The second Laboratory Theatre production, "Miss Julie," by August Strindberg, opened Thursday night to an interested audience, in the Arena Theatre. The unpleasant cold weather outside did not prevent an attendance of a near full house from admiring the three performers in the cast. "Miss Julie" plays again Friday for a second and final performance. Here is your opportunity to see Strindberg's genius at work. And here is your chance to see the sweet and charming Lynne Morgan in the title role; the suave, worldly Jack Babcock as the valet, John, who is seduced by his master's daughter; the

Legion Asks Book Probe By Regents

'The State Of Asia' Questioned By Report

The Americanism Commission of the state American Legion, to whom the investigating of the text books used in classes at the University has been given, has submitted a report urging the Board of Regents to define its policy on the selection and use of "suspect" books.

The Legion report classed as a "suspect" book, "The State of Asia," because of its endorsement by the Institute of Pacific Relations, and because of its editor, Lawrence K. Rosinger, who refused to testify whether or not he was a member of the Communist party, and because of one of its authors, Dr. Owen Lattimore, who recently was indicted by a Federal Grand Jury for perjury in testimony before the congressional investigating committees.

The committee, which has taken over the investigation from the committee headed by Mrs. Maryellen Lorton of the American Legion Post No. 3, said they believed that the members of the Board of Regents were "outstanding Nebraskans and good citizens." They went on to say that any American or American group has the right and, under some circumstances, the absolute duty to question the type of instruction and nature of textbooks used in public schools supported by public money.

The Commission report was signed by Chairman Joseph B. Beveridge. State Legion Commander Warren Wood said he has endorsed the Commission report and felt it expressed the views of all Legion members. Attorney Joe Vinardi, commander of the Omaha Post No. 1, and the man who originally made the charge about "The State of Asia," is a member of the committee.

Robert W. Devos, Lincoln attorney and Regents member, declined to comment on the report. If the Regents receive a copy of the Legion statement and the board is asked to take some action, then the board would probably meet and consider the Legion's request, he said.

Many a girl knows the right answer—but never gets the right question.

What more fitting way to herald in finals than a blizzard? Someone got fouled up though—there's no vacation in sight—or is there?

A government crop inspector visited a Southern farm and began asking questions:

"Do you people around here have trouble with insects getting in your corn?"

"Balls o' fire, we sure do," said the farmer. "But we jest fishes 'em out and drinks it anyhow."

Physical examiner—Any scars on you?

Recruit—No, but I got some cigarettes in my coat pocket.

Father: There's plenty of time for Bessie to think of getting married. Let her wait till the right man comes along.

Mother: I don't see why she should wait that long. I didn't when I was her age.

"How late do you sleep on Sundays?"

"That depends."

"Depends? Depends on what?"

"The length of the sermon."

In Dr. Rosenlof's nominating letter he was cited "for his continual work and interest in students as individuals." The letter commended him for his contributions to the "spiritual life of the campus."

He received his BA degree from Hastings College, his Masters degree from the University of Nebraska. When he was working for his MA degree he was placed on the faculty in Teachers College. This was in 1921. Later he left the University and spent two years at Columbia studying for his PhD.

For several years he worked in the State Department in the field of teacher training in secondary education. He then returned to the University and joined the department of Administration.

Two Appointed To Washington Senate Jobs

Dan Tolman, Senior in Business Administration, and Jim Adams, Sophomore in Arts and Science College, have received appointments to Senate administrative jobs in Washington, D. C. Their appointments were confirmed Thursday.

Tolman will attend Georgetown University where he will complete his requirements and receive a B.S. degree in business from the University of Nebraska in June.

Adams will complete his requirements in pre-law at George Washington University and next fall will enter the Law school there.

Both students will leave for Washington next week. The tenure of their jobs will last until they both have finished their schooling.

The appointments were received through Senator Dwight W. Griswold who said the students were taken into consideration because of their work in activities and scholarship.

Tolman's activities have included Corn Cob vice-president, N-Club, honorary producer of University Theater, member of Innocents, past President of the Young Republicans Organization, and a member of Sigma Chi.

Adams is a Corn Cob worker, assistant Business-manager of the Cornhusker, a member of the debate team, President of the Young Republicans Organization, and a member of Delta Tau Delta.

Adams' reaction to the appointment was: "Living and working in Washington will be an education in itself. Since I intend to study law, whatever I can learn from observing the law-makers there will be invaluable."

Tolman said "The chance to live in Washington and watch the government in operation will certainly be an experience I'll never forget. The knowledge and experience gained will be of much value later in life. I regret having to leave the University with a semester remaining, especially with the coming of the track season, but I feel this an opportunity for which I am very grateful and feel that I can't afford to pass it up."

Red Plot Cracked In Vienna

WASHINGTON—The United States has accused a Soviet embassy official of masterminding a trans-Atlantic spy plot against U.S. military secrets. Two Americans studying in Vienna were indicted as his agents.

Sources in Vienna said a third American had been arrested and that others probably would be picked up at least for questioning in the final smashing of an international Soviet spy ring.

The State Department demanded immediate recall of Yuri V. Novikov, second secretary of the Washington embassy accused of directing the ring. The three arrested in Vienna were put aboard a plane and are enroute to Washington to stand trial.

The Americans were Otto Verber, Kurt L. Ponger and Walter Lauber. The indictment charges that Verber and Ponger both naturalized citizens conspired with Novikov to gather "documents, writings, sketches, plans, maps, notes" relating to national defense for delivery to the Russians. The espionage statute carries a possible death penalty.

British Arrest Nazis In Bonn

BONN, GERMANY—Six former high-ranking Nazis were arrested by British authorities under the charge of plotting to overthrow the West German government.

The charge indicated they received aid from East German Reds or even Moscow. Two of the men were named in Hitler's will as "heirs" to the high posts in the German Reich.

German sources said the groups also was believed to have accomplices in "Fascist organizations" in Spain and Argentina. A British Foreign Office announcement said the plotters prompted anti-Western views and propaganda which threatened the West German federal government as well as Allied policies.

Ike Plans State Of Union Speech

NEW YORK—President-Elect Eisenhower plans to deliver a lengthy, detailed State of the Union message in person to the new Republican Congress shortly after he takes office. Eisenhower headquarters said the President-Elect will leave for Washington by train Sunday noon. He was expected to spend Monday in conference with leaders of his administration.

Monroe And Camel Caravan To Perform Twice Monday

Shows To Test Suitability Of Union For Such Programs

Vaughn Monroe and his Camel Caravan will present a one and one half hour show twice Monday in the Union Ballroom.

Performances will be at 3 p.m. and at 5 p.m. One show will be recorded for use in a national broadcast honoring the University.

Monroe has been asked to select six beauty queen finalists who will be presented for the first time in the 1953 Cornhusker. Monroe will choose the six finalists after the second show, but all 12 of the candidates will be presented at both performances.

The Monroe show is being presented in the Union as an experiment to determine if future programs of this type will be presented there or in the Coliseum.

Many students have commented on the bad acoustics and poor view of the stage in the Coliseum, and have stated that programs could be better presented in the Union.

The attendance and number of seats available during the Monroe program will aid in determining whether plans should be made to have all such programs in the Union.

In many cases the Union presents programs under a plan that makes profit a secondary consideration. The profits can be small because expense other than fees charged by the acts presented is small. Programs given in the Coliseum are faced with many additional expenses.

The program is being given primarily for University students, but if sales do not reach estimated totals, tickets will be sold to the general public.

Some tickets are available to the public at this time, but the major portion is being held for University students.

Tickets costing $1 will be sold at the door the day of the performance, but the number available is expected to be limited.
