"The philosophy of the conference is to have young people view the problems of the world from a Christian perspective," this statement, as expressed by Fenske, is the aim of the conference.

The World Conference is held every four years to acquaint the delegates with the political, social, and economic problems of the world and to study the Bible.

Rev. Warner's topic will be "What is Your Purpose in Life?"

The speaker next Thursday is Bill Ramer, Inter-Varsity's staff member from Kansas.

to be sponsored by the Union this year, the first being the Longines Symphonette.

Starting in 1956 under the title "The Biggest Show of 1956," the road show featured only Nat "King" Cole and Sarah Vaughn. This also held true of the "Show of 1951." Kenton and his orchestra have joined forces with the show's initial stars for the 1952 fall presentation.

Also included on the bill are Stump and Stumpy, comedians who traveled with the show last year; George Kirby, mimic and humorist; The Congaroes, dance team; and Teddy Hale, dancer.

Featured with the Kenton orchestra is Maynard Ferguson, a 23-year-old Montreal trumpeter. Ferguson is reputed to possess the highest range of any trumpeter in the world and plays without any mechanical changes in his instrument.

Kenton has, for three consecutive years, won the title as the nation's number one orchestra on "Down Beat" magazine's popularity poll. He formed his first band in 1941. Since then he has caused much controversy in the music world because of his modern style and stubborn musical ideas.

Nat "King" Cole has had his name in the music world's archives since 1937 when he first formed his trio. Cole is most noted for his recordings for Capitol.

Sarah Vaughn started her career in music in 1943. She later became a top night club entertainer. From there she went to recording fame on Capitol Records.

The "Biggest Show" will make a tour of all the major cities throughout the nation and is planned to be presented annually.

Union committees are being set up to handle the preparations for the scheduled Nebraska stop and will be announced at a later date.

Tickets may also be obtained at Walt's Music Store and Haun's Music Co. Mail orders will be filled by the Union.

New York Times Section Describes State's Progress

"Nebraska, the State of Opportunity." This is the title of a 16-page feature section that appeared in the New York Times Sunday. The supplement, tells of the industrial, agricultural, recreational and transportation progress of the state.

Charles V. Price, chief of the division of Nebraska resources, said that the section is "an attempt to picture Nebraska 'not only as a low cost, trouble-free place to make things, but also as a nice place to live.'"

The project was financed by advertisements sold to Nebraska firms. The only cost to the state, said Price, was $5,000-worth of advertising paid from the resources division budget.

Leadership in the section was furnished by two Lincoln businessmen, Nathan Gold and R. E. Campbell. The idea came after they saw a similar article about West Virginia in April.

The article pictures Nebraska as one of the nation's leading agricultural states.

SEOUL, KOREA—Allied infantrymen counterattacked against the biggest Red drive of the year. They struck back at the 12,000 screaming Chinese Communists who attacked the White Horse Mountain front late Tuesday. Allied troops fought by the light of aerial flares, searchlights and artillery shells in their attempt to regain the vital outpost.

More than 1,100 Chinese were killed by the Allies on Arrowhead Ridge since the attacks were launched, reports from the front said. More than 400 Communist troops had cut through the perimeter of White Horse Mountain defenses, reports said. Fanatical Chinese charged across a battlefield littered with their own dead in the renewed assault.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y.—The United States will ask the United Nations General Assembly for blanket endorsement of its prosecution of the Korean War. The move is designed to strengthen its moral position in negotiations to end the war. For the first time Korea will become a major issue at the General Assembly session, opening Oct. 14.

Western powers defeated a Russian attempt to debate the Korean issue when the Assembly met in Paris last year. Now the United States and her allies have reversed tactics. The new plan is to gain endorsement of what has been done so far and reinforce it with an appeal from the president of the Assembly to Communist China and North Korea to end the war.

MOSCOW—Gen. Dwight Eisenhower is an "imperialist" and American troops are close to Russia's Far Eastern frontiers a Communist party leader has warned fellow members. Speaking at the 19th Congress of the Soviet Communist party, A. N. Snechkus, secretary-general of the Lithuanian Communist party, attacked the general's stand on the Liberation of Baltic peoples.

The Republican candidate told American Legion members on Aug. 25 that Baltic States and other Soviet satellites are "now suffocating under the Russian yoke."

He said that America must come to aid of those once free peoples who still are dedicated to the idea of freedom. The general was sharply criticized by the Democrats and Secretary of State Dean Acheson for his remarks.

In a speech at Philadelphia on Sept. 4, Eisenhower said the United States should aid freedom loving peoples "only by peaceful means."

Snechkus told the Communist Congress "it is in vain that the imperialist Eisenhower barks at the Lithuanian people in the hope of enslaving Lithuania."

Sororities Vote To Continue Homecoming Displays

Innocents Express Concern Over Display Fund Donation

Donation of Homecoming house display funds to polio relief endangers the tradition of Homecoming, several members of the Innocents Society said Tuesday.

"I think that the Nebraska campus has few traditions as it is," Wayne White said. "I think that Homecoming attracts enough people back to the campus to warrant having it. Although the polio fund is a worthy object, I believe that if the organized houses really want to contribute, they should do so with money other than their Homecoming fund."

Dan Tolman also called attention to the few traditions on the campus. He said, "There are so few really Nebraska traditions which are or can be attended by our counterpart, the people of the State of Nebraska. The only ones that I can think of are Homecoming, Engineers Week, Farmers Fair, and Ivy Day. Of these, it seems that Homecoming has the most statewide acclaim."

Dean Linscott expressed deep concern over the possible loss of Homecoming, declaring, "I hate to see a tradition like Homecoming destroyed, and I'm afraid that is what is going to happen. I do believe there is a solution to the

Innocents' Stand

Dear Editor; Following the Innocents meeting Monday evening, a letter was submitted to The Daily Nebraskan concerning the Homecoming House displays. The purpose of the letter was to establish a "stand" upon which we feel that both the Polio Fund and Homecoming will benefit. My purpose in writing this letter is to somewhat clarify the Innocents' outlook on this issue. Bear in mind, however, the the Innocents Society is definitely "one-sided" in their viewpoint, but I'll give it a try.

(First) There is no harder an issue against which to compete than the Polio Fund, because the need is so great and because Nebraska especially has been hard hit!

(Second) There are so few really Nebraska Traditions which are or can be attended by our counterpart, the people of the State of Nebraska. The only ones that I can think of are Homecoming, "E" Week, Farmer's Fair, and Ivy Day. Of these, it seems that Homecoming has the most state-wide acclaim. I wouldn't however, place Nebraska's Homecoming on the same level as Iowa State's Veishea Days in so far as individual, state-wide acclaim is concerned.

(Third) Let's look into the reasoning behind the total contribution of Homecoming funds to the Polio Fund. The great need has definitely been established, but may there be other reasons also?

a. Could it be that if the organized houses participating feel both needs equally as great that the homecoming funds remain intact and that each individual member of these houses contribute to the Polio Fund?

b. Could it be that it is much easier to extract $50 from the house treasury than to spend a week of hard work in preparation for this event?

c. Could it be that many organized houses which find themselves not on the arranged pattern of traffic routing firing the eve of Homecoming feel that an injustice is being done toward them and that they now have a means by which to "release themselves from the yoke?"

Polio Fund To Receive Aid Without Change In Tradition

By MARILYN TYSON Staff Writer

Twelve sorority presidents decided at a meeting Tuesday to support and continue Homecoming decorations.

The letter containing the Innocents proposal of using the five dollar entrance fee for Polio contribution was read and the presidents decided in favor of this action.

The letter from the Innocents was printed in the Letterip section of Tuesday's Daily Nebraskan. It said that the Homecoming house displays are one of Nebraska's oldest and most valued campus traditions. It also said the Innocent Society feels that Homecoming and all the things that make it outstanding must never be forgotten and yet neither should this dreaded enemy of mankind.

The letter suggested through its proposal two birds could be killed with one stone. Homecoming displays would continue and money would also be contributed to the Polio Fund.

General opinion at the meeting was that sororities who wished to contribute to the polio fund could raise the money in other ways.

Polio Fund To Receive Aid Without Change In Tradition

Several chapters have already made plans to raise money for the fund.

Alpha Xi Delta voted to collect one dollar from each girl in their chapter for the Polio Fund.

Chi Omega plans to buy a child's walker for the Orthopedic Hospital.

Kappa Alpha Theta is giving up a meal or will work on a Saturday to perform odd jobs. The money earned will be contributed to the fund.

The two sororities not represented at the meeting were contacted and have agreed to the action decided at the meeting.
