Council Favors Colorado Move

The Student Council, Wednesday, withdrew its recommendation for a 1952 University-sponsored migration to the University of Kansas.

In its place, the Council voted to recommend to the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs that the University sponsor no migration this year.

The Council indicated, however, that it supported an unofficial student movement to the University of Colorado by passing a resolution urging the University band's trip to the Boulder game.

The Council action followed a luncheon meeting of student leaders with Dean of Student Affairs J. P. Colbert. At the meeting Colbert repeated his statement that "nothing is official"—that is, that the Committee on Student Affairs has taken no action on migration or the band's trip. He declared that, since the Committee can act only on recommendations from the Student Council, he wanted to be certain that the Council's report represented student opinion.

The meeting was called by the dean to eliminate misunderstanding and confusion surrounding the migration question. Attending the conference were Wayne White, Student Council president; Don Noble, Council vice president; Eldon Park, Council migration committee chairman; Bill Adams, innocents representative; Ruth Raymond, editor of The Daily Nebraskan, and Ken Rystrom, Daily Nebraskan managing editor and Council member.

Since the Council's action last week—when it proposed a Kansas migration—a great number of University students have indicated that they will attend the Colorado game—whether a migration is made to Kansas or not. Dean Colbert estimated the number of such students at nearly a thousand.

The Council last week acted upon the assumption that the band might be able to attend both the Colorado and Kansas games since it made two trips last year. Since then, this has appeared impossible.

President White declared that "a migration is not possible without the band." And a Kansas migration would probably not be a success, he added, if the Colorado attracts as many Cornhuskers as it now appears.

The Council's request for no official migration followed a debate in which one member pointed out that the purpose of a migration "is to get all the students and the band together at one out-of-state game." He declared that a so-called unofficial migration to Colorado would accomplish this purpose.

"No matter what we do, someone will be hurt," Park said in answer to a question concerning students who will be unable to go to Boulder by car. Although the usual migration train will not be available, he said, a number of students without cars can make reservations on the two buses chartered by Del Harding.

The Council considered asking the Lincoln Junior Chamber of Commerce, which will sponsor a special Colorado train, if several extra cars could be added to their caravan—solely for University students. White pointed out, however, that to guarantee a definite number of passengers would be impractical since most students planning to attend the game have already made plans for travel.

Council Asks For Athletics Committee

To eliminate confusion concerning dates of migrations and special home football games in other years, the Student Council recommended Wednesday that a joint student-athletic department committee meet early next spring to set dates the 1953 season.

The committee would include George "Potsy" Clark, director of athletics; A. J. Lewandowski, business manager of athletics; Donald A. Lentz, University band director; and representatives from the Student Council, Corn Cobs and Tassels.

The committee would tentatively determine dates for migration, Dad's Day, Homecoming and Band Day.

Although the recommendation was directed toward the athletic department, which is separate from the University, the action of the committee would have to be approved—at least in part—by the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs.

Mary Lou Flaherty, chairman of the Council student activities committee, reported that the second annual Activity Leadership Workshop has been scheduled for 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Nov. 22.

Nanci DeBord reported that 17 students have filed for positions on class councils.

Young Demos Plan Meeting For Thursday

A Young Democrats meeting, delayed until Thursday so that college students could participate, will be held at 8 p.m. in Parlor Z, Union.

The meeting will be held to elect officers, and to plan campaign activities, organization chairman, Dick Hanson said.

For the first time in recent history of either the Young Democrats or the Young Republicans, a woman is running for Chairman.

Young Democrats have been assured by Joseph Ginsberg, County Democratic Chairman, that their members will be appointed to jobs of importance in the Nebraska Democratic party's organization.

Plans for a buffet dinner, to be held in October, will be completed at the meeting.

The dinner, entertainment will feature state Democratic candidates giving five minutes speeches. Each candidate will "pay for his supper" by entertaining the dinner guests with songs, music or story telling after his speech.

IFC Investigates 14 Offenders

Judgement Withheld Until Meeting This Afternoon

The Inter-Fraternity Council conducted hearings Wednesday afternoon from 5-6 p.m., and will meet Thursday at the same time to pass judgment on the fraternities which violated rushing rules. Fourteen fraternities on the campus have been charged with violating rushing rules, and two fraternities have been charged with the violation of two other rules.

Rushing rules have been set up by the Inter-Fraternity Council, and the rules are enforced by the executive council, which consists of the president, vice president, secretary, and treasurer, and three faculty members. A majority of the executive council is necessary for any action. Members of the executive council this year are: Cy Johnson, president; Glenn Rosenquist, vice president; Bob Hasebrook, secretary; Arnie Stern, treasurer; and C. B. Schultz, C. J. Frankforter, and Harry Weaver, faculty members.

Cyclones To Migrate To NU Campus

500 Students In Caravan

An estimated 400 or 500 Iowa State students, with their band and cheerleaders, will swarm the University campus Oct. 4 on their official football migration.

The majority of the Iowa State caravan plans to stay in Lincoln over Saturday night, the chairman of the Iowa State Migration Committee wrote Dean of Student Affairs, J. P. Colbert.

Previously, University officials thought that no other Big Seven school officially sponsors football migrations. Van Westover, Assistant to the Dean of Student Affairs, immediately phoned Iowa State at Ames to confirm announcement of the migration.

VETERANS

All veterans attending school under Public Law 550 (Korean Veterans' Bill) are requested by the Director of Veterans Affairs at the University to present the following forms at the University Veterans' Office, Room 106 Mechanic Arts Hall. Upon receipt of these forms veterans Enrollment Certification will be submitted to the Veterans Administration.

1. Form 7-1193 (This will be forwarded to the veteran from the Veterans Administration upon receipt of his application to attend the University.)
2. Receipt for payment of registration fees.
3. Student's copy of registration.

Friday Named Rooter Day; Program Opens On Ag Campus

Rooter Day will be held at the Ag campus Friday, according to Prof. Wm. J. Loeffel, chairman of the animal husbandry department.

The program for the 17th annual event will start at 9:30 a.m. and will adjourn at 3:30 p.m. The program is jointly sponsored by the Animal Husbandry Department and the Nebraska Livestock Breeders and Feeders Association.

Subjects to be discussed during the day are atrophic rhinitis hog production in the Platte valley, the report of the Chicago Swine Disease Conference, the addition of terramycin to the rations of growing and fattening pigs, the effects of antibiotics and arsenic acid upon swine performance, "The Nebraska Swine Industry" and trace minerals in swine.

Animal husbandry department staff members who will assist in the discussions will be Don R. Warner, R. J. Meade, Dr. M. L. Baker and Luther

Spirit Requires Early Rising For Pep Rally

Send-Off Planned For Oregon Trip

By PAT PECK
Feature Editor

In the cool, gray light of the dawn, I ask you, who'll be there? Ugly rumor has it that a pep rally has been called for the unspeakable hour of 7:30 a.m. Friday morning. Somewhere in our midst is the eternal and never-sleeping nucleus of the Rah-Rah spirit. The perpetrators of this spirit are determined that we shall never let the team down. It is the old principle, not everyone can be an athlete, but . . . everyone can turn out to cheer the team.

Sacrifice to the spirit is great. Even the most hard-hearted ruler of the ancients could have commanded such sacrifices. Still, the patient and long-suffering adherents of the Spirit have laid down without a murmur large chunks of their limited spare time and have given of their lung power with no thought of class recitation on the morrow.

Still, the Spirit has demanded more and more. Get up at night and board a train to attend a football game two states away in the rain? Stand in the cold at a railroad station and wait for a trainload of football players to come home. Board a bus to the airport and cheer the team when they return home in style. And now comes the command to arise before breakfast and cheer goodbye to the team that is off to make gridiron war in the Pacific Northwest.

Don't be bitter. After all you make it to breakfast plus your eight o'clock at least once a semester don't you? Who'll be there the Tassels. Three absences from such events and that worthy organization throws you out on your ear. The Corn Cob Workers. They don't want to wear that pledge emblem forever, and this is the way they grow to be active. The Pepsters. Who wants to lose a seat on the fifty-yard line? The team. They haven't the heart to make the rest of the people get up without someone to cheer for. See you at the rally. Who knows? We may someday be Mortar Boards and Innocents too.

Rally Participants To Gather At 7:30 A.M. For Send-Off

All Husker boosters will leave their beds Friday morning to give the team a send-off as they leave for Portland, Ore.

The team will breakfast at 7:30 a.m. and leave for the airport at 8 a.m. All Cobs, Tassels, Cob workers, and fresh Pepsters are reminded that their attendance is compulsory. The cheerleaders and pep band will also be on the Union steps to help lead the rally.

Filings Open Thursday For Publications Board

Filings for the Board of Student Publications will open Thursday. One sophomore, one junior, and one senior will be picked by the Student Council at an interview Wednesday, 4:00 p.m., Room 316 Student Union.

Students wishing to apply must turn in a letter of application to Dean Linscott, Student Council box, Union Basement. A student must be a sophomore, junior, or senior, have a 4.5 overall average, carry at least 12 credit hours last year to qualify. The student can not be a member of the Daily Nebraskan or Cornhusker staff.

Ostwald Is Eng. Head

Wulf Will Serve As Vice President

Phil Ostwald, senior mechanical engineering student, has been elected president of Engineering Executive Board.

Ostwald, who represents the "Nebraska Blue Print" as general manager, is past president of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and a member of Sigma Tau. He is also a Corn Cob and a member of Beta Sigma Psi.

AWS Board Post Opens For Sophomore

Applications for the vacancy on the Associated Women Students Board are being taken in the main lobby of Ellen Smith Hall.

Jean Loudon, AWS President, urges all unaffiliated sophomore women who can meet the requirements to file immediately. The requirements are: the applicant must be living in a hall that is under AWS rules, either on the city campus or the Ag campus. She must have passed a minimum of 24 hours last year. She must also have a 5.7 weighted average and be registered for at least 12 hours in the current semester.

Filing for the vacancy, will close next Tuesday. Any woman desiring more information should call Miss Loudon, phone 2-1926.

Officials Wanted P. M. Headlines

Any men interested in officiating intramural football games during the 1952 grid season are asked to sign the sheets on the bulletin board in the Physical Education building. Each team is responsible for obtaining one official for each of its games and will choose from the posted list. Each working official will be paid by the I-M department for the games worked. More detailed information can be obtained at the intramural office.

ABOARD THE EISENHOWER SPECIAL

General Eisenhower and Senator Richard Nixon arranged to meet in Wheeling, W.Va., Wednesday night for an expected decision to retain Nixon on the Republican ticket.

James Hagerty, Eisenhower's press representative, said that the General wanted to keep Nixon on the ticket with him after he had heard Nixon's broadcast explaining what he had done with the $18,000 expense fund he had been given.

Walter Hallanan of West Virginia said, "The general feeling seems to be that it would be fatal if any attempt were made to remove Nixon from the ticket."

Of Nixon's speech, the General said, "I have been a warrior and I like courage. Tonight I have seen an example of courage." The feeling among all observers seems to be that Nixon will remain on the ticket with General Eisenhower.

WORTHINGTON, MINNESOTA—Senator John Sparkman said that he would have no qualms about giving a full financial statement of his campaign.

Sparkman did not say that he intended to make any speeches about his financial statements as did Senator Nixon.

Sparkman said that he had not heard Nixon's speech, but he had heard all about it, but did not offer to make any comment on what Nixon had said. He said that he was in favor of all congressmen making full financial statements, and he felt that Congress should pass a law governing to avert any repetition of the Nixon affair.

Sparkman did not offer to comment on Governor Stevenson's refusal to bare his contributions in his campaign.

WASHINGTON—State department officials announced that they have demanded that Russia show that she is acting in good faith concerning the problem of having free elections in all parts of occupied Germany.

Russia had previously made an offer to hold a conference that would include all the four major powers, but the other three countries, U.S., France, and England all demanded that Russia prove that she would not merely create another debate class for all the countries.

Both France and the U.S. have sent notes to the Russians saying that they must prove beyond all shadow of doubt that they will not clog progress if there is such a meeting with "endless raving against the North Atlantic Pact."

NUCWA Mass Meet Set Tonight

Program Features Fun, Information

Entertainment and information will be the keynotes of the Nebraska University Council of World Affairs "Know Your World Through NUCWA" meeting Thursday, at 7:30 p.m. in Room 316 Union.

Paul Means, Speaker Bureau Chairman, will show the practical application of foreign relations from the student's point in a short talk. Means was a member of the ROTC detachment that toured Europe on a training cruise this summer.

The projects and events that are to come this year will be discussed by the committee chairman. The committee heads will also explain the duties of their groups, and how committee members are chosen.

Alan Garinkle, vice president, heads the committee that will present a skit during the program. The skit will be a humorous depiction of a foreign minister's conference.

The mass meeting presents an opportunity for interested freshmen men, and upper-class students to take part in NUCWA activities for the coming year.

Special plans are being made for programs during United Nations week, beginning October 1. Nebraska is recognized as one of the leaders in United Nations work, and NUCWA has done much of the work to make such recognition possible. The spring conference last year, a mock General Assembly meeting complete with troublesome Communists, was reported on all over the U.S. NUCWA will present a program each spring.

NUCWA has received high commendation by several of the big names in the United Nations. Warren Austin, former U.S. chief delegate to the U.N., gave high praise for the work of NUCWA in bringing international issues before the students in an interesting way.

General Carlos P. Romulo of the Philippines, former President of the U.N. General Assembly, added his praise to the outstanding contributions of NUCWA to the student interest in world affairs.

NUCWA encourages students to take an active interest in the workings of the U.N., and helps college men and women to understand the workings of the U. N.

Joan Krueger, president, said, "From an activity standpoint NUCWA offers a splendid opportunity for advancement."

Krueger said that card files would be kept on the performance of each worker, and that the workers will be rated on the basis of the work they do. The card catalog will offer an accurate picture of those who are showing a real interest in NUCWA.

Sigma Tau Selects Plan For Chapter Monument

Nebraska is the home of Sigma Tau, and therefore should have a Sigma Tau monument which will do credit to the founding school. This is the conclusion of the special committee which was appointed by the local chapter to look into this matter.

The committee made other determinations in the following order. The new location will be inside the circular walks between Ferguson Hall and the Mechanic Arts Building, about 60 feet south of the latter. At this point the monument may be seen from the sidewalk north of Richards Laboratory, from 12th St. south of Nebraska Hall, and from the walk east of Ferguson Hall. The location is a focal point in the college area.

The committee held a contest for the design of the monument with many drawings submitted. The most suitable design was worked out by John E. Peterson. A modification of his design was recommended by the committee. The modifications were worked into new drawings, and a model made by Robert A. Theisen.

Because of the freeform made by the walks, the proposal includes a little terrace around the monument which is free form also, and may more nearly harmonize with the area. It is proposed to lay the walls of the monument in red polished granite, similar to the granite trim on Ferguson Hall. The square base will be of black granite, all laid upon a reinforced concrete slab. The whole project will cost approximately $3,800. The Alpha Chapter will begin an active solicitation for funds early in the fall, working directly with the alumni members of the fraternity. There are approximately 1,300 living alumni of Alpha Chapter. All solicitations should be mailed to the University of Nebraska Foundation, Lincoln, in care of the "Sigma Tau acter of the landscape around it, Pyramid Fund."

The designer's view and plans for the new monument to be erected on the campus by the Sigma Tau Fraternity.
