Union Picks M. Moomey As Director

Marilyn Moomey, University senior, has been appointed acting director of Union activities, Union manager Duane Lake announced Tuesday. She will take over the position held by Mrs. Gene Grimm whose resignation will become effective March 15.

MARILYN MOOMEY

coordinate the work done by student activity committees until the end of the present school term.

As member of the Union board of managers during the past two years, she has acquainted herself with the activities program. She also established and served as chairman of the Union house and office committee. Last spring Miss Moomey was the student delegate representing the University at the national conference of the Association of College Unions.

She is now a Mortar Board, AWS board vice-president and a member of Pi Beta Phi. She helped organize New Students week last fall and is a former Coed Counselor.

Miss Moomey will be the third Union activities director. Her predecessor, Mrs. Grimm, has served this office since Sept. 1949.

"Gene has done a good job and we regret losing her very much," Lake said. "During her time a firm foundation of expansion of activities was laid. She helped broaden the scope of the responsibility, such as fine arts programs, as well as setting up the machinery for the long range activity program."

The student world might be interested in a strike that took place a few years ago where the union demanded shorter hours. With the tedium of morning lectures and afternoon labs, shorter hours would be a blessing.

Recognizing the fact that spring is just around the corner, the weather man predicts a slight let-up in the cold spell. Skies should be cloudy and temperatures will probably warm up a few degrees. A couple of fraternity men were trying to do some wiring. One of them was puzzled and called to a pledge, "Put your hand on one of those wires." The pledge did as he was told "Do you feel anything?"
"No."
"Good," said the active. "I was not sure which was which. Don't touch the other one or you'll drop dead."

University Coeds Participate In Events Of Nebraska Republican Founders Day

Four University coeds are taking an active part in state politics. As hostesses at a reception Monday for ex-Gov. Dwight Griswold, now running for United States Senate, the four women assisted Mrs. Griswold at the Nebraska Republican Founders Day meeting.

Damaris Riddell, junior in Teachers college, said we should take an interest in whom we elect because "elections now will affect us more than they will our parents."

"I am a young Republican," declared Dorothy Elliott, Teachers college junior, "and if I were 21 I would vote for Griswold." Miss Elliott called Griswold a "good guy," and added good citizenship "is our duty—something we should start now instead of after college."

Elizabeth Gass, junior Ag college student, said young people should be interested in their leaders and in good leaders. "All of us should show more interest in politics," she said, "and Griswold is the kind of man our country needs."

Sandra Riddell, senior in Teachers college, believes it is "about time Republicans came back into power. If they are to do so," she added, "everyone must take an active interest in our future leaders."

Griswold, a Regent of the University, said, "As long as students take an interest in politics, this America of ours is safe."
John Riddell, York attorney, commented that Founders Day has always placed an "accent on youth" by the election of young Republicans as junior president and junior vice president of the organization. Riddell added that University students attend "in large numbers and get some of their first political lessons from the sessions."

The first Republican Founders Day was held March, 1935, and was patterned after Kansas Day, Riddell said.

Senator Everett Dirksen of Illinois was main speaker at the banquet.

Vivian Kellems, Connecticut manufacturer who refused to deduct income taxes from her employees' paychecks, addressed more than 400 at a women's luncheon.

Piano Quartet To Present NU Concert

The First Piano Quartet, billed as the first musical unit of its kind, will present an interpretation of the classics in the third program of the University concert series, March 20.

Pianists Glauco D'Attill, Adam Garner, Frank Mittler and Edward Edson are scheduled to appear in the Coliseum under the sponsorship of the Union.

Tickets for the evening concert will go on sale March 10. Student admission will be 75 cents, the concert committee has announced.

The four pianists, who perform simultaneously on four instruments, have appeared as soloists with European symphony orchestras. They formed the First Piano Quartet at the suggestion of Edwinton Fadiman, who remains the quartet's commercial representative.

Fadiman's ensemble started its American career with a radio appearance, followed by a series of other network performances which culminated in its concert tour.

The quartet's varied repertoire is composed of compositions played in unison, some with two presenting the melody and two the obbligato, some with a three-to-one combination and others with each member presenting a different part.

The repertoire which includes some original compositions by members of the group, also features a number of American written directly for the Quartet.

Four-piano music was originated in a little-known work by Bach—the "Vivaldi Concerto"—originally written for four violins and then arranged by Bach for four pianos, and a Stravinsky arrangement for four pianos, "Les Noces."

The concert, according to the Union committee, will feature a Coliseum seating arrangement designed to assure maximum acoustics. The four pianos will be placed on a raised stage, with the audience circling the platform.

Painting the interior of the Newman Methodist church, 2263 S. street, is the project of Sigma Alpha Mu fraternity in its Help and Brotherhood week which began Monday, according to President Ira Epstein.

The fraternity plans to abandon "Hell week" and initiate a Help and Brotherhood week project which will serve two purposes, Epstein said.

"First, the fraternity hopes to do something constructive instead of destructive in the community. Secondly, by working together a closer bond will be built among its members," Epstein added. "In this way both the community and the fraternity will benefit from the project."

UMT Bill Shelved

The bill providing for universal military training was sent back to committee by house of representatives vote of 236 to 182 Tuesday night. This virtually wipes out any chance of UMT passing congress this year. The bill was recommitted to committee after six hours of heavy debate.

UMT would have made 18 and one-half-year-old males liable for six months military training and seven and one-half years of reserve service subject to recall.

The house action on UMT is expected to sidetrack a similar bill under consideration in the senate.
