Home Ec Students To Hold Hospitality Day On March 28

A Hospitality Day for junior and senior high school girls is being planned by home economics students to be held March 28.

Invitations have been sent to schools all over the state. Last year more than 500 girls attended the annual event to learn of the opportunities in the home economics field.

Ruth Hoffmeister is general chairman. Other student committee heads include: Mary Jane Barnett, tours; Marilyn Bamesberger, stops-in-tours; Averil Bierman, favors; Terry Barnes, publicity; Carolyn Gierhan, personnel; Betty Kelso, food; Barbara Raun, program; Marilyn Schermt, registration and Phyllis Zellinger, noontime entertainment.

Included in the day's program are a style show featuring clothes made by University home economics students, a talk by an outstanding home economist, a movie and tours of the Food and Nutrition and Home Economics buildings.

John Mercer will introduce the film society showing of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" Sunday.

Mercer has a masters degree in cinema photography. He will discuss the context of the movie and John Barrymore's technique.

Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde is the second movie in the society's series. It will begin at 4:30 p.m. at Esquire theater.

Memberships in film society will be sold at the theater. Faculty-student price is $1.20 and general public membership is $1.80. No single admissions will be sold.

Robert Louis Stevenson's story, "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" forms the basis for the movie which stars Barrymore.

Other showings are "M" with Peter Lorre, April 6, and "A Short History of Animation," April 20.

Council Plans Change In New Student Week

New student week, to be held for freshmen next fall, was the main discussion point in the Student Council meeting Wednesday. New plans for freshman week include compulsory meetings which will take the place of freshman orientation meetings previously used.

Coed Counsellors will supply women counsellors for the week. These counsellors will be in charge of conducting freshmen around the campus and seeing that they arrive at the right meetings at the right time.

New student week will be held during the week that precedes the start of classes. It will terminate with the Frosh Hop the following Saturday night.

Ira Epstein, present N-club representative, presented their petition for Council representation in future years. The petition, containing the necessary 500 signatures, will now be referred to a general faculty committee on student organization for approval before submitting it to a student vote in

Students For Butler Club Organizes, Discusses Plans For NU Campaign

A group of University students, calling themselves Students for Butler, organized Tuesday night at a meeting in a downtown cafe.

The group, led by Beth Rohwer and Alice Kruger, will stage a campaign on campus in an attempt to influence student opinion in favor of Sen. Hugh Butler, who is running for re-election.

Miss Rohwer briefly outlined plans for the campaign.

Butler campaign signs will be posted, signs for automobile bumpers, cards, buttons and literature will be distributed at all major campus events, and postcards will be sent out in an attempt to draw new members.

The campaign will not be restricted to the campus, Miss Rohwer said. Members of the organization will also send literature to their home towns.

Guest of honor were Paul Kruger, Butler's campaign manager; Mrs. Myles Standish, Douglas

NU Library Code Allows Borrowing Of Magazines

Bound or unbound magazines may now be borrowed from the University libraries.

Library lending procedures have been revamped and written as the Library Lending Code to replace the heretofore unwritten lending regulations.

Charles H. Miller, public service librarian, announced the new code, which allows students to borrow magazines from all libraries except the chemistry library for overnight use.

This provision is designed to enable students to work on class assignments with more ease and convenience, according to Miller.

Graduate students may now borrow books housed in the stacks of the main and branch libraries for three months and then renew them if they wish.

Books on reserve are restricted as before but other reading room books, bound periodicals from the stacks and theses will be lent for two week periods.

Current unbound periodicals may be borrowed for overnight use and older unbound issues may be checked out for three days. These rules apply to all libraries except the chemistry library, Miller said.

Cosmo Club Plans '52 Carnival Dance

Cosmo-Carnival, an annual dance for students of all countries, will be held in the Union ballroom at 8 p.m. Saturday, March 29.

Cosmopolitan club sponsors the dance.

Music will be furnished by Bill Albers' orchestra. Tickets may be purchased for $1.

Dr. Leverton To Discuss Book Publishing Problems

The process and problems of book publication will be discussed by Dr. Ruth Leverton at a meeting of the proposed Vocational Homemaking Education association at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Vocational Education parlors.

Dr. Leverton, author of "Food Becomes You," will bring with her galley proofs and other materials used in publication. She will explain rewriting, use of illustrations and negotiations between publisher and author as well as other problems of book writing.

it happened at nu...

The life of a student often leaves little time for sleep. Thus odd times and places to sleep are sometimes utilized by college people.

A new twist was added last night by one boy living in Lincoln. After taking his pinmate home, he fell asleep on the bus and was awakened at the end of the line—several miles from his destination.

BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT

Prepsters Parties Planned

PREPSTERS VISIT NU . . . Ord high school band members gaze at their good luck mascot before the first game of the basketball tournament. Special activities are being sponsored by Builders to entertain the visitors. The Ord girls are (l. to r.) Mary Thompson, Norma Aperlger, Betty Iwanski and Karen Smets.

All jitterbug enthusiasts should be on their toes Thursday afternoon.

University Builders are featuring a dancing contest at the annual basketball tournament dance in the Union following the afternoon game.

Judges appointed to choose couples competing in the jitterbug contest are outstanding University athletes in the respective sports; Barbara Hershberger, 1952 Homecoming queen and Mary Ann Kellogg, Tasseis' president.

Builders will present a trophy to the winning dancing couple during intermission.

Other featured events on the program are talks by Dr. G. W.

Rosenlof and Bill Glassford and cheer by University cheerleaders, according to Joy Wachal, Builders' Parties and Conventions chairman.

Tournament fans will be dancing to the music of the Rick Burgess and NUTones combo. Hank Cech is master of ceremonies.

Featured in ballroom decorations will be pictures of each high school tournament team. Favors will be distributed by Corn Cob workers.

Refreshments will be served and admission is free to both University and high school students. The tournament dance is scheduled from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m.

CHECKING IN . . . Early arrivals Wednesday for the basketball tournament are three members of the Chadron Prep team. Signing in at a local hotel are (l. to r.) Charles Muma, Jim Neeland and Larry Lytle. University student organizations—Union, Builders and engineering societies—will provide entertainment during their visit.

Speicher are assisting Miss Wachal with dance arrangements.

Friday night the high school visitors and University students may attend a special dance at the Union sponsored by the Union social dancing committee. Gene Moyer's combo will furnish music. Norm Gauger is planning entertainment for intermission time. Included on the program will be dance routines by Marian McCullough and Jack Moore.

Movies will also be shown in parlors ABC. Refreshments will be served.

A St. Patrick's day theme will be the feature of Saturday night's dance climaxing the four-day basketball tournament. Aaron Schmidt and his combo will furnish the music for the dance which will be sponsored by the engineering societies and the Union.

Intermission entertainment will be furnished by the engineering societies. Kenneth Von Bargen, chairman, said that four or five skits portraying humorous incidents in Engineering College will be presented.

Refreshments will be served. The dance is also open to all University students.

The Friday and Saturday dances will be held from 9 to 12 p.m. each evening in the Union ballroom. Admission will be 44 cents for each dance. Charlotte Veta is chairman of the social dance committee.

Student: "Why don't you wear earmuffs anymore?"

Friend: "I quit wearing them since the accident."

Student: "What accident?"

Friend: "Someone offered me a drink and I didn't hear him."

She was the type that shyly murmured sweet nothing doings in your ear.

She: "When did you first realize that you loved me?"

He: "When I began to get mad when people said that you were brainless and unattractive."

Tip to coeds: they say that if you don't drink, smoke, or run around with men you'll live longer. Actually it only seems longer.

After a chilly morning, students may expect the mercury to rise somewhat this afternoon. However, it will still be chilly. Skies are expected to remain clear all day. Good day to fly a kite!

Father came on little Nate. Hid behind the garden gate. A curl of smoke was flying high. Father snuffed as he drew nigh. As he pointed with his cane. He said, "I warn you once again. Leave my cigarettes alone. Next time take Mom's or buy your own."

These jokes can't be too terrible—when I threw a sheaf of them into the furnace the fire roared!

Eisenhower, Kefauver Win In N.H.

NEW HAMPSHIRE—Complete unofficial returns from the first presidential primary of this election year gave Gen. Dwight Eisenhower and Sen. Estes Kefauver each clear victories over their respective opponents.

Eisenhower can claim all 14 of New Hampshire's Republican convention votes and Sen. Kefauver has control over the Democratic delegates. "Ike" swept 54 per cent of his party's ballots while his nearest rival, Sen. Robert A. Taft, polled 39 per cent. In defeating President Harry S. Truman, Sen. Kefauver captured 54 per cent of the Democratic votes. Eisenhower beat Taft by 11,000 votes and Kefauver led Truman by 10,000.

Murder Suspect Questioned

LINCOLN, Nebraska—A former state reformatory inmate was questioned in connection with the brutal murder of Charles F. Rundle of Lincoln.

The discovery of Rundle's body was made by neighbors and Lincoln detectives who searched his house after Rundle's absence from the neighborhood had been noted. The body was mutilated about the face and had a bullet wound in the head. Rundle was believed to have been dead for several days.

AEC Asks For Priorities

WASHINGTON—The atomic energy commission wants super-priority on building materials for its new atomic plant in South Carolina. The plant is working on a hydrogen bomb.

'American Tanks No Good'

LEEDS, England—"It's time the people at home realized the truth. American tanks in Korea are no good." The tanks are "made for Hollywood, not for fighting." These statements were offered by two British officers of a veteran tank regiment as they addressed 3,000 workers in a Leeds tank factory.

U.S. To Wait On Russian Demand

WASHINGTON—The state department is delaying its reply to the recent Russian demand for renewal of negotiations on a German peace treaty until the attitude of the British and French may be ascertained.

Patricia Ball, president of the Epsilon chapter, appeared with Mrs. Johnson in a radio interview during the afternoon.

Darlene Podlesak, Beverly Smith and Barbara Templeton.
