Piano Quartet Provides New Music Feature

By LOUIS SCHOEN
Staff Writer

The First Piano quartet, which will perform at the Coliseum Thursday at 8 p.m., is a new feature in musical entertainment.

The quartet, originated and produced by Edward Fadiman in 1940 as an air feature for the National Broadcasting company, composes its own musical arrangements. Each of the members got an early start in the musical field.

Adam Garner, a native of Warsaw, Poland, gave his first public concert at the age of six. At eight, he was guest artist of the Warsaw Philharmonic orchestra.

While in his middle-teens, Garner presented a series of concerts in several European capitals.

He became musical adviser to a British motion picture company in 1931, and came to the United States in 1936 to compose the score for the musical comedy, "White Horse Inn." Since then, he has devoted most of his time to teaching, arranging and composing.

Glaucus D'Attili, born in Rome, Italy, made his professional debut at the age of six.

D'Attili came to the United States in 1929 and presented a series of concerts in the Eastern States.

He left the concert stage in 1930 for further study, but became an active musician again in 1940, when the quartet was organized.

Frank Mittler, born in Vienna, Austria, made his first public appearance at the age of nine, as a violinist.

His first compositions were published and performed when he was 16.

Mittler came to the United States in the late 1930's, and spent the next 10 years as a teacher, coach and accompanist.

Edward Edson was born in Chicago, appeared in his first public concert at the age of eight. He is now the youngest member of the group.

The quartet's performance will take place on a raised stage in the south half of the Coliseum, with bleachers situated around the stage. The south balcony will serve as the student section.

Student tickets are on sale for 75 cents at the Union and Walt's Music store.

Following the speeches by Robert Crosby and Victor Anderson Monday afternoon, one University male was asked whom he would vote for.

"Crosby, of course, if I could vote," he answered.

The next question was why he would vote for Crosby.

"Well, they both dodged the issues, but Crosby did it much more gracefully."

Cosmo Club Meet

Cosmopolitan Club will meet Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in Room 316, Union.

All members and foreign students are invited to attend for a special program.

Featured on the program will be a violin solo by Velda Stonecypher and a movie about the mechanics and history of the violin. Comic quiz will follow the movie, according to the club's social chairman, Jaghi Kermani.

FARMERS FAIR Entries Due March 22 For Parade

Deadline for entries in the 1952 Farmers Fair parade has been extended until Saturday at 5 p.m., according to Don Leising and Elizabeth Gass, fair board members in charge of the parade.

The co-chairmen announced there were not enough entries in the parade, and that at least 20 Ag organizations must be entered before a parade will be held.

Ag organizations who wish to enter the Farmers Fair parade are to turn in their themes for the float to either Leising or Miss Gass. Themes should follow the Farmers Fair theme as much as possible, which is "Aggies' Fiesta."

Rex Messersmith, Farmers Fair publicity chairman, announced that orders for the official 1952 Farmers Fair jacket are now being taken.

The jackets have the words "Farmers Fair" and its date written across the back. The letters are made of cloth, and may be removed after the fair.

A students may order the jackets any time this week by contacting Messersmith at 6-2433. They may also order their jackets Thursday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in an Ag Union booth.

Messersmith said the jackets would be available to Ag students within 10 days after they order them.

Truman Book 'Offends' Two

Harry S. Truman, once described by severe critics as suffering from a "foot-in-mouth" disease, has again brought vocal protest from victims of his statements.

William Hillman, former Hearst newsman and now a commentator for the Mutual Broadcasting system, published a book Tuesday containing many of the President's private papers and letters. Mr. Truman originally turned the material over to Hillman and told him to do what he wished with it.

Two former members of Truman's cabinet became offended at statements of the president's contained in the new book, "Mr. President."

Among other things, President Truman says there is no such thing as an indispensable man in a democracy, that he soundly scolded James Byrnes in 1946 when the latter was secretary of state, and that Henry Wallace, former vice-president, was twice as dangerous as the "German American Bund under Fritz Kuhn."

Wallace is not mentioned by name, but the context of the book leaves little room for doubt as to his identity.

Byrnes, now governor of South Carolina, said the president's statement was "absolutely untrue."

Wallace said that if the president admits he was referring to Wallace, "I will charge him with the same deliberate character assassination which he finds so despicable in others."

UN Reds Discuss Ports Of Entry

PANMUNON, Korea — A discussion of proposed ports of entry into Korea occupied most of the latest truce session in Korea.

The communists wanted to change four out of the five ports of entry proposed by the UN command and said they could not answer a series of seven questions which the allies asked them about the prisoner exchange question.

Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, UN delegate, appeared optimistic over chances of agreement on the port item and said it seemed that the Reds were giving real study to the answers to the seven questions.

Red 1000-Man Attack Stopped

SEOUL, Korea — A dispatch from Eighth army headquarters said Communist troops launched a 1000-man attack against allied positions east of the Panmunjon truce site.

The Reds moved out after attempting to soften up the UN troops with heavy mortar, artillery and automatic-weapons fire. The attack was stopped cold.

Acheson Upholds Truce Talks

WASHINGTON—Secretary of State Dean Acheson told a senate investigating committee he was confident the Korean truce negotiations will be successful.

Acheson was testifying before foreign relations committee to urge approval of the $7.9 billion foreign aid bill. In the course of his testimony and subsequent questioning by Sen. Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin, the secretary gave quick summary of foreign affairs in general.

Also in the course of his statements Acheson said the situation in Indo-China, where the French are currently fighting the Communists, was "very serious" and would remain so until the French can put a large, trained native force into the field.

$300 LAW COLLEGE THEFT

Grand Larceny Trial Begins Toady, 2 p.m.

The trial of Bryce Crawford, University student accused of stealing $300 from the Law school main office, will take place this afternoon at two p.m. in Room 101, Law building court room and will be open to the public.

Tuesday morning Rollin Bailey, a representative of the county attorney's office, filed a complaint, which charges Crawford with the crime of grand larceny and unlawfully taking money from the University Law college. Crawford immediately appointed Bill Wenke as his defense attorney, and entered a plea of "not guilty" before Judge Ravenscroft of the municipal court of Allen. The mock trial will take place before Judge Ralph Wilson, recently retired from the district court bench.

Bailey has appointed John Gerlach, jurisprudence student in Law school, as his assistant prosecuting attorney. Louis Pierce and George Stanley, law students who assisted in the investigation of the

Ag Farmers Fair Jacket Sales Start

Orders are now being taken for the official 1952 Farmers Fair jackets, according to Frank Sibert, fair board manager.

The denim jackets have the words "Farmers Fair" written across the back. The letters are cloth, and may be removed after the fair.

Ag students may order the jackets any time this week from 8 a.m. booth during these hours. Sibert said the jackets will be available for students by April 1.

The fair board manager also announced that tickets for the Farmers Fair barbecue will be sold for 80 cents this year.

PHARMACY, DENTAL

Representation Petition Contains 622 Signatures

One hundred and twenty-two Pharmacy college believes that students more than the necessary some discrimination has been 500 have expressed favor for the shown. Representatives told the proposal that Pharmacy and Dental college have Student Council is of equal importance and should have at least one representative.

A petition was circulated last week asking for student support by the Pharmacy college to aid its battle for a seat in the student governing body.

The main objection to Pharmacy representation seems to be the small group that such an arrangement would represent.

A college may have a representative in the Council for every 600 students enrolled, according to the Council constitution. The combined enrollment of the two colleges in question does not surpass 300. At present however, the percent of the students must vote in favor of the amendment of it is to be ratified.

Don Noble, Corn-Cob representative, in the Student Council, said the signatures on the petition must be validated by Dean T. J. Thompson's office before being returned to the Student Council.

The Student Council faculty committee must then approve a proposal to amend the constitution in favor of giving both Pharmacy and Dental colleges a representative. Noble said.

The Council will vote on the amendment May 3, Noble added. If the amendment is approved by the Council, a majority of thirty percent of the students must vote in favor of the amendment of it is to be ratified.
