

All-State Program Planned For June

Music, art and speech work will be on the agenda for 375 to 400 high school students attending the annual University School of Fine Arts' All-State this summer.

All-State has been scheduled from June 5 to 25 with David Foltz, newly-appointed director of the department of music; Manfred L. Keller, assistant professor of art; and Harlan H. Adams, instructor of speech and dramatic art, directing music, art and speech respectively.

Assisting Foltz with music will be David Fowler, instrumental director at Northeast high school, band; Emmanuel Wishnow, orchestra; and Arthur Murphy, creative music.

Three hundred to 325 students are expected to take part in music activities.

Music classes will be held in the same manner as University classes. They will begin at 9 a.m. and be held morning and afternoon five days a week.

Orchestra, band, chorus, ensemble groups in voice and band, and individual instruction will be included in the program for music students. Classes will be taught by University instructors and ensemble groups will be directed by student counselors, University instructors, summer school students, and high school teachers enrolled in summer school.

Concerts in band, chorus, orchestra and ensemble groups will be held in addition to recitals by individuals throughout All-State.

Phil Rueschoff will assist Keller with art department activities.

Classes will be held in all areas of artistic expression, sculpture, painting and drawing.

Art classes will have somewhat more freedom than regular University classes, according to Keller, but will be held during the regular hours.

The art department expects about 20 participating high schoolers.

Speech work will include theater, interpretive reading, choral speaking, debate and public speaking.

John Tolch, Maxine Trauer-nicht and Bruce Kendall will assist Adams with instruction in these areas. Theater and debate will be included in the morning schedule, with the other subjects taking precedence in the afternoon.

One-act plays will be presented throughout the session and public debates and a choral speaking performance will be held.

Fifty-two high school students will be attending the speech division of All-State.

The agenda for all students participating will include tours of Lincoln, picnics, dances and stunt nights in addition to the classes, recitals and scheduled work.

Students from Nebraska will be attending All-State and in addition Kansas, Iowa, South Dakota, Minnesota and Missouri are usually represented.

Arrival Of Yearbook Reveals Six Beauty Queens For This Year

Marilyn Mueller, Jane Fletcher, Adele Coryell, Janice Jacob, Audrey McCall and Demaris Riddell are the 1952 Cornhusker Beauty Queens.

The comedy team of Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis chose the winners from head studies and full-length shots of each of the finalists and the results were revealed Monday.

Miss Mueller's activities include Red Cross, NU Builders, Coed Counselors, and Student Union. She is a freshman in Ag College and a member of Alpha Omicron Pi.

Miss Fletcher, Kappa Alpha Theta and a junior in Teachers, is in Red Cross, YWCA and Builders.

Miss Coryell is vice president of AUF, managing editor of the Cornhusker, president of Kappa Kappa Gamma and a member of Pi Lambda Theta and Mortar Board. Miss Coryell is a junior in Teachers.

YWCA, Builders, Coed Counselors, and head of the organization, and organized houses division of the Student Director are Miss Jacob's activities. She is a member of Alpha Phi and a freshman in Teachers.

Miss Riddell, vice president of Delta Gamma, was princess of the American Royal Livestock and Horse Show, belongs to Delta Phi Delta, art honorary, Alpha Kappa Delta, sociology honorary, is a member of W.A.A. and the YWCA.

The six other finalists are: Marilyn Brewster, Alpha Phi, freshman in Ag College; Lee Ellen Creaman, Kappa Alpha Theta, junior in Teachers; Joann Finney, Gamma Phi Beta, junior in Teachers; Doris Newman, Kappa Kappa Gamma junior in Teachers; Pat Gilbreath, Kappa Kappa Gamma, senior in Teachers; Mary Caharth, Delta Delta Delta, sophomore in Teachers.

The candidates were selected by organized houses which were allowed to send one girl for each 25 Cornhuskers they sold with a limit of 3 from each house. Fifty-two contestants were judged Dec. 11 by five judges; two Cornhusker staff members, a dancing instructor, a hair dresser and a dress stylist.

All entrants were judged as superior, very good, good, average, or fair on carriage, walk, poise, hair, complexion, make-up, eyes, expression, grooming, effect of clothing, colors, proportion and general appearance. The twelve finalists were then revealed at the Mortar Board's Black Masque Ball, Dec. 14.

Requirements for entering the contest were a 4.5 weighted average and a course load of at least 12 hours.

NU Students Stage 'Riot' For Yearbooks

By DICK RALSTON
Feature Editor

One thousand students staged the University's third riot Monday afternoon.

From 1:30 to 4 p.m. students mobbed The Daily Nebraskan and Cornhusker offices to get their 1952 yearbooks.

The mob began when 1 o'clock classes were out and gradually diminished until 3 p.m. when the 2 o'clocks were out. At that time the mob overflowed into The Daily Nebraskan office and finally out into the hall.

At 4 p.m. the tired Cornhusker staff locked their doors and posted signs saying they were sold out for the day. A thousand students went away happy with their maroon yearbooks. The rest were told to come back Tuesday.

The staff will receive 300 yearbooks every day for the rest of the week and will give them out as long as they last each day.

If students want their Cornhuskers mailed to them they must inform the Cornhusker staff in advance. Books will be mailed by C.O.D. only.

Stoner Selected To Attend Troy Convocation

Lee Stoner, instructor and supervisor of social studies in Teachers college high school, has been selected to be a guest of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute at a three-day convocation May 16, 17 and 18 at Troy, N. Y.

During the meeting, a symposium will be conducted to show the relationship of the oil industry to economic progress. Approximately 2,000 guests will attend.

Persons outstanding in oil, general industry and in the field of economics will be present either as speakers or as discussion leaders. Invited guests will present their own questions.

The Industrial Council, dedicated to the role of bringing to public attention the part played by industry in "the common purposes of life," was formed early this year.

Over a six-year period, the council will devote itself to the creation of a continuous association between industry, authors of social study textbooks, teachers of social studies and the general public.

Builders To Hold Representative Meet Wednesday

District chairman of Builders and all students interested in encouraging high school students to attend the University may attend a special Builders meeting Wednesday at 5 p.m. in Parlor C, Union.

At that time, according to Bob Hasebrook, head of district chairman committee, pamphlets, First Glances and material to be used when talking with prospective University students will be distributed.

Lists of graduating seniors from high schools over the state will be given to students from these towns with the idea that the high schoolers are to be contacted about attending the University, Hasebrook said.

Ken Keller, assistant director of public relations, will speak at the meeting.

'Round The Campus

No one tried to bat my face across any tennis courts this weekend; so consequently I can write the column this time. I want to thank Jan Steffen for taking my place last column time.

Well, on to the news of the day.

The Fijis held their "Fiji Rose Formal" last Friday evening in the Terrace room of the Lincoln hotel. A Smorgas-board dinner started the affair and the table was decorated with a Phi Gam pin made of ice surrounded by roses. Each of the Fijis' dates received a dozen roses.

For the first time in Fiji history, a "Fiji Rose Sweetheart" was chosen. Appropriately enough, Mrs. Minier, the Phi Gam house-mother, was chosen to receive the honor.

Some of the Fijis' and their dates were: Paul Grimm and Barb Wyble; Bob Swaim with Pat O'Brien; Leo Geier and Jean Louden; Con Woolvine and Sharon Fritzer; Bill Karrer and Bev Bush; Tony Elstetter and Anita Spradley; Emerson Scott with Jerry Landgett; Bill Sherrick with Joanie Hanson; Deane Doolen with Jan Carter; Don Pederson and Ginny Commins; Jerry Masteck with Lee-Ellen Creaman; Jerry Robertson with Dolly McQuilton; Don Larson with Dot Lowe; Dick Coffee with Jean Speidel; Glenn Rosequist and Pat Bechan.

New Husker Handbook Nears Completion Date

Husker Handbook is on the homestretch.

According to Shirley Murphy, editor, the layout for the book will be complete by Friday. The handbook is distributed during New Student Week registration.

Different features include an index, new section and cover.

The index will replace the table of contents. "Campus Conduct" is the new section. To replace "College Classes" and to include University rules and selective service ruling for men.

A Husker Handbook signpost with "52-'53" inscribed will be maintained for the cover. However, the book will be white with blue inscription and plastic spiral binding rather than red.

In revamping this year's book the staff condensed it into 93 pages from 104. Most of the work included revising and adding to the present information.

Mimi Duteau replaces Jim Harrison on the Handbook staff. Miss Duteau is in charge of "Husker Highlights" and "Your Year" sections.
