The Other Six

Kansas State . . .
Kansas State's homecoming football game with the University of Missouri Tigers Saturday has more than the usual color this fall.

It was to the Tigers that K-State forfeited its only conference football victory since 1949 because the Wildcats discovered they had used two ineligible players in beating Missouri 14 to 12 at Columbia, Mo., last November. Naturally, Coach Bill Meek and his Wildcat squad are eager to replace the 1951 loss with a victory.

The Wildcat-Tiger series is 43 years old, having started in 1909 with a 3 to 0 Missouri win. The two teams did not play again until 1914. In all, the schools have played 37 football games with 22 going to the Tigers and 11 to Kansas State. Four games have been ties.

There have been many thrilling moments in the series as it moved down through the years. For example, in 1934—the Kansas State championship year—the Wildcats, captained by all-America tackle George Maddox, moved the Tigers all over the field as they gathered 452 net yards rushing and 21 first downs. The final score of that one was K-State 23, Missouri 0. In 1942 and again in 1947 the Tigers reversed the procedure as they moved for 487 and 466 net yards rushing. Missouri won the 1942 game 46 to 2 and the 1947 contest 47 to 7.

In 1932 Ralph Graham, rammed his way to three touchdowns to lead the K-Staters to 25 to 0 victory. Walt Zeckser was captain of the Wildcats that season and the late A. N. (Bo) McMillan was coach.

In 1929 it was another fullback great, George Wiggins, who gave K-State a win—this time a thrilling 7 to 6 conquest. Wiggins intercepted a Tiger forward pass on his own 15 yard line and ran for a touchdown 85 yards away. That run of Wiggins' is still the longest pass interception for a touchdown in the K-State record books.

And, while on the subject of long runs, Wildcat fans of the early '40s recall the 80-yard touchdown run Chris Langvardt made in a futile attempt to keep the Cats in the game with Missouri. However, the Tigers won 24 to 13 as Paul Christman, M. U. all-time great, flipped three touchdown passes for the Tigers.

In 1949, Dana Atkins, the Mighty Mite of K-State football, hurled 23 forwards and hit 16 of them for 201 net passing yards but Missouri won a thriller 34 to 27.

Oklahoma . . .
Pittsburgh, a dormant football volcano that is rumbling anew, and Oklahoma, tied 21-21 last week by Colorado, clash at 2 p. m. Saturday at Norman in an inter-sectional game expected to draw 35,000.

It will be the home opener for Coach Bud Wilkinson's Sooners whose 26-game winning spree of Big Seven conference games ended last week with the Colorado tie, but who still will later defend their record of having gone undefeated in 30 consecutive Big Seven games.

Coached by Lowell "Red" Dawson who was formerly head coach at Tulane and of the Buffalo Bills professional club, and was eleven years assistant at Minnesota and Michigan State,

MAX BOYDSTON . . . Sophomore starting left end for the Oklahoma Sooners, was converted from fullback to end in 1952 spring grid practice. Boydston played behind fullback Buck McPhail last year, when McPhail set a new national collegiate record of 8.6 net yards per rush on 101 carries.

The sprightly Panthers have won four straight victories, stopping Iowa of the Big Nine 26-14 last week and sweeping three in a row at the end of last year's schedule, including a 21-7 drubbing of Miami's Gator Bowl champions. The Sooners hope to play smoother mechanically this week. Colorado was not only a rugged, hard-fighting opponent but Oklahoma contributed to its own dilemma by fumbling six times to the Buffs and by heaving a pass into Colorado hands that ruined a 61-yard drive that had gained a first down on the Colorado eight.

On the contrary, Pitt was superb in its opener, fumbling to Iowa only once. "They are a team that makes very few mistakes," report Scouts Dee Andros and Pete Elliott of Oklahoma. "They use the tight T mostly and are very sound. They play for a first down to hang onto the ball unless they see a defensive mistake that gives them a chance to go all the way."

Against Iowa, Dawson's Panthers smartly mixed passing and running. Showing good running strength inside the ends on handoffs and traps, they out-rushed the Hawkeyes 250 to 160 net yards. They hit 8 of 11 forward passes for 130 yards, all of them pegged by Rudy Mattiola, their big sophomore quarterback.

The game will match teams built almost entirely from Pennsylvania and Oklahoma high school boys. Pennsylvania rivals Texas and Ohio as the nation's outstanding feeding ground for college players.

Four Pitt starters are Negro boys from Pennsylvania, F. B. Bobby Epps, who at 5-8 and 195 is built something like Tony Galento, L. E. Bills Adams, 6-2 and 190, Defensive Halfback Chester Rice and Safety Henry Ford who is very fast and covers field well on forward passes. Epps ran 54 yards to a touchdown against Iowa on a screen pass from Mattiola.

Iowa led Dawson's new team 7-0 at the end of the first quarter and 14-13 once in the last half. But Pitt's slashing ground power featuring the broken field scampering of Fullback Epps and Halfback Bill Reynolds, 190-pound senior from St. Mary's W. Va., and their short pass brilliance carried the day.

The Panthers had a touchdown march of 75 and 72 yards in the second quarter. Epps 54-yard burst put them ahead 20-14 in the third. Mattiola passed to John Jacobs, 195-pound sophomore halfback, for 14 yards and the final Pitt touchdown.

Oklahoma will fight hard to defend its distinction of not having lost a game on its home field in the last five years, or since Leo "Dutch" Meyer's Texas Christian Horned Frogs put over a 20-7 win at Owen Field in 1947, Wilkinson's first year as coach.

Probable Offensive Lineups
Oklahoma: Bill Adams, Pittsburgh, Max Boydston, L. E., Bill Adams, Roger Nelson, L. E., Lou Fajstella, Dick Bowman, L. G., Merle DeLoach, Tom Catlin, C, Gabe Gembrowsky, Ed Rowland, R. E., Al Smalzer, Dick Allison, R. T., Elmer DeLoach, Sou Gast, R. E., Dick Decker, Eddie Crowder, R. E., Rudy Mattiola, Billy Vessell, R. T., Bill Hoffman, Buddy Leake, R. H., Bill Reynolds, Buck McPhail, F. B., Bobby Epps

Kansas . . .
Kansas' craggy defense goes under the gun again Saturday as the Jayhawkers tackle Colorado's booming single-wing in a pivotal Big Seven football battle here.

To be brief, KU's new-found restricting power has made the difference in its two opening triumphs over a pair of rocky opponents, TCU and Santa Clara. With a pair of converted backs, Morris Kay and Don Bracelin, showing the way at end, and Galen Fiss off to a tremendous linebacking year, Kansas limited the Horned Frogs to 47 net yards against the Broncos to 85.

This has spiraled the Sikemen to sixth on the NCAA rushing defense tables, the loftiest post the Jayhawkers have held in this department since they travelled in the top ten most of the 1947 season.

Enemy air power has been more effective at 208 yards, but not fatal. Neither the Frogs nor Broncos scored from upstairs as Kansas reaped two hard-earned triumphs, 13-0, and 21-0. Furthermore, the Jayhawkers braced to halt both clubs twice inside the 20 yard line.

This defense has been doubly important since the offense has managed only a spattering average of 17 points in its first two starts, a far cry from the 31.6 per game mean it mounted last season.

The Jayhawk posse has wrought the victory edge by paring the output of its first two 1952 opponents to nine points. Last year TCU and Iowa State counted a total of 46, although Kansas still carried both games by rolling in 27 against the Christians and 53 against State.

Kay and Bracelin, of course, have furnished most of the early fireworks. They not only passed their Spread test against TCU but repeated against Santa Clara's quick-smacking standard-T last Saturday. Their play has been both sound and sensational.

Tackling by the deep secondary of Gil Reich, Hal Cleavinger and John Konek also has been notable. And Arch Unruh, lightweight Clay Center veteran, filled in well for Reich when the latter was kayoed early in the third period against Santa Clara.

Speedy NU Wingman

PLAYS BOTH WAYS . . . Dennis Emanuel, a 200-pound, 6-1 Husker end who was one of the top wingmen on Coach Bill Glassford's 1951 football squad, is playing on both offense and defense this season. A graduate of high school six-man football, Emanuel was named on the Associated Press All Big Seven defensive team last year.

Golden Gopher Chances Slim Against Bears

The University of California's imposing Golden Bears will make their first invasion of Minnesota's Memorial Stadium Saturday and will be the most highly favored of any non-Conference team that has played the Gophers in the modern era of football.

While the Minnesota eleven was unimpressive in dropping, its opener to Washington, 19-13, at Seattle last week, the boys from Berkeley have steam-rolled two consecutive foes—College of the Pacific by 34-13 and Missouri by 22-14.

Still vividly etched in the memories of the Gophers is the record-breaking 55-14 shellacking dished out by Pappy Waldorf's crew a year ago at Berkeley in the first game ever played between America's two largest universities. All indications to date this season point to the Bears being just as potent as they were in 1951, if not more so.

Minnesota failed to show the expected improvement over their 1951 form as they bowed to the Huskies last Saturday, but Coach Wes Fester is confident that his predominantly sophomore-junior squad will rebound and show to better advantage this Saturday. He has made only one change in his offensive starting lineup, with Bob Ratford, St. Paul junior, replacing Roger French at right end.

Gopher hopes will be improved by the anticipated return of Stav Canakes, 230 pound guard, to duty in the center of the defensive line. He missed the Washington game because of a leg injury.

An estimated crowd of 50,000 will watch this important inter-sectional tilt.

Yanks Even Series; Crush Brooks 7-1

The World Champion New York Yankees battled their way into a tie with the Brooklyn Dodgers Thursday, in World Series games won with a 7-1, heart-stopping victory. Each team has now won a game.

It was a wild top half of the sixth, in which the Yanks scored five runs on four hits and an error, that spelled the outcome. The game was tight through the first four innings, tied 1-1, at that point.

Then the Yanks went ahead in the top of the fifth 2-1 when McDougald walked, stole second and scored on Bill Martin's single. Martin went to second on the throw-in. Raschi struck out and Hank Bauer walked. But Martin was trapped off second and Rizzuto grounded out to end the inning.

The Dodgers got Jackie Robinson on in the bottom of the second frame and worked him to third base without the aid of a hit. There were two down. Then Raschi walked Gil Hodges and Carl Furillo to fill the bases. But Erskine skied to Mantle to end the threat.

In the top of the sixth the Dodger infield fell apart. With the bases loaded and none out, Billy Loeb relieved Erskine. Joe Collins forced Berra at second. Mantle scoring from third. The relay from Robinson to Hodges was dropped. Gene Woodling going to third.

The next batter, McDougald, bunted, scoring Woodling. Hodges fielded the bunt, but no one covered first. Then Billy Martin came up and slapped a home run into the left field lower bleachers, scoring Collins and McDougald. Raschi struck out to end the inning after five runs were across.

Big Seven Games In Spotlight

The Big Seven football teams continue to hold the nation's spotlight as the grid season rolls into its second week of battle. Last week, sportwriters all over the nation picked backfield men and the coach of the week from the mid-west conference.

Coach Dal Ward of Colorado garnered the honors last week for his team's showing against highly-touted Oklahoma. The Sooners scored in the last two minutes to gain a tie with the Buffs. This game also produced the top back of the week.

Zack Jordan, the boy who is most remembered for his punting record two years ago, sparked the powerful Colorado team with three touchdowns. This contest was also picked for nationwide telecasting and was shown over most national hook-ups during the week.

Again this week the national spotlight is shared by two Big Seven teams along with the other power houses throughout the country. Kansas University tussles with the Colorado aggregation in a game that could produce this year's Big Seven title winner. Kansas possesses Gil Reich, the Army cast-off and early season star, while Colorado gives out with their best team since entering the Big Seven.

The Dodgers got Jackie Robinson on in the bottom of the second frame and worked him to third base without the aid of a hit. There were two down. Then Raschi walked Gil Hodges and Carl Furillo to fill the bases. But Erskine skied to Mantle to end the threat.

In the top of the sixth the Dodger infield fell apart. With the bases loaded and none out, Billy Loeb relieved Erskine. Joe Collins forced Berra at second. Mantle scoring from third. The relay from Robinson to Hodges was dropped. Gene Woodling going to third.

The next batter, McDougald, bunted, scoring Woodling. Hodges fielded the bunt, but no one covered first. Then Billy Martin came up and slapped a home run into the left field lower bleachers, scoring Collins and McDougald. Raschi struck out to end the inning after five runs were across.

Tradition at Kansas State College gives students holidays on two consecutive Saturdays this fall. Classes will not be conducted Saturday morning of home-coming week end, this Saturday, nor the Saturday that K-State plays Nebraska in Lincoln, Oct. 11.

Ex-Cub Doyle Lade of Fairbury is back home after a season with the Los Angeles Angels. He won eight and lost 14 for the Coast team with six of his defeats being by a single run.

Huskers Ready For IS Game

By GLENN NELSON
Sports Editor
Coach Bill Glassford announced Thursday that his starting offensive and defensive lineups would remain almost the same as they were for the Oregon encounter last week.

The only change is that Bob Smith, who missed the OU fray because of an injured foot, will be at his regular offensive right halfback spot Saturday. The Grand Island sophomore was replaced by Dierks Rolston and Dennis Korinek in the game at Portland. Both men have seen considerable duty at right half this season, and showed up brilliantly last week.

A squad of 50 men will be on hand to answer the Husker coach's call Saturday. Only 28 men made the Oregon trip.

"Aside from a few minor bruises, the squad is in good shape for the game," Glassford said. Bob Reynolds was slightly lame earlier this week, having received a bruised leg last week against the Webfeet. He will start at left half Saturday against Iowa State.

George Prochaska, who has been injured since summer ROTC camp, is reported to be much improved and is expected to be suited up Saturday. Prochaska stood out as a guard last season, and has been unable to play so far this year.

Jerry Yeager, defensive end, is still on the injury list. He is expected to be ready for action within two weeks. A broken thumb sidelined the junior wingman.

Ed Gazinski, 190-pound sophomore fullback from West Allis, Wis., will be suited up and ready for action Saturday. Coach Glassford believes that the game could turn into a high scoring event "if our pass defense holds." Cyclone scoring will no doubt center around passing and our pass defense, he said.

Last year's game ended 33-27

In favor of Nebraska. The wild scoring game was Nebraska's only win of the 1951 season. "It'll probably take four touchdowns for either team to win this one," the Husker mentor commented as he eyed the NU-Cyclone situation.

The Huskers worked on pass defense, passing, and reviewed offensive plays Thursday as a light tune-up before the game. They had no contact practice. The probable starting teams: Offense—Ted Connor and George Mink, ends; Jim Oliver and Harvey Goth, tackles; Kay Curtis and Jerry Paulson, guards; Bob Oberlin, center; John Bordogna, quarterback; Reynolds, left half; Smith, right half; and Cifra, fullback.

Defense—Bill Schabacker and Dennis Emanuel, ends; Jerry Minnick and Ed Husmann, tackles; Don Boll and Carl Brasee, guards; Scott, and George Goehde, linebackers; Dan Brown, left halfback; Jim Yeisley, right halfback; and Bordogna, safety.

Bob Oberlin . . . Coach Bill Glassford's starting offensive center post will be filled by either Oberlin or Veril Scott, who plays linebacker in defense. Oberlin, a six-foot, 200-pound sophomore, hails from West Allis, Wis.

What happened to the old rah rah spirit?
IT WENT OUT WITH RACCOON COATS and rumble seats. And we say good riddance. Today's college man doesn't die a thousand deaths when the school loses the big game. And his clothes are no longer flashy, fancy and gaudy. For his apparel, he looks to Manhattan* to reflect his quiet, self-assured manner. . . his insistence on quality, comfort and casualness. Like this button-down Oxford with just the proper roll to the collar. Or this fine white pique with an eyelet tab collar with just the right degree of difference. We understand the modern college man. We concentrate our efforts, not on fads, but on making a better shirt. Ask for Manhattan . . . and you'll see how true this is.
