

the DAILY NEBRASKAN

Voice of a Great Midwestern University

KNUS On The Air

KNUS, University radio station, will resume broadcasting today over program service between 3 and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

VOL. 52—No. 12

LINCOLN, NEBRASKA

Tuesday, September 30, 1952

Symphonette Concert Moved To Ballroom

The Longines Symphonette concert, originally scheduled for the coliseum, will be held in the Union Ballroom, according to Ernie Bebb, Union board member.

The concert will be held Thursday at 8 p.m. as originally scheduled.

Bebb, in charge of arrangements for the concert, cited low ticket sales as the reason for the move. All ticket sales were stopped Monday due to the change. However, a limited number will go on sale Wednesday.

Sections will be reserved in the ballroom for holders of reserved seat tickets.

The concert will feature selections from George Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess." Other selections will be of a semi-classical nature. The orchestra's policy is to play all music from the original score.

This personal appearance of Mischel Piastro and the Symphonette, part of a ten-week tour which will take them through the United States, Canada, and a part of Mexico.

The Symphonette, conducted by Mischel Piastro and composed of 31 musicians, is actually a full symphony orchestra in all respects except numbers. The chief difference between the Symphonette and a symphony orchestra is that the Symphonette has a smaller string section.

The Symphonette made its radio debut in New York over the local radio station WOR and in 1948, it made its CBS premier broadcast. Because of its rise in reputation and popularity, the Longines Symphonette has been presented with an award repeating it to be the finest orchestra concert ensemble in radio, according to the vote of 800 music critics of the U.S., Canada and Mexico.

The skit will tell some of the "do's and don'ts" of campus life and of the facilities available in the Union.

Taking part in the skit are Barb Medlin, Katy Kelly, Joyce Bennington, Jan Harrison, Madeline Gourlay, Ann Launer, Nancy Hoile, Doris Meyer, Lois Srb, Joy Wachal, and Mimi Du Teau.

The last in the series on "Campus Know-How" will be Oct. 8. The skit will explain the activities on campus.

Countryman Sales

Subscriptions are now being accepted for the Ag college magazine, "The Cornhusker Countryman," according to William Johnson, circulation manager.

The rate is one dollar for eight issues of the magazine, he said.

Singers Lists 166 '52-'53 Members

University Singers has selected for membership 116 University students, Dr. Arthur Westbrook, director, has announced.

The choral group gives several concerts during the school year. Their first program will be the memorial service in November.

Entrance into University Singers is gained by try-out only.

Members are, 1st Soprano: Sally Ainscow, Delores Blondi; Rose Mary Castner, Donna Gardner, Gayle Henkel, Priscilla Jones, Donna Krotter, Lois Ann Miller, Nancy Norman, Gladys Novotny, Virginia Ralles, Paula Scharman, Judith Sehner, Harriet Swanson, Nancy Thompson, Phyllis Wroth.

2nd Soprano, Margaret Bartunek, Jean Davis, Delores Garrett, Ann Jane Hall, Charlotte Hervert, Ruthann Lavine, Marian McCulloch, Janelle Mohr, Yvonne Moran, Marilyn Preusse, Kathryn Robson.

Joanne Sorenson, Shirley Underhill, Marian Urbach, Helen Uterback, Bonnie Weddel.

1st Alto, Shelia Brown, Andonea Chronopolus, Carole Coleman, Majorie Danly, Sandra Dicket, Pat Felger, Marilyn Hammond, Sally Kjelson, Evelyn Larson, Marlene Meyers, Mary Robinson, Jeanne Smith, Ellen Svoboda, Marlene Tiller, Janice Wagner, Kathleen

Baritone, Fred Allen, Gerald Bitney, Robert Brown, Fred Coats, Richard Garretson, Norman Gauder, Barry Larson, Gerald Lato, Maurice Niebaum, Keith Otto, Edwin Pearce, Jack Rogers, Paul Thompson, Jack Wells.

Bass, Nicholas Amos, Wayne Bath, Charles Beardslee, Claude Berreckman, Marshall Christensen, Paul Kidd, Robert Longman, Jack Lund.

David Wagner, R. L. Marrs, Earl Mitchell, Elton Monmouth, Floyd Morehead, Milford Myhre, Robert Patterson, Wesley Reist, Paul Scheele, Charles Waymire.

Drop And Add Fees

Payment of the $2.50 drop and add fee may be made in room B-6, Administration Building. The fee must be paid as soon as drop and add procedure is completed.

Ag Builders To Continue Drive

Ag Builders' will extend their present membership drive until Thursday, according to Jim Weber, membership chairman.

Weber said the increase of the drive was to give Ag students a chance to sign for the committee they wish to work on.

The committees seeking new workers are tours, membership, sales, publicity and parties or conventions.

Each committee will have increased work to do the coming year he said. The Ag Builders are undertaking new projects which will be a service to the University.

Revised Bible

Reverend Bosley, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Evanston, Ill., will speak on Revised Standard Versions of the Bible at St. Paul's Methodist Church on Tuesday at 8 p.m. Rev. Bosley is an author of several books.

Pastors of all Lincoln churches and a combined choir from various Lincoln churches will attend.

Miss Marjorie Johnson, Dean of Women, has announced that this is one of the functions for which late permission will be granted to University girls wishing to attend.

PRAIRIE SCHOONER

NU Press Publication Praised For Short Stories

Prairie Schooner, the quarterly magazine published by the University of Nebraska Press, has won high recognition for short stories appearing in it in 1951.

One story is among 29 chosen from leading American magazines by Martha Foley for her anthology "The Best American Short Stories 1952." Two Schooner stories are among the 65 included on the honor roll. Seventeen others are listed as "distinctive."

This means that nearly two-thirds of the short stories printed in Prairie Schooner last year were considered by Miss Foley worthy of special attention.

The story reprinted in the anthology is "Always Good for a Belly Laugh" by Emilie Glen of New York City. One of the stories which Miss Foley listed on the honor roll was written while the author, Dick Miller of Leavenworth, Kas., was a student at the University.

Also on the honor roll is a story by Dr. Lowry C. Wimberly, professor of English at the University, who has edited Prairie Schooner since its founding. The story, "Windfall for Whitford," was published in the June 1951 issue of Harper's Magazine. Another of Dr. Wimberly's stories.

The story reprinted in the anthology is "Always Good for a Belly Laugh" by Emilie Glen of New York City. One of the stories which Miss Foley listed on the honor roll was written while the author, Dick Miller of Leavenworth, Kas., was a student at the University.

Also on the honor roll is a story by Dr. Lowry C. Wimberly, professor of English at the University, who has edited Prairie Schooner since its founding. The story, "Windfall for Whitford," was published in the June 1951 issue of Harper's Magazine. Another of Dr. Wimberly's stories.

The story reprinted in the anthology is "Always Good for a Belly Laugh" by Emilie Glen of New York City. One of the stories which Miss Foley listed on the honor roll was written while the author, Dick Miller of Leavenworth, Kas., was a student at the University.

Also on the honor roll is a story by Dr. Lowry C. Wimberly, professor of English at the University, who has edited Prairie Schooner since its founding. The story, "Windfall for Whitford," was published in the June 1951 issue of Harper's Magazine. Another of Dr. Wimberly's stories.

The story reprinted in the anthology is "Always Good for a Belly Laugh" by Emilie Glen of New York City. One of the stories which Miss Foley listed on the honor roll was written while the author, Dick Miller of Leavenworth, Kas., was a student at the University.

Also on the honor roll is a story by Dr. Lowry C. Wimberly, professor of English at the University, who has edited Prairie Schooner since its founding. The story, "Windfall for Whitford," was published in the June 1951 issue of Harper's Magazine. Another of Dr. Wimberly's stories.

The story reprinted in the anthology is "Always Good for a Belly Laugh" by Emilie Glen of New York City. One of the stories which Miss Foley listed on the honor roll was written while the author, Dick Miller of Leavenworth, Kas., was a student at the University.

Also on the honor roll is a story by Dr. Lowry C. Wimberly, professor of English at the University, who has edited Prairie Schooner since its founding. The story, "Windfall for Whitford," was published in the June 1951 issue of Harper's Magazine. Another of Dr. Wimberly's stories.

The story reprinted in the anthology is "Always Good for a Belly Laugh" by Emilie Glen of New York City. One of the stories which Miss Foley listed on the honor roll was written while the author, Dick Miller of Leavenworth, Kas., was a student at the University.

Also on the honor roll is a story by Dr. Lowry C. Wimberly, professor of English at the University, who has edited Prairie Schooner since its founding. The story, "Windfall for Whitford," was published in the June 1951 issue of Harper's Magazine. Another of Dr. Wimberly's stories.

Alpha Tau Omega To Appeal IFC Fine; Others May Follow Suit Pending Chapter Meetings

By TOM WOODWARD Staff Writer

"To appeal or not appeal," that is the question facing 14 fraternities today.

A total of $510 in fines was levied by the Inter-Fraternity Council in a meeting held Friday, after hearings on Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons.

The fraternities were given a chance to answer charges brought against them on Tuesday and Thursday, and may appeal the fines they received Friday, to the IFC advisory board.

The advisory board is made up of alumni advisors of each fraternity.

Thirteen fraternities were found guilty of violating the IFC ruling about releasing pledge lists before the official date as prescribed by the University.

Dean Buckingham, Alpha Tau Omega treasurer, said that his fraternity intended to appeal the fine that they had received for releasing their pledge lists.

Buckingham said that he did not seek to excuse the early release by saying that the house was not familiar with the IFC ruling, but he thought that the newspapers that carried the lists should have been informed of the fact that the names were not to be released until University permission had been given.

The news was released by a person who was not familiar with the ruling, but he should not have been asked for the names in the first place, he added.

Sigma Alpha Mu was also Board Of Student Publications Filing Deadline Scheduled For Tuesday At 5 p.m.

Filing deadline for the Board of Student Publications is Tuesday at 5 p.m. The Student Council, in an interview Wednesday at 4 p.m., Room 316, Union, will pick one sophomore, one junior and one senior for the positions.

Students wishing to apply must turn in a letter of application to Dean Linscott, Student Council box, in the Union basement. A student must be a sophomore, junior or senior, have a 4.5 overall average, carry at least 12 credit hours and have earned 24 credit hours last year to qualify. The student cannot be a member of the Daily Nebraskan or Cornhusker staff.

The application must include the student's cumulative grade average, which must be initiated by the Office of the Registrar, his experience in journalism, activities, ideas concerning the board, and his reasons for applying.

One of the duties of the Board is to exercise a general supervision over the financial and editorial conduct of the Student Publications. The Board names the salaries of all student managers and employees of the publications, and it has the right to limit expenditures for manufacture and distribution.

The Board also limits the price at which a publication is offered for sale and it apportions allowances to the various publications from all general funds pertaining to student publications.

The Board also has the right to call for the resignation of any editorial or business employee of Student Publications at any time, for what it deems sufficient cause. However, the student shall have the right of appeal to the Chancellor of the University.

The Board urges all upperclassmen students interested to file their applications immediately. The group plans to be more active this year than it has in the past, Dean Linscott commented.

Charles Kiffen, Glen Rosenquist.

Farm Formal Committees Make Plans

Jeans, Cottons Only At October 10 Dance

Jeans and cottons will be required attire at the Farmers Formal Oct. 10, the Ag Exec Board announced.

Couples will dance to the music of Johnny Cox in the Ag Activities Building. Tickets will sell for $1.20 a couple.

The Farmers Formal Queen and her attendants will be presented during intermission.

Ramona Laun, senior in Home Economics, extension work, and Bill Waldo, senior in Vocational Education, have been chosen as co-chairmen for the affair.

The other committee appointed by the Ag Exec Board include decorations, Shirley Marsh, Lura Ann Harden, Dale Reynolds, John Van Houten and Dick Monson as chairman. Tom Leisy will be responsible for ticket sales. In charge of the presentation and election of the queen and attendants will be Ray Vlasin, chairman; Dale Olson, Leland George and Carolyn Gierhan.

Laun will supervise all publicity and Lois Kieckhefer will have charge of all chapereones and special guests. Heading the cleanup committee will be Wayne Moody. His assistants are Wayne White, Art Kuhl and Don Plucknett.

Two Students Injured In Sunday Accident

Two University students suffered facial cuts and bruises in an auto accident early Sunday morning.

Injured were Marilyn Mueller, 19, 2120 So. 35th and Bob Swaim, 22, 2127 Harrison, who were riding in a car driven by Gerald C. Robertson, 22, 1425 R, police reported.

Robertson's car struck an auto on O between 31st and 32nd streets and reversed its direction before coming to a stop, police said.

Victorious Cornhuskers Welcomed Home By 2000 Jubilant Football Supporters

FAMILIAR SCENERY . . . Greeting Cornhusker football fans Saturday after Saturday is the giant N formed in the midst of the student section by Corn Coils, Tassels and Peppers. The color is supplied by red and white sweaters.

Iranian Student Receives Bruises In Auto Mishap

Hessarydin Baluch suffered severe bruises Sunday night when he alighted from a moving car on 15th street between Q and R.

Baluch, 21, an Iranian student attending the University, had been riding in a car driven by Ghulam H. Sharafy, 27, another Iranian student.

NROTC Unit Head To Hold Reception

Captain T. A. Donovan, Professor of Naval Science, and Mrs. Donovan will be hosts to 200 NROTC Midshipmen and other invited guests at a garden reception at their home, Tuesday.

Other guests will include representatives from other local Naval activities, University faculty members and sponsors of the Midshipmen proficiency awards.

Rifle Team Meet

University students interested in the rifle team are requested to attend the team meeting Wednesday night.

The meeting, slated for 7 p.m. in lounge of the Military and Naval Science building, will include discussions on membership, team matches for the coming year and other plans for the team's activities of the coming year.

Left Overs

Catherine (just depinned): I gave him my best years, and now he's run off with another woman. I . . . oh, I just can't control my emotions.

Kate: Why bother? You'll feel better after a good laugh.

Just for a change, here's an English joke.

Harold—Percy, you should pull down your curtains; I saw you plainly holding your wife on your lap last night.

Percy—The joke is on you, Harold; I was not home last night.

Since the weather hasn't been at all unpredictable (get the pun), I'll try the same old theme again. Yes, sunny, warm—good picnic weather.

"And what," someone asked one of the presidential aspirants, "will you do if you are elected?"

"Good heavens," he exclaimed, "what will I do if I'm not?"

Lady: Can you give me a room and bath?

Clerk: I can give you a room, madam, but you'll have to take your own bath.

That's all.

P. M. Headlines

By SALLY ADAMS

NEW YORK—Gen. Dwight Eisenhower will make a public statement of his financial affairs before election day. The announcement was made Monday by James G. Hagerty, the Republican candidate's chief press spokesman. He had been challenged to do so by Adlai Stevenson when the Democratic nominee published his federal income tax returns for the last ten years.

Hagerty was not certain that the general would disclose his entire financial situation but that he will inform the public "as to his entire financial situation."

Eisenhower's problem will arise in the explanation of his income from the sale of "Crusade in Europe," his book about his wartime experiences. Eisenhower paid income taxes on his returns from the book on the basis of "capital gains" taxes, since he could be classified neither an amateur nor a professional author. He did this on the advice of Internal Revenue Bureau officials.

Thus the Republican candidate (assuming his revenue was $1 million) paid $250,000 instead of the $750,000 which would have been demanded from a professional author. Eisenhower fears that no matter how carefully he explains the situation some persons will say he received "special treatment."

SPRINGFIELD, ILL.—Gov. Adlai Stevenson disclosed that he paid $211,980 to the federal government in income taxes in the last 10 years. Records showed that Stevenson paid his taxes on an income of $500,052, most of it earned with gilt-edged investments.

Most of the governor's income came from dividends on stocks in large corporations and from his interest in the Bloomington Pantagraph, Illinois daily newspaper. In addition he has the income he earned as governor.

Saturday the Democratic nominee revealed details of his political campaign funds and his personal fund used to supplement salaries of eight state employees.

ABOARD TRUMAN TRAIN—Attacking the "unholy crew" of Republican lobbyists with Eisenhower as their "front man," President Truman opened his whistle stop campaign at Fargo, N. D. He said he was glad the oil, China, real estate and other lobbies are "in the Republican party."

The President told the crowd that Eisenhower "seems to be listening to some strange advice on foreign policy" and they'd better hesitate before voting Republican if they "want to avoid a third world war."

In reference to his own administration, Truman said, "We've crushed the Communist conspiracy in this country. And we've stopped the advance of Communism all over the globe."

LOS ANGELES—Military aircraft production was resumed at two southern California plants after 40,000 striking workers returned to their jobs. They listened to an appeal from President Truman to call a truce in the dispute between the AFL International Association of Machinists and Lockheed and Douglas aircraft companies. Contract negotiations are continuing in Washington.

Production of the Air Force's newest jet interceptor fighter, the Lockheed Starfire, was most seriously affected by the strike.