Sixteen Students To Embark On Tri-State Field Trip Friday

By DICK RALSTON Feature Editor How would you like to spend spring vacation on a tour through Wyoming, Utah and Colorado? That's exactly how 16 Geology students under Dr. William Gilliland are planning to spend their vacation. Starting Friday at 7 a.m. these students will leave on a Geology field trip designed to demonstrate the contrast between the geological formation here in Nebraska and those in nearby regions. "Each spring class," explained Dr. Gilliland, is taken to a region where the geology is not the same as here in Nebraska. Dr. Gilliland pointed out that field work is one of the most important phases of geology and said that students prepare for it weeks ahead of time through study and reports of the various types of formations expected to be found. The group will start at Lincoln and travel to Laramie, Wyo. Saturday night will be spent at Lander, Wyo. The next stops are all in Utah: Heber, Vernal, Provo, Gunnison and Green River. Glenwood Springs and Denver, Colo., are the last stops on the ten-day trip before returning to Lincoln April 20.

Colorado Vote Defeats Proposed Honor System

A proposed honor system at Colorado A&M was defeated last week by almost a two to one vote. However, students voted two to one that the honor system idea is a good thing, but indicated that they felt the proposed plan is inadequate and that they were rushing into the program too quickly.

Students wishing to adopt the honor system voted on one of three plans that they would prefer to have in effect. The plan approved by most students was that on a first offense a warning would be made, second offense a failing grade in the course in which the offense occurred.

For Professors Only

At Lehigh university the school paper has drawn up suggestions for professors on how to be popular. The prime requisite is a soft, caressing speaking voice, which is more conducive to sleep, of course. Instructors who gesticulate with their hands were termed social failures. Those who don't smile were also frowned upon.

Nasty Prof Resigns

An Arlington State college professor last week resigned from the college faculty after being accused of telling obscene stories in his English classes. Undisclosed sources report that his many students are regretful of his sudden departure—now they never will get the punch line to the last joke.

Still Water Runs Deep

Students who seldom speak in class may be learning more than the professor thinks, according to a study at the University of Chicago.

The study also showed that most students actually have their minds on the lecture about two thirds of the class period. The other third of the time their minds wander. Professors get three tips from the researchers: Don't make too many wisecracks; don't be antagonistic; don't make the important points in the early lectures.

K-State Yearbook Sued

The Royal Purple yearbook at Kansas State College is likely to be sued by a highly dissatisfied customer. He's a senior who posed for the yearbook picture in a wig, a high stiff collar and a pince-nez, and who has hinted he'll sue the yearbook if it doesn't use the photograph. "I don't need to give any explanation," he said. "I gave them my dollar and a quarter. That's enough."

The Royal Purple has refused to print on the grounds that students must pose in their normal wearing apparel. The senior calls this policy "discriminatory and characteristic of undemocratic institutions."

Tips From Temple

Drama majors, take a tip from a Temple university student. On week-ends Arthur Zigouras is a clown. Employed by a local candy company, he visits 30 to 40 super candy raffles to children. "It markets each week-end giving out helps my acting ability," he explained.

Bars At Bowdoin

President K. C. M. Sills of Bowdoin college presented his arguments against excessive drinking in college to the underclassmen of that school recently in a chapel talk. His main complaint was that too much drinking was going on in the fraternities and the "very name of 'bar'" within fraternity houses has a bad connotation and an unfavorable effect on the college's reputation. The bars now in use are structures in the basements of the houses, used for the party weekends throughout the year. Therefore, most undergraduates protested the belief that there was too much drinking. They further stated that if any drinking problems in existence would have to be solved if the bars were taken out.

Makes Sense!

A final word of sensible logic: A sensible looking girl isn't always as sensible as she looks, because a sensible girl would have more sense than to look sensible.

Archeologists Will Convene At NU Friday

Students, teachers and members of museum staffs from the Dakotas to Texas will be on campus next week for the Plains Archeological conference.

The University laboratory of anthropology will be hosts for the conference to be held April 11 and 12 at Burnett hall. Papers on a variety of subjects concerning plains people will be read at the general session on Friday, April 11.

Two symposiums will be held Saturday. A paper conducted by Dr. Jany B. Griffin from the University of Michigan will discuss "Problems of Plains Woodland Culture." Dr. Carlyle S. Smith will lead the afternoon panel on "Problems of Pottery Classification on the Plains."

All meetings will be open to the public. The Plains Archeological conference is a yearly event at the University. It is an informal association of persons interested in anthropology and archeology.

Dean Morrison New Leader Of Paladians

Dean Morrison was elected president of the Palladian Literary Society, Saturday night.

The vice-president-elect is Alice Meyers. Ethel Woodward is the recording secretary and Jackie Knore is the corresponding secretary. Jim Ellington was appointed to fill the office of historian vacated by Ethel Woodward.

Mary Anne Stasch will assume social chairman responsibilities and Jack Lange repeats as treasurer.

The following were initiated into the society: Jackie Knore, Terry Jones, Carol McDermand, Richard Kelly, Fred Strider and Warren Underwood. After the formal initiation ceremony, the initiates were treated by the actives.

SPRING VACATION NU Students Plan To Ski In Colorado

More than thirty University students will spend spring vacation skiing in Colorado. Others will spend their time in Florida, Arizona, and other vacation spots. Three Phi Kappa Psi's left for Tucson, Ariz., Tuesday, where they will spend a week visiting John Schroeder, a former member of the University Phi Kappa Psi's. The students are Jerry Schiermeyer, Robert Sherwood and Richard Paschal.

Bob Johnson, Arne Shersheim, Jim Wells, George Rothell, Bob Mosher, Clyde Moller, Dixie Petersen, and "possibly a few more" students from Delta Upsilon will drive to Miami.

Ira Epstein, Gene Wohlner, Ramon Pred and Maurice Lipton from Sigma Alpha Mu will spend Saturday in Omaha. Elaine Esch, of Delta Gamma will go to St. Petersburg, Fla., with her parents to spend the week on the beach.

Of the skiing party, all except five of the students, who will go by train, will ride to Colorado in cars. Jim Foley, sponsor of the group, said ten cars will drive.

The group has rented Timmer House Lodge, near Lawson, Colo., at Winter Park, for four days. Foley said they will spend the time skiing "on the west side of the Rockies" at Bertrand Pass.

The students who will go to Colorado are: From Sigma Alpha Epsilon: Jerry Desmond, Bill Miller, Bill Cronin, John Leech, Bud Ward, Jack Phillips, Gus Lebeck and Jim Hoover.

From Phi Gamma Delta: Richard Olson, Ronald Raitt, Wayne Handshy and Jerry Robertson. From Alpha Tau Omega: Ted James.

From Beta Theta Pi: Suby Ruma, Harlan Wiederspan, Bob Howey, Charley Swingle, Jerry Siegel, Gene Johnson, Jim Foley and Colorado university Beta, John Rinehardt.

From Kappa Kappa Gamma: Blythe Thomsen, Jean Loomis, Marcia Beckley, Bonny Varney, Betsy Thomsen and Sue Bryant.

From Alpha Omicron Pi: Dottie Raapke, Lucille Anderson and Gretchen Hein.

From Pi Beta Phi: Patricia Healey and Ruth Purney. From Zeta Beta Tau: Justin Horwich and Jack Cohen.

From Sigma Chi: Jack Morrow. Mary Desmond, a University graduate, and Mr. and Mrs. John Palmroy will also accompany the group.

'Show Must Go On,' RCCU Entertainment Unit Motto

By CONNIE GORDON Society Editor

Planning and scheduling two entertaining programs a month is a fairly big task; but according to Norma Erickson, head of the Red Cross College Unit entertainment committee, such a task is met and accomplished each month.

Miss Erickson is in charge of the committee which takes two programs a month to the Veterans hospital and the State hospital. Though these programs may contain the same material, there is always new planning and scheduling to do.

Miss Erickson does not plan the programs herself. She has a central committee composed of five University students who aid her in the necessary arrangements for each program. These committee members are: Marvin Stromer; John Willock; Marian McCulloch; and Carolee Rogers. The central committee and Miss Erickson locate the talent for each program and schedule rehearsals. In addition, they make future arrangements on when they are to appear at the two institutions.

In commenting on how the programs are usually received, Miss Erickson said that "they always seem to enjoy them quite a bit."

Producing a "short one-act skit" usually requires about two weeks of rehearsal, Miss Erickson said. She added that most of these skits are ones that have proved successful in high school and other school presentations.

In addition to the regular program work done by this committee, they also plan special productions for various programs. A recent example of this planning was shown at the Red Cross March Fund drive show held at the Cornhusker hotel. The RCCU entertainment committee presented a program for the Lancaster Red Cross County workers. Mary Stromer, who directed the production, is also director of the next program to be taken out to the two institutions. The program will include a Minstrel show and a Charleston trio.

Purses Should Match Color, Texture Of Shoes

Dolly McQuistan

I will try to get my column back to normal again. There will be no more April Fool columns for another year, that is unless there is a demand for it which I hardly doubt.

Like many other students I have been writing a few of those required thousand word papers, but believe me I'm going to shy away from it in this column for The Daily Nebraskan's benefit.

About this time everyone is wishing they wouldn't have spent so much for their Easter outfit or else they are wishing they could buy more. But regardless of this there are always the little things that we wait to get at the last minute. You probably have already purchased your shoes but have you thought about what kind of purse you are going to wear with them?

For Easter most women usually buy a matching bag of the same texture and color as their shoes. Since we always have to look towards the future you probably will not be using the same type of bag later on than the one you are wearing for Easter.

Emphasis will be placed on the straw, linen, and beaded purses. The most important type of straw purse will be the Raffica in its

Better Check Yourself; You Might Have Measles

Measles, measles, who's got the measles? Have you? Your sore, bloodshot eyes may not be just a remnant of that lost weekend. Feel any bumps behind your ears? Take a look in the mirror. Sunburn doesn't form in spots you know.

Yes, measles have become a public health problem at the University. Last month 74 cases were reported to the Student Health center while there were only two cases reported in January and two in February. Already this month 22 cases have turned up. The three-day German measles which are plaguing the campus do not attack severely and complications rarely arise.

"Some students don't even know they have and they continue to attend classes," reports Dr. Samuel I. Fuenning, director of Student Health. "The main danger is that the disease does not cause illness, so students come to school and expose the others."

The University may be in the middle of an epidemic and not even realize it because the cases are not being reported. "We want to know how much of the University population has measles so we'll know if we are having an epidemic or if these are just a few cases. If you come down with them please call us or come in," urged Dr. Fuenning.

Be on the watch for these warning signs: a general feeling of illness, swollen lymph glands behind the ears and along the hair line, sore, blood-shot eyes, a rash on your face, and perhaps a slight sore throat or fever.

Kansas University was hit by an epidemic of measles a little while ago, we might have one too. For the protection of others and the prevention of an epidemic, stay home for the full 7-day isolation period. Even though these are the three-day measles you are still infective to others for another four days.

Recruitment Lieutenant To Visit NU

Men interested in the navy officer candidate program will have an opportunity to talk to Lieutenant J. P. Spicuzza from the Omaha office of Naval Officer Procurement Thursday, April 17, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The main scholastic requirement for those interested is such a program is that the man be either a college graduate or be within 120 days of receipt of a degree. He must also be physically fit and between the ages of 19 and 27.

If he is selected, he will receive four months of intensive training at Newport, R. I., and upon successful completion will be commissioned an ensign USNR. He will be required to serve on active duty for a period of three years unless he has had prior military service, in which case the required three years will be reduced accordingly to a limit not less than 15 months.

University ME Students Build Model Jet Engine

A jet engine, now being perfected by University mechanical engineering students, made its radio debut this week.

The engine, a replica of the type used on guided missiles, was presented on a KFOR newscast Tuesday. Students Stanley Scott and William VanKampen explained the operation of the engine.

The jet engine project was begun last year by Professor H. E. Westgate of the mechanical engineering department. It will be one of the displays presented during Engineers Week.
