Senator To Speak At 8 p.m.

Politics will continue to be the talk of the day as Sen. Estes Kefauver makes two public appearances on the University campus Monday.

Kefauver, candidate for the Democratic nomination for president, will make an afternoon appearance with Dr. Roger Shumate and Raymond McConnell, Jr. at a panel discussion in Love library auditorium at 5 p.m. The YWCA and YMCA are sponsoring the all-member-ship meeting, which is open to the public.

The Senator will speak on the national primary, and McConnell, editor of the Lincoln Journal, will discuss the all-star primary. Shumate, University professor of political science, will present the good and bad points of the present primary system, and will also criticize the national and the all-star primaries.

Questions from the floor will follow the panel discussion. According to Hester Morrison, YWCA representative, all questions directed to Kefauver must be on topics concerning his view-point on primary elections.

Kefauver's last appearance in the state will be at the Union ballroom at 8 p.m. Monday when he will speak to University students and faculty members.

According to Jean Davis, publicity chairman of the Union convocations committee, Kefauver has "pledged not to campaign but to talk on his stand on the important issues of the coming election."

Kefauver will return to Lincoln Monday afternoon from a southeast Nebraska caravan. The caravan left Lincoln early Monday morning, and will go through Beatrice, Fairbury and Crete.

The senator's appearance is sponsored by the University convocation committee. Members of the committee are Dr. Carl Schneider, chairman; Dr. George Rosenlof, Dr. Leroy Laase, Dr. Frank Sorenson, Duane Lake, Julius Cohen, Lynn Kunkel and Bob LaShelle.

Coed Counselors To Hold Registration This Week

All University women desiring to become Coed Counselors for the coming year may now register for membership.

Registration will begin Monday and continue through Friday at Ellen Smith hall and at Ag Union from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Coeds are eligible to file if they are registered for at least 12 hours. In the application, they must state their grade average, activities and affiliations. Coeds will sign for an interview time when applying.

Coed Counselors is a service organization on campus designed to help freshmen girls coming to the University. The new "big sisters" are asked to be on campus early in the fall when freshmen are most in need of help.

Each year the Coed Counselors plan a freshmen party in the fall. It is a get-acquainted affair. Entertainment is provided by the University students.

Letters are written to the new students during the summer. In

Delehant Hires NU Law College Senior

Donald R. Kanzler, 24, has proof that high scholarship pays off at the University College of Law.

Kanzler, who currently ranks the number-one man scholastically in the three-year 1952 law class, was chosen by Federal District Judge John W. Delehant to serve as his law clerk during the year beginning July 1.

A graduate of Wayne high school and of Wayne State Teachers college, Kanzler entered the College of Law in 1949. When he was graduated from Wayne, Kanzler said he hesitated to enter the teaching field because "I always wanted to be a lawyer and thought I wouldn't be satisfied until I tried."

Kefauver Boosters

Filings Open For Class, Student Council Positions

Filings for class offices and Student Council representatives open Monday.

Applications are available in Dean Hallgren's office, Room 209, Administration building. Filings may be made until Saturday noon of this week.

Candidate's names will be placed on the ballot and entered in the all-University election on May 5th.

Student Council college representatives may be from any college of which they are a member. They must be carrying 12 hours and have a 5 weighted average.

Representatives will be chosen by students in their college. There will be two representatives from the College of Agriculture, three from Arts and Sciences, two from Business Administration, two from Engineering, one from Law and one from Pharmacy and Dentistry, three from Teachers college.

President, vice-president, secretary and treasurer for next year's junior and senior class will also be elected. Any sophomore or junior may file for these offices.

A filing fee of $1 will be required this year from all candidates which is to be paid in the office of Dean William C. Harper, director of commercial enterprises. The receipt must be included with each application.

Candidates for Student Council representatives must have 25 bonafide signatures of students enrolled within his college. They must also sign the following statement:

"I hereby agree that if elected to the Student Council I will serve to the best of my ability and I will arrange my school schedule to permit my attendance at the regular meetings of the Student Council and filing dates for representatives from campus organizations will be announced later.

Beta Delta Plans Rally For Donors

Who will be the Beta Delta of the month?

A student will be awarded this title at the Beta Delta Rally, 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Union ballroom.

Shirley Murphy, Red Cross blood recruitment chairman, will present the Beta Delta a crown and pin. The award is given by the blood recruitment board on the basis of outstanding work for the blood committee or an outstanding blood donation.

Del Leinman, recruitment chairman of Lancaster county Red Cross, will speak to the rally.

Marine Technical Sergeant E. Welsh, Ordinance Chief, Marine Air detachment of Lincoln will describe the war in Korea and the importance of blood. He recently returned from active duty.

"Blood and Bullets," movie showing the use of blood donations, will be shown.

Blood donor's official song, "Hail Beta Delta," will be distributed to rallyers. The Red Cross College Unit will lead the singing of the song. It was written by Connie Gordon and Miss Murphy.

Red Cross blood donors are requested to sign the Beta Delta Memorial book. The book is kept in memory of University students who died during the Korean war.

RCU board members will lead the singing at the close of the programs.

Students should present a Red Cross blood donor's card as proof that they have given blood. Joan Perrin, Elaine Kagawa and Wilma Kindhart will be in charge of the guest book.

Jim Adams heads the special events committee which planned the rally.

Any organization which has 35 percent blood donor membership may receive a certificate of appreciation from the Red Cross. A representative should submit a complete organizational list with blood donors checked to Miss Kagawa at International house. The list will be confirmed and a certificate will be presented.

MY ROOMMATE

My roommate, Pierre is on a diet. He says he's wasting away. But he won't give me his blueberry pie.

My roommate has too many clothes. Almost none of them fit me.

My roommate has lots of pictures. He let me hang one of mine.

My roommate left a penny on his desk. It's no longer there. He hasn't missed it yet but when he does there will be a scene.

My roommate's check came this morning. It's bigger than he expected but he's mad because it isn't bigger.

My roommate never remembers who he is when he wakes up.

My roommate has borrowed a three cent stamp from me. I have entered the transaction in my ledger.

My roommate is being a wrestler now. He flips people.

He keeps grinning slyly at me. I hate being flipped.

Dear Diary: I hate my roommate.

Cloudy skies are expected to come and go without causing any heavy precipitation. High temperatures are predicted throughout the day.

Filings Open For Husker Handbook

Husker Handbook staff filings open Monday.

The handbook contains information about the University and is given to freshmen during fall registration.

Staff members will write and edit copy. Five students will be chosen for staff positions by the editors.

Application blanks may be obtained in Union, Room 306. Blanks should be filled out and returned to Room 308 by 5 p.m. Wednesday.

Interviews for applicants will be arranged later. Shirley Murphy is editor and Harriet Wenke is managing editor. Bob Peterson is business manager.

The 1951-52 handbook is being revised. Each staff member will be in charge of two sections of the book, according to Miss Murphy.

"Hellow Huskers" is the first section. It includes information on the administration, University history and welcomes from the chancellor and students council president.

"Husker Homes" describes men's and women's residence halls and costs and rules of housing on campus.

"Money Matter" includes information on University expenses, scholarships and students loans.

Rules and procedures concerning classes is included in "College Classes" section.

University activities are enumerated and described in "Activities Array."

"Social Sessions" section includes conduct rules for parties and descriptions of major social events on campus.

Annual traditions are included in "Husker Highlights" section.

"Husker Helpers" section explains University services.

"Your Year" is a calendar section of events for the year.

NU Debaters Win Annual Missouri Valley Tourney

Four University debaters returned from the University of Kansas Saturday as champions of the Missouri Valley Debate tournament.

The two Nebraskans — Doris Carlson and Joan Krueger — brought back two trophies, a permanent one and a traveling one. The debaters were victorious in 11 out of 12 debates which won them top honors.

Miss Carlson was second highest ranking negative speaker and Wayne Johnson tied for second honors among affirmative speakers. Miss Krueger was fourth ranking negative speaker, and Dale Johnson tied for fourth ranking affirmative speaker.

The women's team was the only undefeated pairing in the tournament. Two top teams from 11 colleges and universities traditionally strong in debate, all members of Missouri Valley association, participated in this year's meet.

Jack Rogers, freshman member of the squad, placed third in the extemporaneous speaking contest in which 17 were entered. Nebraska's other entry, Paul Laase, also qualified for the final round.

Third place in oratory also went to a University contestant, Charles Klisek, who spoke on the topic of elementary teachers.

Louisiana State university won second place in the tournament, winning nine out of 12 debates. Iowa State college placed third with a seven win, five loss record.

Miss Carlson and Miss Krueger defeated teams from the Universities of Texas, Kansas, South Dakota and Louisiana State and Iowa State college and Wichita college. Johnson and Johnson won decisions over the Universities of Colorado, Kansas, Oklahoma, Washington

Men To Debate Foreign Policy At Convocation

The question of "Whose Benefiting from our Foreign Policy—Russia or the United States?" will be debated at an all-University convocation Friday at 11 a.m. in the Coliseum. All classes will be dismissed.

Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr. and O. John Roggs will debate the problem.

Schlesinger, associate professor of history at Harvard, worked for the U. S. government's Office of Strategic Services from 1943-45. In 1945 he received the New York Newspaper Guild award for best book of the year for his "The Age of Jackson," and was also awarded the Pulitzer Prize for history.

Roggs served as special assistant to the Attorney General of the United States from 1943-46. He was involved in the prosecution of the Nazi war criminals after World War II, and has been active in groups set up to protect and preserve civil liberties. He is a Phi Beta Kappa and author of "Our Vanishing Civil Liberties."

This is the last all-University convocation, according to Lynn Kunkel, head of the convocations committee.

SEARCH WEEK Committee Considers Suggestions

Search Week closed its schedule with an evaluation luncheon Thursday, March 27. Members of the committee of one hundred, faculty advisors, student pastors, and team members contributed to the evaluation report to be given to the Religious Welfare Council at its monthly meeting Thursday, April 3.

The evaluation report was made up of attendance reports from each of the meetings, reports of the committee chairmen, suggestions from speakers and the results of a campus-wide poll. The attendance reports showed the Teachers college convocation to be the best-attended single event, with 350 attending Dr. Fleming's address. The second most inclusive single event was the closed Ag convocation which was led by Dr. Fleming. The breakfasts and the marriage series were best attended of the group series, with approximately 45 and 60 respectively. Classroom appointments improved over 1951 by 200 per cent.

The poll results showed that 42 attended at least one Search Week meeting out of the 115 that were contacted. Eighty-two knew of the week as contrasted to 14 that did not. Out of 94 students asked, 37 read the Daily Nebraskan thoroughly enough to be aware of coming events. Out of 115 polled, 32 attended religious services weekly, 74 attended sporadically.

Search Week will be held March 15-17, 1953. Plans are underway for the reconstruction of the committee and formation of a new team. Next year's convocations will be in colleges instead of being University-wide. House visitations will be held on Monday nights only.

Wedemeyer, who said he has never cast a vote before in his life, due to lack of residence resulting from his profession, said he will vote this year for the first time.

Names In The News

MICHAEL J. M'DERMOTT, department of state press officer, announced that the Syrian government would receive a formal protest in the near future against the bombing last week of the U. S. information service office in Damascus.

One Arab radio operator was killed in the explosion. None of the American members of the information office staff was hurt. The recent blast was the third in a series of similar incidents directed against U. S. property in Syria. The U. S. legation was bombed in 1950, and the residence of the American minister was damaged in 1951.

GEN. HOYT VANDENBERG, air force chief of staff, told a congressional committee that the air force is "attempting to make" its personnel wear suspenders.

Explained the general, when pants with belts are worn under the regulation battle jackets, shirts are apt to bunch up and create a "most disreputable appearance."

SALA MORTADA BEY, Egypt's public security director, announced that the Egyptian government uncovered a plot to smuggle arms and ammunition into the country.

Under these circumstances, the Bey explained, the martial law order would be extended until after the Egyptian elections in May.

NEBRASKA, scene of half the April 1 primaries in the nation, bundled boxes of ballots out to polling places to await Tuesday morning. After campaigns of varying degrees of intensity by candidates of varying degrees of confidence the state's voters prepared to cast their ballots for men to fill the positions of public trust. Within forty-eight hours the nation will know the preference of 300,000 Nebraskans, if that means anything.

GEN. DOUGLAS MACARTHUR delivered a speech in Jackson, Miss., which attacked the administration's domestic and foreign policy almost without let-up. Speaking in uniform, the general accused President Truman's administration of graft, high taxes, waste, and socialist practices.

University Musicians Honored

OUTSTANDING STUDENTS . . . Pi Kappa Lambda, national honorary music fraternity, has named 12 University music students to membership. They were chosen on the basis of high scholarship and outstanding musicianship. ID Cards Required In Voting

Lay aside that textbook, polish up your political buttons and march to the polls today for the first campus mock primary election to be sponsored by the YM and YWCA.

Every student, regardless of his age will have an opportunity to cast his ballot in this election.

Sylvia Krasne and Marvin Stromer, co-chairman of the mock primary, emphasized that when casting write-in votes, the candidates name should be spelled out correctly and an "X" must be placed in the box before the name.

The mock ballot will include names of all candidates for national and state offices and delegates and alternate delegates to the national convention.

The officers of president, vice-president, senator and delegates at large will appear on the national ticket. Due to a change in the Nebraska state law, voters will be allowed to express a first and second choice for the offices of president and vice-president.

The state ticket will list the following offices: governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, auditor of public accounts, state treasurer, attorney general and railway commissioner.

Students are eligible to vote in the election between 10 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. Monday in the Union, Ferguson hall and the Ag union. ID card must be presented in order to vote.

Unofficial results will be announced at the YM-YW panel discussion Monday at 5 p.m. in the Union faculty lounge. The Tuesday edition of The Daily Nebraskan will carry the official returns.

A mobile public address system operated by the Corn Cobs will assist in getting out the vote.

Participation in active campaigning will be allowed but may not take place within 100 yards of the polls, Miss Krasne said.

A voting board will be made up of two Republicans and one Democrat and a counting board, one Republican and one Democrat. The two-one ratio on the voting board alternates with each primary.

Pre-election registration has not been required because the University, taken as a Nebraska town, has a population of less than 7,000. Duplicates of Nebraska primary ballots will be used and the election will be conducted according to actual election procedure.

The purposes of the election are to emphasize the significance of a primary election, familiarize students with actual voting procedure, enable the voting board to compare votes and show the influence of student mock primaries.

The YWCA and YMCA are also sponsoring a panel discussion, "Primaries, Are They 'Eye Wash'?" Monday at 5 p.m. in Love library auditorium. Sen. Estes Kefauver, Dr. Roger Shumate and Raymond McConnell, Jr. will present the discussion on primary elections.
