Suggests NU Students Censure Recent Riots

An all-University convocation dealing with the recent riots at the University has been called for 10 a.m. Tuesday by Chancellor R. G. Gustavson. Attendance at the convocation will be required Gustavson said Thursday. The convocation, labeled by the Chancellor as an "informal get-together" to bring out student opinion on how to deal with the rioters and how to prevent the occurrence of future outbreaks, will be held in the Coliseum.

'Spring Fever' Riot Arouses National Publicity, Criticism

By TOM WOODWARD (Staff Writer)
What began as a small water fight and developed into the "spring fever" riot at the University has aroused comments, opinions and much criticism from the state and national scene. From the Lincoln Star came many words such as, "scavengers," "fraternity men," and "looting" taken from sorority houses. Included in the Star's report came the statement, . . . "water flowed one foot deep in the men's dorms. . ."

The Daily Telegram of Columbus brought out in careful detail the fact that "men" had splattered girls' jeans with paint. The Daily Telegram took a very acrid view of the whole affair as did the Norfolk Daily News of Norfolk, Nebraska, reading of the whole affair and the figure for the damage—$700.

George Cobel, Student Council president, will preside at the convocation. "I feel the situation cannot be ignored and should not be ignored," Gustavson said. "I want to give the students a chance to handle the problem."
He suggested that the following resolutions be passed at the mass meeting:
1. Complete disapproval of the rioters' actions by the student body;
2. A Pledge by the student body to prevent another such occurrence;
3. A promise by the student body to block a riot if one should occur.

'Undercover' Author To Speak At NU Today

John Roy Carlson, alias George Pognanelli, will speak on undercover work in Europe and the Arabic world in the Union Friday. The meeting is scheduled for 3 p.m. in Parlors XYZ, the Hillel foundation, the Jewish student organization on campus, is the sponsor of the Carlson speech. Carlson has spent more than seven years associated with subversive groups and their activities. He was editor and writer of many of their publications. "From Cairo and Damascus," Carlson's latest book, deals with the work and facts about the Israel nation. Some of the problems which are answered in the book are why the Egyptians are fighting the British, why the Arabs hate the United States and why the Middle East is aflame. He gained the material for this book while posing as an Arabian. Other books which deal with underground activities are "Undercover," which exposes the activities of the American Fascist party; "The Plotters" which is concerned with the attempt to influence World War II veterans by Fascist and Communist organizations. He is author or supervisor of several magazine articles dealing with subversive activities. Some of these articles are "Our Fascist Enemies Within" and "Voice of Defeat." "Voice of Defeat" appeared in Fortune magazine in 1943.

Carlson's other activities included association with the Service Bureau for Interculture Education, which conducted research for a series of 26 nation-wide broadcasts, sponsored by the U. S. Office of Education.

Into a history lecture the other morning tripped a little lady that brought complete surprise to the rest of the class and caused the instructor to pause and direct his attention toward her.

"The 'little lady' was a woman older than the college coed and was dressed in street attire—with all the trimmings of a hat, gloves and a purse.

"My son is enrolled in this class and could not attend this morning. I'm going to take notes for him."

And so the "little lady" mother sat down, took notes and played a college role for the ensuing hour.

Friend—'Ah, professor, I hear your wife has had twins. Boys or girls?'

Prof (absent-minded)—'Well, I believe one is a girl, and one a boy, but it may be the other way around.'

Looks like our sunny, warm weather has come to an end for a short while. The forecast is thunder showers today with a high of 70 degrees.

Prof—'Who was Talleyrand?'

Stude—'A Showers fan dancer, and cut the baby talk.'

He—"Pardon me, but you look like Helen Greene."

She—"So what? I look worse in pink."

Tryout—"What's the Board of Student Publications?'

Editor—"Any group of people who can see three meanings in a college joke that has only two meanings."

Blake—"Why has a woman never been President?'

Duke—"Don't you know the President has to be over 35."

Those of you who are complaining about coming back on the 31st of May to take a final exam, should stop and think about the poor student who has to come back and graduate on June 2.

The annual University art show will be held at 2 p.m. in Morrill Hall art galleries Sunday.

Works of nearly all students taking art courses will be on exhibit.
