University May Purchase Valuable Linnaean Works

By TOM WOODWARD Staff Writer

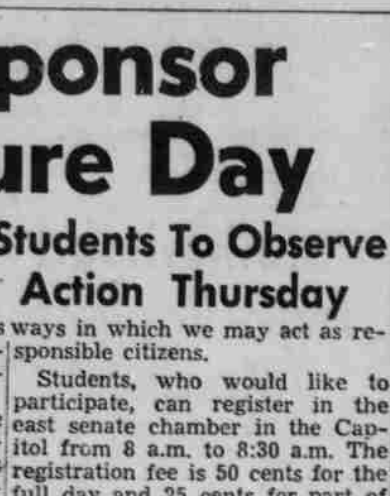

"The University was unfortunate not to obtain the Fitzpatrick collection of the works of Linnaeus (or Linne) when it was offered for the price of $3,000."

Dr. R. J. Pool made this statement in a personal interview on Tuesday, Feb. 24. Dr. Pool, retired professor of Botany at the University, went on to add that considerable effort had been made over the years to obtain the collection but the results had not met with success.

Dr. Pool said that he doubted if the University ever could have acquired the books at a fair price as long as Professor Fitzpatrick lived.

He said that a committee had made "informal" attempts many years ago to acquire the collection for the University, but the efforts were unsuccessful.

Several years later, Fitzpatrick offered the Linnaean to the University at the price ($3,000) the committee had originally offered.

New Meats Lab To Display Miniature Packing Plant

By DWIGHT JUNDT Staff Writer

The latest in research and teaching aids will be available to Ag students upon the completion of the new meats laboratory on the Ag College campus.

The meats staff expects to move into the building as soon as the remainder of the equipment for the brick structure is installed.

The building which has two stories in addition to a high basement, is L shaped, with a length of 110 feet and width of 80 feet.

The building's facilities are much the same as found at a modern packing plant only on a smaller scale. On the first floor there is a receiving room which is at truck height. Stock may also be driven into a small pen. A scale and a number of individual receiving pens for holding the animals are available. Included in the receiving room is a killing pen.

The killing room floor is two stories high. Balconies are provided for visitors. There are three beef slaughtering beds and a hog dressing rail, including a scalding tub and dehairing machine. Adjacent to the killing floor there is a cleaning room where movable equipment can be cleaned and sterilized.

A cooler with two freezers are available for keeping meat.

The well lighted cutting floor with raised seats and a full demonstration rail contains a seating capacity for 80 to 90 persons.

Facilities will be made available in one room to assemble orders for the University's canteen.

teries and dormitories. Also on the first floor is an office room with showers, lavatories and dressing facilities for the instructors.

A freight elevator for the three floors gives easy access to the basement.

In the basement there is a smokehouse, smoke generator room and a room for sawdust storage. Four service coolers, in-machinery and another for dry storage. Four service coolers, including one which will be used as a curing cellar are housed in the basement.

The by-products laboratory will be used for pumping curing material into meats, making sausage, rendering lard and canning. Men's locker rooms, showers and lavatories are located in the basement as well.

A larger laboratory on the second floor will be equipped for chemical, bacteriological and histological research. Another room contains a cooking laboratory where research on meat preparation will be conducted. The lecture room has a seating capacity of 65.

Funds for the building came from the University's share in the state's 1.1 mill building levy.

NU Builder's Mass Meeting Set Wednesday

Ag committees open for new members are publicity, sales and membership. Ag campus tours and parties and conventions.

Pi Phi Take Curtain Act Competition

It happened at nu

The Daily Nebraskan office is the scene of many strange and wonderful happenings. But one of the strangest involved the familiar sight of two sorority pledges, reporters of The Nebraskan, in deep consultation with Webster's International Dictionary.

The coeds flipped pages frantically. "I'm sure it's spelled with two r's," one insisted.

"It couldn't be!" the other yelled in the quiet manner of all journalists.

When asked what the trouble was, they sheepishly asked in chorus — "How do you spell sorority?"

AAUW Sets March 1 Date For Deadline

The American Association of University Women, Lincoln Branch, is offering a scholarship to a University girl with a high scholastic average.

Any undergraduate woman who expects to graduate in June or August of 1954, 1955, or 1956, and who can show evidence of financial need, is eligible to apply.

Application blanks may be secured at the University of Nebraska office of the Dean of Women in Elen Smith Hall in the University of Nebraska home economics office at the College of Agriculture.

The Registrar's Office must have written permission to send the girl's grades to the Scholarship Committee.

Two letters of recommendation, one is from a faculty member, must be submitted by the applicant. Applicants to be interviewed will be notified by the committee.

Letters and application blanks must be sent on or before March 6, 1953 to Miss Mary Mulvaney, 450 So. 41st St., Lincoln, Nebraska.

AF Students To Hear Jet Ace Teachout

First Lieutenant Gerald Teachout, veteran Korean War jet pilot, will conduct informal talks with University advanced AF ROTC students March 2-4 in Room 207 of Military and Naval Science Building.

Teachout, who has been awarded the Air Medal, Korean Service Medal and the UN Service Ribbon, will discuss his experiences in flying school, status as a student officer, advantages in an Air Force career, his Korean experiences, and other subjects related to flying.

The AF ROTC department said, in order to stimulate flying training interest among AF ROTC graduates, which was a low last year, young pilots with Korean Air War experience, such as Teachout, will visit some 200 detachments located throughout the United States, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico.

Civil Service Positions Available To Draftsmen

The U. S. Civil Service Commission has announced examinations for engineering and statistical draftsmen.

The positions which pay from $2,750 to $6,940 per year are to be filled in Washington, D. C.; Alexandria and Arlington County, Virginia; Montgomery and Prince George counties in Maryland.

One or more samples of the applicant's work must be included with his application. They must be on sheets of paper 8 by 10 1/2 inches and have the name, address and birth date of the person plus a statement above the signature that the work was done by the applicant himself.

"Anybody hurt in the wreck?"

"An N. U. student, I think."

"Bones broken?"

"I think it was his heart. He sat down by a leaking suitcase and cried."

WORDS OF WISDOM?—A pessimist is a man who feels that all women are bad — an optimist hopes so.

May I print a kiss on your lips? he asked.

She nodded her sweet permission.

So they went to press, and I rather guess,

They printed a large edition.

The weather man wasn't too sure just what the weather would be tomorrow but there is the likelihood that the mercury will fall along with some snow.

A successful and influential businessman by dying, summoned his best friend to his bedside, elicited from him a promise to see that his mortal remains be cremated. The friend agreed, but asked cautiously and with deep reverence: "And what would you want done with the ashes?"

"The ashes?" asked the dying man. "You'll place them in an envelope addressed to the Collector of Internal Revenue, and tell him that 'now he has everything'."

"I wouldn't worry much about that dame if I were you," the college student craved his friend.

"Remember when a woman says 'No' she means 'Maybe'. And if she says 'Maybe' she means 'Yes'."

"I know," replied the other, "but what does she mean when she just says 'Fooooey'?"

NUCWA Party Caucus Policies To Be Discussed

Policies of the party caucus in voting blocks will be discussed at the Nebraska University Council of World Affairs Thursday, 7:30 p.m. in Parlor X in the Union.

All delegates of the spring conference and NUCWA members should attend the meeting, according to Joan Krueger, president.

C. P. Peterson Given Top Builder's Award

C. P. Peterson Given Top Builder's Award

Outstanding Service Award Presented By University Alumni Group

C. Peterson, attorney and former state legislator will be presented with the Nebraska Builder Award at the annual Charter Day dinner Friday.

The Nebraska alumnus said he was "surprised and pleased" when he was told of the award. "It is a very fine thing to receive," he commented.

Peterson, prominent in the state and national reclamation activities, was chosen as the recipient of the award because of his outstanding contributions to the welfare of Nebraska.

A graduate of the University Law College in 1909, Peterson served three terms in the Nebraska legislature before it became a unicameral and has served four terms since then. He was speaker of the Unicameral Legislature in 1945.

The Lincoln attorney is a member of the Nebraska Committee on Inter-Governmental Co-operation and past chairman of the legal section of American Life Insurance Convention.

Peterson helped to create the Nebraska Reclamation Association in 1944 and was elected president of the association in 1946. He is now president of the National Reclamation Association.

As past vice president and chairman of the board of managers of the Council of State Governments and a present member of that board, he played an active part in the study of Missouri River Basin development.

He acted as food administrator for Lancaster County during World War I, is past president of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce, and president of the board of trustees of the First-Plymouth Congregational Church.

Peterson served as city attorney from 1915 to 1929, is past president of the International Professional Men's Institute and of Nebraska Sons and Daughters, and is a 3rd degree Mason.

Peterson is the sixth recipient of the award. Other Nebraskaans who have received the award are: the late Rufus M. Howard of Lincoln; R. H. Willis of Bridgeport; the late Dr. Paul H. Grumman of Omaha; the late Delmar Anderson of Lexington and J. Hyde Sweet of Nebraska City.

Play Sparks Meeting Of FSA Group

"Where Do We Go From Here," a one-act play, was presented Tuesday evening by the Family Service Association.

The FSA, a Community Chest Agency, co-ordinated with the University's School of Social Works, presented the play as a part of their 62 Annual Meeting, in Love Library.

The professional roles of the family caseworker, the pediatrician and the psychiatrist were played by Mrs. Ada S. Westover, caseworker supervisor at Family Service, Dr. Paul Bancroft, and Dr. Janet Palmer, respectively.

The role of the mother was played by Mrs. John Weststrand, and the secretaries by Mrs. Frances Hovdet and Mrs. Irene Krummann, secretaries at Family Service.

The play presented some of the problems facing modern families in relation to the solution of these problems as given by an agency, such as the Family Service Association. At the close of the play the audience participated in a question and answer period, concerning other family problems.

The organization was started on March 18, 1891, largely through the efforts of Dr. Amos G. Warner, Associate Professor of Economics at the University who was later selected by President Harrison as the first Superintendent of Charities for the District of Columbia.

The agency's first name was the Lincoln Charity Organization Society, and in 1946 was given the name of Family Service Association of Lincoln.

The agency has been interested in promoting the welfare of the community in such things as: the Juvenile Court, adult probation and mothers' pension.

The agency encouraged and supported many city health programs including: visiting nurse program, tuberculosis program, the free dental clinic for adults and a trachoma clinic.

The work of the agency has now turned its attention to case work, in an effort to prevent further breakdown and promote the stability of individuals and families. Such services are offered to people regardless of their race, creed, social or financial standing.
