HONORABLE MENTION: Bill Wenke—Sigma Alpha Epsilon; Claire Johnson—Lillies; Bob Kroenke—Newman Club; Don Frei—Phi Kappa Psi; Chuck Huestie—Dorm B-C; Bernie Scheer—Alpha Tau Omega; Larry Dunning—Sigma Chi "B"; Gordon Pejzar—Dental College Freshmen; Irv Peterson—Sigma Nu; Charlie Bush—Shortys; Ken LeGrand—Red Guidons; Dick Monson—Alpha Gamma Rho "B"; Bob Howey—Beta Theta Pi.

AL BLESSING... This Fraternity "A" league all-star was given a unanimous berth on the all-University intramural basketball team.

GEORGE PAYNICH... Leading the Delta Tau Delta basketball team throughout the year, this junior was also given a unanimous berth on the all-University team.

Blessing, Paynich, Rogers, Shull, McArthur Unanimous unanimous vote of their opponents.

Blessing and Paynich each led their outfits to the semi-finals of the "A" playoffs in addition to being top scorers for their respective teams. Blessing and the Taus sat on top of the M-I heap for several weeks and finished in a tie for first place in League II with Phi Kappa Psi.

Paynich and the Dets were one of the two teams this year to defeat the All-University champion Sig Alphas and narrowly missed dropping the champs twice. The Dets finished the season in eighth place in the All-U rankings and third in League I.

McArthur was the key man on a team of stars that romped to the All-U title once they got moving. His scoring and rebounding were the teeth of the Sig Alphas attack.

Shull was top man on a great Phi Gam "B" team and led the Weeji Fijis to the runner-up position in the "Bee" title chase. The Junior Phi Gams are the only team that owns a victory over the champion Sigma Chi's this year. Shull is the first "B" player in the history of All-University teams to make the big one.

Rogers has the distinction of being the only member of the top five that played with a losing team. His Ag YM club finished sixth in League VIII and never even gained the playoffs. His banner play captured the fancy of the Independent voters, however, as he was named the outstanding Independent cager of the year.

Five more teams are represented on the second team that finds

CLIFF ROGERS... Flashy guard of the Ag YMCA outfit, Rogers was the top intramural scoring leader this year.

JACK SHULL... Adds the fire and spark along with Rogers to make the all-University team a mighty tough outfit to beat.

Jim Cederdahl Selects Baseball; Off Grid Team

By MARSHALL KUSHNER
Sports Editor

JIM CEDERDAHL IS NO LONGER A MEMBER OF THE UNIVERSITY OF NEBRASKA FOOTBALL TEAM!

Cederdahl has been working out with both the varsity baseball and football teams and failed to attend the Monday grid workout. Coach Tony Sharpe, Husker baseball tutor, had advised Cederdahl he should end his baseball practice for the day and report to Coach Glassford. Cederdahl refused.

"All freshmen must go out for spring football. Bobby Reynolds did it when he was a freshman and there is no reason for exception," said Mentor Glassford.

Athletic director George "Potsy" Clark said, "freshmen must take the rough part. There is no conflict between baseball and football practice. They have been so designed so as they won't interfere with one another."

The Nebraska athletic department policy on spring football states that all freshmen players interested in playing varsity football must attend all spring practices. If they fail to attend, they are automatically dropped from the varsity team, but have a chance to report to the "B" team in the fall.

BACK FOR NUBBINS?... Jim Cederdahl has sacrificed his place on the varsity football team to play baseball this spring.

"He can come out for the 'B' squad and work his way," said Coach Glassford. Clark concurred with Glassford on the point by saying, "there is no reason why Jim cannot go out for the 'B' team next autumn and work himself back on the team. He can do it!"

In taking the action, Coach Glassford stated, "I have an obligation to the kids out there now. (Referring to the present freshman squad members working out.) We all talked over these rules and they all thought they were fair."

Coach Sharpe feels that Cederdahl still could make the baseball team if he went out for football. Clark said "there is no reason why he shouldn't be out, but he will handicap himself in football."

Clark related to this writer, his old playing days at Illinois under Coach Bob Zuppke. "I never missed spring football practice," grinned the amiable director, "and I played both football and baseball."

"Jim might have thought those 20 days of baseball were extremely important for making the team, but they aren't as important as football," Clark should know, having coached diamond teams at the Universities of Kansas, Illinois and Kansas State.

"At any rate," said Clark, "it is a very unusual case and it doesn't come up very often."

The fact was brought up that Emil Radik was also participating in a sport outside football. Radik was running with Coach Ed Weir's track team and has recently submitted his application to Clark for membership on the Cornhusker golf team.

All facts bear out that no one can be blamed for the occurrence. The case simply boils down to the fact that Cederdahl favors baseball to football. The entire coaching staff concerned with the incident kept Cederdahl fully informed of the consequences to be paid if he missed practice.

Rule number 2 of the Nebraska athletic department policy states: "Any student shall have the right to choose his own sport and should not be induced to play one sport in preference to another."

Semi-Pros Help Cornhuskers

By BOBBY DECKER
Sports Staff Writer

How will semi-pro baseball affect the University of Nebraska baseball team? This could well be the thought running through head coach Tony Sharpe's mind as his ball club begins to shape up.

Sharpe has a number of boys who played semi-pro baseball in various states last summer battling for positions on his starting nine, and their performance may well be a hint to the caliber of ball played in the semi-pro leagues.

Semi-pro baseball differs from professional in the respect that boys play baseball in the semi-pro leagues but also hold a job from which they make their living. Professional ballplayers on the other hand make their living from baseball alone, except in the off season.

Among those playing semi-pro ball last summer were Al Karle, shortstop for Kearney in the Nebraska Independent League; Ray Mladovich, second baseman for Pierre, S. D.; Pat Mallette, pitcher for Hooper; Milt Frei, outfielder for Fremont; Bob Reynolds, second baseman for Storm Lake, Iowa; Bob Decker, second baseman for Carroll, Iowa; and Bob Diers, outfielder for Spencer, Iowa.

Fran Hofmaier and Bob Gleason, promising freshmen hurlers, also pitched in outstanding Midwest leagues with Hofmaier hurling a 2-1 losing effort against Yankton, S.D., for his most outstanding feat of the summer. Yankton was one of the powers in South Dakota baseball circles. Gleason pitched mainly for Aurora, winning more than his share of games.

Semi-proball offers the college man with baseball talent a chance to better himself during the summer months, but the real value of semi-pro ball may be that it may tend to better the brand of college baseball.

In this respect, only time will tell.

University Of Missouri Announces Lettermen; 5 Seniors, 3-Time Winners Included

Missouri's Athletic Director, Don Faurot, announced the varsity and "B" team basketball lettermen at the University this week.

Five seniors are listed among the lettermen, including three-time winners Bill Stauffer and Dick Adams, and Bob Murray. Other men lost by graduation will be Don Zimmerman and Don Dippold, both two-time lettermen.

Five others, including freshman Med Park and Bob Reiter; sophomore Wynne Casteel, and juniors Gene Landolt and Charles Oligschlaeger, received varsity awards.

Art Helms and Win Wilfong, freshmen who became scholastically ineligible at the semester were listed as "special cases" with a letter jacket being made available to each man when he becomes eligible under the 24-hour rule.

"B" team awards were made to John Baumgardner, Huston Bell, Bob Cruts, Buddy Donaldson, Lloyd Elmore, Lee Fowler, Bill Holst, Ronnie Hughes and Gary Schaeffer.

Stauffer, the Tigers' wheel-horse during the past season, ran off with most of the squad's individual honors. The well-knit Tiger postman headed the scoring derby with 368 points, a new single season high, led the team in field goals, free throws, rebounds, and fouls. In addition, "Stauff" also set two other school records, his single game top of 31, and career scoring total of 807.

Dippold with 164; Landolt with 154; Wilfong, 125; and Reiter, 121; completed the Tigers' top five in scoring for the '51-'52 season.

As a team, the Bengals established two school marks. The 1341 points scored by the club was a new offensive high, while the team's defensive output of 1276 was also a high for the opponents. The latter mark pushed the Tigers out of the nation's top ten defensively for the first time in four years.

Cyclone Baseballers Go South

Iowa State College's 1952 baseball squad left Ames by bus on Wednesday for their spring jaunt to the Southland for the spring pre-season limbering up games. The Cyclones will be back in Ames, March 27.

Coach Leroy "Cap" Timm is taking 24 baseball squad members to play two games with Tulsa University on March 21 and 22 and two games with Oklahoma

A. and M. in Stillwater on March 25 and 26. Six Iowa State golfers are going with the baseball squad to get in a few pre-season links, too.

Pitchers making the trip are classified as follows: Pitchers, Don Burgess, Larry Dubberche, Charles Fredrickson, Richard Gardell, Robert Herman, Robert Jacobson, Jack Jones, Paul Koch, and Henry Luning.
