

P. M. Headlines

By SALLY ADAMS
Staff Writer

Eleven Czech Reds Executed

VIENNA — Eleven Czechoslovakian Communist leaders were executed early Wednesday, Prague Radio announced. They were sentenced to death Nov. 27 as confessed traitors who admitted they led a "Zionist, Trotskyite" plot to overthrow their pro-Moscow government.

Those who died were Rudolf Slansky, former secretary-general of the Czech Communist party; Bedrich Geminder, former Kremlin spokesman in Prague; Otto Sling, former deputy secretary general of the party; Ludvik Frejka, former head of the State Economic Commission; Bedrich Reicin, former deputy defense minister; Otto Fischl, former deputy finance minister; Rudolf Margolius, former deputy trade commissioner; Andre Simmone, ex-editor of the Czech Communist newspaper; Josef Frank, formerly Slansky's deputy; and Karel Svab, former deputy minister of state security.

All those executed except Frank and Svab were Jews. The anti-Semitic charges hurled at the trial indicated a broader crack-down on the Jews behind the Iron Curtain.

Dulles Conferences With Acheson, Lovett

WASHINGTON—John Foster Dulles has declared that "loyal servants of our government have nothing to fear" from the Eisenhower administration. Dulles, who will be the next secretary of state, promised that foreign service will be "protected as a non-partisan group." He also said "many angles . . . need to be looked into and will be looked into very thoroughly."

Dulles conferred with Secretary of State Dean Acheson and Secretary of Defense Lovett. The visit was Dulles' first to the State Department since the political campaign.

Crosby Names Denney Assistant

LINCOLN—Governor-elect Robert Crosby has appointed Max Denney of Fairbury as his administrative assistant. "I expect his role to be that of 'assistant governor' with a large measure of responsibility," Crosby said.

Denney, a Fairbury lawyer, has been active in the Republican party in Nebraska for more than 15 years. He is 38. Now president of the Fairbury School Board, he has been Fairbury city attorney and Jefferson County attorney.

State Engineer Asks Budget Of 37 Million

LINCOLN—State Engineer Harold Aitken said that even if the 1953 Legislature re-enacts the penny-a-gallon gasoline tax and registration fee, the additional revenue would not put Nebraska's roads in "tolerable condition" by 1973.

Aitken appeared before Tax Commissioner Philip K. Johnson to justify his request for a 1953-55 budget of $37,240,000. He said his request was submitted on the basis of what could be done with existing revenues. He suggested to Governor-elect Crosby "that all future budgets be on the basis of need. If an agency supported by special taxes (such as the Highway Department) asks for and receives a larger appropriation, those special taxes have to be raised," Aitken said.

Graduate Receives Top Ag Club Honor

Clayton Yeutter Named Outstanding National Block, Bridle Club Member

Clayton Yeutter, Ag College graduate, was named by the national Block and Bridle Club as the outstanding Block and Bridle Club member of the country.

Yeutter, Nebraska's nomination for the award, was selected from the 30 candidates from the other colleges and universities which have chapters of the club.

The announcement of his selection as winner of this year's National Block and Bridle Club merit trophy award was made at the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago during Thanksgiving vacation.

The outstanding Block and Bridle member title is presented to a senior who has been outstanding in all phases of college life.

Both the University and Yeutter receive a trophy from the national chapter of the club for his selection. Selection for the award is made on 40 per cent for scholarship, 30 per cent for Block and Bridle activities and 30 per cent for university activities.

Yeutter climaxed his record at the University by graduating last June at the top of his college of Agriculture class scholastically. He received his degree "with high distinction."

As a student he served as chairman of Alpha Zeta, national agricultural honorary society, a member of the livestock and wool judging teams, Ag Builders, Cornhusker Countryman and Farm House fraternity.

He used his 4-H livestock earnings to develop an Angus herd of 62 head which paid for his entire college education.

Yeutter's winning the award marks the fifth year in a row that a Nebraska man has placed either first or second outstanding member. Other winners are Robert Raun, second in 1951; Stanley Lambert, first in 1950; Ned Raun, first in 1949 and Willard Viesek, first in 1948.

Representatives to the national convention from the Nebraska chapter were the members of the senior livestock judging team.

Women's PE Club President Resigns

Rosemary Amos has announced her resignation as President of the Women's Physical Education Club.

Vice president of the club, Phyllis Louden, will take over the president's position. The Vice Presidential vacancy left by Miss Louden was filled after the election of Mrs. Joan Savage as Vice President.

The Women's Physical Education Club is a professional organization for physical education majors.

The club sponsors various types of professional programs for its members.

Left Overs

By LILA WANER
Staff Writer

The other day I met a man who had reached the depths of disillusionment. He had spent $200 on a permanent cure for halitosis.

Then he found out no one liked him, anyway.

Weather today will consist of more cloudy skies, high humidity and perhaps some intermittent snow late this afternoon.

Some of the foreign students think we have many idiosyncrasies, but the most peculiar thing about Americans, according to one of them, is a drink.

"A drink they call, 'The Cocktail.' It is the most peculiar thing. They use water to make it weak and gin to make it strong; lemon to make it sour, sugar to make it sweet; bitters to make it hot, ice to make it cold. Then they say, 'Here's to you,' and drink it themselves."

the

DAILY NEBRASKAN

Voice of a Great Midwestern University

VOL. 52—No. 54

LINCOLN, NEBRASKA

Thursday, December 4, 1952

Coed Decorators

EVERY DETAIL . . . Two coeds put finishing touches on a nativity scene as part of the traditional Hanging of the Greens in Ellen Smith Hall. (Daily Nebraskan Photo by Del Harding.)

Cast Performs Well In 'Inspector Calls'

Individual Actors Merit High Praise For Presentation Wednesday Evening

By RITA SHAW
Staff Reviewer

If audience reaction is any measure of success, then congratulations are in order to Jack Babcock for his performance Wednesday night on the Temple Theater stage doing J. B. Priestley's "The Inspector Calls."

This is one of the best plays of one of England's best playwrights. In "The Inspector Calls" we meet the Birling family, a prosperous British family, in the midst of a happy celebration. Early in the evening a police inspector calls on them and begins to ask some questions.

His questioning causes a vivid and startling impact on the Birlings but the cleverness of the play lies in the provocative twist and the startling ending.

The inspector is excellently portrayed by Dick Marrs who recently gave a fine performance in "Outward Bound." If one must give a criticism then it might be that at times he sounded a little monotonous.

Pat Loder gives her usual fine performance with a fine portrayal of the mother. It is not a very dramatic part and therefore perhaps not such an easy one but Miss Loder has an assurance onstage that makes her always convincing.

Fletcher Coleman should be congratulated for his playing of the notorious son of the family and this writer should like to see him in other plays. He has a good sense of timing.

Valerie Hompes plays the daughter of the Birlings and gave perhaps the most sincere portrayal. She played the part excellently. Another criticism is that at the end of some of her sentences her voice dropped so that it was almost inaudible.

One was convinced most of the time by Ron Brandt's playing of the pompous Mr. Birling but somehow his makeup didn't convince this reviewer that he was as old as he was meant to be. He looks completely at ease on the stage but in rare moments his overplaying took him out of character and made the scene a little hysterical instead of tense.

Ronald Beecher plays Gerald Croft, the son of a rich mill owner. He gave a fine performance but his stage posture was a little stiff in some scenes.

Of course there is a maid and she is ably played by Doris Billerbreck. This is a talky play and yet somehow this excellent cast held the audience from first moment to last and one had the impression that they had worked hard to make the play a success.

The play is open to the public and you will be wise to go Thursday at 8 p.m., to "The Inspector Calls" which ends Thursday. A round of applause too for Al Hazelwood, the Production Manager and everyone who contributed toward making this such fine entertainment.

Fraternity House Hit By Vandals

Damage Done Early Tuesday

A group of University students caused undetermined damage early Tuesday morning to the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity house, according to reports received by The Daily Nebraskan.

Showers were reportedly turned on in the house causing water damage to a living room rug, a piano and the kitchen. Cooks were dismissed and meals were not served, according to fraternity members.

Extensive damage to plaster on the second floor was reported. No statement was issued by the fraternity president, Hyle Thibault but members said action is being taken in an attempt to recover damages.

J. P. Colbert, dean of student affairs, made no comment. Frank M. Hallgren, assistant dean of student affairs was out of town and could not be reached for comment.

Your Student Council . . .

At its Wednesday afternoon meeting the Student Council took the following action:

1. Heard and tabled a motion to recommend creation of a faculty-student board.
2. Appointed a committee to conduct hearings.
3. Defeated a motion to rescind a motion passed at last week's meeting.
4. Adjourned for two committee meetings.

Class Schedules For Second Semester Available Tuesday

Printed schedules of classes offered for the second semester will be available Tuesday, Dr. Floyd Hoover, Director of Registrations and Records, stated Wednesday.

Students registered in the College of Agriculture may pick up their copies of the schedule from the office of Dr. Hixson, 266 Agricultural Hall. Business administration students may obtain copies from the office of Dean Fullbrook, 210A Social Sciences Hall.

All other students may secure copies from the office of Registrations and Records, B-7 Administration Hall. The schedule contains classes offered next semester, the time of the classes and the instructors.

Students planning to attend the University second semester should see their advisers during the week of Dec. 8 to arrange an appointment to work out a program of courses, Hoover said.

Students will register according to the hours they have earned. "To avoid confusion, students should know the total hours they have earned. The total appears on the students' grade slips," Hoover explained.

Registration itself will not begin until Jan. 12.

and political commitments, Brownell finds time for a yearly trip to Lincoln to visit his family and friends living here. His sister, Mrs. Theodore Bullock, describes him as a devoted family man, fond of home life.

Academic achievement is not unusual in Brownell's family; his two brothers and two sisters belong to Phi Beta Kappa also.

Nor is the office of Attorney-General entirely new in the family, for Brownell's great-uncle held that office during the administration of Benjamin Harrison.

Brownell was elected five times to the New York state assembly with the help of his campaign manager, Thomas Dewey. Later, with the roles reversed, Campaign Manager Brownell directed the successful 1942 New York gubernatorial election of Dewey.

When he was 39 he served for two years as the chairman of the Republican National Committee. This year at 48 he piloted General Eisenhower to victory.

In spite of his busy schedules

and political commitments,

Brownell finds time for a yearly trip to Lincoln to visit his family and friends living here. His sister, Mrs. Theodore Bullock, describes him as a devoted family man, fond of home life.

Academic achievement is not unusual in Brownell's family; his two brothers and two sisters belong to Phi Beta Kappa also.

Nor is the office of Attorney-General entirely new in the family, for Brownell's great-uncle held that office during the administration of Benjamin Harrison.

Brownell was elected five times to the New York state assembly with the help of his campaign manager, Thomas Dewey. Later, with the roles reversed, Campaign Manager Brownell directed the successful 1942 New York gubernatorial election of Dewey.

When he was 39 he served for two years as the chairman of the Republican National Committee. This year at 48 he piloted General Eisenhower to victory.

In spite of his busy schedules

and political commitments,

Brownell finds time for a yearly trip to Lincoln to visit his family and friends living here. His sister, Mrs. Theodore Bullock, describes him as a devoted family man, fond of home life.

Academic achievement is not unusual in Brownell's family; his two brothers and two sisters belong to Phi Beta Kappa also.

Nor is the office of Attorney-General entirely new in the family, for Brownell's great-uncle held that office during the administration of Benjamin Harrison.

Brownell was elected five times to the New York state assembly with the help of his campaign manager, Thomas Dewey. Later, with the roles reversed, Campaign Manager Brownell directed the successful 1942 New York gubernatorial election of Dewey.

When he was 39 he served for two years as the chairman of the Republican National Committee. This year at 48 he piloted General Eisenhower to victory.

In spite of his busy schedules

and political commitments,

Brownell finds time for a yearly trip to Lincoln to visit his family and friends living here. His sister, Mrs. Theodore Bullock, describes him as a devoted family man, fond of home life.

Academic achievement is not unusual in Brownell's family; his two brothers and two sisters belong to Phi Beta Kappa also.

Nor is the office of Attorney-General entirely new in the family, for Brownell's great-uncle held that office during the administration of Benjamin Harrison.

Brownell was elected five times to the New York state assembly with the help of his campaign manager, Thomas Dewey. Later, with the roles reversed, Campaign Manager Brownell directed the successful 1942 New York gubernatorial election of Dewey.

When he was 39 he served for two years as the chairman of the Republican National Committee. This year at 48 he piloted General Eisenhower to victory.

In spite of his busy schedules

and political commitments,

Brownell finds time for a yearly trip to Lincoln to visit his family and friends living here. His sister, Mrs. Theodore Bullock, describes him as a devoted family man, fond of home life.

Academic achievement is not unusual in Brownell's family; his two brothers and two sisters belong to Phi Beta Kappa also.

Nor is the office of Attorney-General entirely new in the family, for Brownell's great-uncle held that office during the administration of Benjamin Harrison.

Brownell was elected five times to the New York state assembly with the help of his campaign manager, Thomas Dewey. Later, with the roles reversed, Campaign Manager Brownell directed the successful 1942 New York gubernatorial election of Dewey.

When he was 39 he served for two years as the chairman of the Republican National Committee. This year at 48 he piloted General Eisenhower to victory.

In spite of his busy schedules

and political commitments,

Brownell finds time for a yearly trip to Lincoln to visit his family and friends living here. His sister, Mrs. Theodore Bullock, describes him as a devoted family man, fond of home life.

Academic achievement is not unusual in Brownell's family; his two brothers and two sisters belong to Phi Beta Kappa also.

Nor is the office of Attorney-General entirely new in the family, for Brownell's great-uncle held that office during the administration of Benjamin Harrison.

Brownell was elected five times to the New York state assembly with the help of his campaign manager, Thomas Dewey. Later, with the roles reversed, Campaign Manager Brownell directed the successful 1942 New York gubernatorial election of Dewey.

When he was 39 he served for two years as the chairman of the Republican National Committee. This year at 48 he piloted General Eisenhower to victory.

In spite of his busy schedules

and political commitments,

Brownell finds time for a yearly trip to Lincoln to visit his family and friends living here. His sister, Mrs. Theodore Bullock, describes him as a devoted family man, fond of home life.

Academic achievement is not unusual in Brownell's family; his two brothers and two sisters belong to Phi Beta Kappa also.

Nor is the office of Attorney-General entirely new in the family, for Brownell's great-uncle held that office during the administration of Benjamin Harrison.

Brownell was elected five times to the New York state assembly with the help of his campaign manager, Thomas Dewey. Later, with the roles reversed, Campaign Manager Brownell directed the successful 1942 New York gubernatorial election of Dewey.

When he was 39 he served for two years as the chairman of the Republican National Committee. This year at 48 he piloted General Eisenhower to victory.

In spite of his busy schedules

and political commitments,

Brownell finds time for a yearly trip to Lincoln to visit his family and friends living here. His sister, Mrs. Theodore Bullock, describes him as a devoted family man, fond of home life.

Academic achievement is not unusual in Brownell's family; his two brothers and two sisters belong to Phi Beta Kappa also.

Nor is the office of Attorney-General entirely new in the family, for Brownell's great-uncle held that office during the administration of Benjamin Harrison.

Brownell was elected five times to the New York state assembly with the help of his campaign manager, Thomas Dewey. Later, with the roles reversed, Campaign Manager Brownell directed the successful 1942 New York gubernatorial election of Dewey.

When he was 39 he served for two years as the chairman of the Republican National Committee. This year at 48 he piloted General Eisenhower to victory.

In spite of his busy schedules

and political commitments,

Brownell finds time for a yearly trip to Lincoln to visit his family and friends living here. His sister, Mrs. Theodore Bullock, describes him as a devoted family man, fond of home life.

Academic achievement is not unusual in Brownell's family; his two brothers and two sisters belong to Phi Beta Kappa also.

Nor is the office of Attorney-General entirely new in the family, for Brownell's great-uncle held that office during the administration of Benjamin Harrison.

Brownell was elected five times to the New York state assembly with the help of his campaign manager, Thomas Dewey. Later, with the roles reversed, Campaign Manager Brownell directed the successful 1942 New York gubernatorial election of Dewey.

When he was 39 he served for two years as the chairman of the Republican National Committee. This year at 48 he piloted General Eisenhower to victory.

In spite of his busy schedules

and political commitments,

Brownell finds time for a yearly trip to Lincoln to visit his family and friends living here. His sister, Mrs. Theodore Bullock, describes him as a devoted family man, fond of home life.

Academic achievement is not unusual in Brownell's family; his two brothers and two sisters belong to Phi Beta Kappa also.

Nor is the office of Attorney-General entirely new in the family, for Brownell's great-uncle held that office during the administration of Benjamin Harrison.

Brownell was elected five times to the New York state assembly with the help of his campaign manager, Thomas Dewey. Later, with the roles reversed, Campaign Manager Brownell directed the successful 1942 New York gubernatorial election of Dewey.

When he was 39 he served for two years as the chairman of the Republican National Committee. This year at 48 he piloted General Eisenhower to victory.

In spite of his busy schedules

and political commitments,

Brownell finds time for a yearly trip to Lincoln to visit his family and friends living here. His sister, Mrs. Theodore Bullock, describes him as a devoted family man, fond of home life.

Academic achievement is not unusual in Brownell's family; his two brothers and two sisters belong to Phi Beta Kappa also.

Nor is the office of Attorney-General entirely new in the family, for Brownell's great-uncle held that office during the administration of Benjamin Harrison.

Brownell was elected five times to the New York state assembly with the help of his campaign manager, Thomas Dewey. Later, with the roles reversed, Campaign Manager Brownell directed the successful 1942 New York gubernatorial election of Dewey.

When he was 39 he served for two years as the chairman of the Republican National Committee. This year at 48 he piloted General Eisenhower to victory.

In spite of his busy schedules

and political commitments,

Brownell finds time for a yearly trip to Lincoln to visit his family and friends living here. His sister, Mrs. Theodore Bullock, describes him as a devoted family man, fond of home life.

Academic achievement is not unusual in Brownell's family; his two brothers and two sisters belong to Phi Beta Kappa also.

Nor is the office of Attorney-General entirely new in the family, for Brownell's great-uncle held that office during the administration of Benjamin Harrison.

Brownell was elected five times to the New York state assembly with the help of his campaign manager, Thomas Dewey. Later, with the roles reversed, Campaign Manager Brownell directed the successful 1942 New York gubernatorial election of Dewey.

When he was 39 he served for two years as the chairman of the Republican National Committee. This year at 48 he piloted General Eisenhower to victory.

In spite of his busy schedules

and political commitments,

Brownell finds time for a yearly trip to Lincoln to visit his family and friends living here. His sister, Mrs. Theodore Bullock, describes him as a devoted family man, fond of home life.

Academic achievement is not unusual in Brownell's family; his two brothers and two sisters belong to Phi Beta Kappa also.

Nor is the office of Attorney-General entirely new in the family, for Brownell's great-uncle held that office during the administration of Benjamin Harrison.

Brownell was elected five times to the New York state assembly with the help of his campaign manager, Thomas Dewey. Later, with the roles reversed, Campaign Manager Brownell directed the successful 1942 New York gubernatorial election of Dewey.

When he was 39 he served for two years as the chairman of the Republican National Committee. This year at 48 he piloted General Eisenhower to victory.

In spite of his busy schedules

and political commitments,

Brownell finds time for a yearly trip to Lincoln to visit his family and friends living here. His sister, Mrs. Theodore Bullock, describes him as a devoted family man, fond of home life.

Academic achievement is not unusual in Brownell's family; his two brothers and two sisters belong to Phi Beta Kappa also.

Nor is the office of Attorney-General entirely new in the family, for Brownell's great-uncle held that office during the administration of Benjamin Harrison.

Brownell was elected five times to the New York state assembly with the help of his campaign manager, Thomas Dewey. Later, with the roles reversed, Campaign Manager Brownell directed the successful 1942 New York gubernatorial election of Dewey.

When he was 39 he served for two years as the chairman of the Republican National Committee. This year at 48 he piloted General Eisenhower to victory.

In spite of his busy schedules

and political commitments,

Brownell finds time for a yearly trip to Lincoln to visit his family and friends living here. His sister, Mrs. Theodore Bullock, describes him as a devoted family man, fond of home life.

Academic achievement is not unusual in Brownell's family; his two brothers and two sisters belong to Phi Beta Kappa also.

Nor is the office of Attorney-General entirely new in the family, for Brownell's great-uncle held that office during the administration of Benjamin Harrison.

Brownell was elected five times to the New York state assembly with the help of his campaign manager, Thomas Dewey. Later, with the roles reversed, Campaign Manager Brownell directed the successful 1942 New York gubernatorial election of Dewey.

When he was 39 he served for two years as the chairman of the Republican National Committee. This year at 48 he piloted General Eisenhower to victory.

In spite of his busy schedules

and political commitments,

Brownell finds time for a yearly trip to Lincoln to visit his family and friends living here. His sister, Mrs. Theodore Bullock, describes him as a devoted family man, fond of home life.

Academic achievement is not unusual in Brownell's family; his two brothers and two sisters belong to Phi Beta Kappa also.

Nor is the office of Attorney-General entirely new in the family, for Brownell's great-uncle held that office during the administration of Benjamin Harrison.

Brownell was elected five times to the New York state assembly with the help of his campaign manager, Thomas Dewey. Later, with the roles reversed, Campaign Manager Brownell directed the successful 1942 New York gubernatorial election of Dewey.

When he was 39 he served for two years as the chairman of the Republican National Committee. This year at 48 he piloted General Eisenhower to victory.

In spite of his busy schedules

and political commitments,

Brownell finds time for a yearly trip to Lincoln to visit his family and friends living here. His sister, Mrs. Theodore Bullock, describes him as a devoted family man, fond of home life.

Academic achievement is not unusual in Brownell's family; his two brothers and two sisters belong to Phi Beta Kappa also.

Nor is the office of Attorney-General entirely new in the family, for Brownell's great-uncle held that office during the administration of Benjamin Harrison.

Brownell was elected five times to the New York state assembly with the help of his campaign manager, Thomas Dewey. Later, with the roles reversed, Campaign Manager Brownell directed the successful 1942 New York gubernatorial election of Dewey.

When he was 39 he served for two years as the chairman of the Republican National Committee. This year at 48 he piloted General Eisenhower to victory.

In spite of his busy schedules

and political commitments,

Brownell finds time for a yearly trip to Lincoln to visit his family and friends living here. His sister, Mrs. Theodore Bullock, describes him as a devoted family man, fond of home life.

Academic achievement is not unusual in Brownell's family; his two brothers and two sisters belong to Phi Beta Kappa also.

Nor is the office