

EDITORIAL PAGE

Nov. 4 Post Mortems

A University student was overheard to remark Wednesday—in an election post-mortem chat, "I can go out and work now and if I'm not a success, it's my fault, not the government's."

The country and its people can again return to a serious, thoughtful analysis of its problems—and base its decisions not on political expediency but on reason.

The Daily Nebraskan was happy and gratified to see the election of Eisenhower to the presidency and the policies of the Republican party able to be effected again.

At 12:44 a.m. Wednesday morning Gov. Adlai Stevenson told the nation "My fellow citizens have made their choice . . . and I gladly accept it."

Eisenhower had done the hitherto impossible. He had split the solid south. He had gotten a corner on labor and farm votes.

This nation woke Wednesday morning to more than a new president—to more than the Republican party back in power.

The country found—in the day-after-election, an optimism—not based on partisan politics. The optimism voiced and felt Wednesday was not a Republican victory.

The feeling Wednesday, in this writer's opinion, was one of a country united again—after it had been split by campaign charges, by mud-slinging, by insinuation and by attack.

over—the election is over—our news columns and our every-day conversations may again return to fact—not opinion.

The country and its people can again return to a serious, thoughtful analysis of its problems—and base its decisions not on political expediency but on reason.

The Daily Nebraskan was happy and gratified to see the election of Eisenhower to the presidency and the policies of the Republican party able to be effected again.

At 12:44 a.m. Wednesday morning Gov. Adlai Stevenson told the nation "My fellow citizens have made their choice . . . and I gladly accept it."

Eisenhower had done the hitherto impossible. He had split the solid south. He had gotten a corner on labor and farm votes.

This nation woke Wednesday morning to more than a new president—to more than the Republican party back in power.

The country found—in the day-after-election, an optimism—not based on partisan politics. The optimism voiced and felt Wednesday was not a Republican victory.

The feeling Wednesday, in this writer's opinion, was one of a country united again—after it had been split by campaign charges, by mud-slinging, by insinuation and by attack.

Again They Try

Again we have an attempt on our campus to further the cause of international good will. Again an organization—known for its altruistic projects to further understanding in our world—is sponsoring an event to better acquaint the native student body with the 178 foreign students attending this University.

The Religious Welfare Council is sponsoring a dinner this evening—the International Friendship Dinner, an annual affair open to the entire student body.

NUCWA made the most recent attempt to further international understanding when it held a tea for foreign students during United Nations week.

The Nebraska sincerely hopes that the Friendship Dinner this evening receives more support from the student body than did the NUCWA tea.

The feeling Wednesday, in this writer's opinion, was one of a country united again—after it had been split by campaign charges, by mud-slinging, by insinuation and by attack.

Have We Forgotten

The faculty has not come through—the members have not met their goal to the Community Chest-Red Cross drive this fall.

Faculty members of the University are asked to donate to the All-University Fund which, in turn, supports World Student Service Fund, cancer research and the Lincoln Community Chest.

Chatfield told The Nebraskan Wednesday afternoon that the faculty members are about $1,500 short of their Community Chest-Red Cross goal.

Earlier in the drive, when it appeared that the faculty would not meet its goal, it was suggested that perhaps the pledge cards distributed to faculty members were buried under a pile of papers on each instructor's desk.

It is entirely possible that the faculty has forgotten contributions to the Community Chest. It is also possible that members cannot, at this time, combine their Red Cross and regular Chest donation in one contribution.

The Nebraskan feels in no position to chastise persons for not donating to various organizations. If the faculty has forgotten Community Chest pledges, a reminder might suffice.

Margin Notes

Panhellenic Achievement . . .

Wednesday night climaxed a year's work in regard to sorority achievement at the Panhellenic dinner. The top awards—Elsie Ford Piper Achievement Award Cup and Scholarship Award—were presented to Kappa Delta and Alpha Chi Omega, respectively.

Congratulations to the recipients of the honors which are the highest forms of annual tribute paid to University sororities.

Cooperative Spirit . . .

At the time this paper is being distributed, W. H. Auden, Anglo-American poet, essayist and playwright, will be speaking at 7 a.m. to University students in the Union Ballroom.

At the same time, how many students will be jammed in the booths of the local campus coffeeing places?

Following the convocation at which Chancellor Gustavson was chief speaker to only 1500 students, Stuart Goldberg, proprietor of Uni Sundries, wrote The Daily Nebraskan that he would close his establishment during All-University convocations if other proprietors would.

The Daily Nebraskan hopes that maybe this time students will realize that an hour of Auden's time will prove far more valuable than an hour over coffee.

Future Cornhuskers . . .

Friday will bring more than 800 high school journalists to the University to attend the Nebraska High School Press Association convention.

Besides taking a look at professional journalism, they will be watching University students and deciding whether or not this will become their college alma mater.

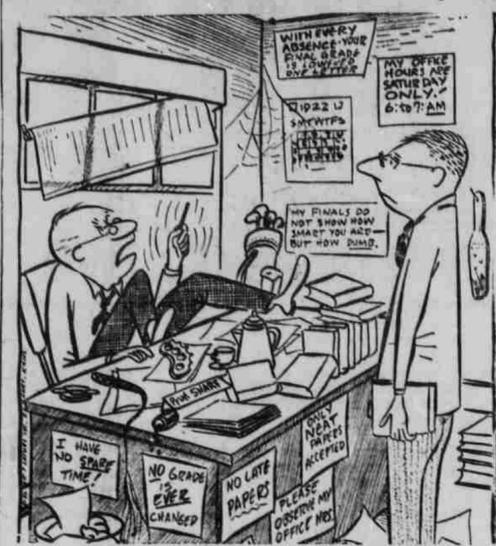

International Friendship . . .

Saturday night foreign and American students

Daily Thought

Who would please all and please himself, too,

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS By Bibler

"Just forget about tenure for awhile—it comes as a result of being a good teacher."

Why They Won

By CHARLES THONE
EDITOR'S NOTE: There is a graduate of the University now serving as Assistant Attorney General of the state of Nebraska.

Why Ike? Why Inxay-Adlai? WHY IKE? I am asked to write an article thereabouts. In one respect I assure you that the assignment is a little tough.

A platitudinous query around Lincoln last week centered around the Missouri victory. Then, and now, a simple categorical answer to the WHY was quite impossible.

Ike started out as a nationally known and respected figure—a well liked guy. Since he returned from Europe, he sold himself to the American people on sound principles.

He returned in sincerity—he hit home with "of all the dispositions and habits which lead to political prosperity religion and morality are indispensable supports."

a crusade for a mass comprehension of what America is all about, how it came to be, and wither it is bound.

What else? His appeal rallied many like working groups behind "the cause," he accomplished party unity. He had done it—a son in Korea, and all voters passed over this but one lightly.

Many, many other contributing factors could and should be listed, but let us hurry on to a major reason for the landslide.

You can itemize this major factor as graft, sheer stupidity, corruption, Communism, Korea, inflation, taxes, favoritism, etc., or you can call it "that mess in Washington."

A Lincoln editor, Ray McConnell, noted in his column a few days before the election that "the two party system allows people to apportion credit or blame and fix responsibility."

Yes, you can fool some of the people some of the time, but the American people were simply sick and tired of Little Harry Truman.

Other rumors about the campus are that the Builder's office in the Union has been opened permanently for the semester.

Well as we say out west, "so-long partner."

RECORD BUYERS SAVE 25% ON ALL 33-1/3 L.P. RECORDS

Advertisement for Record Sales Co. featuring a catalog of records, including opera, symphony, and jazz, with a special offer of 25% off.

Rented Land

'Whose Glory?' Is Question As Ag Students Donate To AUF

Chuck Beam

"They always get the breaks," remarked the Ag college students. Perhaps they were referring to the 20 lucky individuals who are enrolled in a soil conservation course.

Off the beam again and back to the Ag Union. This seems to be the bethive of activity as far as the Ag campus is concerned.

The Nebraska sincerely hopes that the Friendship Dinner this evening receives more support from the student body than did the NUCWA tea.

Beam

I guess the students who are on the curious side will have to go and find out what this new Ag college activity is.

One point of interest concerning the Union is the postponing of the dancing lessons for the coming Wednesday evening.

Special days for the month of November are few and far between. The college has only two scheduled with one of these set for Friday at Hastings.

Well I am back to back patting for the Ag students. This congratulatory goes to the students who donated $35.75 to the AUF at the box social Sunday night.

interest that the writer would like to raise is the fact that the so-called "wheels" of the AUF failed to get into the spirit of the evening and bring the necessary items to take part in the social.

Other rumors about the campus are that the Builder's office in the Union has been opened permanently for the semester.

Well as we say out west, "so-long partner."

New Impressions, Old Friends Greet '52 Grad

By GEORGE WILCOX
While strolling through The Daily Nebraskan office, the Editor asked me if I would write down a few comments on my impressions of the University.

My first impression was of the social changes in effect since last June. I got back into town late Saturday afternoon in time to attend some of the University parties and my first impression was that the "Old Soldiers" certainly have faded away.

Monday night I was privileged to view tryout-skits for the Fall Kosmet Klub show. I was quite impressed this year with the originality of the skits which in previous years was quite lacking.

The many new faces of students who have just entered the University was a delight although I would have given my right arm to see some of the old gang swinging along for that.

NUBB

- Thursday Builders Campus Tour Meeting—Room 315 Union, 5 p.m. Cornhusker pictures—Photo Lab, West Stadium. Cosmopolitan Club—12:30 p.m. Delta Omicron—12:45 p.m. Home Ec Club—5 p.m. Phi Mu and Omicron Nu—5:15 p.m.

- YW Noon Discussion—Ellen Smith Hall, Dining Room, 12 p.m. YW Worship Workshop—Ellen Smith Hall, Dining Room, 4 p.m. Student-Faculty Coffee Hour—Faculty Lounge, Union, 4 p.m. YW Office Staff—Ellen Smith Hall, Dining Room, 5 p.m. YW Comparative Religions—Ellen Smith Hall, Northeast Room, 5 p.m. Alpha Zeta—Agronomy Building, Seminar Room, 7:15 p.m.

Friday Cornhusker pictures—Photo Lab, West Stadium. Interservice Christian Fellowship—5 p.m.

KNUS

- 3:06-3:15 Purple Grotto 3:15-3:30 Shake Hands With The World 3:30-3:45 Rhythm And Rhyme 3:45-4:00 Sports Parade 4:00-4:15 4 O'Clock Class 4:15-4:30 Songs of the Saddle 4:30-4:35 This I Believe 4:35-4:50 World Of Wax 4:50-5:00 News

Big Show At MSC

The "Biggest Show of 1952" hit Michigan State College Oct. 27 and the student newspaper, Michigan State News, had this to say about the performance: "It started with the mighty Kenton orchestra playing powerhouse arrangement . . . then they switched to moody, compelling works . . . Miss Vastigh's warm, mello voice makes her sound like she is singing to individuals . . . Nat King Cole . . . cressed his way through . . . his latest hits."

ONE HOUR

Washed and Dried Cheaper Than Sending Laundry Home Automatic Machines—Attendant Service 16th & N—Drive in Parking

In Gold's Men's Store BEAU BRUMMEL

Thistle Plaid Sport Shirts

Usually 5.95 3.99 • Crease Resistant • Washable A limited quantity of famous, colorful Beau Brummel sport shirt. Wash and iron so easily. Always look neat and fresh because they're wrinkle resistant.

Vic Vet says

VETERANS WHO SERVED ANYWHERE IN THE WORLD SINCE THE KOREAN CONFLICT STARTED NOW ARE ELIGIBLE FOR GI LOANS ON THE SAME BASIS AS WORLD WAR II VETERANS