Intramural Touch Football Playoffs Will Begin Today

Intramural touch footballers begin playing for keeps Friday as 1952 playoffs get under way. Thirty-two teams remain in contention for the four I-M titles, fraternity "A," fraternity "B," Independent and All-University. Eight fraternity "A" outfits place their regular-season records on the block in Friday's curtain-raiser. Eight more continue the struggle Saturday morning while the Independents and Bees square-off Monday and Thursday, respectively, in their first-round battles.

Leading the way Friday will be the Alpha Tau Omega—Beta Sigma Psi and Phi Kappa Psi—Pioneer House contests. All four outfits copped their respective league titles and it will be featured as the battle of giants. All but the Tau's sport undefeated records as they face their crucial first-round game.

Adding to the spice of opening day will be the contests between Phi Gamma Delta and Farm House and between Acadia and either Phi Delta Theta or Delta Tau Delta. All Friday contests are scheduled for City fields at 4:30 p.m.

Saturday morning at 10 a.m. will feature the second bracket of the "A" first-round. Slated for battle are Delta Sigma Phi against Theta Chi, Sigma Phi Epsilon against Delta Upsilon, Sigma Alpha Mu against Beta Theta Pi and Kappa Sigma against either the Phi Deltas or Delta.

Top contest Saturday is figured to be the Sig Ep-DU affair. The DU's are unbeaten while their opponents own an impressive 4-1 mark from the tough league I and are the defending "A" and All-University champions.

Cage Work Starts Soon; Eight Lettermen Return

By GARY FRANDSEN
Sports Staff Writer

Eight lettermen will form the nucleus of the 1952-53 version of Coach Harry Good's Nebraska basketball team. The Cornhuskers will be out to improve a 7-17 record and will have to face a rugged 18-game schedule as well as the annual Big Seven Tournament at Kansas City.

Good and Seger were both key performers in the Cornhusker scoring department of last season. Both boys tallied 194 points for runner-up honors, however Good had a 8.8 average while Seger, former Omaha Benson flash, had a 8.1 mark. Others who were prominent figures in points scored were Matzke with 162 and Johnson with 155.

braska's success will depend on the improvement of the first-year lettermen. The Husker head mentor also seemed to think that Kansas State is definitely the team to beat in the coming Big Seven race.

The powerful Wildcats, under the capable leadership of Jack Gardner, have a well-balanced crew that possess plenty of speed as well as height. Their sophomore crop is also to be of exceptional ability.

Missing will be the incomparable Jim "Bucky" Buchanan, one of the greatest players to have ever roamed the Coliseum maps. The elusive guard smashed two records as he poured in 400 points for a 16.6 point average last year and compiled the astounding three-year total of 821 points.

Only one senior, Joe Good, is back for another year of cage action. Good is a two-year letterman who does equally well at either forward or guard station.

Others returning to the scene of action are center Bill Johnson, guard Fred Seger, forward Don Weber, forward Stan Matzke, guard Gerry Sandbulte, forward Paul Fredstrom and Willard Fagler, a boy who can play either forward or center. Johnson, Seger and Weber are juniors while the remaining four are only sophomores.

Among the newcomers are six sophomores who show plenty of promise. They are forwards Don Muenster, Dave Fahrback, and Lee Dobler; guard Murray Bachhaus; and centers Gary Renselman and Frank Falloon.

As far as height is concerned, the squad averages slightly under 6'3" with the big man being Johnson, who sports a 6'7" frame. Other skyscrapers are Fagler and Renselman who stand 6'5 1/2" and 6'5" respectively. Back-shorts is Bachhaus who is the only one of the 14 who is under six feet. He is 5'11".

Tough Foe For NU—Big 7 Leading Tigers

By GLENN NELSON
Sports Editor

The Nebraska-Missouri clash at Memorial Stadium Saturday is tabbed as one of the top games of the Big Seven this season, as the second-place Cornhuskers will be trying to tip the Tigers from their top rung on the conference ladder.

The defensive squad probably will include Bill Schabacker and Dennis Emanuel, ends; Jerry Minnick and Ed Husmann, tackles; Max Kitzelman and Don Bell, guards; Veri Scott and Carl Brasec, linebackers; Dan Brown and Jim Vaisley, halfbacks; and Chuck Chamley, safety.

Coach Bill Glassford is still uncertain about his opening lineup for the game. George Mink, offensive end starter who put out for the season with a broken collarbone at Colorado last week, has left an open position in the NU offensive lineup.

Andy Loehr, Turtle Creek, Pa. pass-grabber, will no doubt get the nod. The glue-fingered sophomore performed gracefully at Folsom Field in Boulder.

If Loehr starts at left wing, then Emil Radik, another sophomore newcomer, may be starting on the opposite side of the line, according to Glassford's present plans. Ted Connor will again open at left end if Loehr is placed at right.

Missouri, which juggled its starting backfield before dropping the Iowa State Cyclones, 19-0, last week, will hang on to its backs, Tony Scardino at quarterback, Jim Hook at left half, Bill Rowekamp at right half, and Nick Carras at fullback.

Nebraska medics are still uncertain whether Bob Reynolds will be ready for action Saturday. He will certainly kick points, Glassford said.

Reynolds led the Huskers to a 40-34 victory over the Tigers in 1950, scoring three touchdowns and four extra points in the wild scoring affair. The NU-MU game is picked by many to be another high-scoring one this year.

Coach Glassford seemed very concerned Thursday about his team's spirit. The NU tutor said that his men have much less spirit now than at this time last week before their tie with the Buffaloes.

All-Star IM Grid Teams To Be Chosen This Week

With the regular season completed and the playoffs slated to begin today, the Daily Nebraskan Sports Desk is again receiving ballots for the All-Star Intramural football teams.

As in previous years, all teams and managers are asked to vote for the top men they faced during the season's action, naming if possible, a first and second team.

Only those men that opposed the teams during the regular season and the playoffs should be considered in the balloting.

The teams are asked to vote for seven men on each team, designating backs and linemen, but they need not place the men at any one position. The final tabulation will consist of four backs and three linemen.

NU Favored In MUGame

The Cornhuskers go into their game with Missouri Saturday as a one touchdown favorite.

Bill Glassford, upon hearing the statement, said "There is no such thing as a favorite. Each team will have 11 men on the field."

The Husker coach thinks that the NU-MU game will be another high-scoring affair. He fears the Missouri attack, which racked up a 19-0 win over Iowa State last week to keep its lead in Big Seven standings.

Because of the various league separations, the final teams will be determined by percentage of possible votes rather than total number of votes. Therefore, if a team plays five games and a man on that team receives first-team votes from all five opponents, he will get the nod over a man who receives six first-team votes from seven opponents.

Both first and second team votes will count towards the final tabulation, five points for a first-team ballot and three for a second-team ballot.

All ballots should be turned in or sent to the Sports Desk or any of the sports writers. Teams that have not gained the playoffs should vote immediately, the others as soon as possible. A ballot need not contain the names of 14 men, any number will be counted, but 14 is the desired number.

A Confession From an Elder Citizen to 21-year-old Voters:

When I was a twenty-one year-old citizen, government and those who managed it didn't make much difference. Just a few people that we called "politicians" took an interest in government. As the years went by, the government began to control our economic, social and political lives. We were slow, very slow, to recognize that some of our liberties were being threatened. We didn't realize that the planning by bureaucratic government involved control of the human individual from the cradle to the grave.

Business and professional men considered a "politician" as anything but "an individual skilled and trained in the art of government." What we forgot is that in any group we have good and bad people.

We turn over the management of government to the younger men and women as a group, they control the majority vote and actually have more concern about the future of our country than any other age group.

We, the elder citizens of this nation, turn over a government that is indebted. We mortgaged your future and the future of many generations to come. We turn over a country that has been forced to accept bureaucratic control that sometimes and in many ways encroaches upon the liberties of the individual. We turn over a government that on the record is corrupt and degenerated by those who, through devious methods, have taken away the reins of control. We turn over a nation that has committed American soldiers and American dollars to a conflict that the head of our government and those in our State Department refuse to classify as a war.

In short, as elder citizens, we have recklessly used up the financial resources of our nation. We have not taken sufficient interest in government to assure that we have more good people in the management of government than those who must be classified as bad. We now know our multiple mistakes. We learn from the examples of others. Our example has not been good. We hope that the young voters will learn from our mistakes.

Integrity, honesty and leadership are descriptive adjectives. They can hardly be used to describe the present administration leaders or those who have now received the blessings and support of the present administration.

We need a fresh, new, clean group of men in government who will manage the affairs of our government under true and tried traditions of behaviour and thought and philosophies.

Only a vote for Dwight Eisenhower and Senator Nixon will help solve problems in Washington that we, the elder citizens, permitted to start through our lack of interest in government.
