole house; but switching over to the M Street Mansion I obtained another picture.

Dan Brown and Bill Thayer expressed the feeling that it would
