Writer Gets Wisdom Teeth Pulled; Tells Impressions Of Student Dentists

By PAT PECK
Feature Editor

This is the story of two teeth and a quotation.

I don't remember the author of the quotation or just what he said, but it was something to the effect that in order to make writing live you must have lived the writing.

The teeth belonged to me, and in order to give you the illusion of pulling teeth as you read this, I had them pulled.

In reality the story is about the group of students who spend the last two years of their college careers on the third floor of Andrews Hall in the domain of the Dental College and their work.

Occasionally there is an overflow of men in white jackets at the coffee machine on first floor, but for the most part they stay within the boundaries of third. When they come downstairs they take off their white jackets and lose their identity as dentists. They also lose their titles, for upstairs they are referred to as "Doctor."

My first acquaintance with the Dental College came with a sore "wisdom tooth," "third molar" or "lower right eight," whichever you prefer. Having been given to understand that perhaps the Dental Clinic could help, I allowed ten minutes between classes and presented myself at the information desk.

Emergencies, that is anyone who doesn't have an appointment, are handled between 1 and 3 p.m. The lady in a white uniform behind the desk picked up a microphone and said sweetly, "Doctor Soandso, patient."

After a brief pause Doctor Soandso put in an appearance. He used the usual right-this-way technique, led me into a room equipped with 60 dentist chairs and parked "patient" in one of the usual type. He looked at the offending tooth and said "hum," while another student dentist took notes on a clipboard. Two X-rays later he announced that two teeth would be pulled in a demonstration the following Thursday morning, "upper right eight" and "lower right eight," that is.

Having four teeth of that type, all equally useless, I asked why they couldn't all be pulled. "The

Lewis Orders Miners To Work

WASHINGTON—John L. Lewis ordered striking soft coal miners to go back to work Monday. The chief of the United Mine Workers said work should be resumed pending government reconsideration of the $1.90 a day pay raise which the industry approved. The Wage Stabilization Board had trimmed the raise to $1.50. The industry and the union have jointly appealed the WSB decision.

President Truman had appealed directly to Lewis to get the miners back to work. Sunday night Truman called Lewis and Harry M. Moses, president of the bituminous Coal Producers Association, to a White House conference. Also included in the meeting were Economic Stabilizer Roger L. Putnam; David Cole, director of the Federal Mediation Service; and Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman, Truman's specialist on labor problems.

Truman's statement following the meeting indicated possible reversal of the wage board's position that miners should be granted only a $1.50 a day pay increase.

He said Putnam "assured the parties that serious and prompt consideration would be given" to the joint industry-union request for a review of the wage board's ruling. In addition, he said Moses stated the operators "are prepared to start paying immediately the $1.50 of the wage increase now allowable and to set aside available for payment to the miners when and if approved" the remaining 40 cents per day, retroactive to Oct. 1.

Stevenson Attacks McCarthy Speech

EN ROUTE WITH STEVENSON IN NEW ENGLAND—Gov. Adlai Stevenson declared Sen. Joseph McCarthy would make "the most magnificent of all smears of all times." McCarthy made a nation-wide broadcast on Communism Monday night. He repeated that Eisenhower was "getting on the wrong bus" when he said he would go to Korea in an effort to end the war there. And he insisted the war would be settled in Moscow—not Korea.

Sunday Stevenson expressed concern over the "concentration of federal authority over our lives."

Allies Accused Of War Crimes

VEREEN, GERMANY—Ex-Gen. Hermann Ramcke accused Allied soldiers of war crimes and demanded the release of all "so-called German war criminals." He spoke at the first postwar reunion of Hitler's SS (elite guard). Ramcke, a paratrooper general and one of the most popular German wartime leaders, told the SS men they had been fighting for their fatherland as well as any other German soldiers and that therefore, "all defamation of their honor must stop."

"All those Allied officers and soldiers who bombed German cities are also war criminals," Ramcke said. "If our soldiers are convicted as war criminals then it was also a war crime when the Allies bombed unprotected German cities and when the Allies now invent atom bombs."

Bloodmobile Hits Lincoln To Collect 70-Pint Goal

The Mobile Blood Bank will be in Lincoln on Tuesday at the Scottish Rite Temple, Shirley Murphy, Blood Donor Recruiting Chairman, announced.

The goal for the Lincoln area has been set at 70 pints of blood. This goal will be reached if all those who pledged to give a donation are able to keep their appointments, she added.

Miss Murphy said that the need is very great and urged all those who had filled out a donation card, and had been contacted by the Red Cross Office to fulfill their appointments.

Harold Hill, Lancaster County Red Cross chairman said that his office had received special award pins for all persons who had donated one gallon of blood to the Red Cross.

The pins have the usual drop of blood design, but have a gold star in the center of the drop.

Miss Murphy said that there have been no members of the "gallon club" as yet, but a special event is planned for the first University student to join the elite circle.

Left Overs

The hostess was talking to one of her guests as the two sat on the lawn listening to a chimes recital.

"Beautiful, aren't they?" remarked the hostess.

"Pardon?" inquired the guest. "I say, they're beautiful, aren't they?"

"I'm sorry," roared the guest, "but I can't hear a word for those damned chimes."

Nancy — I think there's company downstairs.
Sally — How do you know?
Nancy — I just heard Mama laugh at one of Papa's jokes.

"Never again! So long as I live, I'll never ask a woman to marry me."
"Why? Did she say no?"
"No. She said yes."

"Your methods of cultivation are hopelessly out of date," said the youthful agricultural college graduate to the old farmer. "Why, I'd be astonished if you got even ten pounds of apples from that tree."
"So would I," replied the farmer. "It's a pear tree."

HERSHEY ANNOUNCES

Applications Due Saturday For Draft Deferment Test

Deadline for submitting applications for the Dec. 4 selective Services College Qualification Test is midnight Saturday.

Applications postmarked after that time cannot be accepted the National Headquarters Selective Service System in Washington, D. C. announced.

Students are to mail their completed applications to the Educational Testing Service at Princeton, New Jersey.

To be eligible to apply for the college deferment test a student must intend to request deferment as a student, be satisfactorily pursuing a full-time course of instruction, and must not have previously taken the Selective Service College Qualification Test.

General Hershey emphasized that increasing manpower demands make it important that each draft-eligible student who has not taken the test do so as soon as possible and that students whose academic year will end in January 1953 should take the December 4, 1952 test so they will have a test score in their cover sheets before the end of their academic year, at which time their boards will open and reconsider their cases to determine whether they should be deferred students.

Students eligible for deferment as an undergraduate student are those having a score of 70 on the test or specified rank in class. These ranks are set at the upper half of the male freshman class, upper two thirds of the male sophomore class, or upper three fourths of the male junior class.

Students accepted for admission or attending a graduate school prior to July 1, 1951 satisfy the eligibility requirements if their work is satisfactory. Graduate students admitted or attending after July 1, 1951 just have been in the upper half of their classes during their senior year or make a score of 75 or better on the test.

General Hershey also stated that the standards may be raised at any time necessary for manpower demands.

Atomic Energy Exhibit Will Open Sunday In M-N Science Building

An atomic energy exhibit prepared by the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission and the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies will open its Nebraska tour in Lincoln Sunday.

The exhibit is designed to further understanding the development and possibilities of atomic energy. Several Nebraska newspapers have joined with the University Extension Division and local school systems to sponsor a state tour of the display.

The showing in Lincoln is being financed by the Lincoln Journal and the Lincoln Star. The exhibit, which requires about 7,500 square feet of floor space, will be set up in the Military and Naval Science building and will be open through Thursday Nov. 6.

Other Nebraska cities on the shows itinerary are Norfolk, Scottsbluff, North Platte, Hastings and Beatrice.

The exhibit, sponsored by the National University Extension Association, contains more than 30 sections devoted to various phases of atomic energy.

Included in the exhibit is an atomic furnace in which uranium atoms are split every few seconds.

Another section of the exhibit is devoted to atomic energy uses in agriculture. This division will explain and actually produce radioisotopes. With the use of radioisotopes, agricultural scientists are now able to follow the path of fertilizer from the soil into the plant. Another display will show how electricity may someday be generated by nuclear furnaces. The effects of atomic bombs will be featured in another section.

The Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies is a unique organization in American education, according to a news-letter from the American Museum of Atomic Energy in Oak Ridge, Tenn.

The Institute, composed of 30 southern universities, is an arm of the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission. Chartered as a non-profit educational corporation in Oct., 1946, the Institute has a contract with the AEC to conduct higher education programs through use of the research facilities at Oak Ridge.

The traveling atomic energy exhibition appearing in Nebraska is one of these programs.

Among the first programs to be established by the Institute, the letter says, was a radioisotope program designed to teach research scientists how to use the man-made "tracer atoms" which today constitute the principal pacetime benefit of atomic energy.

The Institute now is undertaking a study to determine the value of radioactive materials in the treatment of cancer, the letter continues.

The exhibition in Lincoln is free of charge and open to the public.

ATOMIC POWER PLANT . . . This arrangement of pipes and tanks is a simplified illustration of the way an atomic pile might be used to produce electricity in the future. The exhibit will be shown in Lincoln Nov. 2 through Nov. 6.
