Colorado Prepares For Alumni Grid Tilt

Coach Dal Ward has come up with a "three-platoon" system for use in the Colorado varsity-alumni spring football game at Boulder Saturday.

Two offensive units, rotated on each series of downs, and a single defensive outfit will be used, according to Ward.

"That way we'll get a better line on nearly every boy so we can analyze our reserve strength," Ward pointed out.

The reserve problem is the No. 1 task on the coaches' docket after suffering woes on that score last fall. Ward feels much of Colorado's chances next fall will depend on strength in the reserve ranks.

Eight lettermen are included on each of the top offensive and defensive units scheduled to start the game. Three others who probably would have rated starting spots have been sidelined with injuries. They are Woody Shelton, Bill Brooks and Bob Morton.

Shelton, the Buffs' starting wingback last fall and No. 4 runner, suffered recurrent ankle injuries which plagued him during the regular season and likely will sit out the game. Morton and Brooks are definitely out, Morton with a broken wrist and Brooks with a dislocated knee.

Shelton's replacement will be Frank Bernardi, the 5-8 172-lb. Indiana transfer who's been the standout of drills thus far. He's a good bat to play both ways when things next fall.

Three non-lettermen also are included on the top defensive club: Alabama Glass at left end, Dick Stapp at right tackle and Bob Scarff at quarterback.

Others on the defensive team are: Bob Heap, end; Jim Stander, tackle; Tom Cain and Bill Fischer, guards; Roy Shepherd and Jim Dalthorp, linebackers; Chuck Curtis and Bob Scarff, halfbacks, and George Figner, safety.

Seven 1951 Buff lettermen will miss the contest due to conflict with other sports and class schedules. Guard Jack Swigert skipped spring ball due to a rugged class schedule; Larry Horine, Ron Johnson and Bob Klamann are out for track, and Don Branby, Tom Brookshier and Zack Jordan are baseball candidates.

All seven missing the game are either offensive or defensive regulars. Branby and Brookshier were all-Big Seven defensive choices.

The Buffs get down to serious

Gymnasts To Meet K-State, Navy Pier

By GLENN NELSON
Assistant Sports Editor

Nebraska's gymnasts will complete their season Saturday in a triangular meet with Navy Pier of Chicago and Kansas State in the physical education building. The meet is scheduled to begin at 2 p.m.

Navy Pier, boasting a record of six wins against two losses so far this season, will go into the meet a slight favorite over the Huskers.

The swabs won the Central AAU gymnastics championship, and are considered one of the more powerful teams in collegiate competition.

Navy Pier is paced by Bob Bollinger, who won first place in the trampoline event of the Central AAU meet.

Nebraska also holds a 6-2 season record, including a victory in the All College Invitational meet at Greeley, Colorado.

The Huskers received a 52-44 setback last year in a dual with lege Invitational, should give Bollinger a close match.

Nebraska's first place winners in the Greeley invitational were Paul Hughes and Max Kennedy. Hughes won the horizontal bars and the individual trophy, and Kennedy copped first place in the tumbling event. Kennedy is a halfback on the Husker grid team.

Miss Button announced that this year's officers and senior board members will conduct court Friday, but the new officers and senior members will

Iowa State Tankmen To NCAA

Iowa State is sending a pair of teams to NCAA meets this week.

Both the swimmers and wrestlers left Ames Wednesday, heading in opposite directions.

Coach Jack McGuire and three swimmers will arrive in Princeton, N.J., today for the NCAA tank championships. McGuire will enter the Cyclones in the 300-yard medley relay as well as the free style sprints and the back and breast stroke events. The Cyclones are Bob Brown, 1951 NCAA runner-up in the 50 and 100-yard free style events; Lee Anderson, back stroke, and Mike LeMair, breast stroke. All three are Big Seven champions.

Hugo Otopalik and four wrestlers are in Fort Collins, Colo., today for the mat meet. The Cyclone contingent is headed by Bob Wirts, 167, and Mel Walden, 191, both Big Seven champions. The other two men are Sam Ruzic, 137-pound runnerup, and Lou Oscarson, the loop's third best 130-pounder.

YANKEE SPARK . . . Former Husker baseball star, Bob Cerv, continues to spark the New York Yankees during the exhibition baseball season. Cerv Monday knocked his fourth homer of the trout season, accounting for two winning runs against the Boston Braves at Bradenton, Fla. Last summer Cerv played a few weeks with the Yanks but was sent back to his AA club to make room for bringing Mickey Mantle back to New York.

IM Volleyball Playoffs Near

By BILL MUNDELL

Intramural volleyball neared the completion of its regular-season competition this week as playoff action for all of the 25 teams loomed Friday. Three games are on tap at 5 p.m. Friday to initiate the playoff tournament. This schedule will appear in tomorrow's paper.

Only one team remains unbeaten as the teams vie for tourney positions. The Iranians, leaders of league VI, have posted a 9-0 mark to date, but still have six games remaining in the round-robin play.

Phi Kappa Psi kept their unmarred record until Tuesday night. The Phi Psi's met their chief contender, Beta Theta Psi, in league III and although they swept two of the games, they suffered their first defeat in the other. The Phi Psi's captured their league crown, however, with a 14-1 record compared to the Beta's 12-3.

Other Tuesday action saw the Sigma Nu actives disposing of Delta Sigma Phi in three contests, 15-8, 15-11 and 15-5 to land in third spot in league III. The Delta Sigs in losing dropped to fifth.

Theta Xi won its first game of the season Tuesday by defeating Phi Gamma Delta "B" two games to one on scores of 15-5, 15-9 and 10-15. The TX men thus finish the season in sixth place in league III while the Fiji Bees wind up in fourth.

Kappa Sigma took over undisputed first place in league II by walloping the Sigma Nu seniors in three games. The scores were 15-8, 15-12 and 16-14. The Kappa Sig victory in their remaining three games with Tau Kappa Epsilon or one Sigma Alpha Epsilon "B" loss in their three contests with the Tekes will give the Kappa Sigs the league II crown.
