

The Lineup Red Sox Use Same Old Lure-Yawkey's Money

Chuck Klasek

There is no doubt about it. Manager Joe Cronin of the Boston Red Sox has his eyes open wide and the Sox owner, Tom Yawkey, has a pocketbook to match in a definite attempt to transact any player trades or purchases to strengthen the Bean Town team.

What Messrs. Cronin and Yawkey have in mind at the present time are a solid shortstop, a slugging flyhawk, and a first-line hurler to boost the Red Sox from the list of also-rans in the ranks of the pennant contenders.

But should any hopes of a "big deal" pass completely by the wayside, then they can always hope that the last big trade they made will pan out somehow or other. That was the June swap with Detroit, in which the Red Sox gave up Walt Dropo, Johnny Pesky, Don Lenhardt, Bill Wight and Fred Hatfield for George Kell, Hoot Evers, Johnny Lipon, and Dizzy Trout.

Even including some of the earth-shaking waiver transactions that came later, that trade rated not only as the biggest and most important of the year, but one of the biggest of baseball history. At the time, almost all the men involved were regulars, and the worth of the nine men who changed uniforms, was, without exaggeration, placed somewhere in the neighborhood of a million dollars.

Broken Thumb . . . But what happened after the trade was completed could only happen to the Red Sox. Evers, while he played regularly in Boston, had a healing thumb to worry about. Kell, the big man of the deal crashed into the grandstand going after a foul ball and set off a chain reaction of ailments which kept him on the bench for much of the remainder of the season.

With these two men below par, the Red Sox needed all the help they could get from the others, and they got more than they figured on. Trout fitter in well, working both as a starter and a reliever. But even Dizzy ended up on the injured list.

Lipon, as it turned out, was the only completely healthy character of the lot and the Red Sox got more service out of him than they had anticipated.

It all boils down to one conclusion—the Red Sox are going to lean heavily on the breaks for 1953, especially if they don't succeed in closing any deals this winter.

Just An Outfielder . . . Actually, the Red Sox will probably settle for an outfielder and hope the rest takes care of itself.

But if Kell doesn't come around, they'll be looking for a third baseman. In return for all the help they need, the Red Sox are prepared to give up practically anything they have. The lone exception is Billy Goodman, the remarkable little guy who plays everywhere and hits everything.

He is at present second baseman, but he could be the first baseman, the shortstop, the third baseman, or one of the outfielders on a 24-hour notice. He will not be traded, no matter what happens.

MAY START . . . If Coach Harry Good's two starting forwards, Don Weber and Willard Fagler, fail to shake the virus infection which has had them bedded this week, then Paul Fredstrom, sophomore, may get the opportunity to display the scoring potential that burst forth against Kansas last Monday, in a starting role. Fredstrom was an outstanding rebounder during the loss to KU and in addition copped scoring honors for the evening with 14 points. His showing against the Hawks may win him a starting berth against Iowa State Saturday night.

Sig Eps Capture Top IM Victory

By FRANK SORENSON Guest IM Columnist

The unbeaten Sig Ep's continued their winning ways by trouncing the cellar dwelling Phi Gam's 49-34 Tuesday. However, the always dangerous Fijis about proved their metal by taking advantage of every mistake made by the unusually cold league leaders. Only a torrid fourth quarter in which they scored 25 points saved the day for the Sig Ep's.

The initial stanza started out slow with neither team showing much class. The score at the half was 13-13. But in the next ten minutes the underdog Fijis displayed a brand of ball which almost broke the Sig Ep's back. With Ladd Hanscom and Tom Tobin showing the way, they raced to an early lead and led midway through the quarter by a 24-17 count. Then with Al Hansen hitting two thirty-foot shots and Bill Anderson garnering a layup and free throw, the winners whittled the spread to one point by the end of the third quarter, which ended 25-24.

In the fourth stanza it was evident that the pace had tired the Fijis greatly and it was just a matter of holding the now hot Sig Ep's.

Pat Mallette and Al Hansen were the big guns for the winners with 17 and 12 points respectively. Jack Schull was the pace setter for the losers with 18 markers while Ladd Hanscom with the floor leader.

Ramblers Roll

The Ramblers strengthened their hold on first place in league II by edging Phalanx 44-38. The game was close all the way with neither team enjoying a considerable lead at any time.

Ralph Weddle led the Ramblers with 19 points while Dan Brown and Bill Thayer each scored 10. Charlie McFee of the losers captured game honors with 21 markers.

The Robbers moved into fourth place in league XIII by virtue of a 22-17 win over the last place Cadavers. The "Thieves" were led by Dick Kamm who bucketed nine points while George Bauer scored six for the hapless "Stiffs."

Heagy Manor pulled away after leading 14-10 at the half to down the "M Street" boys by a 33-22 count. Heagy poured in the baskets in the third quarter to establish a safe lead.

Wes Miller scored 12 for the Manor besides playing a nice floor game. Bob Anderson led the M-Streeter's by hitting consistently from 15 feet out for 13 points.

Farm House Wins

In the fraternity "B" section, the Beta Sigma Psi's were trounced by Farm House 42-29 while the Delta Upsilon "B" won by a forfeit over Brown Palace "B." The win by the DU's moved them from second division into second place in league VII.

Farm House had command all the way and were never in danger. Marvin Panetz swished in 11 points besides turning in a nice floor game while teammates Ray Vlasin and Fred Schmidt hit nine apiece. Don Sjogren was all the Beta Sig's had to offer with eight points.

LSA Holds Lead

Action in league VIII among the interdenominational teams saw the Lutherans and Newman Club remain in a tie for first place far ahead of the field by dropping Baptist House 43-19 and Presby House 26-23 respectively. Methodist House took over third place and dropped University YMCA to fourth by winning a forfeit from the latter.

In their only meeting this year, the Soph Dents slipped by the Frosh Dents 26-25 in a game that was tight all the way. The Frosh staged a rally in the fourth stanza, but their big brothers were able to withstand it.

The Hoopster-Rummie encounter saw a new one-game scoring record for this year. Virgil Gottsch poured through 31 points to lead the Hoopsters in their 61-31 win over the last place opponents.

Other games saw the Mustangs beating the Q-Balls 40-24 while AIEE edged Delta Sigma Pi 23-19. Nebr. Co-op beat the Dorn Bullets 34-22 and the Pansies drowned the Dorn Comets 32-27. In the "A" division the Sig Alpha's won a forfeit from the Sig Nu's.

Missouri's 1952 football attendance reached 264,201 during the season. The Tigers played before 98,201 fans at home and 166,000 on the road, with a high of 54,000 for the California-Missouri game at Berkeley.

by Warner Olson, Phi Kappa Phi. Olson also won the fraternity high hurdles in 8.2, but still trailed the best independent time of 8.0 turned in by Jon McWilliams running independently.

Mike Stubbs, the leading qualifier this year, ran one lap in 30.1 under Beta colors, to lead the fraternity division. The independents topped the Greeks again though when Charles Gibson ran the distance in 29.0 flat.

The independent men paced competition in the 880 with a winning time of 2:09.4 while the Greeks had a 2:14.5 timing.

The Greeks took over in the field events as AGR's Ray Kelly and Phi Gam's Ladd Hanscom leaped 20 feet 8 1/2 inches. Bechenbach of the Dorm led the independents with a 20-6 1/2 foot jump.

Larry Smith is expected to continue his fine form in the shot as he did in the prelims with a toss of 52 feet 8 1/2 inches for the Greeks.

Ken Reiners, competing independently, set a new record in the Independent Division with a heave of 33-5 1/2. The old record was 30-3 1/2.

There is a big chance that some records will be cracked tonight. Top opportunities will be in the 60 yard dash in the Greek Division where Stubbs is only one-tenth of a second off of the University record set in 1950 by Lee Alexander. Alexander set the record for the Sig Eps with a 6.4 mark.

The 440 and 880 runs are also in danger of being broken especially in the Independent Division. The Dorm's Benjamin or the Presby's Anderson are the top prospects although it still remains a wide open race for honors.

Bechenbach of the Dorm is only a shade short of Hoppy McCue's record in the broad jump set in '52.

Another defending champ is Bob Fairchild, Spikes, who holds the record in the 50 yard dash at 6.5 and in the one lap run at 29.1.

The meet will get under way at 7 o'clock with the running of the 60 yard dash at the East Stadium.

Weekend Wins Are Must For Winless Colorado

Colorado's Buffaloes lay their Big Seven basketball chances on the line this weekend as they play host to Missouri and Kansas on Saturday and Tuesday nights.

The Buffs need a sweep of that two-game set to stay in the conference scramble after opening losses to Nebraska and Oklahoma.

And victories come hard for the Buffs over chieftans of the two schools. Past history shows Missouri as the roughest Buff opponent in the conference. Colorado cage teams have won only three games in 18 tries against the Tigers.

Missouri also felt the damp hand of the upstart Oklahoma crew, falling 64-61 at Norman in the season's first week. The Tigers, picked by many to finish second in this year's title chase, come into the Colorado game with a 1-1 loop record. The win was 66-61 over Iowa State at Columbia.

Like Colorado, a young team, the Tigers will probably open with four sophomores and a junior. And, again like Colorado, the Missourians are hoping for—and not getting—big production from a 6-5 sophomore center.
