Oregon Papers Praise Huskers

Oregon Papers Praise . . .

When the hometown football team loses a tough football game to another school, the hometown paper or papers, as the case may be, usually try to cover up the misfortunes of the squad. At least that's what the Lincoln papers attempt to do—with reservations.

But with the Portland Oregon newsheets it was a different story after the 28-13 drubbing the Huskers gave Oregon over a week ago. Take for instance the banner headline that appeared in the Sunday Oregonian—"Huskers Clobber Webfoots, 28-13." Then Don McLeod, sports editor of the Oregonian, began his story:

"University of Oregon's long-awaited return to football eminence hit another snag at Multnomah stadium Saturday night when an under-rated Nebraska U grid squad upset the Webfoots, 28-13."

"Faced by Ramblin' Robert Reynolds, an All-American in any man's book, and an unsung quarterback wizard who responds to the name of John Bordogna, the Cornhuskers scored in every period but the second, getting single TD's in the first and third and closing out the intersectional fray with a slam-bang two-touchdown production in the final period."

"The Ducks, willing as always, but simply outclassed, could match only two of the visitors' end zone junkets, rolling for one in the opening quarter and the other in the closing chapter."

"They had few other chances to score and spent most of the balmy evening stubbornly and gallantly resisting bids for more points by the cyclonic eleven from the Nebraska plains. Only this courageous defensive kept the Oregonians from absorbing a first-class shelling."

And so it went paragraph after paragraph—plaudits for the Huskers and rare mention of the losing Webfoot. It isn't hard to guess how the defeated Ducks felt after reading their "rave" notices.

The Oregon Sunday Journal was not to be outdone and their banner headline read, "Cornhuskers 'Shuck' Ducks." In his account of the game, Journal Sports Writer, Marlowe Branagan, said:

"Bounding Bobby Reynolds, aided and abetted by a bevy of backfield mates who operated behind a gang-tackling forward wall, led the Cornhuskers of Nebraska to a convincing 28-13 decision over the Webfoot of Oregon in college football's 'major league debut' in Multnomah stadium Saturday night."

"The Grand Island terror, a legend in the tall corn belt, set his mates' four-touchdown offensive in motion in the first quarter and he was the key man in the white-clad Cornhuskers' attack the rest of the road."

"Bill Glassford's brigade, sharp on defense and immune to aerial thrusts for most of the game, tallied one TD in the first quarter, added another in the third period and wrapped it up with two more paydirt trips in the final stanza."

Adding insult to injury the Oregon Journal printed a huge cartoon on their front page—the same cartoon which is reprinted in this column today. We can't help but feel a great amount of pride that the Oregon papers thought enough of the Huskers to treat them so royally on the news page and it is fortunate that the Nebraska press supports the Huskers—win or lose—as much as they do.

An Example Of Spirit . . .

The subject of class spirit and school spirit has come up for discussion time and time again here at the Husker school and slowly but surely this "spirit" is becoming evident in campus activities.

It began Friday night with the tremendous rally staged by the student body and continued at the game Saturday. For the first time the student body, in part, began a "back and forth hand-waving" motion that looked impressive from the opposite stands. However, when Kansas State begins the same motion at their home games, the entire east stands is a mass of waving arms.

However, in our opinion, the culmination of "spirit" displayed this weekend was in the performance of a little 5 foot "blonde bombshell," Judy Wiebe. Despite a severely sprained ankle, Judy was in her regular spot in front of the Husker student body, helping her co-cheerleaders lead the Nebraska cheers.

KU, Oklahoma Wins Impressive Saturday

Charlie Hoag came into his own Saturday as Kansas University halted the Colorado Buffaloes, 21-12. Hoag ran for all three Kansas touchdowns, his last a brilliant 66-yard run late in the final quarter to decide the game.

The teams matched touchdowns during the first half, but John Konek's expert placement kicking gave the Husks a 14-12 half-time lead. From then on until Hoag's gallop the game was very much in question.

Late in the third period the Buffalo steamroller was stopped on the one-yard line after a valiant goal line stand. In the last period a Colorado passing attack nearly reached pay dirt only to fizzle out on the one-foot line.

Hoag scored one Hawk touchdown on a six-yard buck, and another on a 23-yard pass from Jerry Robertson.

Penn State scored in every quarter with an impressive offense to whip William and Mary 25-21. Defensively Penn State surrendered points aplenty to the Southerners. Last week Penn State tied Purdue 20-0.

Missouri downed an out-manned Kansas State eleven 26-0 with a bruising ground attack. The spread often used by Missouri was strictly under wraps, and only a minimum of split-T plays were used.

The Aggies showed little semblance of an offense as they gained only 63 yards on the ground and 87 yards passing.

Missouri scoring was evenly split with Bookamp, Wilson, Hoag and Schoenmaker all sharing in the honors, and Fuchs kicking the extra points.

Oklahoma gained back a measure of her grid reputation as she soundly trounced Pitt 49-20. The Sooners only held a 21-13 lead at half time, but began to pour it on in the second half as they scored two touchdowns in each quarter.

Buddy Leake and Buck McPhail teamed to put on a tremendous show. Leake ran for two touchdowns, passed for another, and kicked six extra points, while McPhail bulled for 158 yards in 20 carries to out-distance the entire Pitt team that scored only 128 yards on the ground.

Don Johnson snowed Minnesota under as he scored four touchdowns for California as the Bears defeated the Gophers 49-13. Johnson started the Cal scoring parade on the first Cal play from scrimmage on an 84 yard gallop. Cal found tough during the opening minutes, as the Gophers scored two quick ones to trail by one point 14-11, but rapidly began to stretch out.

Figi's Win, 20-14 Ladd Hanson fired a 20-yard touchdown pass to George Barlow in the fourth quarter to give Phi Gamma Delta a 20-14 victory over Kappa Sigma. Until that victory, the Kappa Sig had fought to overcome a 13-0 Fiji lead with a safety in the second period and two touchdowns in the third.

NU Guard Nabs Pass, Fools Refs

CURTIS BECOMES PASS RECEIVER—Kay Curtis, Husker guard, is tackled in the second quarter of the Iowa State-Nebraska game Saturday, after he took a pass from John Bordogna, NU quarterback. The play, which covered 13 yards, was overlooked by the officials. Curtis was not a legal pass receiver.

Yanks, Bums Husker Team Earns Praise Even Series; Finish Today

By TOM BECKER Sports Staff Writer

The New York Yankees, on the power of their booming bats, knotted the World Series at three games apiece Monday as they topped the Brooklyn Dodgers, 3-2, at Ebbets Field.

Vic Raschi, who was aided in the eighth by Allie Reynolds, hurled his second Series victory in as many starts as he scattered eight Dodger hits.

Yogi Berra and Mickey Mantle clouted two home runs which provided the victory.

Duke Snider, the Bum's great center fielder, hit two homers providing all of Brooklyn's runs.

After five and one half scoreless innings, Snider led off the Dodger end of the sixth with a blow over the right field wall.

New York came back in the top of the seventh with two tallies. Catcher Berra laced into one of Billy Loes' pitches for the first Yankee run.

Gene Woodling followed with a single through the pitcher's mound. Woodling advanced to second on Loes' balk.

Fischer Raschi stepped up and promptly singled off Loes' knee and Woodling scampered home.

With two out in the Dodger half of the seventh, Loes sent a single into right field and stole second. He died on base as Billy Cox fanned.

In the eighth, Mantle drove the ball over 400 feet into the center field stands. Woodling walked and Jerry Noren singled. But both men were left stranded.

The Yanks almost scored again in the ninth. Gil McDougald beat out an infield hit. Phil Rizuto singled on the hit-and-run sending McDougald to third.

Preacher Roe came in to relieve the tiring Loes and walked Mantle to fill the bases. Joe Collins fanned and Berra lined out to Carl Furillo.

The seventh game of the Series will probably find either Reynolds or Eddie Lopat start against Roe or Rookie Joe Black.

Phi Psi's Down Betas Don Frei and Al Werner scored touchdowns in the second and third quarters as Phi Kappa Psi downed Beta Theta Pi, 12-0 while Alpha Gamma Rho crushed Tau Kappa Epsilon, 28-6.

Husker Team Earns Praise Of Stuber, Shantz Saturday

By HOWARD VANN Sports Staff Writer

The Cornhusker football team, after winning its third straight game of the 1951-52 season, gave all indications that they are on the up-grade. The general consensus that was going around the press-box was that Nebraska had shown a big improvement over last year's squad.

Three universities were scouting the game. Representatives were here from Penn State, Kansas—Iowa State's next hurdle—and Kansas State, Nebraska's next foe.

After the game in the Cyclone dressing room, Coach Abe Stuber had words of praise for the Huskers.

"Nebraska has got a good ball club. They ran and drove hard, especially Cifra and your quarterback, Bordogna. We have a lot of young boys, but we played as well as could be expected."

Also at the game were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shantz, better known around these parts as Bobby and Shirley.

"Nebraska's team is good. They all played very well. I've always thought that Nebraska was good," Bobby commented.

When asked about who he thought would win the Big Seven he said that he hasn't seen the other teams play, but being a loyal Cornhusker fan, he picks Nebraska for first. He did add though that he heard that Colorado and Kansas have very good teams.

Bob stated that his arm feels good and that he expects to be ready to go in the Spring. Right now he's planning a ten day trip to Honolulu where he will help manage a ball club for a week. After that Shantz will return home to work for the remainder of the winter season.

Bobby thinks that Robin Roberts is the best pitcher he has ever seen.

"He throws everything and it is all good," said Shantz.

Bob said that there will be a lot of trades next season so it would be pretty hard to make any predictions about the next baseball season, but he did believe that the A's would be in the first division. This year they ended up fourth in the American League chase.

"Jimmy Dykes is the best manager I have had the privilege of playing under," and that is a compliment since Shantz has played under Connie Mack and Jim Delsing.

Bobby picked the World Series winner—the Yanks.

To close the interview, we asked the very pretty Mrs. Shantz what she thought of her famous husband, and she replied, "No Comment."

Nebraska's undefeated Cornhuskers will be seeking their fourth win of the 1952 season and second Big Seven Conference victory when they take the field against Kansas State this Saturday.

The Huskers will be hoping to erase a 6-6 tie with the Wildcats which was played on a muddy field at Manhattan, much to the dismay of a rain-soaked Nebraska migration audience.

The game is already a sellout and with several thousand high school bands-men on campus to take part in Band Day festivities, the event bids well to be the most colorful of the 1952 home season.

The K-Staters have won one game and dropped two—bowing to Cincinnati and Missouri and edging Bradley.

NU, with successive wins over South Dakota, Oregon, and Iowa state was sluggish against the Cyclones but had the situation well in hand during most of the 60 minutes of play.

Husker coach, Bill Glassford hopes to smooth out the kinks and flaws in the Big Red offense and defense early this week while the Manhattan squad will be entertaining the idea of spring the upset of the season.

One again the Huskers find themselves in the role of the favorite. However, they didn't show anything new in offensive maneuvers, nor did they take to the air lanes except on five occasions.

Big Seven Scoring Leaders Bob Reynolds, Nebraska . . . 64 points in 12 games. Bobby Leake, Oklahoma . . . 39 points in 12 games. George Cira, Nebraska . . . 30 points in 12 games. John Bordogna, Nebraska . . . 23 points in 12 games. Zack Jordan, Colorado . . . 18 points in 12 games. Stan Cozz, Iowa State . . . 15 points in 12 games.

Dick Goll is one of the nine Husker lettermen playing their last year for Nebraska. Dick lettered last year as a junior while playing center. He stands 6' 1" tall and weighs an even 200 pounds.

Dick hails from Tekamah, Nebraska, where he played his high school football, and was selected as an all-state center as a senior. Football was the only sport that he participated in while attending high school, and has always been his first athletic interest.

Second only to football is Dick's interests in farming. He is enrolled in Ag college, and plans to return to the farm when he finishes his tour of duty in the air force.

IM Golfers Begin First Round Soon

The bid for the All-University Intramural golf championship swung into action last week with the completion of the qualifying rounds and the beginning of the individual match play. A grand total of 68 men turned in qualifying scores and on the basis of those scores have been placed in four single elimination flights.

Fifteen men grace the championship flight with 16 each in the first and second flights and 21 men in the third flight. The pairings of each flight have been posted on the bulletin board near Room 115 in the Physical Education building, as well as the deadline dates for each round.

Participants are responsible for arranging their matches with their opponents with the only restriction being that they finish by the given dates. All matches will be nine-hole match-play.

The first round of all four flights must be completed and the scores posted by Tuesday, Oct. 6 at noon. Scoreboards of each match should also be turned in by that time to Bob Hamblit, director of this year's action. His office is 107 PE or the cards may be left in his box in the office.

Figi's Win, 20-14 Ladd Hanson fired a 20-yard touchdown pass to George Barlow in the fourth quarter to give Phi Gamma Delta a 20-14 victory over Kappa Sigma. Until that victory, the Kappa Sig had fought to overcome a 13-0 Fiji lead with a safety in the second period and two touchdowns in the third.
