Two Coeds Find Birth Certificates Not Entirely Accurate Identification

By PAT PECK
Feature Editor
Being born can be rough.
But you may never discover it until you send to the Bureau of Vital Statistics for your birth certificate.

diately or the man in the corner store may reject the certificate as false identification.
The new rule passed last year making it necessary for persons under 21 to present their birth certificate in order to obtain a drivers license was irritating to some people.

Birth certificates may lose their importance if the new ruling proposed by the mayor and the City Council goes through. Under this ruling you make out your own birth certificate and sign it if you wish to purchase an alcoholic beverage. The officials have hinted that it will be dangerous not to remember when you were born.

Welfare Council Sponsors Thanksgiving Guest Program

Why not open your home during the Thanksgiving holidays to some lonely student far from his own family.
The Religious Welfare Council is sponsoring a program by which you may do so. All students who are willing to have a guest enrich their Thanksgiving holidays should call Miss Emily Schossberger, extension 4202, who will schedule all engagements.

Air, Army ROTC Classes Dismissed

All classes in Air and Army ROTC have been dismissed Monday and Tuesday, according to the respective ROTC officers.
However, all Navy ROTC classes will be held as scheduled, according to Capt. Thomas Donovan, NROTC commandant.

Counselors See Fur Fashions

By DARWIN MCAFEE
Staff Writer
Eyes sparkled at the fur style show Wednesday night, as spectators wistfully hoped that Christmas would find them pulling a muskrat, broadtail lamb or possibly even a seal fur coat out of their stocking hung by the (read) bright.

Peterson and priced at under $100, was described ideal for college coeds. Modeled after the original Navy pea coats, the straight boxy jacket looked like just the thing for the nippy days ahead.
Ellen Svoboda modeled a honey shade Japanese rabbit of a lighter and fluffier fur. Its adjustable sleeves and patch pockets exemplified two features which are characteristic of the new fashions.

muskrat which is better known as Hudson seal.
Murmurs of approval arose from the audience of sixty coeds as Ruth Randolph strolled by in a new blue grey broadtail processed lamb with silver blue mink cuffs. Pettily short and priced at $298 it was described by Davis as "the height of fashion."

Former Coach Will Address Honor Banquet

Fred T. Dawson, head Cornhusker football coach from 1921-1924, will be guest speaker at the Athletic banquet Dec. 2, 6:30 p.m. in the Union ballroom.
A Princeton graduate, his teams defeated and tied Notre Dame while it fielded the Four Horsemen. The banquet, which will honor all Cornhusker athletes, is being sponsored by a student committee headed by Joy Wachal.
