Two NU Debaters Place Second In St. Paul Meet

Animal Film Scheduled For Tuesday

Howard Cleaves, after specializing in after-dark pictures for many years, will present his first all-color film, "Animals Unaware," at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Love Library auditorium.

Cleaves, a native New Yorker, actually filmed much of this all-color production on Staten Island, a part of New York City. Cleaves lives on Staten Island, and, as the old adage goes, he found "Acres of Diamonds" in his own backyard.

"Animals Unaware" contains the secrets of the 17-year locust; studies of ospreys on the Atlantic Coast, emphasizing the relationship of the bird to mankind; fascinating adventures in the haunts of the clapper rail; and a wild ruffed grouse "boxing" with human beings.

Cleaves studied under Thomas Edison and is an accepted ace cameraman in the specialized field of wildlife photography. He began taking motion pictures of wildlife in 1913. His films have been released by Radio News, Pathe Review, Fox News and Paramount Pictures Corporation.

Among his innovations is a "diving suit" for his camera. This water-tight box, with powerful floodlights on either side, can be lowered by steel cable for submarine shots. The camera is operated by remote control.

The film is being shown through the courtesy of Audubon Screen tours, the Extension Division and the state museum. Admission is 60 cents.

Two University sophomore debaters, Dale Johnson and Wayne Johnson, talked their way to second place in the men's division of the St. Thomas college debate tournament last weekend.

The Johnsons, who are not related, defeated St. Olaf college in the quarter finals, one Northwestern university team in the semi-finals and lost to another Northwestern team in the final round by a 3-2 decision.

Sixty teams participated in the men's division. The 21st annual meet was held at St. Thomas college in St. Paul, Minn.

Another University team composed of Doris Carlson and Joan Krueger were eliminated in the quarter finals by a St. Catherine college women's team which placed second in the tournament.

Nebraska's other team, Ken Philbrick and Dave Gradwohl, both freshmen debaters, were victorious in three of their debates, placing in the upper half of men's teams.

Eight preliminary rounds preceded the final elimination rounds. Preliminaries were judged both on quality ratings and win-loss records. The finals were on a win-loss basis only.

In the round determining the tournament championship, the Johnsons upheld the negative side of the proposition: Resolved: That the federal government should adopt a permanent program of price and wage control.

Accompanying the debaters were Donald Olson, director of debate, and Bruce Kendall, instructor in speech.

At least two trips remain for University debaters. One is tentatively planned for this weekend to the University of Wisconsin where debaters will participate in both debate and discussion. The final trip will be March 28 and 29 on the University of Kansas for the annual Missouri Valley tournament. Here debaters will argue: Resolved: That all subsidization of college athletics should be abolished.

Calder Film On Sculptor Set Tuesday

A full color film, "The Works of Calder," will be shown at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Gallery B of Morrill hall.

One of his pieces, "Vertical Out of Horizontal," is displayed in the Nebraska Art association's March show in the University galleries. An earlier work of Calder's, "Snake on an Arch," is in the galleries' permanent collection.

The film covers a small boy's visit to Calder's studio, where he watches the artist at work. The picture is produced and narrated by Burgess Meredith, with music by John Cage and photography by Herbert Matter.

Twenty-five cents will cover admission to both the movie and the exhibition.

NU Lutheran Chapel Cornerstone Placed

Cornerstone laying ceremonies were held Sunday afternoon for the new University Lutheran (Missouri Synod) chapel.

"Other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, Jesus Christ." This statement by St. Paul was the basis for the sermon delivered by the Rev. W. W. Koenig, pastor of Calvary Lutheran church.

The Rev. Henry Erck, student pastor on the University campus for more than 27 years, was the officiant for the cornerstone laying.

He was replaced last September by Student Pastor Alvin J. Norden, who acted as liturgist at the ceremony.

Included in the cornerstone box were: a Bible, copy of the Augsburg confession and the small catechism, history of the building to date, partial list of Lutheran students enrolled at the University and clippings from newspapers announcing the cornerstone laying.

Statements from Pastors W. E. Homann, A. F. Werner and Erck, Mayor Victor E. Anderson and Governor Val Peterson were also placed in the box.

Music for the ceremony was provided by the Lutheran Chapel choir directed by Harry Gieselman. They sang the anthem "A Mighty Fortress is Our God."

The chapel which is being constructed at the corner of 15th and Q streets, should be completed by this September. It will also include a student center, pastor's office and other facilities.

The chapel is a joint project of the northern and southern districts of the Lutheran church (Missouri Synod) which sponsor a religious program for university students.

About 300 students now take part in the activities of the Lutheran center. Gamma Delta, Sunday evening student group, meets in the YMCA lounge in the Temple building at 5:30 p.m. Their activities include a varied program of Christian knowledge, service and social activity.

Officers of the group are Barbara Bredthauer, president; Phyllis Kort, vice president; Elizabeth Bredthauer, secretary; and James Koepke, treasurer.

Struggle Revealed In 'Open City'

An insight into the traditional struggle of oppressed men to overthrow tyranny will be shown in the YMCA sponsored film this Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The film, "Open City," will be shown at 8 p.m. each night with a 2:30 p.m. matinee Saturday at Love Library auditorium.

According to a review in the New Yorker, the film is "not merely good, but the best to ever come out of Italy."

Directed by Roberto Rossellini, the film tells the personal story of the Italian people during the Fascist regime. It symbolizes the spirit of humility which arises in times of crisis, the New Yorker review continues.

Tickets may be purchased at the door for 65 cents.

Statistics show that Yale graduates have 1.3 children. While Vassar graduates have 1.7 children.

Which proves that women have more children than men.

The dean was investigating a charge made by sorority girls that the men who lived next door in the fraternity house never lowered their shades.

The dean looked out the sorority window and said, "Why, I can't see into any of the fraternity house windows."

"Oh, yes, you can!" said the girls. "All you have to do is get up on a chair."

Judge (to amateur burglar)—"Where did you steal all this silverware?"

Burglar—"Two fraternity houses, your Honor."

Judge (to sergeant)—"Call up the downtown hotels and distribute this stuff."

The "lamb" is scheduled to make a brief appearance in the form of partly cloudy to fair weather Tuesday.

However, the lamb will probably be thankful for his heavy wool coat—cool temperatures may push the mercury as low as 15 degrees.

"Well isn't that enough to make any girl swear?"

Congratulations to Charles Miller and the library staff for taking steps to provide a deposit slot on the first floor.

However, I, and many others like me, are waiting for them to provide a messenger to come around and collect books when they come due.

FLED FROM COMMUNISTS:

American Youth Warned By Latvian 'To Guard Their Democratic Ideals'

Editor's Note: The name "Carl" is fictitious to prevent reprisals behind the iron curtain.

"At last I can live decent in this free country," was Carl's expression of appreciation for the opportunity to come to the U.S.

Carl is 45, married, and has a family. He came to this country as a displaced person from Latvia through the auspices of the Methodist church two years ago.

He lived in York for 18 months, working for a contractor. He made many friends in York and often returns to visit them. He came to Lincoln last summer and is employed at the University.

Carl has had many bitter experiences at the hands of the Russians. He says that even the atrocities of the Nazis were not as bad as those of the Russians. "And now you hate them as we do," proclaims Carl.

"I was born in Latvia as a farmer's son," states Carl. "I have graduated high and agricultural schools. Till the invasion of communists, my business was farming, some technical and society work. The Russian invading forces took everything I ever owned."

We were in constant fear of the Russians, said Carl. "There was only one way to get away from being deported to Siberia and that was to live in a forest or a swamp. Also later during Hitler's regime living was not easy. But with the second coming of the Russians, after the order given by nazis, we left our home and, following other fugitives, we were evacuated to Germany.

Carl said that even in Germany "we fled westward hoping to meet the allied forces before communists could catch up with us."

He recalls, "When we saw the Western forces crush the nazis, we felt like people again. But (we) still feared the communists," he added.

"When we had a chance to immigrate to Australia, England, Canada or U.S.A., we tried for U.S.A.," he smiled. "We do not feel sorry that we did, but I want to tell all Americans, and especially American youth, to guard their country and their democratic ideals. So God bless you all," he added.

Carl and his family plans to become citizens when they become eligible in three years. He stated that he would like to return to Latvia when it is free, but added that he would probably remain here.
