

Daisy, Ivy Chains

Filings for participation in the Daisy and Ivy Day chains for unaffiliated girls are due Friday, April 11.

the DAILY NEBRASKAN

Voice of 6000 Cornhuskers LINCOLN, NEBRASKA

Monday, April 7, 1952

After College—What?

An editorial based on a new book, "They Went To College," appears on Page 2 today.

Assassination Hits UN Russian Delegates Walk-out

An assassination and three Russian walk-outs sparked the model UN conference on charter amendments which was held Wednesday through Friday.

While a Soviet delegate was speaking, the committee on modification of the veto was thrown into turmoil by a spectator who leaped to his feet shouting, "Down with Red Russia!"

Before the delegates could utter another word, a second man arose from the crowd and confronted the demonstrator with a pistol which was calmly leveled and fired.

The shocked committee sat stunned as three armed agents then forced their way into the chamber to retrieve the body.

The display of gangsterism was deplored by the chief delegate from Denmark, because some "blood" of the Heinz 57 variety was smeared on his trouser cuff.

Cy Johnson Elected New IFC Head

Cyrus Johnson, junior in the College of Law, was elected president of Inter-Fraternity Council Thursday night.

He is also president of Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Other officials elected are: Glenn Rosenquist, vice president, is a junior in arts and sciences.

Secretary is Robert Hasebrook, sophomore in arts and sciences.

Arnold Stern, freshman in law college, is treasurer. He is assistant business manager of The Daily Nebraskan and a member of Zeta Beta Tau, Kosmet Klub and Corn Cobs.

Inter-Fraternity Council supervises activities of all social fraternities at the University.

Chorus Rehearsal

Girl Crazy singing chorus rehearsal will be held at 7 p.m. Monday in Room 21, Temple.

University Students Win Art Recognition In Mission Show

Two University students recently won recognition by having art work shown in the 22nd annual exhibition at the Springfield art museum, Springfield, Mo.

An oil painting "Composition Number One" won honors in the exhibit for Mary Hartman.

Miss Hartman is a junior in Arts and Sciences college and is an art major.

Two pieces submitted by John Thomas were also accepted for exhibition. The winning pieces were an oil painting "Abstract Number One" and a drawing entitled "Let the Mourners Come."

Thomas is a senior in the College of Arts and Sciences majoring in art.

Entries were submitted by professionals, instructors and students throughout the country.

Entries were submitted by professionals, instructors and students throughout the country.

Entries were submitted by professionals, instructors and students throughout the country.

Entries were submitted by professionals, instructors and students throughout the country.

Entries were submitted by professionals, instructors and students throughout the country.

Entries were submitted by professionals, instructors and students throughout the country.

Entries were submitted by professionals, instructors and students throughout the country.

Entries were submitted by professionals, instructors and students throughout the country.

Entries were submitted by professionals, instructors and students throughout the country.

Entries were submitted by professionals, instructors and students throughout the country.

Entries were submitted by professionals, instructors and students throughout the country.

Entries were submitted by professionals, instructors and students throughout the country.

Entries were submitted by professionals, instructors and students throughout the country.

Entries were submitted by professionals, instructors and students throughout the country.

Entries were submitted by professionals, instructors and students throughout the country.

Entries were submitted by professionals, instructors and students throughout the country.

Entries were submitted by professionals, instructors and students throughout the country.

Entries were submitted by professionals, instructors and students throughout the country.

Entries were submitted by professionals, instructors and students throughout the country.

Entries were submitted by professionals, instructors and students throughout the country.

Entries were submitted by professionals, instructors and students throughout the country.

it happened at nu...

Little things occasionally go wrong in the best organized productions and plans. One of these occurred during the Aquanettes show Friday night.

The first number in the show was supposed to be a snappy, military drill accompanied by a lively march. "Anchors Aweigh" was played for the production, but the sound man was evidently more interested in the show than what he was doing.

The record was played at 33 rpm speed rather than conventional 78! The result was 12 ceds performing a snappy military drill in slow motion.

The best laid plans of mice and men...

Jr.-Sr. Prom Set Royalty To Be Presented

Jr.-Sr. prom, with presentation of the prom king and queen, will climax Ivy Day activities May 3.

Candidates for king will be nominated by women's houses, and queen candidates will be nominated by men's houses. Each house will select one candidate and one alternate.

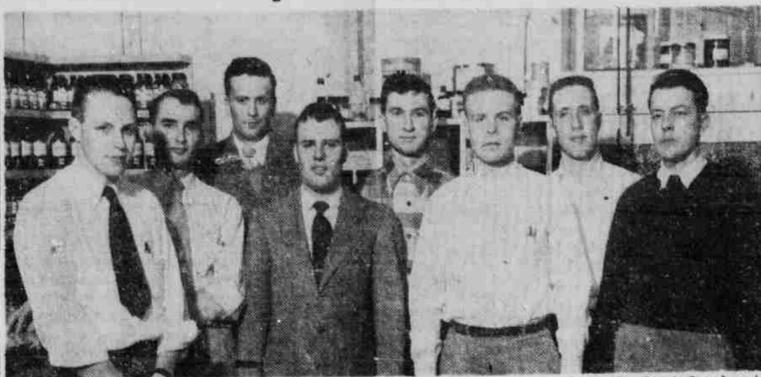

The candidate must be a University junior or senior, have a 4.5 average and be carrying a minimum of 12 hours.

Six women and six men finalists will be chosen. Judges for men candidates are Mary Augustine, assistant dean of women; Mrs. Hedy Neumann, instructor in architecture; Marjorie Mengshol, advertising director of Magee's; Peggy Pray, director of religious activities at Westminster Presbyterian church; and Mrs. Fern Hubbard Orme, Lincoln city council.

The women finalists will be selected by Ollie Macee, Charles Simon, Jim Swanson, Rex Knowles and Dean Frank Hallgren.

All candidates will be judged $2.50 each.

Pharmacy Students Honored

NAMED TO RHO CHI... Nine University pharmacy students have been selected for membership in Rho Chi, national honorary pharmaceutical fraternity.

Seven Campus Groups Open Filings For Board, Council Positions, Offices

Filings are open in at least seven campus organizations this week. Offices in several principal University activities and the class offices are yet to be filled.

Tassels Filings are open from Tuesday until April 25 for membership in Tassels, women's pep organization. All Ag-at-large and all unaffiliated at-large women who wish to join Tassels should leave their names either at the city campus Union activities office or at the Ag Union activities office.

AUF Position Interviews will be held Wednesday noon for applicants for the position of faculty solicitations chairman.

NUCWA Students seeking offices in the Nebraska University Council for World Affairs may file until Wednesday, April 9.

Class Officers Candidates for class officer positions may file in Dean Frank Hallgren's office, Room 209, Administration building, until Thursday at 4 p.m.

Ag Union Applications are due before vacation for five committee chairmen and four sponsors of Ag Union activities.

Names In The News PRESIDENT HARRY S. TRUMAN had scarcely unpacked his sun-tan oil after returning from his recent Florida vacation when the political mud hit the fan.

ADLAI STEVENSON, governor of Illinois and believed to be President Truman's personal choice for the presidential nomination, announced that he was only interested in running for governor again.

PRIME MINISTER DANIEL MALAN of South Africa thumbed his nose at the South African supreme court and referred to the justices as "appointed and paid by the government."

FOREIGN POLICY DEBATERS... O. John Rogge (L) and Arthur M. Schlesinger, Jr., gave opposing views on "Who benefits from American Foreign Policy—United States or Russia?" at an all-University convocation Friday.

Use of money saved by disarmament for development of under-developed areas.

Stockpiles of resources in other countries by the United States to be in effect, a return for our aid of the above point.

Seven Seniors Selected For Symphony Concert

Seven department of music seniors will perform with the University Symphony orchestra in a concert Tuesday evening in the Union ballroom.

The seniors, chosen for their outstanding ability by their classmates to take part in the concert, are Warren Rasmussen, Barbara Gilmore, Peggy Bayer, Janice Liljedahl, Denny Schneider, Jack Anderson and James McCoy.

The program, sponsored by the Union music committee and presented by the School of Fine Arts, will begin at 8 p.m.

Rasmussen will open the concert with "Concerto in B flat for Bassoon" by Mozart. The selection includes two parts—"Andante ma Adagio" and "Allegro."

"Third Symphony, Opus 78 for Organ and Orchestra" by Saint Saens will be next on the program. Miss Gilmore will be soloist.

Peggy Bayer, soprano, will sing "De puis le Jour" from "Louise," by Charpentier.

Janice Liljedahl will be soloist for "Concerto in E flat for Violin" by Beethoven. The number includes "Allegro Moderato."

"Concerto in E flat for Trumpet" by Haydn will be played by Denny Schneider. Included in the selection are "Andante" and "Allegro."

Bass Jack Anderson will sing "Vision Fugitive" from "Herodiade" by Massenet.

To complete the concert, "Concerto in E flat for Piano" by Liszt will be played by James McCoy.

After a nice cool weekend, its nice to have a little spring again. Skies today should remain fair to partly cloudy and no precipitation is expected.

An impetuous young Phi Delt negotiated a date with a pair of Siamese twins one night. "Have yourself a good time!" asked his awe-stricken roommate later.

"Well," reported Phi Delt, "Yes and no."

And there was that fraternity man who was thrown out of the toy department of a local store because he just didn't know where to stop his experiments.

He squeezed one doll until it hollared "mama." Then he squeezed another one and she yelled "floorwalker."

"I think your boy-friend is wearing a new kind of suit," said Rose.

"Not at all," said Lily. "Well, he looks different," insisted Rose.

"It's a new boy-friend," explained Lily.

Barbato Discusses Psychiatrist's Duties The chief duty of a University psychiatrist is to work mostly with the 90 per cent of college students who do not have mental irregularities, according to Dr. Barbato, who spoke at Love Library auditorium Friday morning.

Dr. Barbato, University of Denver psychiatrist, gave a College Health Day address as a part of the combined sectional meeting of the American College Health association being held at the University Friday.

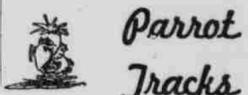

Most of the 10 per cent of college students with mental difficulties can be helped sufficiently in three or four interviews, Dr. Barbato said, and the others should be referred to private psychiatrists.

The college psychiatrist should be free to spend most of his time, according to Dr. Barbato, developing and maintaining emotional maturity in the other 90 per cent.

The Denver psychiatrist drew a parallel between an emotionally immature student and a poor driver. Both, he said, make it dangerous for others in their respective societies.

Dr. Barbato cited the plan set up by the University of Denver for cooperating between the school of education and the psychiatric clinic.

Each prospective teacher, the

By CHARLES KLASEK Staff Writer

The clerk at a campus book store told a student "Here's a book that will do half your work for you."

"Great," said the student. "Give me two of them."

"No, sir," he said, "I cannot accept your offer of a cocktail at this hour for three reasons. First: I promised my mother never to drink during the school day. Second: Liquor before lunch incapacitates me for study all afternoon. Third: I had three just before you came in."

Warm

And there was that fraternity man who was thrown out of the toy department of a local store because he just didn't know where to stop his experiments.

He squeezed one doll until it hollared "mama." Then he squeezed another one and she yelled "floorwalker."

"I think your boy-friend is wearing a new kind of suit," said Rose.

"Not at all," said Lily. "Well, he looks different," insisted Rose.

"It's a new boy-friend," explained Lily.

Barbato Discusses Psychiatrist's Duties

The chief duty of a University psychiatrist is to work mostly with the 90 per cent of college students who do not have mental irregularities, according to Dr. Barbato, who spoke at Love Library auditorium Friday morning.

Dr. Barbato, University of Denver psychiatrist, gave a College Health Day address as a part of the combined sectional meeting of the American College Health association being held at the University Friday.

Most of the 10 per cent of college students with mental difficulties can be helped sufficiently in three or four interviews, Dr. Barbato said, and the others should be referred to private psychiatrists.

The college psychiatrist should be free to spend most of his time, according to Dr. Barbato, developing and maintaining emotional maturity in the other 90 per cent.

The Denver psychiatrist drew a parallel between an emotionally immature student and a poor driver. Both, he said, make it dangerous for others in their respective societies.

Dr. Barbato cited the plan set up by the University of Denver for cooperating between the school of education and the psychiatric clinic.

Each prospective teacher, the

Schlesinger, Rogge Debate U.S. 'Collective Resistance' Policy

Opposing views on who benefits by American foreign policy were taken Friday morning by Arthur M. Schlesinger, Jr., and O. John Rogge, who debated that question at this year's last all-University convocation.

Schlesinger, Harvard historian, contended that the Americans do have a foreign policy which he termed a policy of "collective resistance to aggression through creation of positions of strength."

This policy, according to Schlesinger, arose from a series of specific crises following the war and includes building economic strength through UNRA, the Marshall plan and Point 4; and military strength through the Truman doctrine, NATO and Korea.

He stated that "extraordinary progress" has been made toward European unity and that the U.S. must remember that, particularly in Asia, military might is no good unless accompanied by economic and political strength.

He concluded that our present policy is "wise" and the "best calculated to conserve world peace."

Rogge, New York attorney, on the other hand, declared that if the U.S. has a foreign policy at all, it has not been made evident. He called for a positive program in addition to Schlesinger's "peace through strength."

He declared his opposition to German rearmament in any case and to "making a deal with Franco Spain" and said that through lack of a positive program we have reversed sides.

"We were first allies of Communism against Fascism, now we are allies of Fascism against Communism."

FOREIGN POLICY DEBATERS... O. John Rogge (L) and Arthur M. Schlesinger, Jr., gave opposing views on "Who benefits from American Foreign Policy—United States or Russia?" at an all-University convocation Friday.

His positive program would include the following points: 1—World wide censuses of atomic and all other armaments with inspection by a "watch-dog" committee of the United Nations.

2—Disarmament.

3—Use of money saved by disarmament for development of under-developed areas.

4—Stockpiles of resources in other countries by the United States to be in effect, a return for our aid of the above point.