

PRE-CHRISTMAS AT NU
Usual Last-Minute Shopping Dilemma
Plagues Students In Spring Weather

By PAT PECK
Feature Editor

Spring weather, sprained necks and sprinting shoppers seem to be filling the Christmas scene on campus during the three days that yawn between students and the long-awaited vacation.

The morning mail brings Christmas cards from friends that you have forgotten existed and the attempt to reply to their greeting find your Christmas card supply cleaned out. But also in the morning mail is a letter from Mom, remembering her a dozen things she has just got to have for the women's clubs Christmas parties, which she simply can't get in ye olde home town.

Under Mom's letter is a note from the kid brother — the only one he has written you all year — with the better part of his last allowance enclosed. It invites you to add half a dozen things to your shopping list for him — he left his shopping until the last minute too.

How can this extra shopping be put into an already jammed schedule? It's simple. You skip lunch three times between now and vacation and make up for it at Christmas dinner.

Thus far, the weather has been

Schumate Attends Meet
On State Governments

R. V. Schumate, professor of political science and director of research for the Nebraska State Legislature Council, served as a delegate to the General Assembly of the Council of State Governments held in Chicago the first week of December.

Schumate said that Nebraska was represented well at the Assembly, especially in the field of Conservation and Development of Water and Related Resources.

"The assembly was one of the best that I have attended," Schumate said. He added that the entire meeting was conducted on a non-partisan basis, and that many practical suggestions were offered as solutions for current state problems.

The Assembly was attended by representatives from every state as well as some of the territories. The Assembly does not bind its members to follow plans made at the meeting, but offers specific instructions to aid solving state problems.

The program for the Assembly included Conservation and Development of Water and Related Resources, Control of Organized Crime and the Administration of Justice, Higher Education, and Suggested State Legislation for 1953.

'The Circle,' NU Theatre Production,
To Reopen Wednesday In Temple

By ROGER WAIT
Staff Writer

"The Circle," a University Theatre production, will reopen Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Arena Theatre on the Temple Building's third floor.

"The Circle" is the second University Theatre production of the season. It is a light-hearted treatment of English manners and morals which depends almost entirely on smooth-flowing dialogue to keep the members of audience interested. The dialogue of the play shifts from a humorous vein gradually to a more serious note, until, at the climax and the rapidly-following ending, it shows up the true feelings of Lord Porteous and Lady Kitty in regards to the love of Teddie and Elizabeth for each other.

David Hayes, instructor in speech and dramatic art, is directing his first University Theatre production. He has overcome many of the defects of the play, of which there are not many, by stressing its elements of humor and wit and especially fluidity of progress from scene to scene and act to act and naturally motivated movement.

The cast is headed by Marv Stroman as Lord Porteous, Diane Downing as Lady Kitty and Jack Lange as Clive Champion-Cheney, who provides the reference to by-gone romance. The younger romantic interest is provided by Jean Carol de Long as Elizabeth, Tony Melia as Teddie and Morrell Clute as Arnold.

According to Jack Babcock who reviewed the play in the Thursday issue of The Daily Nebraskan, Marv Stroman was completely convincing, Diane Downing was at her best in the comic scenes, Jack Lange caught a refreshingly dry and witty approach in his portrayal, Jean Carol de Long's grace and exceedingly pleasant manner gave her whole performance considerable conviction. Tony Melia gave a pleasant performance and showed great poise and considerable promise, and Morrell Clute gave a generally satisfactory performance.

Fred Longacre was the typical British butler.

THE PURDUE RATING SCALE FOR INSTRUCTORS
G. C. Brandenburg and H. E. Bommers

Note to Instructors: In order to keep conditions as nearly uniform as possible, it is imperative that no instructions be given to the students. The rating scale should be passed out without comment at the beginning of the period.

Note to Students: Following is a list of qualities that, taken together, tend to make any instructor the sort of instructor that he is. Of course, no one is ideal in all of these qualities, but some approach this ideal to a much greater extent than do others. In order to obtain information which may lead to the improvement of instruction, you are asked to rate your instructor on the indicated qualities by making a check (✓) on the line at the point which most nearly describes him with reference to the quality you are considering. For example, under Interest in Subject if you think your instructor is not as enthusiastic about his subject as he should be, but is usually more than mildly interested place the check on the scale thus:

Always appears full of his subject. Seems mildly interested. Subject seems irksome to him.

This rating is to be entirely impersonal. Do not sign your name or make any other mark on the paper which could serve to identify the rater.

Be sure to put your check on the line where you think it should be to express your judgment of the instructor.

Interest in Subject

Always appears full of his subject. Seems mildly interested. Subject seems irksome to him.

Sympathetic Attitude toward Students

Always courteous and considerate. Tries to be considerate but finds it difficult at times. Entirely unsympathetic and inconsiderate.

Fairness in Grading

Absolutely fair and impartial to all. Shows occasional favoritism. Constantly shows partiality.

Liberal and Progressive Attitude

Welcomes differences in viewpoint. Biased on some things but usually tolerant. Entirely intolerant, allows no contradiction.

Presentation of Subject Matter

Clear, definite and forceful. Sometimes mechanical and monotonous. Indefinite, involved, and monotonous.

Sense of Proportion and Humor

Always keeps proper balance; not over-critical or over-sensitive. Fairly well balanced. Over-serious; no sense of relative values.

Self-reliance and Confidence

Always sure of himself; meets difficulties with poise. Fairly self-confident; occasionally disconcerted. Hesitant, timid, uncertain.

Personal Peculiarities

Wholly free from annoying mannerisms. Moderately free from objectionable peculiarities. Constantly exhibits irritating mannerisms.

Personal Appearance

Always well groomed; clothes neat and clean. Usually somewhat untidy; gives little attention to appearance. Slovenly; clothes untidy and ill-kept.

Stimulating Intellectual Curiosity

Inspires students to independent effort; creates desire for investigation. Occasionally inspiring; creates mild interest. Destroys interest in subject; makes work repulsive.

Underline the phrase which best places the instructor as compared with other instructors: In my judgment this instructor is in

(1) the highest fifth (3) the middle fifth
(2) next to the highest fifth (4) next to the lowest fifth
(5) the lowest fifth

NU Budget

"Can the state of Nebraska afford to run a 'first-class' medical school?" he asked. "And if we can afford it," he added, "what is the total cost going to be per year?"

The University is also asking for a $6,000,000 building and expansion program for the medical school which is not included in the budget request.

To the Governor's question on whether the state can afford a first-class medical school, Dr. F. Lowell Dunn of the medical school faculty replied, "If you're interested in health and saving lives, I don't think we can afford to ignore it."

Chancellor Gustavson added to this that the college is in danger of losing its class A rating if present deficiencies are not removed.

Gustavson expressed the opinion that the people of Nebraska had been "completely unrealistic of the place of the University in the state's economy." He explained that Nebraskans were "children of drought and depression" and that it resulted in "all kinds of bad practices."

"We are now paying the penalty for lack of foresight," the Chancellor said. "We are now living in a dynamic world with constant changes. With this shifting from a static to a dynamic society, and as long as it continues the University will have to be dynamic."
