Students Voice Opinions On 18-Year-Old Vote Bill

By BETH ROHWER Staff Writer

A bill to allow 18-year-olds to vote is going before a committee hearing of the State Legislature Friday afternoon.

In relation to this bill, several students have expressed their views.

Phillip Visek, 19, College of Business Administration stated that an 18-year-old, if given the privilege of voting, would take a more active interest in political affairs at an earlier age.

Visek believes the voting privilege would eliminate "the bitterness of 18-year-olds not being able to vote when they have to fight for their country."

Ann Jouvenat, 20, Teachers College, said, "An 18-year-old is not mature enough to be qualified to vote." She explained that at this age a person is just out of high school and has not had enough political experience to know how to formulate an objective opinion.

A home economics major, Carolyn Goetz, 18, believes the majority of 18-year-olds do not know enough about "politics to vote intelligently."

"There are many 18-year-olds familiar with government processes which makes them capable of voting," Bernard Wisnow, 19, Arts and Science College said.

Wisnow continued to say that many of this age group are not interested, and are not prepared to vote. He believes the additional three years given the prospective voter a more mature outlook which equips him to be a better voter.

Law student, Bob Hasebrook, 20, said, "When an 18-year-old is required to make serious judgments in service of his country, then his judgment should be trusted in voting."

Eldon Park, 20, College of Business Administration, questioned whether defending their country necessary to be a qualified voter.

"An advantage from this could be derived," Park said, "as it would then be necessary for high schools to have more extensive courses in government and citizenship."

Rocky Yapp, chairman of the Student Council parking committee, reported that his committee had conferred with the Faculty Building Committee, on the proposal to convert the mall into a parking area. He predicted that the Faculty Building Committee is apparently planning to consider the parking problem and will attempt to better the situation without converting the mall.

The University ROTC unit, apparently in an effort to minimize the tendency for midshipmen to absent themselves on days when shots are given, gave no advance notice this year when shots were scheduled.

Instead, at a regular weekly lab meeting, all of the necessary equipment was set up and one by one the various classes were given the word to disrobe to the waist and proceed to the site chosen for the inoculations.

One midshipman just about had them stymied, but not quite—the cast on his broken wrist did not extend high enough.

Another caught without warning was given his shot before he had a chance to tell the doctor he had donated a pint of blood that morning.

The AUF board and executive council explained the work of AUF to Trish Fobes and Max Burkett, co-chairmen of the Iowa State campus chest, at a meeting Saturday.

Billoni

(The following story appeared in "Illustration," Paris, and was submitted by W. J. Barnard.)

Discipline as practiced by the monks of the Grande Chartreuse monastery is of an exceptional austerity. During meals no one may complain of any inconvenience he himself may be subjected to. One 75-year-old novice discovered a rat drowned in his jug of wine. He did not dare drink it but he was extremely thirsty. He endured patiently for a while and eventually indicated to the presiding monk, "Father, my brother here hasn't any rat in his jug of wine."

In a gay and carefree mood, a student phoned a girl friend at four o'clock in the morning. "I do hope I haven't disturbed you," he said cheerily.

"Oh no," she replied, "that's quite all right. I had to get up to answer the telephone anyway."

With the "most eligible bachelor" competition going on now, I think the word should be defined. BACHELOR:

1. A man who never makes the same mistake once.

2. A man who has no children to speak of.

3. One who believes that one can live as cheaply as two.

4. A souvenir of some girl who found a better one at the last minute.

5. A bachelor rarely marries because, when it comes to taking a wife, he doesn't know whose wife to take.

6. A selfish, callous, undeserving man who has cheated some coed out of a date.

Err! the weather man says that the mercury will drop to a cool 5 degrees tonight and that Friday will be fair but c-c-cold.

COLLEGE SONG: I want a girl just like the girl that dad had on the side.

Student: "I'll give you a ring sometime, honey. What's your number?"

Coed: "Oh, darling, you wonderful, wonderful, boy! Four and a half."

WORDS OF WISDOM: The trouble with girls who have big hearts is that they usually have hips the same size.

Balloting In Progress For Eligible Bachelors

By DEE JACKSON Staff Writer

As the last day for campaigning rolled by, eligible bachelor candidates and their followers devised numerous methods to introduce themselves to the University coeds.

The noisiest introduction marched down North 16th Thursday noon just as coeds were arriving home from morning classes. Leading the procession was a band playing "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." Cars filled with cheering followers trailed the band.

Linne Books Sought By NU Library

Frank A. Lundy, Director of University Libraries has said that an unsuccessful broadcast appeal was made to alumni for money to purchase a set of valuable books a few years ago.

A complete set of the works of Carl von Linne, or Linnæus, Swedish naturalist, regarded as the foundation of modern plant classification in the field of botany, was offered to the University for $3,000.

The books were from the collection of the late Thomas Jefferson Fitzpatrick, one time curator of the University's herbarium.

Lundy said that several of the administration supported the move to buy the Linnæan set, but they could not get any money from alumni for this purpose.

Eve M. Heuser, assistant librarian, wrote an article for the September 1951 Nebraska Alumnus magazine which briefly surveyed the contents of the set and appealed for money to purchase it.

Miss Heuser wrote that she wished to acquaint alumni, interested in the future of the University of Nebraska, with the opportunity they have in their midst to acquire this private collection at a fraction of its total worth.

"Friends of the University," as recently reported in a Lincoln newspaper, said that the University was unable to accept the $3,000 offer on a theory that the money was "available for bread, but not for cake."

In reply to this statement, Lundy said that tax appropriations for the University library are used almost completely for necessary new books and current periodicals.

He explained there is seldom enough money left over to purchase collections such as the Linnæan works, and therefore the University must appeal for donations.

Lloyd Chapman, administrator of the Fitzpatrick estate, said earlier that he understood that Fitzpatrick twice offered the scientific works to the University for $3,000 largely because he wanted them to stay there.

Both Lundy and Bruce Nicoll, administrative assistant to the Chancellor, know nothing of a current move of "friends of the University" to purchase the collection.

Neither have been contacted, but they previously expressed that the University would be glad to support such a move.

"We would like to have them if somebody would like to buy them," Nicoll commented.

Campaigners presented singing commercials praising their candidates at all women's residences Tuesday and Wednesday nights during the dinner hour. Several posters praising various candidates also found their way into the coeds' residences.

Polls in Ellen Smith Hall and the Ag Union opened at 10 a.m. today and will remain open until 5:30 p.m.

Candidates added the past week and their activities are: Bill Adams, Delta Tau Delta, vice-president of Kosmet Klub, Innocoents and Scabbard and Blade; Ira Epstein, Sigma Alpha Mu, Innocoents, gymnastics, and 1952 Yell King; Dick Husmann, Pi Kappa Phi; Cy Johnson, past president of Sigma Alpha Epsilon and president of Interfraternity Council; Dave Knapp, President of Theta Xi; Marshall Kushner, Zeta Beta Tau, member of Publications Board and Kosmet Klub; Joel Mead, Alpha Gamma Rho; Marvin Schuman, Theta Chi; Rocky Yapp, president of AUF, Kosmet Klub historian and Beta Theta Pi.

Chancellor Gustavson Gets First Brotherhood Award

Segregation Rules In Dorms Removed

Chancellor R. G. Gustavson was presented the first annual Brotherhood Award of the local B'nai B'rith Tuesday night.

The award was presented for improving "certain racial and religious conditions at the University."

Previously rules held that only the white race could live in University dormitories. This restriction was changed the second semester of 1950.

Gustavson said that the previous rules were "a hard thing to live with." The attempt to erase racial discrimination has been made quietly, he said.

Two votes were taken concerning the change, an oral and later a secret written ballot, which overwhelmingly revealed that dormitory residents were in favor of allowing all races to live in University dormitories, according to Gustavson.

Despite several foreboding predictions of some persons, Gustavson said, the only result after the change was that a Negro girl was elected president of a group of students.

"They were among the first to give us a great concept of values." He related how the National Jewish Hospital in Denver had invited him to become a member of the staff for the sole purpose of helping him carry on research while at the University of Denver.
