'Know-Hows' To Begin Wednesday

Tradition Explanation To Open First Program

"Nebraska Does It This Way" will be the first theme of the Coed Counselor's Campus Know-How series Wednesday.

The skit, beginning at 5 p.m. in Love Library auditorium, will explain various University traditions such as Ivy Day, College Days, Farmers Fair and the Military Ball.

The series are designed to aid freshmen coeds in gaining knowledge about college life.

The successive programs will be Oct. 1 and Oct. 5. The second skit is "College Daze" and will also be presented by Coed Counselors.

The third skit will be presented by AWS and will be called "Preview to Activities Mart," which will explain the various activities on the campus and will explain the workings and planning for the activities mart.

Elizabeth Gass, President of Coed Counselors, urges all freshmen coeds to attend the three skits, as they can be very helpful.

Dean's Tea Inaugurates Social Whirl

700 Women Gather For Official Greeting

The University social season was officially opened Friday with the annual tea, given by the dean of women and her staff.

Approximately 700 women students attended the tea held in Eileen Smith Hall.

Greeting the guests as they arrived was Sylvia Krane, Mortar Board president. In the receiving line with Dean Johnston was Mrs. R. G. Gustavson; Helen Snyder, assistant dean; Mary Augustine, assistant to the dean; and Jean London, AWS president.

The girls were then greeted by the Mortar Boards.

Faculty women and one representative from each women's organization on campus assisted with the serving.

Dean Johnston said that she was especially pleased that she was attended by the freshmen women.

The refreshments for the tea consisted of sherbet and cakes.

Debate Team To Hold First Meet Tuesday

All University students interested in intercollegiate debate, discussion or other forensic activities are invited to attend the first meeting of the debate team Tuesday at 7:15 p.m. in Temple 203.

Previous experience is not necessary, according to Don Olson and Don Kline, co-directors of the debate team.

The national intercollegiate debate question for this year is, Resolved: Congress should enact a compulsory fair employment practices law. The national topic for discussion this year is: How can we most effectively combat Communism.

The debate squad for the coming year will be organized and plans discussed at the meeting.

Last year 20 members of the debate squad participated in 200 intercollegiate meets. Wayne and Dale Johnson won second place in the St. Thomas tournament at St. Paul, Minn. Paul Laase and Jack Rogers won the Moorhead, Minn., tournament. The Johnsons, Doris Carlson and Joa Krueger won the Missouri Valley Conference.

According to Olson, the squad is looking forward to another big year this year and is anxious to welcome prospective members.

A F to Discuss Cadet Training

An aviation cadet selection team will be at the Union Sept. 25 and 26 to discuss recent changes in policy in the aviation cadet program and to explain the program.

A man must have a minimum of 80 semester hours to qualify for cadet training. The Air Force is primarily interested in men with degrees, but applications will be accepted from men who are discontinuing their college training before graduation.

The selection team will give preliminary eye examinations to men who wish to qualify for pilot or observer training. If the man passes this eye examination, an application for training will be sent to the Lowry Air Force Base Classification Testing Detachment in Denver.

The applicant will receive government paid transportation to Denver for further testing to determine his ability to fly. If qualified, the applicant will be given a four month draft deferment and will be enlisted in the Air Force for two years as a cadet.

Sparkman To Visit NU All-University Convo Slated For Tuesday

By TOM WOODWARD Staff Writer

Sen. John Sparkman, Democratic vice presidential nominee from Alabama will be the first speaker this fall at the University convocation Tuesday, 10 a.m. in the Coliseum.

The convocation is scheduled as an all-University event but classes will not be dismissed for the speech.

Prof. Carl J. Schneider, chairman of the convocations committee, said that the request for Senator Sparkman's appearance at the University came from Willard Townsend, Lancaster County Democratic chairman.

Senator Sparkman was born in 1899 near Hartsell, Ala. His father sharecropped, but was far busier in the local politics of the area. As a result, Sparkman's family had an income that frequently dropped below $200 a year.

After graduation in 1917, the Senator borrowed $75 and left for the University of Alabama. During college he earned money by pushing wheelbarrows of coal into the University heating plant.

In spite of his financial difficulties, he took part in many university activities. One of his classmates relates, "John always used to tell me: 'Don't watch a parade—get in it.' If you get in an organization—sit in the front row and be part of everything."

Following college, he married Ivo Hall and practiced law in the city of Huntsville for 10 years.

The political fever which the Senator contacted led him to campaign for a house seat. He was so successful that a four-piece band, hired by one of his opponents, shifted its alliance and played at Sparkman's rallies.

Going to Washington as a freshman senator in 1937, he became the protégé of a senior senator and, with his aid, Sparkman became a power in Congress.

Senator Sparkman's attitudes on certain political points is not clearly known at this time, but in 1950 he stated, "We Southern democratic Senators—21 of us—are banded together and pledged to use every parliamentary device possible to defeat civil rights legislation."

In 1950 the State Department selected Sparkman as one of the five U. S. delegates to the U. N. General Assembly. Senator Sparkman's big moment came when he delivered a brilliant speech in answer to the Polish delegate's charge that the U. S. land-compromise program was not as extensive as the program in Communist controlled Poland.

"Time" says of his work, "In the Senate, Sparkman has not been a standout on the floor. He is most effective in Senate committees (Foreign Relations, Banking & Currency, and Small Business.) His best work seems to come when meetings become very heated, and his great ability to use facts comes forth in the form of a diatribe."

Many fraternity pledges may have the wrong address and phone number in the directory because they registered before changing their new address and phone number should call the directory office today between 1 and 5 p.m.

Person listed below would call or drop into the Builders office sometime today during the office hour. The Student Directory office is room 305, Union. To call the office call the University and ask for extension 4231.

Union To Boost Membership Roll Five Day Drive Opens Today To Fill Committee Vacancies

A concentrated Union membership drive for new Union committee members will begin Monday and will continue through Friday.

Applications for the committee positions will be accepted in the Union Activities Office, Room 211, daily from 1 to 5 p.m.

All upperclassmen and male freshmen are eligible for membership in a Union committee. Each applicant will be interviewed by a Union committee chairman or board member to ascertain the committee in which he would most enjoy participating.

Positions are open on all Union committees. Nancy Hemphill, chairman of the Union Personnel Committee, said that because of the many committee vacancies, most students would probably be able to serve on the committee of their choice.

Union committees play an important part in planning and executing the activities sponsored by the Union. Each committee is in charge of a specific phase of Union activity work.

The committees, their chairmen and secretaries, and their duties are: Personnel, Miss Hemphill and Lynn Turner. The Personnel Committee is in charge of orientation meetings, brochures and general get-togethers including the Activities Outing, the spring picnic and the annual Union award meeting.

Marilyn Hamer and Sherry Clover are in charge of the Music Committee. Their duties include keeping charge of the Union music room, sponsoring record sales held during the school year and planning various concerts including the Christmas carols concert and the Spring Orchestra Concert.

The Budget Committee, under the direction of Mike Holyoke, is the all-over planning committee of the Union. This group receives and screens each committee's budget. It also receives the financial summaries and keeps a general accounting of all committees.

Jean Davis, chairman and Ann Skold, secretary are in charge of the convocations committee. Members of the Convocation Committee direct all Union-sponsored convocations.

Jack Nelson, Delores Carag and Marilyn Lane head the Social Dancing Committee. This committee sponsors Union dances. These dances include everything from free juke box dances, to combo, orchestra and name-band dances. The planning and execution of Union dances are taken care of by this committee.

Mary Ellen Slagc, Chairman and Norma Gauer, Norma Carce, and Mary Lou Glun, secretaries, are in charge of the Union General Entertainment Committee. The major responsibility of this committee is the Sunday night

Filings For Jr.-Sr. Council Open Today

Filings open Monday for positions on Junior and Senior Class Councils.

Applications will be accepted through 4:30 p.m. Friday at the Student Activities Office.

Six council members from each class will be chosen from applicants on Monday, Sept. 29, from 4 to 6 p.m. in the Student Council office. Juniors and seniors wishing to file must have a 5.0 cumulative average.

Don Pieper, senior class president, stated that an active program is planned for this year. He also added that the success or failure of this year's program depends entirely upon the interest shown by the members of the two classes.

University Marching Band Presents First Fall Show

The University ROTC marching band made its first appearance of the season at the Nebraska-South Dakota football game on Saturday.

At half time the band formed a large letter "A" in the center of the field and surrounded it with four letters "D" in such a way as to form the word DAD, in honor of Dad's Day. They played "What's The Matter With Dad?", "For He's A Jolly Good Fellow" and waltzed to "A Wonderful Guy."

The second band formation was one of a four-leaf clover accompanied by, you guessed it, "I'm Looking' Over A Four-Leaf Clover."

The marching band from the University of South Dakota also entertained during the half time with their version of "The Greatest Show On Earth." The show featured three rings, a pair of baton twirlers, a high-wheeled bicycle and a merry-go-round.

Jack: "To keep their mouths shut so they won't disturb themselves."

It was lovely weather we had for the game, wasn't it? The weatherman expects much the same thing for today. My personal opinion is that it will rain, but I'm a pessimist anyway.

A University student went to a doctor, complaining of prolonged headaches. The doctor told him to stop smoking.

"I never use tobacco in any form," replied the student.

"Well, then stop drinking," suggested the M.D.

"I'm a total abstainer."

"Late hours then, and fast women?"

"I'm always in bed by nine. I'm a bachelor and stay with my invalid aunt. Now, seriously, what causes my headaches?"

"I don't know," said the puzzled physician. "Maybe your halo is pinching."

Virtue is learned at Mother's knee, but vice at some other joint.

"No, get out and stay out."

"But I'm the sheriff."

"Oh, I'm sorry. Come in, I thought that was a fraternity pin."

Capitol and faced the east stadium as they played "There Is No Place Like Nebraska." Their last formation was SDU accompanied by "Hall South Dakota."

Following the victory over SDU, the Nebraska band led a victory march downtown.

Throughout the rest of the year the band will have part in all games and rallies. Tentative plans are being made to attend the Colorado game at Boulder and the band will go along on the chosen migration trip. They will also play for two ROTC parades and the Military Ball.

After the football season the band will be broken into two groups, the concert band and the brass choir. The concert band will be heard at a performance in the spring and will probably go on tour through several Nebraska towns.

The band also appears at every basketball game played in the Coliseum during the season.

Under the direction of Don Lentz, the band will finish the season with performances at the Ivy Day ceremonies in the spring and at commencement.
