BLACK MASQUE DECISION

Turnabout Set For Dec. 12

Black Masque Chapter of Mortar Board has proclaimed Dec. 12, Leap Year Day. The females will execute a turn-about and treat the gentlemen with an expense paid evening said Sylvia Krasne, Mortar Board president.

"Due to our inability to have the annual Mortar Board Ball," Miss Krasne said, "we decided to sponsor a day when the ladies of the campus could repay the boys for all the many kindnesses and pleasant evenings they have shown the girls."

Coeds will take the initiative, she said. They will plan the evening entertainment—show, dinner, or just a "coke" date—paying all expenses.

The Mortar Board president said that it is the hope of the chapter that every University woman will help to make the day a success by taking out a man. Dec. 12, is an especially good date for Leap Year Day, Miss Krasne said, because it is the last weekend of Leap Year, 1952, that the students will be on campus.

Opinion Split On MB Ball Cancellation

By TOM WOODARD Staff Writer

Following the announcement of the Mortar Board Ball cancellation, there have been sighs of relief or groans of discouragement. In a poll taken in the general area of the Crib, Earl Woods and No. 16th St., answers to the question, "what do you think about the Mortar Board Ball being cancelled?" Ranged from, "I think it is a good deal," to "it's a downright shame."

Don Moore, a University student for only 12 weeks, said that many incoming freshmen had been hearing about the Military Ball and the Mortar Board Ball, and were disappointed not to be able to attend both of them. Moore said that he favored the suggestion offered by many students to have the ball even though a big-name band would not be playing for the occasion.

Jean Cochell said that she thought it too bad that the tradition of the dance had been broken, even if it was just for this one year. When asked what she intended to do the evening that the ball was to be held she said that she had no definite plans, but thought that there would be little else to do but go to a movie, or organize an individual party. Any plan other than the Mortar Board would "probably be only half as nice," Miss Cochell added.

University Grad Brownell Named Attorney General

Herbert Brownell, Jr., who was named attorney general in President-Elect Dwight D. Eisenhower's cabinet Friday, is a 1924 graduate of the University. Three years later he graduated Cum Laude from Yale Law School.

Brownell has been a speaker at University Charter Day ceremonies.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey started Brownell in politics when they were young midwestern lawyers starting in New York by persuading him to run for the New York State Assembly. Although defeated by the Tammany Democratic machine, he ran again in 1932 and won.

The native Nebraskan, a New York City attorney, was requested by Governor Dewey to manage the campaign of Edgar J. Nathan for Manhattan borough president in 1941. Brownell's man won.

As a result, Dewey asked him in 1942 to manage his campaign for governor. Brownell steered Dewey to victory and was influential in setting him up for nominations at both the 1944 and 1948 Republican National Conventions.

Brownell became Republican National Chairman after the 1944 Convention and served until 1948.

Although Dewey was defeated in 1948, Brownell was not finished and he showed up at the 1952 convention in Chicago and provided professional polish to the Eisenhower campaign faction. He led the Dewey forces which are generally credited with engineering the two factors which gave Ike the victory—retention that "Taft can't win" and the charge that Taft forces had "stolen" delegates to the convention from Texas and other southern states.

Born Feb. 20, 1904 in Peru, he is the son of late professor Herbert Brownell, who was chairman of the University Department of Science Education. Before moving to Lincoln, his father was professor of physical science at Peru State Teachers College.

Teacher Service Places Record Percentage In '52

The University teacher placement division reports that in 1951 it found positions for the highest percentage of its registrants since World War II.

The division serves as a link between teachers and schools needing them. Last year 61.4 per cent of those registered were placed in new or better positions.

The division was able to supply only about one teacher for every eight requested, however. Greatest shortage was of elementary school teachers. Only 182 candidates were available to fill 1,954 openings. Requests for college teachers also greatly exceeded the number of candidates.

On the high school level, the biggest demand was for teachers of English, music, home economics and commercial subjects in that order, the division's records show.

About 2 out of 5 requests for teachers came from Nebraska, although the division received inquiries from 40 states and six territories.

Ike Fills Two Cabinet Posts

PRESIDENT-ELECT EISENHOWER filled the posts of secretary of the treasury and attorney general Friday. He named George E. Humphrey, 62, Cleveland iron, steel and coal industrialist, as secretary of the treasury. Herbert Brownell Jr., 48, mayor of the Eisenhower presidential campaign, was named attorney general.

"It was a great surprise to me," Humphrey said. "I have been a supporter of Taft and on his committees from the first time he ever ran for office." He had talked with Eisenhower in New York for three hours on Wednesday. He said he is severing all business connections to devote his time exclusively to the cabinet position.

A New York lawyer, Brownell is a trusted adviser to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey. Brownell's first act was to ask J. Edgar Hoover to stay on as FBI director.

Dulles Asks FBI Investigation

JOHN FOSTER DULLES, newly-named secretary of state, said there will be "no taint of suspicion about the new State Department"—at the top, bottom or in-between. The 64-year-old veteran foreign affairs expert said his first move was to ask the FBI to make a thorough investigation in his life.

Dulles said he expects to go to Washington between now and the end of January. He is expected to begin a series of conferences with Secretary of State Acheson on the operations of the department. Dulles met with UN Secretary-General Trygve Lie on Friday. It is understood that they discussed the whole range of international problems as they affect the UN and the current assembly.

US Ready To Accept India's Compromise

THE UNITED STATES and its major allies seemed ready to accept with amendments India's compromise play for Korea. Moscow's reaction raised doubt that the U.N. was moving toward actually ending the war. Moscow newspapers indicated that the resolution was not satisfactory to the Soviet Union. Foreign minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky may give the official stand next week.

B-29s Hit North Korea

AMERICAN B-29s pounded Communist troop and supply concentrations near Wonsan on Korea's East Coast Saturday. The Japan-based Superfort bombers used electronic devices to pinpoint targets in the darkness. Twelve of the bombers swung to the northwest and blasted a vital Communist railway bridge south of Huichon on the main line from Manchuria through central Korea. Allied ground and air forces Friday scored victories over the Chinese Reds on the battlefield and on the active air front.

AFL President Dies

WILLIAM GREEN, American Federation of Labor president, died Friday of a heart ailment. He was the second great union leader to die in two weeks. Preparation, Grading Changes Discussed

Preparation for University entrance required in state high schools was discussed by a panel at the meeting of the Nebraska Association of School Administrators held Friday, Nov. 21, in Love Library Auditorium.

William Bogar, principal of Lincoln High School, was chairman of the panel, and led the discussion from the floor after the panel closed.

Comment from the audience seemed to indicate that many high school administrators disapproved of the study of geometry and some language, in high school, for an Arts and Science requirement.

There was also comment on the University practice of allowing no credit hours while students were making up deficiencies. Many administrators felt they could not supply the courses required for college work because their schools lacked demand for them, but received criticism when students arrived at the University with deficiencies in certain fields.

Dr. George Rosenlof, dean of admissions at the University, said that students are not penalized in getting degrees if the requirements are not necessary in the particular college in which they are enrolled, if the student calls the fact to the attention of proper officials.

Dr. Rosenlof also commented that there was great difficulty in having a uniform code of requirements in all state universities, but emphasized the fact that requirements in the fields of mathematics, English and social sciences are becoming quite definite.

He said that work is being done at the committee level to arrange for a uniform grading system in all state high schools. He said that a proposed standard form would be submitted in the near future. The form would include the student's scholastic record, and spaces for high official's comment.

Dr. Walter Miltzer, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences said that in his twenty years of experience in the field of education he had found that high school students were not qualified to enter college unless they had taken courses in plane geometry.

Dr. Miltzer closed by saying that even though students are required to make up deficiencies in college, no student from an accredited, high school is barred from the University because of deficient preparation.

MANILA RENDEZVOUS

NU Alumni In Philippine Islands Remain Active

Nebraska alumni still remember and get together 10,000 miles from campus.

Thirteen University alumni; alumni of Doan College and a wife and husband of alumni met together for a luncheon in Manila, Philippine Island, last summer to celebrate the visit of Chief Justice and Mrs. Robert G. Simmons.

A great deal of reminiscing went on at the luncheon. Philippine alumni had many pleasant memories left over from college days, but the recent years have not been quite so pleasant.

Elvessa Stewart, who has served 39 years in the Philippine Islands and is Chief in the Division of Home Economics in the Bureau of Public Schools, told of being interned in Santos Tomas prison camp during the war and of decreasing in weight from 140 to 80 pounds. She credits her survival to the care of Mrs. Clara F. Carino, a University graduate, and her husband, Dr. Francisco Carino.

The alumni expressed the wish that their children might attend the University. However, the difficulty of this lies in labor and immigration restrictions requiring foreign students to have jobs insured before passports can be issued.

Dr. Manuel L. Carreon, Director of the Philippine Bureau of Private Schools, called Nebraskans together for the luncheon. He has been appointed to head a committee to organize a University Alumni Association of the Philippines and possibly one of the Far East.

In the Philippines the Simmons also met other alumni of the University. Professor Amando W. Bautista is an instructor in political science in Cagayan Teachers College in Tuguegarao, Cagayan Province in northern Luzon.

Almus O. Larsen is President of Central Philippines College at Iloilo, a Baptist college. He will serve in Iloilo until January, 1957.

The agricultural college at Taling, Normosa, is headed by Yin-Mei Lin, who holds two degrees from the University.
