

Coeds Take Advantage Of '52 Leap Year's Day

By DICK RALSTON
Staff Writer
Men Beware!
Today is Leap Year's Day and some coeds don't believe in passing up a chance that comes only once in four years.
Pat Nellis is one girl who believes in taking advantage of the turn-about tradition. Pat, a freshman in Teachers College and a member of Alpha Chi Omega, asserted herself early and got pinned before leap year was a week old.
Miss Nellis expressed regret that leap year comes only once in four years and said that "four years is a long time to wait for the next move." She will celebrate Leap Year's day with her pinmate but she declined to say who would have the upper hand.
To Peggy Nelson, Feb. 29 presents a different problem. Peggy is a home economics major and a member of Delta Delta Delta and celebrates her birthday Feb. 29. She solves her problem in off years by having her birthday on the closest weekend. She said it is an advantage in some ways, because she always gets something special on her real birthday.

Miss Nelson said her boyfriend "thinks it's funny" that her birthday comes every four years. "He thinks that I'm an odd character," she said, "I think he likes the idea of not having to buy presents every year, though."
George Bauer, sophomore in Teachers College, said that he is not going to run from the coeds. He said that he is thinking of "standing on the corner of 14th and R streets and waiting for some girl to pick me up."
Shirley Stehlik stated she doesn't like to chase men. "It makes them too well-headed." A member of Alpha Xi Delta and a sophomore in Teachers College, Miss Stehlik said, "The men had better get on the stick. The air base will soon be reactivated and we women won't have to chase them any more."
"What good is leap year when the man doesn't want to leap," says Mary Pattison, a freshman in Teachers College. She declared "leap year doesn't work; they're always on guard."
Marjorie DeLamatre said, "There are too many men who think they are God's gift to women and they aren't." Miss DeLamatre, sophomore in Teachers College, resolved, "I'm not going to do any chasing but I'm not going to run either."

"I don't believe in leap year," said Betty Brinkman, a member of Pi Beta Phi and a sophomore in Teachers College. "It sure hasn't worked for me."
In keeping with the leap year theme, the Union will present leap year "Man Hunt" dance in the Ballroom. Jimmy Philip's combo will provide the music with vocals by Milli Grierson and Mammy Dworkin. The dance will run from 9 p.m. until midnight.

KAM Makes National Meet Preparations

Discussion of plans for the eighth annual national convention and rushing of new members were on the agenda at a meeting of Kappa Alpha Mu Thursday night. The honorary photo-journalism fraternity will hold its convention at the University April 10-12.
Representatives from 13 colleges having KAM chapters and photo-journalism students from other colleges will attend.
The annual photo salon, open to any college student will be judged and placed on display during the convention. The national print committee reports it is expecting at least 600 entries.
Two films "Photography Fights," a Navy film pertaining to combat photography, and "Picture Paper," a movie about England's pictorial magazine were also shown at the KAM meeting.
At recent meetings, Herb Lehman and Wilda Weaver were initiated, and Dick Axtell was elected vice president.

University YMCA To Show Italian Film, 'Open City,' March 6, 7, 8

The Italian film, "Open City," will be shown March 6, 7 and 8 at Love Library auditorium at 8 p.m. The movie will also be presented at a 2:30 p.m. matinee Saturday.
The film, sponsored by the YMCA, is the original Italian dialogue with English subtitles. It stars Anna Magnani and Aldo Fabrizi.
"Open City," directed by Roberto Rossellini, tells the personal story of Italian people during Nazi occupation. The main characters are the leader of the resistance and a Catholic priest. The spirit of humanity, which arises in times of crises is shown as the conflict reveals those who side with freedom and those who fail.
Tickets may be purchased at the door for 65c.

Experimental Theater To Give Four One-Act Plays Feb. 28, 29

Four one-act plays will be presented for the second time Friday night by the University experimental theater.
The plays, also staged Thursday night, will begin at 7:30 and 8 p.m.
"All's Fair" and "Helena's Husband" will be presented at 7:30 and 8 p.m. respectively in Room 201, Temple.
"Arsenic and Old Lace" and "Spankin'" will be presented in Room 205.
"All's Fair" stars Pat Nellis, Polly Gould, Betty Barber and Lynn Kunkel. Marilyn Lehr directs the play. Hal Sienknecht is production manager.
Joan Wells, Charlotte Trumble, Dick Phipps, Bill Walton and Curt Simmons are cast in "Helena's Husband." Alice Meyers directs the play, while Charles Rossow is production manager.
"Arsenic and Old Lace" cast includes Jan Harrison, Ann Launer, Bob Spearman, Kay Barton, Vance Hansen, Marvin Stromer and Don Sobolik. Director is Pat Loder and production manager is Tom Erwin.
"Spankin'" stars Mary Ann O'Brien, Elaine Meyer, Charles Anderson and Mart Hartman. Wayne Jostes directs the play and Jack Moore is production manager.

Students Act As Play Directors

By STAFF WRITER
Play rehearsal was recently in full swing in Room 204, Temple one afternoon. Suddenly the director stuck her head out the window, and her cast promptly shut it on her.
Not losing her dramatic presence of mind for an instant, the director climbed on out the window to a small balcony and began to recite "Romeo and Juliet" in a loud voice.
Amidst stares from below and laughter from inside, the coed was dragged back through the window to resume her directing tasks.
It is all in the life of a student director.
The incident occurred as Marilyn Lehr, one of four students directing one-act plays, was drilling her cast for "All's Fair."
The play is one of four to be presented Friday evening at the Temple. Others are "Helena's Husband," directed by Alice Meyers; "Arsenic and Old Lace," directed by Pat Loder, and "Spankin'," directed by Wayne Jostes.
The student director is part of a class in laboratory theater, Speech 102, Dallas Williams, director of University theatre, teaches the 3-hour course.
The class of 18 plans and presents 16 plays during the semester. The productions are divided into four groups of four plays each. Students each direct one play during the semester and act as production manager for another. In addition, they sometimes take part in plays directed by their classmates.
Miss Meyer said the directing is "a wonderful way to get practical experience in theater work. You really appreciate all that goes into a play when you've directed one yourself," she added.
The directors have less than a month in which to select a play, hold tryouts, choose a cast, plan scenery, lighting, make-up, costumes and blocking, and finally put the actors through at least 20 hours of rehearsals.
"We do most of the brainwork," Miss Meyer said, "but we have a production manager to build the

All-Color Wildlife Film Scheduled For Tuesday

Howard Cleaves will present "Animals Unaware" at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Love Library auditorium.
Cleaves, of New York, is known for his night-time films. "Animals Unaware" is his first all-color wildlife motion picture.
Studies of the 17-year locust, relationship of "fishhawks" to mankind, adventures of the clapper rail and a "Boxing" ruffed grouse will be shown in the film.
Cleaves is an ace cameraman in the specialized field of wildlife photography. His first still pictures of birds were made about 1907. Under Thomas Edison he began taking motion pictures of wildlife in 1913.
At Harvard he studied natural sciences as a special student. He is a trustee of the Staten Island Institute of Arts and Sciences and lives on Staten Island.
A "diving suit" for his camera was invented by him to enable him to take pictures under water. The device can be lowered at the end of a steel cable to obtain submarine shots.
The film will be shown through the courtesy of Audubon Screen

Lutherans To Lay Cornerstone For New NU Chapel Sunday

Cornerstone of the new University Lutheran chapel, under construction at 15th and Q streets, will be laid Sunday at 4 p.m. during a special ceremony, according to Student Pastor A. J. Norden.
The officiant for the cornerstone laying will be the Rev. Henry Erick, who served as Lutheran student pastor on the University campus for 27 years. Delivering the sermonette will be Pastor W. W. Koenig, minister of Calvary Lutheran church and chairman of the Mission Board of the Southern Nebraska District of the Lutheran church—Missouri Synod.
The Lutheran chapel choir, under the direction of Harry Gieselman, will sing the anthem "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God."
The chapel, which will also include a student center, pastor's office and other facilities, is a joint project of the Northern and Southern Nebraska Districts of the Lutheran church—Missouri Synod. The districts sponsor together the religious program for students at the University.

Badminton Club

Recreation for both men and women is offered each Wednesday at 7:15 p.m. by the Co-recreational Badminton club. Birds and requests are provided free.
Anyone interested is invited.

Connies Corner Gamma Phis Suffer From Broken Water Line

Connie Gordon

Our first news of the day concerns the water situation at the Gamma Phi house. It seems that the main water line to the Gamma Phi house has gone on the blink and the girls have been without water for approximately three days. The girls have been having water siphoned in. Some of the more industrious girls have been brushing their respective teeth in Andrews and Burnett. Ah, yes, necessity is the mother of invention... or something.
There are some very important pinnings that I have neglected to include in the column. By now, they're probably old news to some, but just in case here they are. The Thetas had a double dose of chocolates recently when Joan Alexander and Dolly Paynter announced their pinnings to Kirk Lewis and Frank Everest (Iowa State) respectively. Paula Scharman and Joe Edwards recently become pinmates. Paula's a Chi O and Joe is a member of Farm House. Speaking of Farm House, its eight pledges were raised to active status last Saturday evening. The newly initiated actives are: Jack Aschwege; Merwyn Davidson; Don Gruber; Charles Harris; Dwight Jundt; Junior Knobel; Dale Nitzel; Rolla Swanson. Congratulations all!

Some of the couples that will be partying at Dave Noble's house in Omaha this weekend will be: Phyllis Colbert and Dave Noble; Sandra Walt and Bill Condon; Mary Jean Neely and Butch Williams.
Also traveling up to Omaha this weekend will be Joyce Finney and Bob Gilmore and Sally Bartling and Larry Ozenberger.
Other weekend date data includes: Judy Palmateer and Max Andrews; Terry Barnes and Dean Jamison; Bunny Lazear and Jim Winter; Cathy Corp and Sandy Crawford; Nancy Lindell and George McQueen.
Headed for the basketball game Saturday evening will be Jo Johannes and Bob Tooley; Joan Rambuor and Jim Brown; Barbara Jean Anderson and Steve McKenzie; Mary Flynn and Randy Ayer; Sue Holmes and Bill Hodder.
Journeying up to Doane college this weekend will be Jan Nuss. Reason for the trip is Delta Kappa Pi formal and date with pinmate Charlie Barbur.

Ag Students To Help Prepare 'Pot Luck With The Profs'

Twelve Ag students have been named to assist the faculty with "Pot Luck With The Profs." The weekly dinners are held Sundays from 5:30 to 7 p.m. in the Ag Union lounge.
Bill Waldo is chairman of the committee. Other members are Rex Coffman, Bob Wendall, Carl Leising, William Payne, Mildred Athey, Dale Reynolds, Jo Knotts, Patty Russell, Jerry Harmon, Margaret Rainforth and Averil Bierman.
This week's Pot Luck chairmen are Mr. and Mrs. Gerrish M. Severson. Students who wish to attend the free dinner are to sign up by Friday at 5 p.m. in the Ag Union activities office.
Other faculty members who will attend the dinner Sunday are: Mr. and Mrs. Carl Olson Jr., Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Bosalis, Mrs. Fern Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Gates, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Loeffel, Mr. and Mrs. L. K.

Crowe and Mr. and Mrs. Deane W. Finnerty.
"Pot Luck With The Profs" is furnished and prepared by Ag faculty wives, with the Ag Union helping with arrangements and furnishing equipment.
Special student committees for this week's Pot Luck dinner are: Name tags, Coffman and Knotts; reservations, Payne and Wendall; publicity, Reynolds and Rainforth; personal invitations, Russell; records, Bierman.
