Coeds To Visit Bermuda, Colorado, Flood Areas

By SARA STEPHENSON Staff Writer

The snow's here again. And what do you think of when you think of snow? Spring vacation, of course! Luckily many University students are traveling quite a ways from this lovely spring weather we're having.

Nevertheless, seven Kappa Deltas—Mary Lou Beerman, Margaret O'Conner, Judy Morgan, Kay Burcum, Naomi George, Cathy Melmin and Neala O'Dell—appear to be stepping from the frying pan right into the fire as they returned home early to South Sloux City in order to arrive there before the expected flood.

Even the Kappa Alpha Thetas' can't seem to get enough of wet weather as Barbara Lucas, Lesley Grainger, and Ginny Noble plan to journey to Colorado's snow-covered mountains to practice up on their shins.

Also joining in on the skiing will be Barb Turner, Margaret Weston and Marlene Stroh, Delta

E-Week To Start With Open Houses

Engineer's week will begin with open house April 24.

Exhibits will be shown in all of the engineering buildings beginning at 2 p.m. Friday classes will be dismissed at 11 a.m., with an all engineering convocation to follow.

John Clema will be guest speaker at the convocation. Clema is an 1930 electrical engineer graduate from the University.

He is manager of Nebraska Association of Rural Public Power Districts.

Engineering students will hold a field day in the afternoon. An annual banquet will follow that evening. Charles Johnson is chairman of the banquet, John Adams is chairman of the convocation committee and R. L. Phelps is chairman of the field day picnic.

NU Debate Teams Argue At State Pen

Whether compensation for athletic participation should be abolished was the topic four University debaters argued at the Nebraska State Penitentiary Tuesday evening.

Before an audience of about 275 men, the two teams, Doris Carlson and Joan Krueger and Dale Johnson and Wayne Johnson, discussed the topic they had debated at the annual Missouri Valley Debate tournament at the University of Kansas recently.

Marvin Friedman, Red Cross chairman, who arranged the program with officials at the penitentiary, introduced the speakers and served as chairman.

Miss Carlson and Miss Krueger upheld, athletic compensation while Johnson and Johnson opposed awarding of scholarships.

Essays Accepted In Tri Sci Undergraduate Competition

Undergraduate student registered in a course in the departments of anthropology, social work or sociology. Essays must be on a subject covered by the above fields of study and must have been written since September, 1951.

Alpha Kappa Delta, national sociological honorary fraternity, has contributed prize money. First prize will be $15; second prize, $10, and third prize, $5.

Papers must be submitted to Max N. Burchard, Room 109B Social Sciences, by 4 p.m., Friday, April 25. Details regarding announcement of winners and presentation of prizes will appear in a future issue of The Daily Nebraskan.

All classes are taught by student teachers, and each instructor teaches only one class. There are 85 students getting practice experience at Teachers high. Each class is closely supervised by a members of the Teachers high faculty.

Dr. Morton said many more applications are received than may be accepted, making it possible to maintain a typical student body. The student body is limited to approximately 200 students because of limited space.

Dr. Morton explained that the major function of Teachers high is to provide practical teaching experience for seniors in Teachers college.

His policy, he said, has always been to maintain teaching conditions comparable to those the student will meet in outside high schools.

'Ramblin' Don' Carringer Airs Two KNUS Shows

By TOM NUSS Staff Writer

A solid link in the chain of KNUS programs is a sophomore from Ag college. He's Don Carringer, a major in dairy husbandry, whose ambition leans toward radio announcing.

Participating on KNUS for the first time this semester, Carringer started a new type of program on the KNUS schedule and jumped to the opportunity of handling many radio students who hesitate to tackle. To complicate matters, he airs both shows on the same afternoon—only 15 minutes apart.

"Round Up Time" (3:30 Tuesday) is Carringer's new venture on KNUS. Carringer, known as "Ramblin' Don," spins a typical western show complete with dialect. When asked why he chose a show of western music, Carringer jokingly replied, "Cause my wife is crazy about it."

But not joking, Carringer says there is a place for western programs in Nebraska, and he wants experience with that type of show. The disc jockey is also interested in experience in script writing, microphone technique and radio speech.

Carringer has an excellent opportunity to learn all three on his second program. After "Round Up Time," he sheds his chaps, tennegallon hat, and western accent to interview a foreign student on "Shake Hands With the World" every Tuesday at 4 p.m.

Carringer scans the campus for students from foreign lands and interviews them about their countries. After selecting his candidate, he prepares his interview days in advance and then "sweats out" the appearance of his guest before air time. Carringer claims the latter is half the worry of producing this show.

Still not satisfied with work on these shows, Carringer is on hand to help with other KNUS duties, including board announcements, helping with planning and promoting KNUS programs and observing shows other than his own. It's quite a challenge for a student with no formal knowledge in radio technique, but it's also an opportunity available to any student on the campus.

Students Assigned To New Positions On Station Staff

New positions have been assigned to the KNUS staff.

Assignments on the University radio station are rotated mid-term in conjunction with advanced radio courses.

The new assignments are as follows: Claire Wurdinger, program director; Darlene Fiscus, continuity; Tom Nuss, promotion; Johnny Wooden, news director.

Continuing their work on the technical angle of juggling the studio controls are Jim Crump, Dick Blinn and Ken Walters.

More than 30 students participated on KNUS under the supervision of radio instructors, Erling Jorgensen and Paul Shupbach.

Whisker Picture

Ag students growing whiskers for the Farmers Fair Whisker King contest are to meet at 7:30 p.m., on Thursday, April 17, in the College Activities building for a picture.

Judging of the beards will be the following Thursday, April 24, by a faculty committee.

Council OK's New Policies Of Yell Squad

The revised policies of the University Yell Squad were approved by the Student Council Wednesday.

According to the revised policies, the Yell Squad will be made up to 12 members. Eight of the 12 will be male members—three freshmen and three upperclassmen and two freshmen alternates. The four women members of the squad will be two freshmen and two upperclassmen.

After discussion on the revised policies, the Council voted their approval.

Miriam Willey, chairman of the judiciary committee announced that April 28 had been set as the final date for all organizations to have filed their constitutions with her committee.

A discussion on the proposed by-laws for the Student Council constitution concluded the meeting.

Lawrence Elected 1953 RWC Head

Lois Lawrence was elected president of Religious Welfare council Thursday.

Dave Cargo was elected vice president. Other officers for the 1952-53 term are Sharon Cook, recording secretary; Gene Wohler, corresponding secretary; and Ray Engstrom, assistant treasurer.

Ken Rystrom was nominated for Student Council representative. The representative, however, will be elected at the May Religious Welfare council meeting, as provided in the new constitution of the Student Council.

Laughing Matter

An eagle-eyed mortician noticed an old crane shuffling away from a funeral service at his parlor, and asked her how old she was.

"One hundred and one," cackled the old lady proudly.

"Well, well, said the mortician suavely, "Hardly worth going home, is it?"

Terrace Hall Coeds Entertain Orphans

Coeds at Terrace hall entertained 18 children from St. Thomas orphanage Saturday afternoon.

The children, whose ages ranged from three to 10, were entertained at Terrace hall with an outdoor Easter egg hunt and a variety of indoor games.

The children were served ice cream and cake. The tables were decorated with Easter rabbits and baskets of Easter candies.

Chuck Marshall, Red Cross College Unit board member, was in charge of the transportation of the children to and from the party.

Studies Of Plains People To Highlight 9th Annual Archaeology Conference

Reading of 11 papers on plains people will highlight the opening day of the ninth annual Plains Archaeological conference at the University Friday.

Saturday's program will include two symposia and adjournment. The University department of anthropology will be host of the conference with meetings scheduled for Burnett hall.

According to tentative plans, registration will begin at 9 a.m. Friday in the laboratory of anthropology. The Friday sessions, from 9:30 to noon and from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. in Room 104, Burnett hall, will feature 11 papers on a variety of subjects.

Paper to be read include: "Excavation of Rook Village in the Garrison Reservoir Area of South Dakota," by Donald D. Bartle, Smithsonian Institution, River Basin Surveys.

"Resume of work at Old Fort Berthold," by James H. Howard, State Historical Society of North Dakota.

"The Second Season at the Talking Crow Site (39BF3)" by Carlye S. Smith, University of Kansas.

"A Report on Excavations at Fort Stevenson, Garrison Reservoir in 1951," by G. Hubert Smith, Smithsonian Institution, River Basin Surveys.

"A Preliminary Study of the Pottery from Seven Upper Republican Sites in Central Nebraska," by George S. Metcalf, Smithsonian Institution, River Basin Surveys.

"The 1951 Excavations at Sculp Creek, South Dakota," by Wesley R. Hunt, Jr., University of South Dakota.

"Southern Cult Art Motifs on Archeological Specimens from the Plains: A Problem in Cross Dating," by Franklin Fenenga, Smithsonian Institution, River Basins Surveys.

"Work at 'Early Man' Sites on Medicine Creek, Nebraska State Museum in 1951," by E. Mott Davis, University Museum.

"The Oacoma Sites, Fort Randall Reservoir, South Dakota," by Marvin F. Kivett, Nebraska State Historical Society.

"The Lunch Site, Boyd County, Nebraska," by Marv Louise Freed, University

"Excavations in the Keyhole Reservoir Area, Northeastern Wyoming," by Richard P. Wheeler, Smithsonian Institution River Basins Surveys.

Saturday's agenda begins with "Symposium on Plains Woodland Cultures" at 9 a.m. in Room 108, Burnett. James B. Griffin, director, museum of anthropology, University of Michigan, will be chairman.

A second symposium, on "Classification of Plains Pottery," will begin at 2 p.m. in Room 108. Leader will be Carlye S. Smith, curator of anthropology, museum of natural history, University of Kansas.

Sigma Tau Selects 27 New Men

Sigma Tau, engineering honorary, elected new members Thursday.

Sigma Tau is a national all-engineering honor fraternity, founded at the University in 1904. Thus the University chapter is Alpha chapter.

The fraternity recognizes scholarship, sociability and practicality in engineering students of all divisions of engineering college. Candidates must be of junior standing, be in the upper one-third of their class and be elected unanimously by the active chapter. Those elected were:

Architectural Engineering: Ray Eugene Andrews—senior.

Agricultural Engineering: Leonard E. Korte, Kenneth L. Von Barga—seniors.

Civil Engineering: Robert L. Archer, Jack Allen Dale, Scott G. Cast—juniors; Harvey W. Headley, Dorrance Oldenburg—seniors.

Chemical Engineering: Richard W. Holm, Ruben B. Miller—juniors.

Electrical Engineering: Elmer H. Brejcha, Donald L. Mortensen—seniors; Robert B. Klein, John A. Marks, Victor J. Roh, Stanley W. Smith, Curtis E. Sorenson, Donald F. Yoder—juniors.

Presby Student House Delegates Tour Omaha Vets Hospital Chapel Saturday

Delegates from the Presbyterian-Congregational student house spent Saturday afternoon in Omaha investigating practical building aspects for a proposed inter-denominational chapel on campus.

The group toured the chapel in the Veterans Administration hospital and talked with the Rev. Mr. Berquist, full time minister for the hospital.

The chapel is constructed to accommodate Protestant, Catholic and Jewish worship services. This is accomplished by the use of a revolving altar with three sides which are visible one at a time. Each side has an altar especially constructed for use in one of the three different types of service.

Ideas gained from the afternoon's inspection will be incorporated in further plans and consultation with University administration and student pastors.
