

Sparkman Cites Fear

Praises Rise In Public Welfare During Demo Administration

Freedom from fear is the foremost issue facing the voter when he goes to the polls this November 3, said Senator John Sparkman in a speech Tuesday.

Sparkman, making an off-the-cuff address at the University Coliseum, did not say just what he feared the voter should be free from.

He did give strong indications that two problems were of paramount importance in this year's election: foreign relations, and economic stability in the U. S. Of foreign relations, the senator said that he wanted peace, and had a real knowledge of world problems. He said that his experience on the Foreign Relations Committee in the Senate, and as a United Nations representative, had given him a clear insight into the foreign relations problems that we are facing today.

He said that it is most important that we let the underprivileged countries of the world know that we are more than willing to help them solve the problems. Sparkman said that our world today cannot survive another war of the same scope as the last World War, with the terrible weapons of destruction developed recently.

Sparkman remarked that our country has had a steady rise in the welfare of all the people since the Democrats took the governmental helm, 20 years ago.

Sparkman said that as a farm raised man, he knew the problems that faced the American farmers during the years just before the Democratic rise to power. He remembered lost savings, and old people looking forward to their unproductive years with apprehension because they had no good pension system. Now, he said, we have the Federal Deposit Insurance plan, and Social Security to avert such apprehension, despite stiff Republican opposition to both of these plans.

Corruption is a major political issue, Sparkman said. The Republican candidates have said much about corruption, but they do not call attention to their record of 20 years ago. The Democratic party faced and met the tremendous task of cleaning up of the most corrupt governments ever known to this country when they took office 20 years ago.

He called attention to Governor Stevenson's corruption busting reputation. Stevenson got this reputation when he cleaned up the corruption left by eight years of Republican leadership in the state of Illinois.

Sparkman also answered Republican charges of dishonesty in government employees. He said that only 174 cases of irregular practices in government offices had been found. He pointed out that there were over 2 1/2 million government employees, and that the percentage for dishonesty for government employees is far lower than in some other fields.

The Senator also called attention to the great power and farm help programs instituted under Democratic administration. The REA, one of the farm programs, was resisted by Republicans every step of the way, and was passed only when the Democrats were able to win the support of the few Republicans who voted in favor of the plan.

The 80th Congress received much attention in Sparkman's address. He called attention to the fact that this was a Republican-dominated Congress, and asked all to note the short duration of the Republican advantage.

His reply to Republican charges of creeping socialism was that their claims were completely unfounded, and that their claims were based on two bills that are not laws: The Socialized Medicine Bill and Brannan Farm Plan. Of these two bills he said that they were not laws and would never be accepted as law.

The Senator ended his speech by saying that he knew the American people would realize the issues at stake, and he was very confident as to the outcome of the November elections.

COLBERT ANNOUNCES

Nothing Official On NU Migration

Amid a flurry of rumors and accusations concerning University migration, band trips and Student Council action, came the voice Tuesday of Dean of Student Affairs J. P. Colbert, declaring that "nothing is official."

The Dean Monday night called a meeting of student leaders to confer with him Wednesday noon to eliminate misunderstanding and confusion surrounding the migration question.

In calling the meeting Dean Colbert declared:

1. That the University band is definitely going to the University of Colorado game.
2. That the band is definitely not going to the University of Kansas game.
3. That the administration has ruled out the possibility of a migration to Colorado.

Although the Wednesday noon meeting was called only to determine "where we stand and what it (the confusion) is all about," it appeared that the results of the meeting would seriously affect the action of the Student Council when it convenes Wednesday afternoon.

At the Council meeting, according to President Wayne White, the action taken at last week's meeting—proposing a migration to Kansas—will be reconsidered in the light of "the events which have occurred since the last meeting."

These "events," since no official action has been taken on migration, undoubtedly include:

1. The denied rumor that the band would not attend the Kansas game, even if migration were to KU.
2. The increasing cries of "To the Rockies," which began immediately following the Council's nearly-unanimous vote in favor of the Kansas migration.

Before the rumor concerning the band's refusal to attend the Kansas game was denied, President White declared, "A migration cannot be successful without the band." He added that, if the band did not go to Lawrence, a migration as recommended by the Council would be impossible.

Any action taken by the Council will go to the Faculty Senate's Student Affairs Committee, headed by Colbert for acceptance or refusal. The Committee cannot authorize an official migration without a definite request from the Council.

The calling of the Dean's meeting seemed to indicate that the committee has not considered the Council's recommendation and that it desires a further study into the opinions of students.

The Council action last week followed a discussion in which the great distance to Boulder and expense involved ($40 or more, according to estimates) loomed as insurmountable obstacles to a Colorado migration. A Kansas trip was recommended by the Council because of the low expense and the possibility of large student participation.

The opposition, however, which has arisen during the week against a Lawrence expedition, together with reports concerning the band's plans, has seriously complicated and clouded the migration issue.

White declared that the Council would probably recommend to the administration that the official migration to KU, as proposed, be forgotten and that an unofficial migration to Colorado—that is, without University sanction—substitute this year.

Regardless of Council or administration action it appeared Tuesday that a large number of students were planning on the Colorado trip. One University student has chartered two buses student has chartered two buses offering a round-trip ticket for $18.95.

Pep Rally For Huskers Set Friday A.M.

An early morning pep rally will be the send-off for the Cornhuskers as they leave for Portland, Ore., Friday morning.

The team will breakfast at 7:30 and leave for the airport at 8 a.m. Corn Cobs, Tassels, and Corn Cob workers will be present on the Union steps to lead the rally as well as pep band and cheerleaders.

Danny Fogel, rally chairman, said that the rally will break up in time for students to be on time for 8 o'clock classes. It will begin at 7:30 a.m.

Fogel urges all students to be present to see the team off for this second and important game.

House Party Starts Delian-Union Year

Delian-Union will open their year's social activities Saturday, Sept. 27, at 8 p.m. with a house party at the home of Clark Gustin, alumni sponsor, 2233 D street.

All independent students are invited to this event. Students desiring to attend should contact Ormand Meyer, 3-5672, or Clark Gustin, 3-4245, before Saturday morning.

Park To Head AUF Speakers Bureau

Eldon Park has been named head of the All University Fund Speakers bureau, according to Rocky Yapp, vice president in charge of publicity.

Park replaces Bob Hasebroock who resigned from the position. Park's other activities include Builders treasurer and a Student Council member.

Union Dance Tickets To Determine Winner Of Campus Beauty Contest

Twelve finalists for 1952-53 Calendar Girl were selected last night. They will be presented during intermission at a dance in the Union at 8:30 p.m. Friday. The Calendar Girl will be chosen by the vote of ticketholders at the door. Tickets for 50 cents each are being sold at a booth in the Union lobby.

Service Certificates To Be Presented At Homecoming Dinner

The annual Faculty Homecoming Dinner will be held Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. in the Union ballroom. Included on the program will be two 20-minute talks by staff members who have returned from abroad.

The speakers will be Dr. Carl E. Georgi, who studied for a year at the University of Paris, and Dr. Albin T. Anderson, who visited Sweden and other Scandinavian countries. Following these talks new staff members will be introduced.

Twenty-five year service certificates will be presented to the following faculty members: Miss Evelyn Metzger, assistant professor of Home Economics; Miss Carolyn Ruby, associate professor of Home Economics; Dr. H. A. Pagel, professor of Chemistry; Dr. C. G. Lowe, professor and chairman of the Department of Classics.

Dr. A. L. Lugin, professor of Geology; Dr. C. C. Camp, professor of Mathematics; Dr. D. A. Worcester, professor and chairman of the Department of Educational Psychology and Measurements; Dr. W. H. S. Morton, professor of Secondary Education; and A. G. George, Assistant Agricultural Economist.

The following staff members who have retired since July 1 will be recognized: Dr. T. A. Keiselbach, professor of Agronomy; Dr. H. H. Marvin, professor of Theoretical Physics; Dr. John P. Senning, professor of Political Science; Dr. J. E. Weaver, professor of Plant Ecology and F. J. Chase, Assistant Extension Economist.

Miss Mabel Lee, professor and chairman of the Department of Physical Education for Women, has left to fill an educational assignment in Iraq.

Because of insufficient space, only faculty members will be allowed to attend the dinner. The tickets are $1.35 and may be purchased at the door by those having reservations.

Committee Approves Cornhusker

Picture On Cover Features New Look

Plans of the Cornhusker staff to produce one of the highest quality yearbooks in Nebraska history got the green light Tuesday from the Committee on Student Publications.

The committee, headed by Dr. R. V. Shumate, gave Don Noble, Cornhusker Business Manager, authority to spend $550 above contract price to give the 1953 Cornhusker a full-color "tip-in" picture on the cover.

A second request from Pat Bechan, Cornhusker Editor, and Noble, to boost the quality of the yearbook's paper also won committee approval. The high quality stock will cost $225 above the contract price.

To get these concessions, however, the Cornhusker management agreed to forego attendance to the 1953 meeting of the National Collegiate Press Association's yearbook section. The meeting is scheduled in New York City.

Business Manager Noble said the Cornhusker budget could not be stretched to cover both the increase in quality for the book and representation at the meeting.

"It's our position," he said, "that the money belongs in the book rather than New York."

On its own motion, the committee voted to increase the salary of the Cornhusker Associate Editor, Julie Johnson, from $40 to $50 per month. The committee expressed the opinion that the associate editorship should carry a slightly higher salary than the managing editorships which are set at $40.

Gus Knows

By LILA WANER Staff Writer
Overheard last June—
Landlady: A room with a bath is $10 a week—without bath it's $3.

Student: I'll take one without a bath. I'm just staying for summer school.

Pessimist: One, who when given a choice of two evils, chooses both.

The weather?? Your guess is probably better than mine. Let's say clear, cool (very cool), sunny weather today. OK?

Lipstick is something that gives a d d d flavor to an old pastime.

Irate (angry) student: I don't think I deserved a zero in this quiz.

Agreeable professor: I don't think so either, but when I graded the papers I was in a generous mood.

Lawyer: No, I'm sorry, miss. You can't collect alimony just because he wants his fraternity pin back.

The Bill Albers combo will play for the dance. A trio will sing numbers typical of the four season of the year as the Calendar Girls are presented.

The 12 finalists were chosen by Dean Linscott, president of Builders; Miss Anderson, beautician at Gold's; Miss Workman, advertising manager at Hovland's; Robert Michaelson, hairdresser at Simon's, and Mrs. F. D. Hastin, house chaperon at the Residence Halls for Women.

They were judged on the basis of beauty, poise and personality. Finalists are:

Jean Kjeldgaard, Kappa Delta; Connie Clark, Alpha Chi Omega, chosen by Farmhouse; Ruthann Lavine, Sigma Delta Tau; Nancy Hemphill, Pi Beta Phi; Virginia Holloway, Sigma Kappa; Marlene Rees, Alpha Omicron Pi; Cynthia Holyoke, Kappa Alpha Theta, chosen by Beta Theta Pi; Betty Stratton, Delta Delta Delta; Gracia Eyth, Kappa Alpha Theta, chosen by Delta Tau Delta; Katy Kelley, Chi Omega; Pat Nellis, Alpha Chi Omega and Grace Burkhardt, Delta Delta Delta.

NU Traditions Topic Of First CC Program

At 5 p.m. Wednesday, Love Library Auditorium will be the scene of the first Coed Counselor "Campus Know-How" program.

The presentation, "Nebraska Does It This Way," is an informal skit consisting of University traditions and customs.

The series is sponsored for new coeds who will be accompanied to the programs by their Coed Counselor big sisters.

Participating in the Wednesday skit will be:

Nancee Peterson, narrator; Jo Ann Meyer, Mary Fuehlburth, Myrle Pickett, Barbara Lucas, Jean Steffen, Donna Folmer, Mildred Snyder, Darlene Goadding, Marilyn Hamer.

Robyn Ryder, Barbara Hershberger, Mary Jane Mapes, Eileen Mullarky, Sandra Daley, Winnie Stolz and Elizabeth Gass.

The second skit will be Wednesday, Sept. 27 at 5 p.m. in Love Library Auditorium and entitled "College Daze." The series will conclude with "Activity Mart Preview" Oct. 6.

Sue Reinhardt and Jo Johnson are co-chairmen of the series.

Soil Conservation Society To Meet Thursday P.M.

The University Student Chapter of Soil Conservation Society of America will hold a monthly meeting in Room 306, new Agronomy building, 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

It is the first student chapter ever established. Any student interested in conservation should attend this meeting, according to Arthur Kuhl, Secretary-Treasurer of the group.

Two Photographer Posts Remain Open Pending Report By Adviser, Ken Keller

A report showing The Daily Nebraskan ended last year $4,210.84 in the red prompted the Committee on Student Publications Tuesday afternoon to take a long, hard look at the newspaper's financial affairs.

The first result of the Committee's attitude was a decision to defer appointment of a staff photographer, pending a report from Ken R. Keller, Cornhusker and Daily Nebraskan adviser. Keller was instructed to see if an economy plan could be developed to curtail photographic and engraving costs. A quick survey of costs indicated that these two items cost The Daily Nebraskan about $2,300 last year.

Dr. R. V. Shumate, Committee chairman, said that until Keller's report is received, the committee would also hold up appointment of a head photographer for the Cornhusker to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of Dick Axtell. Axtell was named head photographer for the yearbook last May but resigned Sept. 10.

At its meeting, the Committee heard two applicants for the Cornhusker photography post and two for The Daily Nebraskan spot. These applications will remain under consideration pending receipt of Keller's report.

The Committee took a second economy step in deciding against allowing funds for two representatives from The Daily Nebraskan to attend the annual meeting of the National Intercollegiate Press Association which will be held this year in New York.

Robert Pinkerton and Leonard Zajicek, applicants for The Daily Nebraskan photography assignment, told the Committee they would like to accept the appointment as a joint venture, but felt the established salary of $30 per month is inadequate.

Glenn Rosenquist, one of the student representatives on the Committee, said he believes students should be willing to work on both the Cornhusker and Daily Nebraskan staffs at less than standard salary scales.

"My guess is," he said, "that almost every member of either the paid staffs of the Cornhusker or The Daily Nebraskan could make more money if they wanted to go out and work by the hour."

Pinkerton and Zajicek suggested that perhaps Kappa Alpha Mu, honorary photo-journalism fraternity, might be willing to provide The Daily Nebraskan with photo service as a chapter project on a $30-per-month basis. Both are members of the society and Axtell, who resigned from the Cornhusker photography post, is national president of the group.

Union Talent Show Tryouts Scheduled Sept. 30-Oct. 1

Do you have talent? If so, the Union Talent Show would be a good place to put it to use.

Now an annual affair, the talent show, composed of University students, is sponsored by the Union Activities Committee.

Tryouts for the show will be from 7 to 10 p.m., Sept. 30 and

Oct. 1, in the Union ballroom. The talent may be of a varied type; presented either individually or by a group.

All University students are eligible to try out for the show. Entries are needed.

The acts that will be used in the show are selected during the tryouts. All talent entries for the tryouts are put on file by the Talent Bureau. The files are used for reference when talent is wanted for different events in the city of Lincoln. This gives talented students a chance to make an outside income.

Applications for tryouts should be made at the Union Activities Office or to Norman Gauger, phone 2-7485. Dress rehearsal will be Oct. 9.

The Union Talent Show will be presented Oct. 12, at 7:30 p.m., in the Union Ballroom. There will be no admission charged. The talent acts will be judged the night of the show and the winners will be announced after the show. The prizes will be $10 for first place, $7 for second and $3 for third.

P. M. Headlines

ST. LOUIS—Dana C. Smith, trustee of Sen. Richard Nixon's $18,235 expense fund, enlisted the aid of Nixon's Washington office in connection with a tax refund claim, the Post Dispatch reported Tuesday. The claims of $500,000 to $600,000 was filed by the Red River Lumber Company of Northern California. Smith's family owns the firm and he is a stockholder and company attorney.

According to the newspaper, last year Smith was introduced to an attorney in the Justice Department's Tax Division by John J. Irwin, then an administrative assistant to Nixon. Smith confirmed the statement but said it was only a routine request to the Senator's office. He said Senator Nixon himself was not involved and that he had never discussed the case with Nixon. Nixon was not available for comment.

NEW YORK—The American Federation of Labor convention endorsed Stevenson's presidential candidacy by a unanimous vote. This is the first time the AFL convention has endorsed a candidate since the organization was founded in 1881. In 1924 a special committee backed Robert M. LaFollette running on the Progressive ticket.

In his report to the convention James L. McDevitt, director of Labor's League for Political Education said the only way to get rid of the Taft-Hartley Act was to elect 49 senators and 218 representatives who feel the same way.

CHICAGO — Gov. Adlai Stevenson admitted that he had promoted a cash fund from private individuals to augment salaries of some state officials. However, he said there was nothing secretive about such aid. None of the men were elected officials or office seekers.

The charge against the Democratic nominee was made by Kent Chandler, Chicago manufacturer and Eisenhower supporter, in a telegram to Stevenson. In his formal statement, the Illinois governor said, "There is no question of improper influence because there was no connection between the contributors and the beneficiaries."

The statement did not reveal how much money was donated, who got it, and who gave it. Stevenson did say that the money was that left over from his 1948 gubernatorial campaign together with general contributions.

University Students Pursue Dramatic Careers At Hayloft Summer Theatre

By PAT PECK Feature Editor

Rich man, poor man, beggar man, thief—doctor, lawyer, merchant, chief. These are only a few of the personalities displayed by a group of University students who spent their summer treading the boards.

When the Hayloft Theater opened its third season last June 9 in the big barn at 5904 South street, the entire cast was composed of University students.

Marian Ube, Pat Loder, Diane Downing, Marty Miller, Harry Silver, Les Mathis, Hank Gibson and Wes Jenksy, who all appeared in University Theater productions last year, were the stars and starlets of Hayloft's plays.

The managers were Rich Miller, now a student at the University, and David Andrews, an alumnus. LeYonne Gibbs, box office manager, was also a University student.

During the summer the group presented 13 shows. The performances ran six nights a week, Monday excluded. The cast rehearsed one play during the day and presented another at night. Practice hours were from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and 1:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. Curtain time was 8:30 p.m.

Director of the Hayloft Theater was Irene Marmin of New York. While playing at the Hayloft, Pat, Diane and Marian lived together in an apartment. Marty is a Lincoln girl. Les Mathis, the only married member of the players, lives in Lincoln with his wife and small daughter. The other three men in the cast also roomed together.

The shows presented included three by John Patrick, "Hasty Heart," "Lo And Behold," and "Curious Savage." Others were "Apron Strings," "Death Takes A Holiday," "Milky Way," "Murry Hill," "Power Without Glory" and "Our American Cousin."

"Our American Cousin," the play which Abraham Lincoln was watching when he was assassinated, was revived on the Hayloft stage for the first time in forty years of American drama.

According to Pat Loder, the plays by John Patrick were the most popular and were the ones which the cast really enjoyed presenting. Tops of them all was "Lo And Behold," a comedy which incidentally, is being presented over Radio Theater Guild this coming Sunday evening.

Several times during the summer, stars were imported to play in Hayloft productions. Usually these actors and actresses were from Lincoln, but one, Mrs. Rita Shaw, came from England.

The Hayloft Theater season closed with the production of "Our American Cousin" and the cast is now scattered. Harry Stiver has assumed his position as head of the speech department at Hastings College. Marty Miller is studying for her masters degree at Smith College, and the other members of the cast have returned to the University, where you will be seeing them in Circle Theater productions. Wes Jenksy is president of Nebraska Masquers, honorary acting group. Marian, Diane and Pat are also Masquers.

The Associated Women Students Board has one vacant position for a Sophomore, unaffiliated woman.

Requirements are: a 5.7 weighted average, registered in at least 12 hours currently and 24 hours passed last year. The applicant must be living on campus in a hall that is under AWS rules.

Applications are to be filed from Wednesday through next Tuesday in the main lobby of Ellen Smith Hall. The vacancy was left by one member who did not return to school this fall.

Applicants should refer questions to AWS President Jean Loudon, phone 2-1926. Miss Loudon said that anyone who can meet these requirements is strongly urged to file.
